

The work of teaching is always experimental. Procedures that have succeeded brilliantly at one time, under other conditions prove painfully inadequate. Unless the teacher and the school are constantly alive to changing conditions, ready to see old truths in new ways, they are bound to fail in their task.

Nor can the teacher, after the manner of other experimenters, know immediately the success or failure of his work. Only after many years do the full results of his efforts come to light. He must act much of the time upon faith. He must have faith in dogged attempt to understand as of greater worth than shallow and easy catchwords. He must believe in the superiority of virtue humbly striven for over all the riches of the world.

Particularly are these qualities important at this time. The world into which the members of the Class of 1944 are entering is a world the like of which neither we nor any other man has ever seen. How well are they prepared to participate in it, to make common cause with their fellowmen all over the world in molding it not just to their hearts' desire, but to the will of God?

We cannot answer that question with complete assurance. We of the faculty of Marian College have tried to see the way of truth and of justice in the fast-changing course of events of these years. We have made the trial, the experiments, that these events seemed to demand, the while we endeavored to hold fast to that which is of lasting worth. We have had hope that the true and good things we have found would be found by these students too, and that even from our errors not only we but they too would learn to avoid like errors.

Now the time of formal schooling is over. Now the trial of our teaching is about to begin. The Class of 1944 commences to put it to the test. We do not hope that they will find all that we have done altogether satisfactory or that their education will have given them easy sailing. Living, like teaching, involves experimentation, and no one is exempt from the compulsion of searching for new aspects of eternal truths, new ways of practicing the ancient virtues. We only hope that their experiences at the College will have prepared them to search.

But graduation does not signify separation. Rather does the degree bind its recipient to his college by a new and more permanent tie. It is our hope that these graduates may not cease to look to the College for help in understanding their world. It is our hope too that as their experience broadens and deepens they may exercise the mutuality that all teaching involves and help the College to make the changes that the changing world demands, to be ever more zealous for the good, that it may the better serve those that come after them. As it was said by the prophet, this is what the Lord requires of each of them and of us: To do judgment, and to love mercy, and to walk solicitous with thy God.

College Confers Degrees On Forty-One Graduates; Bishop Ritter Presides

Forty-one seniors of Marian College will be graduated at the Commencement exercises, June 1. His Excellency, the Most Reverend Joseph E. Ritter, D.D., Bishop of Indianapolis, will confer the baccalaureate degrees.

Receiving the Bachelor of Arts degree are: Licia Toffolo, an art major; Carmen de Barros y Coll, Mary Ellen Gingrich, Anna E. Mehn, and Maryanna Todd, all majoring in English; Jane Carolyn Metcalf and Erna Santarossa, music majors; Maria Carballeira, Naomi Raney, Doris E. Stober, and Josephine Venezia, majoring in social science; Mary Toffolo, a Spanish major. Twenty-nine religious, Sisters of St. Francis, of Oldenburg, and Sisters of St. Joseph, of Carondelet, Missouri, will receive the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science of Education.

The Commencement program will begin at 10 o'clock, with a formal academic procession into Madonna Hall. Elgar's Processional will be played on the organ.

The musical portion of the program will consist of Wagner's Ave Maria and Cesar Franck's Psalm 150 sung by the Bel Canto; Wienianiski's Romance by violinist Mary Ellen Gingrich and pianist Jeanne Stiens; Liszt's Concert Etude by pianist Erna Santarossa; and La Fauvette from Zemire et Azor by Gretry, sung by soprano Jane Metcalf, with flute and piano accompaniment by Mary Anne Gallagher and Marian Guenter, respectively.

The Reverend John J. Doyle, Ph.D., head of the college department of philosophy will present the candidates for degrees.

The Commencement address will be delivered by the Reverend Stewart E. Dollard, S.J., Ph.D., of West Baden Springs College.

Senior Art Exhibit Features Prize-Winning Studies

An exhibit representing the college art study of Licia Toffolo, art major and 1944 graduate, opened Sunday afternoon, May 28, and will extend through Commencement day, June 1. The exhibit will be located in the art studio and surrounding halls, and on the balcony.

