Pope Elevates President To New Rank of Prelate

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Reine
Domestic Prelate

The college rejoices in the recent elevation of Msgr. Francis J. Reine, S.T.D., college president, to the rank of Domestic Prelate.

Besides the new title and degree of honorary membership in the papal household, this distinction brings with it the privilege of having a candle, the "bugia," lighting the missal at High Mass.

Most distinctive costume changes involve: the addition of the rochet, a ceremonial surplice-like linen garment; a shift in color from purple to amaranth red for trimmings on the black cassock and to crimson red for the choir cassock; and the replacement of the long purple mantellone, by the short mantelletta.

Monsignor Reine has been a Papal Chamberlain with the title Very Reverend since 1958.

Evening Division faculty members receiving papal honors are: Msgr. James P. Galvin, Ph.D., Archdiocesan Superintendent of Schools, created Domestic Prelate; and Msgr. Charles Koster, M.A., secretary of the Archdiocesan Marriage Tribunal, Papal Chamberlain.

Debaters Share Tourney Honors

Marian's debate team travelled to Ball State College for the annual Gavel Debate Tournament, Jan. 11. Competing with 16 other colleges and universities, Marian finished in a six-way tie for second place, on a win-loss basis, taking four out of six rounds. This is the best single tournament record the team has compiled.

Clem Richard and Evelyn Looney successfully defended the intercollegiate topic for 1963-1964, "Resolved, That the Federal Government should guarantee the opportunity for higher education to all qualified high school graduates," against Purdue and Valparaiso Universities. They were edged by Miami (O.) University by a single point.

Opposing the proposition were Denis Mercier and Frank Hogan, who defeated host Ball State and Manchester College, while losing to perennial power Western Michigan University.

Science Division Employs Mr. Baker

Mr. John B. Baker, a native of Harrisburg, Ill., now resident in Plainfield, Ind., will join the faculty as instructor in General Biology and Invertebrate Zoology for the second semester.

A graduate of Southern Illinois University with a major in zoology and a minor in botany, he has spent the past three years at IU Medical Center in the research laboratory of the neuropathology department. He is co-author of several published research papers in this field.

'Ball' Highlights Pre-Lent Frolics For Marianites

Sophomore class will present the annual Sweethearts' Ball, Feb. 7, 9-12 p.m. This is the last campus social function before the Lenten season.

Ballroom of The Continental Hotel, 410 North Meridian St., is to be the site of this semi-formal dance. Music will be provided by Nick Craig and his seven-piece orchestra.

Highlight will be the crowning of the Sweethearts' Queen, chosen from candidates representing each class. Voting for the queen will take place at the entrance to the ballroom.

Tickets cost $3 per couple.

Christian Classics Offered at Night

Two classes scheduled in the Evening Division for the second semester are of special interest.

"Christian Classics," a course formerly restricted to the education block, is being given for the first time to the general student body. Father Ajamie and the theology staff review works such as Cardinal Newman's Development of Doctrine and Dante's Inferno in this survey of significant Christian literature.

A three hour course in "Abnormal Psychology" has been introduced into the curriculum through the Evening Division. This course will be taught by Mr. Joseph Hingtgen, Ph.D. who is engaged in research at the Psychiatric Research Institute at the IU Medical Center.

Who's Who Welcomes Ten Marian Seniors

Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges, 1963-1964, will include the biographies of ten outstanding seniors, chosen on the basis of leadership, activities, and promise of future achievement.

Selected by a joint committee of juniors and faculty members, they are presented in the following brief sketches:

Bob Hensel, Indianapolis, a history major, is senior class president and representative on the Student Board. Sports editor of the Phoenix, he is also a member of the Men's Glee Club and is active in dramatics.

Frank Hogan, Indianapolis, a business major, is Student Board treasurer. Former president and currently a leader in the Debate Club, he is also a member of the Current Affairs and Vets' Clubs.

