EDITORIAL

For the last couple of days I've been wondering why Evel Knievel's failure to make it across the canyon was so upsetting to everyone. I came to the conclusion that for sometime America has been looking for a hero. Evel Knievel was the latest candidate for the job. That's why it was so disturbing when he failed to meet the challenge.

While thinking about this, I asked myself two questions: Who are the heroes of today, and Does America really need heroes?

As for the first question, everyone has a hero, someone who they would like to be. But America as a nation in its entirety does not have a hero. In the past American heroes have been people like Charles Lindberg, Presidents and Military men. Knievels jump across the canyon on a motorcycle parallels Lindberg's flight across the Atlantic, only thing he failed. America does not tolerate losers, only successes. As for our President, his public relations people are busy enough trying to get everyone to accept him, yet alone make him a hero. Besides the respect for the office of President that once existed has now diminished. As for the military, its popularity was lost in the Viet Nam War. People, especially young people, donot trust the military. So it seems unlikely that we will have many military heroes for same time.

A few years ago a new type of hero emerged, the anti-hero, the rebel. This was good for the time, but lately the anti-hero's popularity ha. dwindled.

As for my second question, does America need a hero? The answer to this question is more difficult than the first. It has been pounded into us for years that America needs heroes. I am not so sure that we actually do need heroes. I'm sure it would boost the public spirit if we did have one, but it seems unlikely that we will have a national hero for sometime. For the time being though each person is going to have to find his own hero. Who knows, maybe that is the way it is supposed to be.

Dear Carbon:

As Student Board Treasurer it is my responsibility to present to the Student Board for approval a composite budget of all organization's prepared by the Budget Committee of the Student Association. After working with the Committee last year and again this week it is hoped that the budgets will be ready for presentation to the Board at Sunday's meeting.

Any group wishing to discuss their budget before finalization should have the treasurer of that organization meet with me at the Doyle hall desk this Saturday between 2:00 and 5:00 pm. or anytime after 6:00pm. At this time I will attempt to show the group how and why the Budget Committee has eliminated or reduced many proposed budget expenses.

After reviewing the budgets last year and calculating anticipated revenues for this year it was learned that enrollment for this semester would be considerable less than expected and revenues therefore falling short of expected expenses. Rather than have the Budget Committee go back through all the budgets. I am asking each organization to cut 10% from its proposed allocation. I will leave it to the individual organization to decide where it wished to take its reduction in the budget.

One change in budgeting procedure this year is that all money budgeted for movies has been voluntarily combined by the clubs and classes of the Student Association with Clare Hall and Doyle Hall into a central fund managed by a Film Committee composed of a representative from each organization. It is hoped that this cooperative funding will lead to a better more efficient selection of films for the school year. I would like to thank Dennis Laynor and all those involved from each organization for their efforts in establishing this committee.

In closing I would also like to thank the Budget Committee of Jon Driscoll, Mark Mauer, Chris Ellinger and Joe Devlin for their work in establishing the guide lines we have followed in the proposed budget.

Thank You,
Brent Blaine

I hear some people complaining about the food in the Cafe. Let me remind the students that Dave is doing the best he can with the crap they give him. Please be patient, I'm sure things will get better.

As I sat in the Cafe the other morning it was brought to my attention that the stereo system, which was paid for out of our money, wasn't even on. The next day it was tuned to country, WIRE. We all love our country but I'm sure the students would rather listen to NAP.

Who the hell is "Shadow"? And what does he do? You freshmen will find out soon enough. This strange character who lurks in the dark with binoculars.

Those of you who problems with your rooms please be patient. Ron Schmoll's staff is under-manned and are doing the best they can. After all, I've been here three weeks and still haven't got a mirror.

Last but not least, whatever happened to "Marian, the People College"? Seems to me, that this year we're getting more hassles than ever before.

Dear Carbon:

Sister Sue Bradshaw, originally from Indianapolis, is assistant prof. in the history dept. and has spent the last four years earning her Ph.D at Georgetown University. She is enjoying herself here at Marian and likes the warm friendliness that surrounds Marian people.

Sr. Sue is already becoming active in the Religious Affairs Committee, starting with a Challenge Weekend, September 27 -29; a spiritual weekend gauged for college-age youth. She expresses an honest concern for the welfare of not only students, but all people.

When asked for tips on what students definitely should or should not do while attending her classes she replied, "Look interested. If all else fails ask an intelligent question; and never - never fall asleep - or all the things that precede that, such as , the yawning, the propping the chin or the head on the desk." So all you history people keep your mind on the material and get a good rest before going to Sister Sue's class.

Students,

The editors of this distinguished journalistic undertaking are doing one or both of two things. They are either getting lazy or are scraping the bottom of the barrel. They have asked a food service man to write for their rag (oops, I meant sheet). That's what I call low.

