

In Memory Of Kenny Rogers

KENNY

Mark his passing with drums and boot.
 Mark his passing with oak and stone.
 Mark his passing with tears and prayer.
 Yet mark not his life unfulfilled.
 Mark not his life complete or unfinished.
 Nor condemn him to sainthood or hell.

For life and death were his to keep.
 His trust alone he gave to us.
 Such remains with us still.

Passion breeds death.
 As passion breeds life.
 And life lasts but a moment.

Passion breeds life.
 As passion breeds death.
 And death stands eternal.

For we are but human.
 And stand each moment.
 On the edge of life and death.
 Each of us with a choice.
 To accept the edge
 Or to curse our own passing.
 Not saint or sinner.
 But alive or dead.
 Mark his passing as a tribute to life.
 A song to the edge.
 A prayer to passion.

A story is finished,
 But the reader goes on -
 Alive with the author
 Or dead with the words.

From the Editors

We wish to begin by introducing ourselves as Chris Wood and Ed McCord, editors of the Carbon newspaper. We feel that the Carbon students best means of communication with one another. We would appreciate any gripes, criticisms or praise (if there be any). Our task is not to argue for or against articles printed in this paper, but we have a duty to defend your right to print the material. We will protect your writing whether we agree or disagree. By doing this we believe that it is not the job of "good editors" to be well liked. Please let us share your ideas with the Marian

On the NSA Congress

The 24th National Student Congress was held on the Colorado State University campus in Fort Collins, Colorado from August 20 - 29. The Congress is conducted and/or presented each year by the United States National Student Association, a member school of which Marian College has been for several years. Having been elected NSA Coordinator at Marian for the coming year I, along with Nancy Perkins, vice-president of Marian's Student Government Association, was funded by the Association to attend the Congress. For those who might not be familiar with NSA,

NOTICE ?! (MAYBE)

Exclusive! Scoop! Stanley meets Livingston! Marian might even meet 3 DOG NIGHT on November 10?

THE DUMBWAITER

Marian's first dramatic endeavor takes place Thursday, Sept. 23. Harold Pinter's play, "The Dumbwaiter", spearheads the fall season. The play is centered around two characters; Ben is portrayed by Gene Bourke, and Gus by Pat O'Hara. While the play is not lengthy, (1 act), it formulates the breakup of two killers by--you guessed it--a dumbwaiter. Jack O'Hara's first attempt at direction this year also has a genuine surprise ending. Don't read it. Go see it!

SPORTS COLUMN

Anyone wishing to form an Intramural football team submit a team list (10 players plus captain) to Room 139 (Doyle Hall) no later than 4 p.m., Monday, Sept. 20.

Does anybody really know what Cross Country is?

it's a non-profit corporation consisting of member student bodies. Its purposes have been "the promotion of social welfare and civic betterment". It also provides, or portends to provide, many and sundry services to member schools, e.g. discount book clubs, insurance programs and travel opportunities to name a couple. It's my responsibility to make these services, as well as other NSA activities, known on campus. However the gracious Carbon editors want me to write about the recent Congress. Briefly.

The Congress, from what I gathered, is supposed to be the chance for member schools to be represented and have a voice in deciding what NSA will do in the next year in the way of promoting social welfare and civic betterment. Mandates toward these ends are voted on by the entire Congress. Popular areas have been the basic poverty, repression, war, imperialism, oppression type. The drawing up and implementation of the infamous Peoples' Peace Treaty was a mandate of last year's Congress. Mandates this year include a Labor-University Alliance, expansion of NSA's current student legal rights program, setting up fall anti-war activities, setting up a study and action organization for the liberation of gay men and women, and something which I think is quite important, the organization of a Women's Advisory Board which promises to work steadfastly in establishing and maintaining what have always been but seldom realized to be women's rights.

Besides the plenary sessions during which these legislative and administrative dealings occurred there were workshops, caucuses and teach-ins, so many of them that it was hard to decide which would be most useful to attend, ranging in topic from Vietnam Veteran Winter Soldier Investigations to Sexism to Student Power. These were of most interest and worth to me, mostly as a consciousness-raising and source of information. I'm not sure raising my consciousness warrants student funds to send me to Colorado for 9 days however.

The Congress was meant to be very loosely structured, simply to allow for freedom of expression and participation. It was in many respects, however it's difficult not to succumb to bureaucracy and opportunism, especially when national officers must be elected. Elections, NSA's purported indebtedness to the National Association of Black Students, and NSA's general shakey financial standing overshadowed much of the Congress' workings.

I didn't find out a lot that can be easily applied to a small, private campus like Marian, at least not apparently. The fact that the Congress was geared more towards larger universities while half of the member schools are small colleges was one of my biggest disappointments. In the meantime, 9 days is a long time to condense into one feature article, but I'm more than willing to talk to anyone interested about the Congress. It's your money that sent me there.

Respectfully.
Jane Peck
