"AN ANSWER IS LONG OVERDUE"

Both Sister Margaretta Black and President Gatto were absent from the last college council meeting, April 22, when Mr. James Goebel, Chairman of the English Department, read a statement from the Music faculty (excluding the signature of Sister Vivian Rose) which called for a response from the Academic Dean regarding the retirement of Sister Vivian Rose. "We would like Sister Margaretta to speak to the following: Is the issue concerning Sister Vivian Rose still open or is it closed? Will Sister Vivian Rose be teaching part time in '86-87 or not? An answer is long overdue."

The statement written by President Gatto and posted on the main bulletin board in Marian Hall remains a mystery to students involved in this affair and to many of the faculty, among them James Goebel, Phil Wright, and Sister Jean Gabriel Jones. What bearing its contents have on Sister Vivian Rose and other part time faculty members over the age of 70 has not yet been stated by the administration. Sister Jean Gabriel asked that a copy of the President's statement be given to every full time faculty member and staff members.

William Pedtke presented an excerpt from the American Association of University Professors which said, in part, that "Faculty status and related matters are primarily a faculty responsibility; this area includes appointments, reappointments, decisions not to reappoint, promotions, the granting of tenure, and dismissal." The excerpt ends with the statement: "The governing board and president should, on questions of faculty status, as in other matters where the faculty has primary responsibility, concur with the faculty judgment except in rare instances and for compelling reasons which should be stated in detail."

Because of the absence of Sister Margaretta and Dr. Gatto these reasons could not be presented. Mr. Goebel then requested a date for a future meeting to address these reasons. The request was defeated within the council but is being pursued at the present time.

THE RIVERDALE ESTATE

What do Marian alumni do after graduation? Janet Padgett (class of '84) is a former Carbon editor who went to work for the Hyatt Regency on graduation. Last November, however, Janet returned to Marian as director of Allison Mansion (also known as Riverdale).

A dynamic creative individual, Janet is committed to developing Allison Mansion - and Marian College - as a highly visible conference banquet facility in Indianapolis. The goal is to convert the mansion from a financial liability to a money and prestige generating resource. In the process, Janet hopes to preserve and renovate the mansion and its grounds with the help of student volunteers and other interested parties. Already, the freshman class has begun renovating the shower rooms by the swimming pool. The junior class has begun cleaning up the grounds and may help with some minor landscaping. Another project that needs doing is polishing the home's beautiful hand-carved woodworks.

Why is there all this attention on Allison Mansion? As Janet says, "It was the home of Jim Allison, who helped build Indianapolis and was a founder of the '500.' It is the birthplace of this campus. It is a stylistically unique architectural wonder, a monument. A home like this needs a lot of loving care!"

There is a lot of work that can be done at Allison. Janet Padgett has started the ball rolling in a big way. But there is much left to do. Janet welcomed any help from students, classes, clubs or other interested parties. She is available at extension 299.

NOTE FROM JENNICE

Dear Student Body and Faculty,

There aren't enough words or anything I could do that would fully express the gratitude, and appreciation I feel for all you have done for me these last few months. But I'm going to try my hardest to.

I would like to say a special thanks to all my teachers for allowing me to continue my studies so that I might graduate on time. You have gone out of your way for me and it has meant so much to me. A special thanks to those students Ann V., Shannon K., Paige H., Julie S., Joan M. and my sister for taking such good notes for me. And to everyone, thanks for all your support, thoughts, prayers, and visits while I was in the hospital. I wouldn't be beating this if it weren't for you and the love of God.

I'd like to say one last thing - and that is to my roommate Kim Zeronik. You have been the absolute greatest roommate and friend. You have kept my spirits up continuously as well as your own even though I know this has been extremely hard on you. I wouldn't trade you or our friendship for the world. Soon baby soon!

Love You All,

Jennice Chaney

A MORAL WORTH READING

I had just turned in my final paper in Literary Types; I was finished. I walked into class breathing easy, looking forward to a relaxing class. Dr. Craig eyed me as I walked in, his eyebrows raised above his glasses, a suspicious-looking smile on his face. "Kelley," he said, starting toward me. "I will give you 100 extra points if you research a topic for me." Sure, I thought. This will be easy. "Good," he said, seeing the willingness on my face. "Emerson wrote an essay called 'Self Reliance'. I need to know when, and were there any ramifications after it was published, and what inspired him to write it."