Marie Jochim, Evansville, has been editor of the Phoenix for two years. An English major, she is publications representative on the Student Board and a member of the Players and of SEA. She has filled leading roles in several major plays.

Bonnie Johnson, Duluth, Minn., is Student Board president. An English major and member of WARA, she is women's sports editor of the Phoenix. As a junior she was class representative on Clare Hall Board and Sodality vice president.

Dave Mader, Indianapolis, a mathematics major on the Honors

Program, is a member of NCMEA, Men's Glee Club, Sodality, and Players. He is student manager of the basketball team.

Jim McMahon, Indianapolis, a mathematics major, is senior class treasurer and a member of the M Club, YCS, Players, and SEA. He was junior class president and has been a cheerleader for four years.

Pat Sabelhaus, Tell City, Ind., business major, is president of the M Club. This year's captain of the Knights, he has been a leading basketball player for four years.

Beth Sutherland, Ft. Thomas, Ky., chemistry major on the Honors program, is religious representative on the Student Board. A member of SEA and Sodality, she is president of ACS-SA. She has (Continued on page 4)

South Campus Classes Begin

New music building, on South Campus, is ready for second semester use. Moving process, Jan. 29, involved the transporting of seven pianos.

The department's most recent acquisition, a 7-foot Steinway, however, is installed on the auditorium stage. Its purchase was made possible by the combined efforts of faculty, students, and alumni.

The main entrance of the music building, when furnishings are complete, will be dominated by a gold carpeted stairway. Matching sheer gold drapes will let the design on leaded windows shine through.

The Gold Room, Sister Vivian

Rose's studio, with a sparkling, crystal chandelier, inlaid wood paneling, and a marble fireplace, is part of the reception area.

An oval-shaped room with parquet flooring is the musical library. Adjoining it is the porch reading room, distinctive for its art glass ceiling.

Marian PFA Slates Feb. 6 Card Party

Parents and Friends Association of Marian College have announced their annual Blue and Gold Party for Feb. 6, at 8 p.m., in the mixed lounge. A special feature will be the awarding of a colorful Afghan.

Admission for the event is $1.25.

Chairmen are: Mr. and Mrs. Dan E. Moran; co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mivec.

AUFS Specialist, Hanessian, To Lecture on Polar Regions

Mr. John Hanessian, Jr., the first specialist to come to Marian from the American University Field Staff, in 1961, will return Feb. 19-22.

An authority on the polar regions, Mr. Hanessian will lecture on such topics as: international law and controls of the polar regions; the native people; and life and work at a polar station. Also included will be an examination of the land reform of Iran.

Extensive travels in the Arctic and Antarctic, supported by studies at Scott Polar Research Institute at Cambridge, and recent research in the Middle East have provided Mr. Hanessian with the data for his authoritative reports.

Primarily for the Marian students and faculty, the four-day lecture series will also be open to alumni and guests from local colleges, universities, and other interested groups.

Sales Tax Now Includes Schools

Because of a new ruling on the sales tax, schools are being taxed to further support schools. Beginning with the second semester, meals served to students, textbooks, and the other class materials, items formerly exempted to college and university students, will be subject to the two per cent tax.

Last fall it was decided, after a series of meetings with state revenue officials and college business officers, that students would not be required to pay taxes on the above mentioned items. Then, apparently without warning, came the notice that taxation was to be put into effect in time for the second semester.

It came as a surprise to Sister Mary Esther, business officer, who feels that the middle of the year is a bad time for such changes to be made.

Although the amount per person per semester is not great—$5 for resident students for board and approximately $1 for books—the overall amount for the state is large—about $1600 from Marian College alone. The idea of taxing the schools is almost ironic because when the tax was proposed in the Indiana legislature it was for the purpose of supplementing school funds.

The Bookstore began taxing textbooks immediately upon notification of the ruling but other items used for class work (notebooks, paper, etc.) are not going to be taxed until the beginning of the semester.

