"To Destroy and not to Build" - Krushchev

October 26, 1962

Dear CARBON Editors,

In the last issue of the CARBON there appeared a letter asking that student thought and student opinion be reflected in the college newspaper. It further demanded that a "true picture of the college" be presented in the PHOENIX.

A true picture of Marian College does not dwell solely, (or even mainly) upon topics displeasing to a few of her students. And the opinions of only one or two disgruntled students are not necessarily those of the entire student body - the organism for which the newspaper exists.

It seems that a certain few always find something about which to complain. If it is not the newspaper, it is the cut system or the teachers. Do these few not realize that perhaps the majority of her students are happy with Marian? If this school really were as bad as some seem to think, enrollment figures would be extremely low, instead of on an annual upgrade.

Destructive criticism accomplishes next to nothing if anything at all. Perhaps if our critics would direct their energies toward more constructive action they would discover that it is Marian's good points which tip the scale.

Sincerely,
Marie Jochim

P.S. I hope that those who criticize the PHOENIX noticed the First Class rating given it by the Associated Collegiate Press.

Editor's Note:

The CARBON wishes to congratulate the PHOENIX on receiving the ACP First Class Award.

FACULTY SOUNDS OFF

I have noticed, with disgust, the defacing of a dance poster in the West corridor of Clare Hall. I identified this injustice as the work of an individual with what I shall call the "rest-room wall" personality... Marian continues to grow intellectually and spiritually. Not until the students decide to develop their social graces will the College mature socially.

P.S. To those of you who fail to understand the underlined term... forgive me for the rash assumption.

We appreciate the interest shown in the freshmen class nominations by all those who saw fit to sign the sheets in the auditorium vestibule last week. Especially do we commend those of high school mentality in the ranks of the frosh and upper classes who consider paper with available writing space a wonderful opportunity to express their literary talents. The future holds great things for these high schoolers presently attending Marian College. They will learn propriety, which is expected and demanded of them as college intellectuals.

Tonight - John F. Kennedy, President of the United States spoke to the nation with strength and sincere trust. His subject was a matter of "urgent national crisis." He told the world of our desire to be free - free from this continuous world tension, free from the insincerity of Russian tyranny, and free from threat to our land and our home.
Tonight - Our President, a great American with past American stability and tradition raised the honor of our nation by speaking directly and truthfully to the world. J.F.K., with the support of his people was not afraid to reveal the Russian fraud.

Tonight - Our great nation received solemnly a near and rightfully near declaration of war. The seriousness of our position is now reality and the test of our strength has just begun. The quiet courageous acceptance of this reality served to demonstrate our national pride. We are a proud and united nation.

Answers to Puzzle flock in:

Freshman Mary Catherine Fitzgerald gives us her answer, "If I had come this way yesterday, which road would you have told me to take?"

Freshman Suzette Glen astounded the CARBON with "Are you a pigmy?"

We are happy to report that neither of these answers agree perfectly with our solution. The CARBON'S answer is "If I had asked your buddy (the other pygmy) which road to take, which one would he tell me? (Then you take the other road.)"
