The views expressed (hic) are those of the individual (hic, hic) writer and do not necessarily (hic) reflect those of Marian (hic) College (cup)

This Tuesday Faculty Council defeated a proposal to give credit to Student Board officers. Under this proposal the President could receive 1½ hours of credit per semester and the other officers 1 hour of credit per semester depending on the satisfactory performance of their duties and extra evaluative work.

This action was especially unfortunate on the eve of Student Board nominations because it seemed to imply a lack of confidence in the value of student government. In fact, the implications is that even the Drum and Bugle Corps has more value, where ability at flag waving, marching, and the care and treatment of muddy tennis shoes is the only requisite for receiving credit. I hardly see how this has more academic value than student government. (Granted they spread the "good" name of the college-- but since when is this an academic criteria for credit.)

In the past it has not been unusual for some faculty members to demean the value of student government, and then complain about the lack of competition for offices. With this type of encouragement it is surprising that any people want to get involved in student government. Yet some do, because they realize student government is worthwhile, if tedious, work. Student government performs many services: budgeting student funds, supervising publications and activities, originating proposals beneficial to students and expanding student voice in college affairs. It also has advantages for the person who becomes involved in student government, which can be seen as having academic value, such as: working within governmental structures, organizing interests and working with other people, developing leadership qualities and public speaking, and many more.

The action of Faculty Council was unfortunate and it did point out a certain irrationality in granting credit. However, despite a lack of faculty support, student government will still perform its necessary function and will remain a valuable experience for students.

FROM THE MASSES:

DAY CARE CENTER ON THE START

A room has been allocated off of the old mixed lounge for a day care center on campus. We are in need of supplies and people to help build our center. If anyone has any used children's tables and chairs, a kitchenette set, a small ironing board and iron, a rocking horse, a small wagon, a baby cradle or any other toys educational or otherwise that you could donate please call ext. 427. Monetary support is also needed. We are working without any funds. People to help build, sew, decorate or with just imagination are also in dire need. If you can help us or if you have any questions call Mary at ext. 427.

To all tennis players of Marian College:

Please release the tension on the net after playing!

Dan Kernen.

To the masses:

Yesterday evening, March 28, 1973, certain violations by 2 members of the administration occurred. This was not an isolated incident.

A scheduled fire drill was not held at the assigned time. It is an understood rule that no fire drills are to be held after 12:00 midnight, especially after wing representatives and RA's had been notified that it was to take place at 11:00 p.m. Our complaints are as follows:

1. The fire marshall and the Clare Hall R.D. were absent at the designated time of drill.
2. A poor example was set by the R.D. in front of Clare Hall women. The R.D. is on duty "24 hours a day, seven days a week, 9½ months a year."
3. A scheduled fire drill, according to a state law, must be held at least once every two months and we have not had a scheduled drill since last fall.
4. When the alarm was pulled at 12:45, it was discovered that the system was broken and had been for two months, thus jeopardizing every life in the hall.
5. Some wing reps were not notified of the conciliation and/or postponement of the drill.

The back doors of Clare Hall are locked at 7:00 p.m. for security reasons. The R.D.'s of both halls violated this policy last night after the drill. It is a policy that several students have been severely reprimanded for violating due to security reasons. This policy must be obeyed by EVERYONE AT ALL TIMES!

We question why the alarm was not pulled at the designated time? Why the back doors were used after 7:00 p.m.? And why the fire alarm system was not checked out sooner.

We believe that the above actions are serious violations of the Marian College security policies and should be brought to the attention of students, faculty, and administration.

Scholarship Fund

sponsored by:

Operation UpBeat

ment

To the entire M.C. community (and friends):

This year the Care-A-Thon will be held April 11th through 13th. This is an annual fund raising event which benefits the Kenneth Rogers Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Originally, the Care-A-Thon functioned to raise money for the Operation UpBeat Summer program. However, since UpBeat had been funded through the Community Services Project in Indianapolis as a model cities program, the 3 day event will be held to bring the scholarship fund closer to its goal. It is possible that this goal will be reached and the first scholarship released for next year if the Care-A-Thon is successful.

From Wednesday (the 11th), 8:30a.m. until midnight Friday (the 13th), the Perc will remain open. All sorts of activities are planned, (and it is not uncommon for several unplanned activities to occur) such as: dance contests, dance marathon, skits, bands, games, auctions, T.V. spoofs, poetry readings, -- just about anything anyone feels like doing in the Perc.

The ~~grass~~ will be open all night and traditionally freshman women's hours have been suspended for those who wish to attend.

If you have any talent (or none at all) and (But) would like to do something (or donate something to the auction) please contact Jack O'Hara (Theater Dept.), Dennis Kelly (Philosophy Dept.), or Pam Murray (ext. 380).

IF NOTHING ELSE ---COME!!!

FROM THE MASSES:

Letter to the Editors:

It has been rumored that I have had a person living in my room that is no longer a student at Marian College. The truth of this rumor is not important nor is the fact that certain administrators have taken action against this person. I hold nothing against these people because they are only doing their job in regards to the housing policy.

When this "individual" was called before a certain administrator, he was told of complaints made by some of the students. I resent the fact that these students did not come to me or any of the other people involved with their complaint. These people don't have the "balls" to confront the people directly involved. No! They have to go and "polish the apple" with the administration. It's people like these that are turning Marian College into a "redneck" institution. I wish to thank these people for their "kind consideration" of coming to me first. I would also like to thank them for alienating one of the best people to ever hit this campus. Of course, he will only be considered one of the best by the few "open minded" people left at Marian College.