The major divisions of the exhibit are oil and water-color painting, fashion illustration and figure drawing. Leading subjects are the oils: Margaret, La Toilette, The Spanish Dancer, Zinnias, Lotus Lake, White Birches, and A Meditation; and water-color studies: The Ballerinas, Joan, The Blue Vase, Tiger Lilies, Mums, The Cuban Scarf, The Cloister Walk, The Studio Window, and Repertoire.

Included in the exhibit are three compositions which have won first prizes in state-wide contests.

Licia won first prize in Commercial art in the college division of the Ninth Annual State Exhibit of Catholic School Art, sponsored by the Hoosier Salon Patrons Association, this May. Mary Janet Innis, '47, won first prize in water-color.

Musical Opens Commencement With Song Classics

The annual spring musicale was held May 28. The Glee Chorus of forty-four members, sang Tschaikowsky's God of All Nature. The Bel Canto sang Festal Day from Tschaikowsky's Sixth Symphony and Del Riego's Homing. All three choruses were three-part arrangements.

The string ensemble, composed of Mary Ellen Gingrich, Eileen Busam, Mary Ann Brichler, and Erna Santarossa, played Gounod's Ave Verum and Jenkinson's Elves' Dance.

Instrumental soloists, featuring organ, harp, piano, and violin selections, were: Carolyn Maden, Jeanne Stiens, Mariam Wil-

Chairmen Report Red Cross Advance

A special meeting of the Marian College unit of the American National Red Cross, with chairman Janet Myers presiding, was held on May 17. Alma Gaden, chairman of the water safety committee reported that Mary Anne Brichler, Mildred Daniels, Judy Dillhoff, Alma Gaden, Mary Anne Gallagher, Rita Mae Heinz, Sylvia Luley, Rachel Matthews, and Doris Stober have successfully completed the course and have been awarded "swimmer certificates."

Just one stroke behind are Maria Carballeira and Mary Ellen Gingrich, who have received "intermediate" certificates, and Mary Jane Hermann, who received the "beginner" certificate.

Adios, O Madre Mia

Faithfully you have watched over our collegiate life. Now we must leave you.

Our prayer, in lighting anew this candle at your shrine, is like that of the Spanish cavalier; Good-bye, Queen of Heaven . . . Never forget me . . . My heart is all yours . . . Give me your blessing, and bless Marian for me.

On Your Mark!

On the first rapturous day of June, as on New Year's Eve, many become imbued with the spirit of striving just a little harder and longer.

While you're straining at the post, eager to feel the turf pounding under your gallop, you look down the track and resolve to quit hugging the inside rail and taking the short cuts. True, your days will be just as occupied as usual but most of your evenings can be counted on as free.

It's only natural to want to spend some of those evenings relaxing and enjoying life, but while you're lazily reveling in the comfort of a hammock, why not look over that book you've always intended to read but never quite gotten around to?

The movie ads look promising but why not chuck them over once a week for a few hours at the Red Cross? The sense of satisfaction will thrill you longer than that cinema Romeo's last clinch.

And more than ever you'll have time for those letters to your G. I. Joes. Imagine you're sole support of the U. S. Postal system.

During the school year you've felt the steady influence of a Catholic college and its religious program. Resolve to pursue those good habits you've formed. Remember that Mass and Holy Communion every morning are the best way of starting any day, even if it means grabbing only a cup of coffee and a doughnut—you can make up for it at lunch.

So now that you're about to be given free rein, prove you're a thoroughbred by choosing the right way of spending your summer.

The faculty and students of Marian College extend sincere congratulations and best wishes to St. Mary's College Notre Dame Holy Cross, Indiana, on the Centennial Commemoration of the Founding of the College, June 3.

Fifth War Loan Ahead

The Fifth War Loan begins June 12. Six billion dollars are to be raised directly from individuals—that means you.

Just form the habit of stopping at the war-stamp booth in the theater lobby or in your favorite department store. If you're working this summer, you will be able to afford larger investments than your school-year allowance permitted. Volunteer your services to your county drive chairman as secretary or solicitor.

Getting your application blanks filled is an excellent way to do your patriotic duty and to boost Marian's bond record.