Second-hand books bought and sold between students will not be subject to taxation. The Student Board Used Bookstore, however, will be required to collect the revenue on books they sell.

FYI

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

For the first time in about four years classes at Marian were cancelled because of snow, Jan. 13. Hazardous roads and deep drifts prevented many students and faculty members from getting to school.

Throughout most of the morning Sister Karen, dean, was debating whether or not to call off classes. Just as she was about ready to do so, a decisive phone call reached her. After talking to the caller she was overheard exclaiming: "Mr. Tutun-gi is on his way. Classes can go on."

School did end for the day at 2:30, much to the chagrin of people like Tom Widner and Ron Strange who spent hours getting here only to discover that their class was cancelled.

FYI

Sincerest apologies go to Ann Delmas who hails from Los Angeles (the home of the Dodgers) and not from San Francisco as was incorrectly reported in this column last issue.

FYI

Congratulations go to the 1964 Homecoming Committee, the Booster Club, WARA, M-Club, and all who worked so hard to make this year's Homecoming the best ever.

Also we congratulate the senior class for winning the "float" competition and the freshmen for receiving honorable mention. The "floats" were certainly a credit to the classes and added spirit to the festivities of Homecoming weekend.

FYI

We regret to announce that beginning this month the supplement, Collegiate Digest, will not be distributed with the Phoenix. Because of the tobacco industry's decision to drop its advertising in collegiate publications, the income of the magazine fell sharply forcing the publishers to discontinue it at least temporarily.

FYI

All four of last year's graduates on the med. tech. program passed the Registry for Medical Technology. Congratulations to: Karen Doyle, Pat Goley, Elaine Grafen, and Cindy Stokes.

FYI

This seems to be the month for congratulations. Father Joseph Dooley, of the history department, received an honorary LL.D. from the Instituto Pedagogico de Religion, Dec. 21. Congratulations, Father.

An accolade was silently accorded the Players and the drama department, hosts of last weekend's high school One-Act Play Festival. The executive secretary and the directors of four of the ten plays were Marian alumni.

Regular staff members feel that it's time for a little vacation (seniors wish to study for comps) so the freshmen have consented to assume responsibility for the February Phoenix.

Feb. 16-23 Brotherhood Week

The week of Feb. 16-23 has been designated Brotherhood Week by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

President Lyndon B. Johnson, honorary chairman of the week, has said that "democracy cannot live in hate and fear. Prejudice and bigotry are the advance guard of failure."

"No better time exists for a searching of our hearts and mind than this National Observance of Brotherhood. Let us hear again the faith of our forebears; let us listen again to the inspired hopes of our national conscience; let us obey again the word of our religions."

"In this time, still heavy with sadness, I urge all my fellow Americans to join with me and the National Conference of Christians and Jews in this national community celebration of tolerance, truth, and charity toward our neighbors, wherever they live, whoever they are."

These days much is heard about civil rights and civil liberties. Along with any right or liberty, though, there is a responsibility. In this instance there is a civil responsibility. We have the responsibility to provide for every citizen the rights and privileges to which he is entitled.

These rights and privileges must be extended to all men regardless of their race or their religion. Only by recognizing others do we ourselves share in the brotherhood of man. As Oscar Hammerstein II said: "If you really believe in the brotherhood of man, and you want to come into its fold, you've got to let everyone else in too."

Prepare for Lent

By a happy coincidence, Forty Hours Adoration will be held in Marian's Chapel, Feb. 9-11, immediately preceding the forty days of Lent.

As in the past, the Blessed Sacrament will be exposed all during the night, thus providing an opportunity for nocturnal adoration.

Opening Forty Hours will be the 9 a.m. High Mass on Sunday. Services will come to a conclusion Tuesday at a 10:30 Mass.

Wednesday is Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent.

This time, right before Lent, is well chosen, for it enables one to spend a few hours contemplating the significance of the coming season.