I jogged over the library, glad to be skipping class, and headed for the encyclopedias. "Self Reliance" was mentioned but its origin and the author's intent were not. I began to get dizzy. I needed help but the title of Emerson's essay made me feel guilty. I backed up from the shelf and turned slightly around whimpering, "Emerson, Emerson." Dr. Stussy, the Head Librarian, pointed to the stairs and graciously said, "floor two."

While we were going up the stairs Dr. Stussy was mumbling: Students must learn how to learn. They really need to become acquainted with a library and all that it offers. In the future when they are confronted with the need for information, I want them to be capable of finding it. You're lucky, she continued, turning toward me. You have guidelines; you need Emerson. Your professor gave you guidelines. Once you get into grad school, you may not be given topics or guidelines; then you'll be lost (I whimpered again).

"We were given library tours," I mumbled.

Yes, that's another thing. Students need one introductory tour. They need to understand the library and be attracted to it.

Dr. Stussy found "Self Reliance" and a commentary on Emerson and handed it to me with a smile. She spoke up again.

We have a guide to literature written in almost every area of study (Political Science is on order). These guides are especially helpful when students are seeking specific information in a specific field.

I patted the book worth 100 points and decided to spend the rest of the hour enjoying the library and all it has to offer.

The moral of this story is:

Those who are well-acquainted with the library enjoy going there and gain a valuable resource for future study and information finding.

(Editor's Note: The 100 points and the skipping of class mentioned in this story are purely fictional.)

DENISE FINNEY RESIGNS

by Chris Worley

After years of affiliation with Marian College, Denise Brennan Finney, graduate of the Marian class of '77 and current director of alumni relations, has announced her resignation effective May 2. Denise reports that it was a difficult decision but when opportunity knocked she was ready for personal growth and challenge. She is joining United Student Aid Funds, a financial aid service company, as a marketing representative.

Well liked and respected by students and her colleagues, Denise has developed a strong alumni program, expanded and coordinated the alumni volunteer network, and has overseen the computer conversion of the alumni records. At the same time, she developed a reputation for her involvement in college and student affairs. She has served on many committees, including faculty and staff affairs, computer services, library and student affairs committees, several judicial panels, the conduct appeal board and the College Council. She has also been faculty advisor for Marian College Student Board for three years.

When asked to comment on Marian College, Denise said, "Marian is becoming well-known as a part of Indianapolis and for its service to the community. We've had our internal conflicts but every family does. After all, isn't it conflict that promotes growth? Marian is a growing and good institution."

Denise continued, "I'd like to add my thanks to everyone at Marian. These people have made this such a good place to be...and I will certainly miss them."

As of press time, no successor has been named.

OF BIRDS AND MEN

by Brad Landwerlen

IT'S TRUE! A female who some call Robin is living in Doyle 214-that's right- that's on the male side of the dorm!! Though rumor has it that Good Golly Chris Worley has "mingled" with her and so far fathered three (and more are expected soon), their roommate, Brad "Hooch" Landwerlen, is quite distressed over the whole mess because "Robin" is a bird. That's right, she's a robin and her official 2-EAST name is Bert Ward (as in Batman and Robin). She built a nest there last Thursday in 6.9 hours flat, and has since laid three eggs as of press time. Between the music and the screen she's been pretty much kept "out on the ledge." We expect the little ones to hatch during finals week, and we've already named the first one "Goebel", the second one "Leopold", and the third one "Gabba Wheeler". If more eggs are produced, we may have a naming contest, and The Carbon will keep you updated throughout the natural incubation period.

SPRING CONCERT SHOWED "PERSONALITY"

by Kelley Ross

"Somewhere down the road" we may find a few of our Marian College students performing musically but please don't miss the opportunity to notice the talent around us now.

