Shaw named Distinguished Senior

by J.K. Cook

This past Sunday Kelly Shaw was honored with the Alumni Association Distinguished Senior Award at the Thirtieth Annual Student Achievement Program. Shaw received the award for her numerous contributions and achievements while at Marian. Besides her academic excellence, she has also contributed to the Fioretti as editor for two years and has been class president for the past three years. Shaw is listed in the Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities.

The awards program included academic, activity, and athletic awards and was opened by guest speaker William J. Loveday, President of Methodist Hospital of Indiana, Inc.

"You are the custodians of the future," said Loveday in his address to the students, parents, and faculty. He went on to explain his theory on obtaining success in life. Determination, perseverance, and integrity are some of the qualities he cited as necessary to succeed. He followed them with some advice, "Don't follow all the rules."

Academic awards, presented by Sr. Claire Whalen, O.S.F., Dean for Aca-

ademic Affairs, recognized students according to their respective majors. These areas included Accounting, Education, Nursing, and Theatre. Some of the senior recipients were Gary Dick, Catherine Carson, Mary Beth Ernst, Sharon Murphy, Shaw, Karen King, Laura Landau, Mark DeHart, Matt LaGrange, and Marcey Wisman. Numerous other students received various awards and were noted for acceptance into college honorary societies.

Following the academic section, William Woodman, Dean for Student Affairs, handed out the awards for campus activities. These included student leadership, dorm achievement awards, publications and club honors. The students recognized for being outstanding in their respective classes were: Debbie Swain, Freshman;

Shebish is planning other junior class activities besides the Spring Formal dance. "I already have a band in mind that I think everyone will like," he commented on the dance. He plans to see what other

Letters to the editor

Response to Open Forum

Open Letter to the faculty, staff, and students of Marian College:

I am writing in response to comments made at the Open Forum on Strategic Planning. Someone expressed the opinion that nursing students do not need a liberal arts education -- they are here to be trained for jobs. I strongly disagree with these views and feel the majority of the nursing faculty and students disagree as well.

Our program does prepare nurses to "get jobs." The primary component of a nurse's job is working with people. In addition to technical skills, the professional nurse needs communication and writing skills. She addresses the spiritual and psychological needs of patients and faces constant change. A solid liberal arts foundation is the only way to prepare our students for this working environment. MOST NURSING PROGRAMS RECOGNIZE THIS and require a heavy dose of liberal arts.

Perhaps some of our nursing faculty have forgotten about the foundations of their education. These faculty should take off their blinders!

ARA

As the end of the year approaches, your thoughts turn to packing and going home. Packing often takes boxes, and we would be more than happy to help supply them. Please stop by to talk to me about saving some for you, or call me at ext. 358.

As you're cleaning out your rooms as you get ready to leave, please help us out by returning any cups, silverware, or china you may have. We will be putting boxes in each dorm for you, so you won't even have to bring it all the way back to the cafe. Thank you and good luck as you study for finals.

Campus beautification

A committee was recently formed to address beautification of the Marian campus. Members include students Dan Murphy and Matt LaGrange; Ron Schmoll and Carl Kuntz of maintenance; controller Joe Ryan; Father Francis Bryan; and myself. We would like to hear from any and all members of the Marian community regarding ways to make the campus more attractive and opinions concerning which projects should be given priority.

One specific question currently under consideration is what to do with the grounds in front of Stokely. Possibilities include planting low shrubbery between the brick pillars, or installing an ornamental fence. A photograph of the fence being considered is posted on the main bulletin board. Another specific question concerns how the finish the ice house, and what color to paint it.

Please take a few minutes to share with anyone on the committee your thoughts about improving the appearance of our campus.

Open Forum comments

Message sent is frequently not message received. It seems as though my comments at the open forum meeting were misunderstood.

I will try to clarify my comments.

It is my belief that non-traditional students are an important contributing part of Marian College. Our strategic planning must integrate them into the total college and address their unique needs. These students can make valuable contributions to the college community. Likewise, the college community has much to offer these students.

Non-traditional students juggle family, employment and education. Currently some non-traditional students feel like "outsiders" when enrolled in non-nursing classes. They desire to become more a part of the whole college community.

The college is here to assist the non-traditional student in their life long learning and personal development. I strongly support a liberal arts education for nursing students. The total package is the strength of our program.