In Memoriam

Students and faculty extend deepest sympathy to Sister Marie Pierre, of the German department, on the death of her father, Dec. 25, and to Mr. Walt Fields, dean of men, on the death of his father, Jan. 2.

Prayers will continue to be offered.

Fill a Spare Minute, Read a Book

by Evelyn Looney

For those of you with a little time some weekend this semester, perhaps not more than an hour or two, I would like to recommend a few books.

If you haven't met Mr. Paul Gallico you ought to make his acquaintance. He is not a great writer and his books do not receive such accolades from the New York Times book reviewers as "most significant novel of the decade" nor are they declared among the ten best books of this century.

Mr. Gallico, however, is a talented writer who specializes in short, short novels with a little bit of plot and a lot of charm and gentleness. As a beginning, try: Mrs.

'Arris Goes to Paris, Ludmilla, The Snow Goose, Love of Seven Dolls, or The Coronation.

If you have more time this same weekend, introduce yourself to Morris L. West. If you have read The Devil's Advocate, try Shoes of the Fisherman. If you've read that too, there is Daughter of Silence. Mr. West is an Australian who writes thoughtfully about the Catholic Church and manages to do it well.

When you have only 15 minutes before bedtime, I recommend curling up with a glass of milk, a plate of cookies, and Happiness is a Warm Puppy, by Charles M. Schulz.

Opinion Poll

by Bill Willmering

Marian students have divided opinions on the new policy of early exam posting. When they were asked whether this new policy actually helped them, responses were from an emphatic "yes" to an indifferent "no."

Judy Koeck, a sophomore, thought the early posting really helped her. Judy began to review early, during Christmas vacation, and said, "The posting of the exam schedule earlier put me in the 'mood' and inspired me to get down to educational business." Because Judy is an out-of-town student, she was glad that plans for the semester break could be made early.

Sue Charbonneau agreed with Judy, when she said too that the early posting helped her to prepare psychologically for the exams.

Mike Schnelker found the early posting didn't help him to start studying early—just to start worrying two weeks ahead of time.

Carol Goldschmidt, sophomore, also was enthusiastic about the early posting. Carol declared that the new policy enabled her to begin organizing her notes, and she added, "It has also enabled me to plan what time and how long to study for each test."

Seniors Mary Ann Gaynor and Loretta Matrejek did not think that early posting actually helped them prepare for semester exams. As Loretta said, "During Christmas I studied for the comprehensive exams."

Frank Hogan, senior, was in favor of the early posting because it facilitates preparation. Frank feels it enables one to clear out papers and to get an idea of how to apportion exam study.

Andy Wagner found early posting beneficial, "whether or not you take advantage of it, because this way you can brood much longer."

Dianne Ahern and June Brinck, juniors, didn't think that early posting helped them a whole lot, but agreed that it may sometimes help the students who asked for early posting. June echoed the opinion of her fellow classmates when she observed, "We have finals in every course. It doesn't matter if the tests are first or last. They all require study."

An intrepid freshman, Jeanne Mouch, said she limited her Christmas review to her hardest subject. "My object was to enjoy the vacation," she added.

"It helped," said Robert Laremore, "in that it showed me what days I would have two or more exams. So I concentrated on them more during Christmas vacation."

Dick Stipher, on the other hand, didn't find it very advantageous. "It really doesn't make much difference. You know the week of exams anyway, and they'll be there."

Questions about plans for the semester vacation, however, seemed really to be out of place, as everyone began to think seriously about the week of exams. As Dianne Ahern exclaimed, "My plans for semester break will be made after 2:30, January 24!"

Floats Display Color, Wit At 1963-64 Homecoming

MARIE JOCHIM, Queen, and Bob Hensel, senior president, pose before winning float.

A giant chef displaying a recipe (Chile Concordia) for a Marian victory, senior class entry, was picked by administration and faculty members as winner of the 1964 homecoming float contest. The "class of '64" will be engraved on a permanent plaque as winner of the 1964 competition.