Frosh Entertain

Marianites viewed the world through the proverbial "rose-colored glasses" Friday, May 19, when the freshman class enacted its version of an ideal college life. The play was an original presentation, "dreamed-up" by the arrangements committee, Mary McNulty, chairman, Rita Maher, Dorothy Kise, Eleanor Cardis, Rosemary Oldenburg, Mary D. Schwert, Margaret Braun, Mary Ellen Fox, Patty Hagan, Rachel Matthews, Margie Mellen, and Genevieve White.

the staff assistants' corps, said that of the twenty-one girls who completed the course, fourteen are working on the blood donor files, and seven are working in the Home Registry Bureau. A total of 374 volunteered hours of work have been completed by Marian students.

Co-chairmen of the blood donor committee, Dorothy Kise and Margaret Cocks, reported thirteen more recent donors and another ten for the near future.

Mary Janet Innis, chairman of the production corps, reported that one hundred and ten articles have been knitted by the faculty and students. Arrangements are being made whereby students may continue production work during the summer.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Joseph Wiley (Lois Ellis, '45) on the birth of their daughter, Harriet Ann.

Best wishes to Mr. Marvin Northcutt, U. S. C. G. and Miss Bette O'Neill, '46, on their wedding, June 3.

MARIAN GUILD

Just Doodling

Hello, there,

You know, when I first came to Marian I felt a certain something, a contentedness, a warm feeling in the atmosphere around the school, but I couldn't figure out just what this was due to. Now I know. It's because every graduate's left a bit of her heart.

You don't have to be a senior to be sad on graduation day; you keep remembering that some day you too will be leaving, and you look around you at the everyday things more appreciatively.

Naomi expresses in verse how she's trying to remember every little detail about her Alma Mater.

My voice is stilled—

I can not form the words

That would express my love—

My grief at parting.

My voice is stilled

And I am dumb with longing.

So many times I walked beneath these pines

And loved the sighing of the wind

Among their branches.

I've loved the lakes

With lotus blossoms floating.

The pastel pink and green and white.

Of campus spring.

Look closely, heart,

Lest I forget one little leaf

One lilac bloom, one tiny bird.

Etch beauty's form on memory's page.

That I may remember Marian

And loveliness incarnate

Travel with me all my days.

Naomi Raney, '44

Graduation is a time of joy for it is a time of achievement; graduation is a time of sadness for it is a time of parting. Anna says—

Oh, Time, you restless gypsy.

Please, your stay prolong.

Tarry with Mirth and Singing.

On our graduation day.

Nature, like a full-blown rose,

Is in her perfection.

Music speaks in glowing accents

Of honor and praise.

The march, how stately and solemn:

Words of wisdom and truth;

Wishes, congratulations,

And thoughts of future days.

Voices mingled with laughter

Float outward on the breeze,

Joy reigns now unchallenged.

But—why are you sad, my heart?

Anna Mehn, '44

So long for the summer,

'44 Class History

1940-1941

Thirty-two freshies strong, with two Cuban matriculees to our credit, we entered Marian College in September, 1940. The hilarity of freshman week gave way to sorrow on the death of our sophomore school-mate, Georgiana Feldman. We entered with vim into the first all-Marian orchestra and the year's instrumental ensemble, the presentation of the operetta Fernando, and the annual spring concert. In May we witnessed the coronation ceremony, traditional at Marian. Margaret Rose Foltz, '41, campus queen, officiated at the crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary as Queen of May. Recreational facilities were supplemented by the addition of a tennis court, the gift of Marian Guild. The end of the year brought the graduation of the first "four-year-men" and good-bye's to Sister Mary John, who, as first Dean, had contributed much to the pioneer tasks.

1941-1942

In our second year we welcomed Sister Mary Cephas as Dean. The extended library quarters, the new locations given to the Art, Music, and Commerce departments were all appreciated. We accomplished the initiation of the freshies with solemn pleasure. The school song, with words and music by Sister M. Gonsalva and Sister M. Vitalis, respectively, had an enthusiastic reception. The blessing of the new Angelus bells and the St. Francis statue, dedicated to Georgiana Feldman, was the major outdoor event. The Ohio Valley Student Peace Federation held its annual conference at Marian on December 6. Due to the outbreak of the war, an accelerated program was introduced. Acceleratees augmented our number. Social activities also took on a war-time aspect with the first Servicemen's dance. The Religious Council officiated at the lighting of the votive lamp, which is to burn continually before the image of Mary until peace is declared.