Senior profile

by Mike Kenny

A senior at Marian College, Dave Owens is a Biology/Education major. Owens is a transfer student from Indiana University. He transferred to Marian for a couple of reasons. The immensity and impersonality of a larger school were the qualities Owens did not like at I.U. He came to Marian from the good opinions he heard from friends and he wanted to be part of a close-knit community.

Owens has contributed much to the Marian athletic program. He played golf and basketball for one year and is currently the number two player on the tennis team. Being captain and winning the mental attitude award are some of his accomplishments for the team. Owens says, "With this year's talent and some good recruits, the team has a chance to win conference."

In his spare time Owens likes to work with high school age youths. He coaches tennis and basketball at Ritter High School. During the summer he is in charge of the whole city's tennis program. Owens comments, "Coaching youths will help me work with kids in the classroom by giving me a broad area of experiences with youths."

If Owens could see something changed at Marian, he would like to see a student activities center built and the student affairs office stay in Clare where it has easy access to students. Contributing to the athletic programs and talking to prospective students are ways Owens has contributed to Marian. He feels that Marian has helped him gain responsibility through athletics and the various academic fields he is studying.

To the editor:

Wisdom from Sandburg

After reading the last Senior Profile and hardly recognizing myself in print, I've had occasion to recall some wisdom in a poem by Carl Sandburg that the staff of the Carbon would do well to keep in mind:

Little girl, be careful what you say when you make talk with words, words --- for words are made of syllables, Child, are made of air --- and air is so thin -- air is the breath of God --- Air is finer than fire or mist, finer than water or moonlight, finer that water-flowers in the morning:
and words are strong, too,
stronger than rock or steel,
stronger than potatoes, corn, fish, cattle,
and soft, too, soft as pigeon eggs,
soft as the music of humming-bird wings.

So, Little Girl, when you speak greetings, when you tell jokes, make wishes or prayers,
be careful, be careless, be careful,
be what you wish to be.

Many of the words which I am reported to have said and those which were actually spoken during last week's phone interview are distinctly different. There is a lack of fidelity to the original context of each question and response in the conversation, and the hodge-podge that was printed reflects dubious journalistic skills at least and an indifference to truthful representation at worst. To illustrate: I never said that I "wanted to be nurtured after mothering my children!" I did say that I began college studies after raising three children, and (in answer to a separate question) indicated that I felt drawn to early childhood education because so many very young children are no longer being primarily nurtured at home. In another instance, a key word was omitted: 'Catholic' -- considerable time was taken in explaining my choice of Marian as a small CATHOLIC college, because I view whatever employment this degree is put to as a portion of 'vocation' -- not a concept that would mean a thing in any other than a Catholic institution.

Thankfully, there was something very accurately stated in the fact that the faculty and staff of Marian have been found to be very supportive of my non-traditional status -- otherwise my car wouldn't sport a "Marian College Cares" bumper sticker in the same company with another which says "I'd rather be reading Jane Austin!"

Lighter side

by Michael Rinard

"Get up Sally, the fire alarm just went off," said Alice.

"But that stupid fire alarm has been going off at 5 a.m. every morning for the past two weeks!" said Sally.

"Yes, but, this time it might be for real," said Alice.

"I doubt it! It is probably someone who was so drunk that they stumbled against the wall and fell on the fire alarm, or it was some deviant that gets his jollies this way," said Sally.

"But, what if it is the real thing? We can't jump out the window, we are on the fifteenth floor!" said Alice.

"Okay, I'll humor you one more time. Let's get our robes and go outside," said Sally.

As Alice and Sally descend the stairs, firemen were running up the stairs.

"Oh look," said Sally, "real firemen!"

"Yea, yea, firemen," said Alice.

When Sally and Alice were safely outside of the building, they were talking to several other campers who were routed out of a nice warm bed to be forced to stand in the nippy morning chill. Rumors were circulating as to what caused the fire alarm to go off. One rumor had that the fire alarm was triggered because water was rushing through a broken water line and the sensing mechanism of the fire alarm thought that a fire was in progress. Another rumor had it that someone left a lit candle under their couch and the couch caught fire thus, causing the fire alarm to be set off.

Still another rumor had it that a mysterious stranger pulled the fire alarm because he enjoyed watching girls dressed in their bathrobes.

Well, no one else seems to know what set off the fire alarm, but all the rumors have their moments!