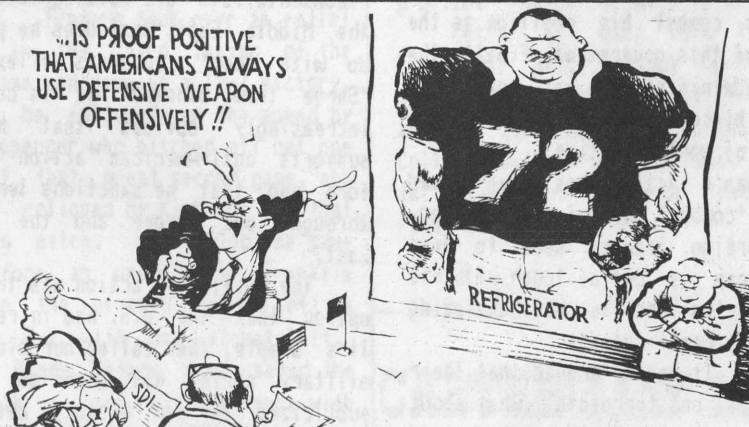

The Chorale and Chamber Singers presented their spring concert Sunday, April 20 at 3:00 PM in Allison Mansion. Twenty-seven students joined Sara Reid, Sister Mary Gloria Gallagher and Kitty O'Donnell for an hour of talent ridden selections. Beginning with Handel's "Great Lord God," the singers blended beautifully, voices dancing lightly over the notes of Offenbach's "Neighbors Chorus" and Monteverdi's "Damigella tutta bella" (Maidens So Beautiful). The women shooed the gentlemen off the stage to perform Van Heusen's "Personality" flare only to be matched by the gentlemen's rendition of Porten's "Friendship." Brian Ernstes and Martin Spaulding delivered bright solos. Maria Finnane and Jeff Johns sang together Lloyd Wefler's "Only You" from a musical not yet arrived in the U.S., "Starlight Expos."

"Somewhere Down the Road" was one of the last selections. Its words "we will meet again, it doesn't really matter when" are, perhaps, predictive for these students whose talents may go beyond their years at Marian. We have the special opportunity of enjoying their work.

Congratulations on a fine performance!

6 ACTION ON LIBYA: CON

by Scott Reinhardt
(special thanks to Dr. Bill Doherty)

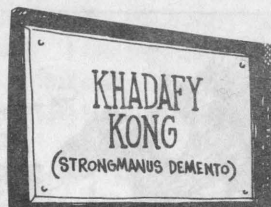

Earlier this month President Reagan sent U.N. Ambassador Vernon Walters to Europe to "consult" (?) with NATO governments about prospective action against Libya. As a result of the highly publicized action, the NATO alliance has been seriously weakened. The attack was a unilateral U.S. action against the wishes of our European allies.

The fact remains that terrorism will continue and probably increase as American hatred in the Middle East is at an all time high. Colonel Muammar Kaddafi has rallied the people of Libya to cement his position as the leader of this government. Finally the Reagan administration has bought yet another black mark against itself on the card of world politics.

Reagan's action has been viewed as the "cowboy" way of doing things. Other foreign leaders seem to fear that Reagan is out of touch with his own policies and is not analyzing their total ramifications.

While it may be argued that their attack was on terrorists, what about the extremist in Syria, Lebanon and Iran who have committed similar atrocities against Americans. Was the attack just a frustrated attempt to retaliate against those who cannot be effectively retaliated against? We must remember the terrorist have no homeland, just places of refuge, therefore, how can we attack one country who houses a minority of the terrorists that we are supposedly striking at. If we truly want to eradicate terrorism then why not strike at Syria, Lebanon, and Iran.

The American Populace has a prejudice against Libyans; therefore, killing them raises little or no opposition in American society. But, if we would attack the Irish Republican Army in Belfast, many people would be totally against any sort of action. Was it morally just to kill innocent people who have committed no crime against Americans in any circumstance, but to be labeled "terrorist" for being Libyans.

Although the Libyan assault might make us feel a bit less helpless, we have committed a crime against helpless civilians in Libya. Now we can all sleep better knowing that we can obliterate a marginally weaker opponent such as Libya or Grenada.

PRO

Libyan leader Muammar Kaddafi has offered to pay $100 million for the six Americans that Muslim Fundamentalists are holding hostage in the Middle East. "What does he plan to do with them", comments Kelley Ross, "Serve them dinner?" It is becoming increasingly obvious that Kaddafi supports anti-American action in any form and that he sanctions terrorism through out Europe and the Middle East.

The military action was the last option that the U.S. had in reserve. It's simple, they called our bluff. No military strike has been so highly publicized in our history before it actually occurred. Economic sanctions didn't work; our so called NATO allies weren't willing to make the sacrifices to eradicate terrorism. A show of force didn't work; Kaddafi simply struck at us leaving himself open for retaliation.

What prompted our attack was the irrefutable evidence that Libya was behind the West Berlin bombing. The motive behind the action was to send Kaddafi a message, that he better cool it because we don't like being pushed and we're not going to put up with his shenanigans.

No bombing can truly be surgical, innocent people may die but such things happen. Our military intelligence went out of its way to attack military targets. When an individual shakes his fist at us (such as Kaddafi) he should expect us to call his bluff. When he shot at our 6th Fleet, he must have expected that we would return the fire.

Kaddafi has targeted U.S. Embassies in Greece and other NATO countries. We have a duty to protect our people at home and abroad by doing what is necessary to wipe out the problem.