Judging the contest were Monsignor Reine, Sister Karen, Father Dooley, Mr. Fields, and Miss Diver.

"Hang the Saxons" was the theme of the junior entry, with a scaffold, coffin, and tombstones representing previous Marian victories. On the sophomore float, a huge Knight stuffed a Concordia player through a basketball hoop. A train running down a Saxon, constructed by the freshman class, received honorable mention.

Marie Jochim, senior and Phoenix editor, was crowned homecoming queen at the campus mixer Friday night and presented with roses at the semi-formal dance Saturday night at the IU Medical Center. In her court were the other candidates: Jo Ann Lauck, senior; Connie Turk and Connie Widoff, juniors; Regina Hyatt and Nancy Michaels, sophomores; and Brooke Bergan and DiAnn Blazic, freshmen.

Student Conference Set at Purdue; Topic — Disarmament

For the third consecutive year, the Student Government of Purdue University will sponsor the Purdue Conference on International Affairs, Feb. 27-29. Its purpose is to stimulate student interest in current international problems.

This year's topic will be Armament vs. Disarmament. The Conference will discuss as many sides of the issue as time allows, through lectures by top government officials, noted authorities, and student discussion. The program for this year's Conference will include the keynote address on Thursday evening, speeches and group discussions on Friday, concluding with a banquet and critical re-colorful "Secina Sweeties," drill team, lead by Connie Eaton.

New members of the Alumni Board are: Sister Mary Rachel, Joseph A. Vespo, and Dolores Mayer Conner. They join Cecilia Mellen Stickman, Jeanne Gallagher, and Joseph Turk.

President is now Robert Bates. Assisting him are: Mary Lu Method McNamara, first vice-president; and James T. O'Donnell, second vice-president.

Chairmen of the homecoming committee were: Sister Mary Edgar, Miss Mary Haugh, Mr. Joseph Turk, and Marilyn Wiwi. Rosemary Bevans was publicity chairman; Ed Schaefer, ticket sales; Bev Freije, decorations; and Jo Ann Lauck, floats.

Mixer chairmen were Patty Michaels and Maureen Laughlin.

Honors Student, Donna Tatroe Tests Smoking Effects on Rats

Donna Tatroe, senior honors student from Evansville, Indiana, has completed her honors project of determining the effect of smoking on the uptake of Iodine 125 by the thyroid gland of rats.

So many people say, "If I smoke, I don't gain weight." How true is this? Donna set out to discover. Her conclusion is that smoking causes the thyroid gland to be overactive and loss of weight is one result.

Under the direction of Sister Marie Bernard, Donna began her project at the beginning of her junior year, worked through the following summer and completed it recently. She summarizes her findings as follows:

The experiment was divided into four phases. The first two phases involved determining the normal food consumption of six rats and then finding out how food consumption and body weight deviated during a test period of exposure to cigarette smoke. The results of this experimentation showed that both the control group and the test group lost weight under a period of decreased food consumption. When the rats began to increase their food intake, however, the control group gained while the test group continued to lose weight.

This gave impetus to the hypotheses that smoking causes a metabolic upset in the body and that the thyroid gland, whose secretions have long been known to influence metabolism, was being affected.

To study the activity of the thyroid, the isotopic tracer method was used in which a radioactive substance (Iodine 125 in this case) known to be taken up by the thyroid is introduced into the body. By means of a scintillation counter, a special type of radioactive detector, the amount of iodine taken up by the gland can be measured in comparison with a control group. Thus higher counts of radioactivity would indicate higher activity of the gland. The results of this phase were that in three cases out of four, the rats who smoked showed higher activity than the control group.

The completion of her project is the final step in the honors program of which Donna has been a participant since her sophomore year. Donna considers the program view Saturday noon.

No limit is set on the number of delegates from any campus. The fee will be $8 per delegate, with room and board free. Applications may be obtained from Bonnie Johnson, Student Board president.