Really I am very happy to have been asked to write for THE CARBON. Maybe if I talk nice and remember my manners I'll be invited back. My name is Dave Friesen, I'm Saga's new "man on campus." It is a real pleasure to be here at Marian. I'm looking forward to, at the very least, three very enjoyable years here.

I have already stated in the "reputable

campus newspaper" that I intend during my tenure here to make Marian's the best college food service there is. So it falls to this sheet for to be the vehicle of my lining this out for you with my ideas. (The reputable sheet also got my biography, so if that is what you are into, check the Phoenix.)

We are really working on improving and upgrading the program in the main cafeteria. The new softdrink and ice machine (I can't say Pepsi here), have really speeded up the lines. We are off and going now on a new year and looking forward to a fun time. We know that we will face shortages down the road but as long as the Rack doesn't run out of beer on Friday afternoon (ah well). No, we do know that there will be shortages and higher prices but we think we have enough control on them that we should be able to minimize their effect on you. If you have any questions about them, please don't hesitate to collar me. I won't hide behind shortages but if there isn't anything I can do I will tell you so, if you have better ideas let me know.

The PERC will have a lot of emphasis this year. It is an area that has been much neglected in the past and Minnie and I are going to do our best to remedy that. We want to make it the central gathering spot for the people here on Marian's campus. With longer hours in the Snack Bar, the game room, stereo and some fun programming ideas planned for the coming year we should be able to accomplish it. We've already added Pizza and delivery service and the people say they like it. Were shooting to make the best possible pizzzen this side of town.

ON TAP FOR LATER: Ye Olde Country Store Munchies: Mr Pringles, peanut butter, bread butter, cheese, six packs (down boy, just soft drinks, not beer), fresh fruit ect., Ye Olde Ice Creme Shoppe-- a glass ice creme case capable of displaying up to 16 flavors of ice creme, sundaes, shakes, and super deeper bannana splits. Ye Olde Luncheon Bar (talk about a one track mind)-- salad bar, soup pot, hot (casserole type) entrees ect. Just a few things coming up to give you a better PERC.

Enough of this for now. Free advertising is one thing but..... Any beefs, squabbles, suggestions of Plaudits (look that one up in your Funk and Wagnalls) come and see me, I don't bite. (Guess what? you poor things, the editors of this excellant journalistic organ have asked me to make this a weekly feature, they are really scraping for fill up copy)

The Day Student Activities Union Constitution was brought before the Board. After a few minor changes, the Union became a reality.

A film committee, brain-child of Dennis Laynor, was discussed and seem to meet approval. Look for further information somewhere else in this issue of the Carbon.

The size of the Perc Committee will be reduced because nothing can be agreed upon at its present size.

Agenda:

Old Business:

1. Continuation of discussion on placing a student on the Board of Trustees.

New Business:

1. Reduction of the Perc Committee.
2. Review of student club's budgets.

Men's Intramurals

I'd just like to inform you no-minds here at Marian College about the Intramural Football Program. Last week we tried to get the program under-way but we only came up with five teams.

What the _____ is wrong with you people! Instead of sitting in your rooms vegetating, why don't you get up a team for your floor and get rid of some frustrations on the field. You can't tell me you have too much booking to do, or too many other social activities. I would find that hard to believe. I wouldn't call you a liar, but I'd have to think you were trying to mind-fry me. Liste, intramurals is the only break from the monotony; So if you are not a pussycat, get a team together. If you don't get a team together, then at least get on one.

Women's Sports

Women's intramural are scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 23. Teams must be turned in by Sept. 18 to any of the intramural committee members: Ms. Elaine M. Luthman, hailing from Wapakoneta, Ohio, Ms. Collette Stasrk, or Ms. Patricia M. Lampkin.

Rumors has it that many of last years teams have changed their rosters. We understand that the Stickettes (3rd place team of 73-74) have signed Ace players Monica Camp and Brigid Flannery. Unfortunately, The Stickettes trying to save face are also changing their name. It seems they've gone from bad to worse and ended up in a real PIT. (ha ha ha ha)

Word is also out that a "new" team composed of Sophs from that fantastic wing- 2 East- plan to hit the courts. When asked for a pre-season hint on how the team looks- the only reply was "Whats it to ya?" We'll have to wait and see-won't we Niesen?

Before wrapping this up we want to give the freshmen one more hint on the tough teams to watch out for. The Virtuous Pagans alias Pygmies will once again make their appearance. Number one Pygmy- Chris Auberry- had these comments: "The Pygmies will reunite. Unfortunately due to circumstances beyond their control several valuable players have been lost. We are recruiting new "jocks" (heres your chance Baumer) and plan to finish the season comparable to our last years position."

NEXT WEEKS FEATURES: The Fruits and a prediction of team standings.

Get those teams in- this is Starkie, Main and Little Wap trying to schedule the games.