Regina Garza, Sophomore; Jerry Bessler, Scott VanAlst, Lucinda Griner, Sarah Back, and Anna Gantner, Juniors; and Kelly Shaw, Senior.

The athletic portion was handled by Coach John Grimes, and was the last segment of the program. Men's and women's basketball, baseball, cross country, volleyball, and men's and women's tennis were all recognized and outstanding players received awards. The cheerleaders who supported the men's basketball team were also recognized for their efforts throughout the year.

Following the program, parents, students, faculty, and staff processed to Allison Mansion to enjoy a reception in their honor.

Kolter leaving admissions

by Dallice Hesselgrave

Brad Kolter, an Admissions Counselor, will be leaving his position to become a sales associate with Jostens, Inc.

Kolter has worked in the Admissions Office for two year and has coached the men's and women's tennis teams. He has been the assistant basketball coach for three years.

The 1987 Marian graduate believes he will miss the people he has worked with in admissions saying, "It's really hard to leave such a top class of people." Another group of people he will miss are the tennis players, "I've enjoyed working with them and wish them future success in their endeavors."

While Kolter will miss it, he is glad that he got to "work with an institution that helped me a lot." He values the things Don French, Director of Admissions, and Bret Shambaugh, Assistant Director of Admissions, taught him about professionalism and knows he will use them for the rest of his life.

Kolter has a degree in secondary education and minored in business. It is not too surprising what he majored in--both parents are involved in education. Kolter has decided recently that he would rather step into the world of business. "I'm intrigued by the business world, I love it."

Kolter is tentatively moving to Marion, Illinois.

Doyle visitation restrictions lifted

by Tina M. Kunkler

"In a meeting held Friday (April 21) morning, the Executive Committee agreed to lift the no-visitation (Guest Hours) restriction placed on Doyle Hall on Monday, April 17," said the April 21, 1989, notice to students from the Executive Committee of Marian College. The decision went into effect April 21, 1989, and will extend for the remainder of the spring semester.

On April 17, 1989, a notice went out to students which cancelled visitation for the remainder of the spring semester.

On a probationary basis, the visitation ban "could be reinstated if serious problems arise at a later date." The committee reiterated that visitation is a privilege and not a right given to students.

The other restrictions listed in the April 17 notice, increased surveillance of Doyle Hall, additional fines, and alcohol assessments, remain in effect.

The announcement concluded with this statement: "The Executive Committee was extremely pleased and encouraged by the dialogue and positive suggestions made by the students' representatives of Doyle Hall who spoke at a Thursday night meeting, April 20. The Friday morning decision was based largely on positive attitudes shown and commitments made to work together for dormitory improvements campus-wide."

Approximately 100 students attended the Thursday night meeting of Doyle Hall wing representatives with five of the eight members of the Executive Committee and Phil Bernard, Doyle Hall Resident Director. The discussion centered around student views of the April 17 notice to students and proposals for future action to remedy the problems in the dormitories.

Kenny Allison expressed concern with new rules being implemented, "We feel as if you couldn't trust the ones you already had." Other concerns voiced included punishment of the entire dorm for the actions of the guilty, the amount of vandalism on the first floor wings because of easy access during dances, other students besides Doyle residents party in the hall, cutting group study opportunities for mixed groups, lack of communication, the television set in Doyle's lounge, providing a place for students to go and activities for them, unlocked doors at night, the majority of the vandalism occurs after visitation hours, the possibility that someone may get injured, and the admissions standards of the college.

William Woodman, Dean for Student Affairs, spoke about working within the system to solve problems, "The college has set up all kinds of machinery to deal with these problems."

As one student stated at the April 20 meeting, "This is not just a Doyle Hall problem, it's a campus problem."

Henderson receives scholarship

by Bridget Sanders

Brenda Henderson is the recipient of the newly founded Indiana Dietary Association Scholarship for Incoming Freshmen. As a full-time student, a single mom of two, and a full-time employee of Westview Hospital, it is amazing that Henderson had the time to apply for a scholarship.

This scholarship, directed to incoming Dietary/Merchandising students, has very strict criteria for application. Henderson explains, "Being a freshman, having a class load of at least 12 hours, and having a G.P.A. of greater than 2.9 are only a few of the criteria looked at by the scholarship committee."

As a non-traditional student on campus, Henderson enjoys the individualized attention received from Marian College instructors. However, a common reoccurring problem for non-traditional students remains a current concern for Henderson. "The parking is really a problem for non-traditional students," she states.