Mrs. West Retires; College Appreciates 10 Years Services

After nearly 10 years of serving faculty, students, and outsiders, Mrs. Julia A. West left Marian College Jan. 10.

For the past two years, she has served as secretary to Monsignor Reine, President of the college.

Mrs. West has been associated with Marian for 14 years, her daughter, Sister Mary Audrey, O.S.F., having been a 1954 graduate.

"I have watched Marian grow from 200 to its present enrollment in these 10 years," observes Mrs. West, "and even though I will be away, I will still retain my interest in Marian."

Although further plans are as yet indefinite, Mrs. West does intend to spend the remaining winter months in Tucson, Arizona.

Marian Lectures Open Feb. 11, Promise Inspiring Spring Series

Marian Lectures spring series, is slated to begin Feb. 11 with a program designed to fulfill the need for Catholic adult education in the archdiocese of Indianapolis.

The most popular series of last year, "The New Mathematics," will be given by Sister Florence Marie. Geared to parents and teachers of grade school children, these lectures will be followed by a second section in September, 1964. The first section is scheduled for Tuesday evenings, Feb. 11 to April 7, at 7 p.m.

"Interiors for Living," discussions on phases of interior decoration, will be presented by Mr. Robert Arehart, A.I.D., a designer with Reifers Brothers. Equipped with slides, rug samples, and other articles of his trade, Mr. Arehart will present the principles of home planning on Tuesday evenings at 8:15 p.m.

Three sets of lectures will be given Thursday evenings, Feb. 13 to April 9. The first of these, "Christian Religions," is a follow-up of first semester's popular "Non-Christian Religions" and will be held weekly at 7 p.m. Each lecture will treat a different religion and will be given by a representative speaker of that religion. Rev. John Hardon, S.J., noted theologian from Western Michigan University, will speak on ecumenism.

A series entitled "Morality" will be conducted Thursdays at 8:15 by the Rev. C. Patrick Smith. Also at this same time is "How to Profitably Prepare Your Federal and Indiana Tax Returns." This topic will be developed by Mr. Henry K. Engel, C.P.A.

Marian Lectures were inaugurated with the evening credit courses in September, 1961. Miss Mary Haugh, sociology instructor and director of the Evening Division since 1963, reports that attendance generally has been good. Students are encouraged to submit suggestions for future lecture topics.

Special Gifts Enrich Library

Two special gifts were received by the college library this month. An equipment grant for phonograph-record shelving was awarded by the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association, upon application by Sister Clarence Marie, librarian.

The shelving will be installed by the Library Bureau, Remington Rand, a division of Sperry Rand Corporation, co-operating in the ACRL Grants Program.

Allocating funds and equipment this year to 64 colleges and universities, the program has distributed over $367,000 since 1955.

The National Office Management Association, Indianapolis Chapter, has presented to the college library eight books on Office Management.

The presentation was made Jan. 8 by officers of the Association: K. M. Clarke, president this year, and Norman F. Beisswenger, 2nd vice president. They were accompanied by their director of personnel, Don Pagels.

Year Old Pep Band Undergoes Development; New Musicians Boost Membership Number

By Tom Widner

It is an accepted mathematical principle that the whole of a thing is greater than any of its parts. Thus, as the parts increase, so does the whole. Analogously, as Marian's departments continue to grow, so does Marian.

One department — music — is making a particular impact upon the growth of the college. One way in which this department is making an impact is through the development of the pep band.

Organized for the first game of the 1962-63 basketball season, the band, in one short year, has nearly doubled its membership and has provided a small but active beginning toward what may some day be an all-school orchestra. The increasing success which the band is achieving is the result of the continuous work of a small group of students.

With the aid of Sister Vivian Rose, the initiating of a pep band found interest in Marilyn Wichman, Joe Dearing, Denny Hoffman, and Larry Clemons. Using borrowed music and instruments, the band began playing at home games and pep rallies throughout its first year.