Fellow Volsteaders:

As president of the Marian College Prohibition Party (and don't think it isn't hard to have a party with no booze), I would like to congratulate the Faculty Council for its decisive defeat of the proposal to let students (cont. next column) twenty-one years old and older to drink in their rooms. It has been a long struggle but they have finally accepted the idea that even those over 21 aren't mature enough to handle that demon rum. At last people will stop expecting to be treated like adults just because they are adults. Now with their obviously logical minds I'm sure the faculty realizes that this applies to them too. Therefore the members of our party will be passing out pledges to the faculty so they too can swear off the use of vile liquor in their homes.

The students argues they should only have conduct action taken against them if they used alcohol irresponsibly. How absurd! The Council's action accepted the fact that all use of alcohol is evil no matter how responsibly used. In keeping with this established principle the next job of our party will be replacing grape juice for the inebriating liquids used at Masses on campus. Remember that moral degeneracy can strike anywhere (especially in an atmosphere of Dynamic Catholicity.)

Dryly yours,
Faye C. Shuss

Alcoholic Beverage Policy

At last Tuesday's Faculty Council meeting the Alcoholic Beverage Policy was voted on in part. The section calling for a Pub to serve alcohol on campus was withdrawn due to legal problems. A section permitting alcoholic beverages at social functions on campus was tabled pending further legal clarification. A section permitting liquor at formals and social events off campus was passed (it should be noted that this has already been done in past instances and the motion formalized this situation). The proposal to allow students of legal age to use alcoholic beverages in the rooms failed, six in favor - fourteen against.

Discussion of Dunes Trip

(If you would like to go contact Rich Vanes, Ext. 551).

Introduction:

Regretfully our infirmary department was jammed last week with victims of the belated $50 colds and inadequate $10 sniffles. However, this week must end the usual unctious, un-medical, mish-mash:

Greeting health fans! It has come to our attention that the ivy covered halls of Marian are sightly drooping from being climbed by strange wild eyed desperate creatures that rumor dictates your students are suffering from sleep deficiency. Hunicans, beware! You can recognize these crimson orbbed snoozy suffers by the following danger signals;

1. Screaming hysterically in the dorms at midnight.
2. A visage radiating a certain zombie air
3. Increased hand-to-mouth coordination.
4. Decreased eyelid-to-eyelid coordination.

However, due to our speedy analysis of the problem, we have formulated the following remedies.

1. Break all TV sets.
2. Re-arrange classes between 9:42pm and 5:53am thereby assuring all students of 8 hours of unbroken sleep.
3. Read an unbudged copy of Sigmund Freud.
4. Join the local rainy weather softball league.
5. Read this article.

Unfortunately all these remedies are not foolproof. Do not despair! You can always follow the accepted universal antidote: Take 2 aspirin and go to bed, so you'll be in fine shape to read next week's surprise supply of supercilious gemy gobledygook associated with Hippocrate's Oath.

Lettuce Boycott

The Catholic Bishops of Indiana have come out in favor of the Lettuce Boycott. Their statement said, among other things: Without strong, honest representation such as can be provide by the United Farm Workers, the plight of agricultural workers and their families will remain desperate. A fundamental issue of social justice is at stake.

In these circumstances, the Catholic Bishops of Indiana strongly support the lettuce boycott and urge the citizens of Indiana to purchase only "Iceberg" (head lettuce) clearly marked with the official United Farm Workers label, the black Aztec Eagle.

We laud the California Supreme Court's decision in late December which permits the UFWU to resume the boycott-strike against those growers who had earlier signed agreements with other unions. This is really a grassroots struggle by the workers to gain a union of their choice. The moral issues are the same as they were in the grape boycott: dignity, self-determination, and justice.

Over The Fence Gang	2	0
Master Batters	1	0
Moppit Men	1	0
Mind Friars	1	0
Dill Doze	0	1
Da Profs	0	1
Softballs	0	1
Warm Benchers	0	2

(Three other teams have not yet played.)

Rain plagued the opening week of softball, forcing many teams to hold their practice sessions indoors at the Mug Rack. So we have yet to get a view of the highly touted Sarge's Raiders. However, they face tough opposition Sunday in the Over the Fence Gang. The big game, of course, pits the Master Batters against MFIC at noon. In another big game, cellar-dwelling Warm Benchers dual the Dill Doze in the quest for win number one. As for now, all we can do is hope for better weather so we can get our first good look at some of these teams. Until then, this is the old-lefthander rounding third and heading for home.

Wait Until Dark

Due to the popular enthusiasm of ticket sales of Wait Until Dark, the dinner theatre production, they are still on sale.

Information on tickets in last week's Carbon was incorrect. Tickets are $4. However, if students skip their regular evening meal they can have a dollar reduction on the price for the dinner and play.

Don't Miss It!

Attention Col. Wagner:

The March 18-24 Maintenance Report should be corrected to read: Maintenance men ASSISTED tennis team in repairing tennis net — not that they repaired the net.

Bi-sexual Fashions
Leaves No Choice

What can be said about fashions that has not already been said in the Phoenix? Well, the natural look from gay Paris has stormed even the campus variety club with the transvestites sporting fleshy pantyhose, giving that "very subtle, very soft, very feminine" look which is so popular. Sundeckers are in stride with the California cuties in adopting the nude from the waist up look which helps get that "even tan". The all over look has been recommended by the Paris designer Cocoa St. Ives.

So much for the natural look. The unnatural look incorporates cadaverous pink and blushing grey in shrouds. The come as you are (or were) look is in for mourners this year, "because they would have wanted it that way". The baggie look has replaced the yearn for the urn look in cremations. After a fad of 16 milleniums, white is out in the supernatural look. Halos have been lowered and are now worn around the neck. Horns are making their way up, while feathers are moulting from the scene.

Keeping with the fad started 1,973 years ago, sandals and long hair are still "with it".