As a returning student, Henderson

continues to strive for excellence and is looking forward to graduation with an Associates degree in Dietary Management in 1990.

Commencement exercises planned

by Corrine Wickens

Commencement exercises for the 1989 graduating class will be held Sunday, May 14, at 2 p.m. on the lawn of St. Francis Colonnade. Reception will follow immediately afterwards in Allison Mansion. In the case of rain, however, the ceremony will be in the gymnasium and reception in the cafeteria.

Dr. Louis C. Gatto, President of Marian College, will be the guest speaker for the afternoon's ceremonies.

Events of the day include a graduation liturgy in the college chapel at 10:15 a.m., brunch from 10:45 to 12:45, commencement exercises, and the reception.

Graduation rehearsal will be Wednesday, May 10, at 2:45 p.m. in the Physical Education Center. According to Kelly Shaw, Senior Class President, if the reception is held in Allison Mansion, the graduates will have a graduation toast. Each graduate will receive a small complementary bottle of wine and a glass to keep. If the reception is held in the cafeteria, there will be no toast.

Besides commencement exercises, 47 associate degree nursing students will participate in an additional pinning ceremony, which will be held Friday, May 12, at 7 p.m. in the Marian Hall Auditorium with a reception following at Allison Mansion. Sally Beckman, Chairperson of the Nursing Department, will present pins, and Suzanne DeWeese will speak. "There's a lot of tradition in receiving the pin," Beckman said. "It shows that the students have all the skills and all the knowledge they will need to be a professional nurse."

Donations were made by Methodist Hospital, St. Francis Hospital, alumni, William Rounstree, William Smith, and Don Marsh of Marsh Foods donated all the food.

Ecumenical service held

by Dallice Hesselgrave

On Monday, April 24, 1989 the last of three ecumenical services this year was held. Donna Proctor spoke to those gathered.

The typical service includes the following: hymns (both from a choir and from congregation), two scripture readings and one short talk. Services usually last a half an hour.

The purpose of the ecumenical services according to Fr. Francis Bryan are to "provide opportunities for people of all different religious backgrounds to pray together." This year the services were only aimed at the Marian College community.

Coordinators were pleased with the turnout, although they hope as time goes on, more will be interested.

Next year, an ecumenical service will be held for the surrounding community, including local churches and colleges. It will be held on Sunday, October 8 at 6:30 p.m. with a reception afterwards. More services will be held for Marian College, but they are still in the planning stages.

The ecumenical movement began in the 1960's throughout the Catholic community. The move was intended to unite Christians of all faiths. At first, enthusiasm was great, but it dropped off over the years. Now it seems the fire is starting to rekindle. Christian Theological Seminary holds one ecumenical service each year and students from Marian have been sent to ecumenical conferences over the last few years.

Bryan explained that the services are becoming important as more Protestant students enter Marian.

Because the ecumenical committee is trying to orchestrate services that will not threaten or offend anyone, all suggestions and comments are welcomed. Please give suggestion or comments to Bryan or leave them in the Campus Ministry Room on the first floor of Clare Hall.

Baseball continues successful season

by Jeff Redenbaugh

The Marian College Baseball team continued their successful season with victories over Goshen College; a split with Wabash College; and a sweep of Grace College and Manchester College.

In the Manchester games, the Knights spotted the Spartans a 4-1 lead and came back and won the game 5-4. In the second game, the Knights were down to their last of being 10-runned (13-2), but Garland King hit a tremendous home run; his eleventh of the season; to start the come back. The Knights scored eight runs in the sixth inning and three runs in the seventh inning to take the game 14-13.

With these victories the Knights' record stands at 30-8.

Golf reaches 18th hole

The Marian College Golf Team heads into the last week of the season with a 12-14 record and fourth place in the MCC Conference. This has been accomplished mainly through the efforts of three loyal and dedicated golfers: Sophomore Rob Kirchoff, and Freshmen Chris Beard and Gary Sheffer.

Of the thirty individual golfers in the Conference, this trio ranks in the upper half: Beard #9, Sheffer #11, and Kirchoff #15.

Since two players dropped off of the squad last week and Mark Wisman removed himself from play late Friday afternoon, the trio were unable to play at Bethel and improve their ranking.

However, with a couple of players from the reserve squad, all are ready to improve our Conference ranking Thursday at Goshen and Saturday at Grace.