It concluded the '62-'63 school year with a brief performance in the college production of The Music Man. This year the band has been working on being transported out of town to play for all our games.

The band this year includes 13 members, playing a variety of instruments. On clarinet are Charles Kelly, Judy Steele, Marilyn Medland, Paul Sterger, and Mary Wallace. Trumpeteers are Carl Hopper and Marilyn Wichman. Larry Clemons and John Sweany blare on the trombones and Joe Dearing gives out on the tuba. Jack Welchans crashes the cymbals and Jim Ellsworth and Pete Method pound on the drums.

So far the band has been able to purchase a tuba and some music through the aid of the Student Board. But, for the most part, instruments are personal property of the musicians. The cymbals, bass, and snare drums, however, belong to the school.

To one of the original members, Marilyn Wichman, the band is "one of the best things in the school." New member, John Sweany, feels the band "adds to the spirit of the games." All members agree that the band is a great deal of fun and are quick to welcome new members at any time. With an even greater student interest, the band may quickly develop into that seemingly far off orchestra.

Knights Take Homecoming Tilt, 86-56;

By BOB HENSEL

Well, our boys did it. The Marian Knights capped a perfect homecoming weekend by thrilling a capacity crowd with a crushing 86-56 victory over visiting Concordia College of Ft. Wayne.

An early 2-2 tie in the first seconds of the contest was blasted wide open as the Knights hit 12 of their next 16 shots and the game was never in question as the team posted its fourth win in 10 starts.

TOP MAN in the scoring column was sophomore Jim Chase who tallied 21 points and picked off 16 rebounds to pace the action which featured a blistering fast break attack.

Jim's principle scoring help came from Rich Damm, starting for the first time this season, and Bernie Schneider with 18 and 11 points respectively. Ten of the Knights scored at least once.

The combined efforts of Rich and Jim also allowed our Knights to consistently control both boards which gave us a 63-38 edge in the rebound department.

Concordia, after falling behind 54-26 at the half, switched from their man-to-man defense to a zone, but Chase, Schneider and George Gerencser hit six quick baskets from outside which forced the Saxons back to man-to-man play.

THE GAME, although never in doubt, was a real crowd pleaser and 14 of the Knights saw action. Marian built up its greatest lead about midway through the second half pulling ahead at one time 73-34.

Both teams tired visibly in the closing minutes of play with only seven points being scored in one four minute interval between them.

Errors abounded too with the Knights collecting 25 miscues and the Saxons 20.

Concordia could never get a drive started and the Saxons' leading scorer, Bill Wolbrecht, was held to seven points by Chase. The Ft. Wayne team was led in scoring by reserve guard Darwin Karsten with 14 points, 12 coming in the last half.

THE SAXONS could only hit .295 from the floor due to the best efforts this season by the Knight defense. Our famous five hit on 32-68 shots for a .470 average.

Congratulations Knights on a job well done.

Maids Overcome Nurses, 39-12

Marian's Maids defeated St. Vincent's Nurses 39-12, Jan. 8, in the college gymnasium. As the score indicates, the Maids shined as much on the defense as on the offense.

Guards Donna Frerick, Helena Rossi, and Judy Farmer held St. Vincent's scorers to the minimum, as forwards Carol Roell, B. J. Jacobs, and Mary Margaret Turk kept the Maids' point total well ahead of the opposition.

Gym Classes Taught Game Techniques; B-Ball Games Planned

Mrs. Clarke's gym classes have been learning basketball techniques for a series of games to be played next semester.

Following basketball season, the girls will play badminton with a tournament scheduled for class competition.

At the end of the semester the girls will show off their skills in softball and tennis. Also on the agenda are beginners swimming classes.

For a full semester's credit in physical education, any senior life saver is eligible to participate in the water safety instructors course to be given in March at the Medical Center.

Intramural Action in High Gear; Finks, Trotters Head Standings

By NICK MCGILL

With three weeks of action past, the intramural league has only two undefeated teams. The Finks, defending champs, keep rolling along followed closely by last year's runners-up, the Trotters.