1942-1943

Honored juniors were Martha Lou Matthews and Erna Santarossa who appeared in the collegiate Who's Who. Anna Mehn and Naomi Raney were winners in the college division of the annual American Poet-Laureate Search. Easter vacation found the royal family of Hapsburg holding a reunion on the campus. A new student literary publication, the Fioretti, was begun, with Mary-anna Todd as editor-in-chief.

1943-1944

Our social endeavors scheduled more dances for servicemen. The first class of '44 get-together was held December 8. Three seniors appeared in Who's Who: Carmen de Barros, Naomi Raney, and Erna Santarossa. An unusual visitor and guest was Countess Flora Van Westen of Holland, who came to speak at the Catholic Forum. To promote the sales and purchase of bonds by the students, several successful drives, parallel to our nation's war loan drives were conducted. We, seniors, presented a short war-savings play, The Squander Bug. Equally proud are we of the official organization of a Red Cross unit at Marian. The campus queen of this year was Licia Toffolo. The crowning of the Blessed Mother, now a distinct ceremony, was performed by the Sodality prefect. Our class boasts the first fine arts graduates. Erna and Jane gave their musical recital May 12; Licia's art exhibit opened May 28. We have the distinction of being Marian's largest graduating class.

Upon leaving our beautiful campus, we shall carry with us loving memories of loyal friends, cherished ideals of Mary-likeness, and safe-guiding principles of Catholic philosophy. Those who follow in our footsteps we charge to carry on the inspiring traditions we are herein transmitting.

MISSION BULLETIN

Summer clubs will be organized again this year to carry on the missionary work of the school year.

The C.S.M.C. unit takes this opportunity to thank students for the whole-hearted co-operation given to the mission projects of this school year. To the joy that has already come to each zealous worker as a result of helping the needy, we add a prayer for the special blessing of the Divine Missionary.

Class Dinners Crowd Senior Social Calendar

Commencement week social events, feting the seniors, kept pace with final exams, term papers, and packing.

Erna Santarossa started the round of feasting with an Italian spaghetti dinner at her home, May 23. General opinion pronounced it "dee-licious."

Very, very swank and equally tasty was the senior banquet held in the Louis XIV room at the Claypool Hotel, May 29. This was the last of the senior "get-togeth- ers" which have been taking place throughout the year.

The juniors did their part roy- ally in giving the graduates a cheery send-off. Their dinner, served country style at the Homestead, May 30, will be an- other long-lasting graduation memory.

Last Will and Testament

We, the undersigned, being of a liberal mixture of red and sound mind and will, do hereby bequeath to the juniors the fol- lowing items.

Item: Mary Ellen Gingrich be- queathes to Louise McCoy her love of classical music.

Item: Mary Toffolo bequeathes to Margaret Cocks her proficiency in languages.

Item: Maria Carballeira be- queathes to Joan Duffin her love of baseball.

Item: Licia Toffolo bequeathes her artistic temperament to Ber- tha Neff.

Item: Jane Metcalf bequeathes to Mary Jo Bearly her love of cats.

Item: Anna Mehn bequeathes her curly hair to Rita Krekeler.
Item: Naomi Raney bequeathes to Renilda Meny.

Item: Doris Stober bequeathes to Dolores Martini a few of her choice addresses.

Item: Erna Santarossa be- queathes to Rita Hillman her favorite recipe for Italian spa- ghetti.

Item: Josephine Venezia be- queathes her collection of baby doll shoes to Betty Armstrong.

Item: Maryanna Todd be- queathes to Alma Gaden her list of Browning quotations for next year's comprehensives.

Item: Carmen de Barros be- queathes to Cecilia Mellen her accent.

Alumnae Reflect Spirit of Courage, Hope As They Work for Victory

Pervading recent letters from Marian alumnae was the ever-hopeful prayer for victory and the restoration of peace. Many former students are now carrying on war-jobs, others are filling positions vital to our ultimate victory. Still others are rearing children in a Marian-reflecting Catholic atmosphere.