New MCSA team holds first meeting

by Tina M. Kunkler

The newly elected Marian College Student Association Executive Board held its first meeting on April 18, 1989.

President Bill Pedtke called the meeting to order at 9:05 p.m. with six members and Sr. Jean Gabriel Jones, O.S.F., advisor, present. Cori Collings represented the former MCSA board.

Jim Meer, treasurer, reported an opening balance of $5999.58 in the MCSA account. The board account has a balance of $936.07.

Topics of discussion included the MCSA Constitution, copies of which were distributed; a proposed set of standing rules to regulate procedures; the cancellation of visitation in Doyle Hall; committee openings on College Council; board members presence at Freshmen Orientation, Dr. Gatto Appreciation

Day; and formulation of a set of goals for the board. Pedtke stated in his opening comments, "One thing that is going to be our job is to get people to care." He hopes to establish a list of goals before the beginning of next year.

The standing rules were discussed and tabled until the next meeting because no quorum was present.

A statement was formed by the executive officers of the board to be read at the April 20 meeting of Doyle Hall residents and the Executive Committee of the college. It stated that the officers "do not condone vandalism," disagree with the unilateral punishment handed down, and "hope that the Executive Committee will reconsider its actions."

Scott Van Alst reported on the junior class's progress with the Spring Formal.

class members would like to do and see that they get done but said, "I'm going to ask for all the help we can get."

Verbrugge comments on the sophomore class activities, "We're going to try to put together a good dance, and we're going to talk to some females for their input since we are all males." He listed overall campus improvement as a long-term goal, including the student activities center and lights on the tennis court.

Students plan study and work abroad

by Kimberly Blair

This summer and next fall some Marian College students will be travelling and studying abroad.

Barb Crock and Michelle Scheidt will be going to Guaymas, Mexico. They will be working in a Franciscan mission volunteering their services in a soup kitchen, building a new church, reorganizing a barrio, teaching English, and running homeless shelters. Crock and Scheidt will be leaving for Mexico on May 24th and return July 28, 1989. Sister Roseanne Taylor will be joining them in Guaymas, Mexico, for a month to teach English.

Junior Lisa Kaufman and sophomore Claudine Elzey will be going to Monteverde, Costa Rica to study biology and Spanish for eight weeks. The program is Council on International Education Exchange (CIEE). They will be in class five days a week from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. The weekends are free for Kaufman and Elzey to tour Costa Rica at their leisure.

Kenny Richards, a junior, will be going abroad to Buenos Aires, Argentina. While there he will be visiting his girlfriend and her family. Richards will also practice his Spanish. This is his second trip to Argentina. On his first trip, Richards took classes and also worked in his girlfriend's family's factory. His second trip will last three months, starting May 24th. Also traveling to Argentina will be alumnus Mary Dugar.

Kent Cook, a sophomore, will be spending his junior year in France and Wales. He will be studying French in Paris at Sorbonne University. He will be in Paris from October to February. For the next leg of his studies, Cook will go to Wales and attend Trinity College in Carmarthen. While there he will study history, political science, and other electives. He will participate in a Soviet Studies class which will travel to Lenin-grad and Moscow.

For other students interested in study abroad, see Sister Roseanne Taylor in the Foreign Language Department. She is in charge of the Study Abroad program here at Marian College.

Services to the employer include: listing in our directory, pre-screening applicants and arranging interviews. Our services are at no cost to the college student. However, we cannot afford to waste our time and resources on those who are not serious about finding quality summer employment. The costs of producing and sending the directories alone (they are the size of a telephone book) are very high. This is why we must request $5 to help cover the costs of each directory and set of application materials we send out. If you are unable to find a summer position suitable to your needs and interests, you can return them for a full refund. If you do accept a position, under a listing agreement with MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP, the employer will refund the $5 on your first paycheck.

This is an excellent opportunity to "taste" your career interests in the real world before completing a degree. Take advantage of the shrinking pool of educated workers. Earn while you learn this summer. Flexible jobs to fit your vacation schedule. All jobs provide great pay and benefits. (Companies are allowed sizeable tax credits for hiring college students over the summer.) So, what will it be? Fast food five or Fortune 500? The choice is yours.

Don't procrastinate, this can be a very important and valuable summer for you. Please direct all inquiries to our processing center in Illinois. Send your name, current school address, home address, and $5 (refundable) to:

MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP
Indiana Applications Dept.
Oak Brook Center, Box 954
Oak Brook, IL 60522-954

Make check or money order payable to MIDWEST SUMMER CO-OP.