Knights Victors Over Bisons, 80-76

Marian's Knights fought off a scrappy, persistent Gallaudet five and overcame a 12 point deficit at one time to edge the Bisons in the final seconds of play, 80-76, at the Indiana Central gym.

Leading the scoring for the game was Gallaudet's Harvey Goodstein with 27 points. Top men for the Knights were Pat Sabelhaus and Chuck Federle with 21 and 19 points respectively.

Galludet of Washington, D.C. is the country's only college for the deaf.

THE FINKS had their closest call of the young season Jan. 12 as they trailed the Sugars most of the game. With three minutes remaining to play, and sparked by the shooting of Leo Clouser, they pulled the game out of the fire by a score of 56-50.

The Trotters easily handed the Eagles their third defeat, 50-17, Bob Vladioiu and Vil Donis leading with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Backed by Tom Commons' 24-point performance, the Passionate Few won their second game of the season, 56-45 over the Rejects.

CAPTURING high pointhonors in a losing cause against the Stubs was Dan Bordenet with 18 points. Final score stood: Stubs 50-Jokers 33.

Finding the winning way to their liking, the Vets defeated the Bunnies 54-41. Frank Velikan topped the scoring with 22 points.

Good Sports-Keeping

Several students have requested use of the gym for private practices on Saturdays. Because of these requests, both Mr. Cleon Reynolds, Marian's coach, and the Student Board have been working on possibilities for increasing gym hours.

During week days the gym is occupied by the physical education classes conducted by Mrs. Thelma Clarke, and the men's intra-mural basketball games Sunday afternoons.

With no activities scheduled for Saturdays, the gym could be opened for any individual groups wishing to either practice skills for later competition or just to enjoy an afternoon of recreation.

If, however, the gym opens, supervision is necessary. The question of who would supervise and how he would be paid for his services arises. Recent investigation finds the athletic fund nearly depleted.

A possible plan has been discussed by Mr. Reynolds and the Board committee. The plan includes student supervision on Saturdays paid by those individuals using the gym. The amount per hour for each participant's use of the facilities would be reasonable, approximately fifteen to twenty-five cents.

Those interested in supervising on Saturdays, or anyone with pro's or con's on the above plan, please contact Dan Armstrong or John Sweeney. Suggestions are needed and appreciated for the completion this project.

Knights' Tale • Sports Editor Bob Hensel

Several days ago I had the chance to talk with our new basketball coach Cleon Reynolds. I must say I walked away very much impressed. He is a coach totally dedicated to his profession, a man wise with 29 years of rich experience in the business of basketball. I thought it might be interesting to relate some of his impressions concerning the college brand of Hoosier mania after half a season on the job.

ON COLLEGE COACHING — "It's not really different from coaching in high school, but I have to spend more time on the fundamentals of basketball. Of course, that's to be expected under conditions here and I'm not complaining."

ON SPORTSMANSHIP — "Sportsmanship, at least from what I've seen in the teams we've played this season, is poorer in college ball than in high school. There is less spirit; college teams play for the win and little else."

ON OFFICIATING — "College basketball officiating is poorer in college than in high school. Sometimes it's terrible. In high school ball, a coach can report and protest irregularities in the way the referees handle a game to the Indiana High School Athletic Association. But Marian is an independent team. We have to take any ref they give us. I don't mind the bad referees so much. I've been in basketball too long. But it's not fair to the boys. They play their hearts out and then lose to the referees."

ON HIS NEW POSITION — "I don't have the material, some of the facilities, and the coaching aids such as motion pictures and training rooms and the like but as Marian grows so will its athletic department. I'm happy with the job. The administration has been most helpful. School spirit is fine."

ON WHAT MAKES A GOOD COLLEGE BASKETBALL COACH — "Recruiting ability, good luck, and coaching ability—and in that order."

Thanks, Coach, and the best of luck.