Joan Neering writes that her brother, Cyril Des Jean, has seen plenty of action with the Marines in the Marshall Islands.

Doris Ann Becker's Army Air Corps brother is in Sicily. She is juggling figures in the Economic Statistics and Estimates division of Bell Telephone Company.

Since Margaret Lorey's older brothers are both in the Army, she is manager of the furniture store. It's one big job, but she loves it.

Elsa Muenster Hartz, a graduate of St. Vincent's Hospital Nurses' Training School, is mothering a baby girl, Mary Ann, five months old.

Anna Marie Cosgrove, graduated from St. Vincent's, plans to join the Army Air Corps nurses.

Mrs. Bernard Lynch reports that Angelus, with her two-year-old son, is now living in Del Mar, California, close to the base where her husband, Sergeant John D. Murphy, is an instructor.

Rosemary Thoman is stenographer for the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Indianapolis.

"D. Elizabeth Spencer, alias Betty", who received her degree of M.S.S. at the National Catholic School of Social Service in Washington, D.C., is now working at the Cincinnati Catholic Charities.

Carol Pepper, having done clerical work for the Franklin County Superintendent of Schools and for the Draft Board of the same county, is now a civilian employee of the Navy.

Mary Duffy, Rosemary Mackinaw, and Rosemary Spragg have just completed another successful year of teaching here in Indiana.

When we inquired for news about her, Betty Eckerle replied,

"You guys know as much about me as I do."

Harriet Vascon just returned from an eight-day vacation spent in Atlanta and New Orleans.

Mary M. Cox transferred from School No. 2 to School No. 38. She spent her spring vacation in Chicago.

Thelma Hines Erbacher spent her honeymoon in Chicago—Edgewater Beach Hotel. Her husband is an instructor in the Fort Harrison Finance School.

"Happy" Glaser plans to play professional softball in Milwaukee this summer. The basketball team of which she is a member played in the National tournament at St. Louis, in April.

Florence Chung, secretary to an Indianapolis lawyer, is engaged to be married.

Peggy Foltz, busy with case work at City Hospital and with home investigating, has Red Cross service as her ideal.

Mary Jane Lang, at St. Louis University this year, is changing from medical to administrative social service study.

Mary Alice Mellen has joined the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps.

Jane Quick and Gertrude Walpole are employed in defense work—Jane, as stenographer at the American Central Manufacturing Corporation in Connersville, and Gertrude, as draftsman at Allison.

Marie Seal Spellman, whose husband is in New Caledonia, is a personnel worker in the Indiana State Selective Service.

Paula Fulnecky, an Eli Lilly employee, is mourning the death of one of her two brothers in service, Lt. j.g. John R. (Sincere sympathy to Paula and her dear ones.)

Martha Lou Matthews Aull, Marietta Metcalf Penning, Mary Elizabeth Zerr Meloy, and Evelyn Owens Zakrajsek are happy homemakers.

Peggy Dillhoff is a full-fledged airline hostess.

Rose Marie Davey, secretarial employee, is at present a patient at St. Vincent's. (Here's for a full and speedy recovery.)

TEA HONORS GRADUATES

Alumnae Miss Rosemary Spragg and Miss Peggy Foltz

Graduates were honor guests performers.

at a tea given Sunday, May 21, Miss Mary Duffy, president of the Alumnae Association of the association, welcomed the seniors into the organization. The Marian College.

Father Doyle, as guest speaker, outlined the place of the alumnae in the college organization. He stressed the importance of alumnae solidarity not only with the college, but with all social groups.

A special program having "school days" as theme, was given by a selected group of juvenile

Here and There

The picnic urge is running rampant around Marian. Clare Hall-ers set out Sunday, May 14, and hiked north along White River. The juniors had a cycling picnic, Ascension Thursday. The sophomores had a big week-end May 20-21, enjoying first a buffet supper Saturday evening and then a picnic-hike Sunday morning.

Mary Jo Bearly entertained with three short readings at a program given in the Lincoln Hotel on May 10.