Directory and application materials will be sent out to you by express mail the same day we receive your request. Please, no phone calls until after you have looked through the directory and know which positions you are interested in. A directory listing thousands of summer positions in Illinois is also available. Send requests to the Illinois Applications Dept. at the same address above.

Sisters retire from English department

by Laura Horner

Two Marian College Sisters of St. Francis will be retiring from full-time teaching at the close of the 1988-1989 academic year.

After thirty five years of service to Marian College, Sr. Rose Mary Schroeder is retiring. Since 1983, she has been the campus ministry coordinator and has worked part-time in the English Department.

Sr. Rose Mary came to Marian in 1951, when it was not yet coeducational. "I have seen many changes in Marian over the years. It has grown quite a bit," said Sister Rose Mary. Before 1983, she taught various English classes. Now she dedicates her time to Campus Ministry.

Sr. Rose Mary's decision to retire came when a request was made for volunteers to go to Guaymas, Mexico. Her work there will include helping homeless women, teaching English, or whatever else needs to be done there. She leaves in September and will be in Guaymas indefinitely. She also feels a younger person in Campus Ministry with new ideas will be more effective. She said, "I will miss the people of Marian the most. I have come to know many faculty members and students over the years."

Next semester Sister Adele Zahn begins part-time work. She will teach an honors class in mythology, along with Sister Olga Wittekind. Sister Adele has been at Marian for thirty-six years. During that time she has been Dean of Women, when Marian was not yet coeducational; taught French; been Academic Dean for eight years; and now teaches Humanities.

Indianapolis City Center

One of the best places to refresh your familiarity with Indianapolis is the Indianapolis City Center located in Pan American Plaza.

The City Center provides over 300 brochures free-of-charge. The "On-the-Town" calendar is printed bi-monthly, providing information about current events and activities in the Indianapolis area.

The new City Center also has a ticket booth to get tickets for cultural and sporting events being held throughout the City. Coming soon to the Center is a life-like model of downtown Indianapolis. It charts the progress of Indianapolis growth on an ongoing basis and also serves as a guide to the many "hotspots" in the downtown area.

Keeping in tune with the video age, an informational kiosk will give visitors information through the wonder of an easy-to-use computer. Lastly, a 63-seat, fully-automated auditorium is now available for educational programs, news conferences, and community programs.

Open 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, the City Center also has extended hours during some special events.

Review

by Russell Fox

There is an English band by the name of XTC that you all should hear about if you have not already. Since their recording career began in 1977, they have consistently churned out great music. They have worked with such outstanding producers as Hugh Padgham, "Mutt" Lange, Todd Rundgren, and Martin Rushent; and their studio work is as inventive and engaging as British pop has ever been. "Oranges and Lemons" is XTC's new album and it is the finest collection of the band's enormous talents to date.

XTC's main singer/songwriter, Andy Partridge, has proven himself among the elite of English pop tunesmiths. Difford and Tillbrook, Elvis Costello, and Joe Jackson are his colleagues. He leads off the album with "Garden of Earthly Delights" a seeming extension of the band's flowery previous release, the gorgeous "Skylarking." Partridge sings of political ignorance on "Here Comes President Kill Again," of the joys of fatherhood on the rollicking "Pink Thing," of the dangers of close-mindedness and inactivity on the country tinged "Scarecrow People," and throughout expresses sentiments that sound like that of your average, articulate, post-new wave hippie.

Colin Moulding, the band's other songwriter, does his best lyrical work so far. His contributions offer a sharp contrast to Partridge's. The pessimism of "One of the Millions," "Cynical Days" and "King for a Day" provide a rather sad picture of life in the eighties. Moulding also shows why he is one of the finest bass players in music today.

And there is Dave Gregory, who is simply a musical genius. His guitar work ranges from fierce to fluid, and his lovely layered keyboards are tasty and thoroughly effective. Such instrumental prowess used in the innovative songcraft that has been XTC's trademark is another indication of why they are one of the most valuable bands of our time.

For those who appreciate integrity and talent and have as much trouble finding it in the world of pop/rock as I do, XTC's "Oranges and Lemons" is a mandatory addition to your collection. Trust me, it is a classic, a real masterpiece and it is in record stores now.