Kaddafi is a boil on the backside of the world community and we must do what we can to send him the message to stop sponsoring malicious acts. We tried economic sanctions but in order to be effective overwhelming support is needed. France who has been bailed out by the U.S. time and time again, even refused to give us permission to use their airspace. Tell the two dead pilots that France was willing to help America after their ancestors freed a French colony occupied by German troops; to our soldiers that tried to maintain a French colony in Indochina, millions of American lives were lost for our allies, who weren't even willing to support our undeniable right to strike at Libya.

LIGHTER SAAD

SAAD'S REVENGE

by Pat Webb

Last week, I and the entire student body of Marian College were having the time of our lives at Market Square Arena seeing the only Indy appearance by HERB and the Blackettes. HERB was in the middle of a 526,000 second guitar solo where he played the guitar with a Heineken bottle, when all of a sudden, the scoreboard that the Pacers use to keep track of how many points their opponents score, exploded!!!

Screaming at the top of his voice, "At! Ter! Ag! Ra! Mu! O! YKc! Uf!", out emerged some kind of abomination from Libya!! It was SAAD but he had triumphed over the giant Ken doll and had merged with good 'ol Kenny!! Immediately, SAAD ate the 526 MILLION White Castle crabburgers he had hidden just below his belt, threw two packs of firecrackers, one pack of ladyfingers, and shot fourteen bottle rockets from a whiskey sour mix bottle and two from a coke bottle, and then regurgitated all over HERB!! Then HERB passed out. Security Guard ERIC KNARR tried to grab SAAD but SAAD spat gravy on him and shouted: "### security!!! He didn't adhere!! I've implimented the policy! I've implimented my policy! The door is open!!" Then he vanished with HERB and SECURITY ERIC.

BASEBALL, 5 OUT OF 6

by Brad Landwerlen

Last Thursday the Knights took 2 of 2 from I.U.S.E. with Castner pitching the distance for a 4-1 victory and Rippenger going the distance for a 7-1 win. The first game could have been trouble if it weren't for Scott Miller's double with bases loaded giving us the winning score. On Saturday, the team lost its first game against IUPUI 5-2, but came back the second game for a 9-2 victory with Fenters as the winning pitcher. This past Tuesday the team once again claimed both games of an at-home double-header when they took on Franklin. Fenters took over as relief pitcher in the third inning of the first game and gave us a 12-7 victory, only to be followed on the mound by John Rippenger who pitched all but one pitch of that great second game, and who was relieved by Kirkhoff for that remaining pitch. We had led the game 2-1 before an unfortunate Franklin rally in the seventh inning left us trailing 4-2 with one at-bat left. Catcher Randy Canada then saved the game with a shot off the fence with bases loaded to give us the winning run, and thus we won 5-4.

The Knights play Wabash here at 1:00 Saturday, Oakland City away on Sunday, then return home Tuesday for a double-header against Butler at 2:30, and then stay at home for a double date with University of Daytona Thursday at 1:00. Saad will not be playing in any of these games as he is not on the team (he blew every chance he had during tryouts), so come on out and watch the Knights kick some 2*%!

FIELD DAY, 1986 <sup>7</sup>

On Wed. April 30, Marian will hold its annual All School Picnic. The picnic will be at the Lilly Lake Shelter at Eagle Creek Park (see map). We have reserved the shelter for the day but lunch will be served from 11:30 - 1:00 and there will be a charge for commuter students. There is a car admission fee for entry into the park. Park rules prohibit alcoholic beverages on the premises. (In case of rain lunch will be served in the cafe.)

The Field Day Party will once again be held at Westlake. The D.J. will play from 8:00 PM - 12:00 AM and alcoholic beverages are not allowed. There will be an admission charge. Transportation to both events will be provided - watch for sign up sheets.

Let's all make this the best Field Day yet. Please work to keep our surroundings and shelters clean and in good condition so that Marian College will be welcomed back at these facilities and the great tradition of Field Day can continue.

CARTER MAY LEAVE

by Kelley Ross

Mr. Frank Carter, four year employee of Marian College and a friendly face known to many students, will be leaving the college sometime this summer. His resignation is not yet definite but Mr. Carter wanted to be sure a word of thanks got to the students, faculty, and staff. The students, Frank said, made my "job enjoyable" and "more interesting." He extends his wishes for "the best to all." "I love 'em!" he said.

The Carbon staff wishes to extend their most sincere gratitude for all Frank has done and the spirit he has added to our college community. We wish you the best!
