Elections held last Friday gave the Student Board presidency to Mary Johnson and the position of Secretary of the Student Board to Nancy Carrier. Other candidates were Mike Brown and Pete Method for president and Jody Peloza and Judy Pille for secretary.

The Student Board will submit nominees for the offices of vice-president and treasurer this week. In keeping with the Student Association's constitution, the new vice-president must be a male student.

Intercollegiate Chemistry Symposium Features Library, Research Papers

Albertus Magnus Chemistry Symposium will convene at Marian, Sunday, May 3, 1-5 p.m. Polytechnical Institute, Terre Haute, April 10-11.

Participants, presenting 15 library and research papers, will include students from: Butler University; Xavier University and Mount St. Joseph College, Cincinnati; Villa Madonna College, Covington, Ky.; Catherine Spaulding and Ursuline Colleges, Louisville.

Marian's contribution to the program of 15 papers anticipated will be: "Compounds of the Noble Gases" by Arthur Jonas; "The Bile Acids of the American Opossum" by Jane Ying; "The Preparation of Isonipecotonitrile" by Joseph Hutchinson, and "The Effects of Smoke on the Uptake of Iodine-125 by the Thyroid in the Rat" by Donna Tatroe.

The symposium, originally centered in Cincinnati, is marking its tenth anniversary.

Jane Ying's paper received an honorable mention award at the ACS-SA Regional meeting at Rose

Advisory Board Elects Officers

At its spring meeting, April 14, the Advisory Board elected the following officers for the 1964-65 year: Mr. Mark Gross, president; Mr. Frank J. Travers, vice-president; and Mrs. Joseph L. Ritter, secretary.

Addressing the members, Monsignor Reine detailed the 1964-65 financial operations budget and reviewed progress since the purchase of the 30-acre Stokely estate.

Statistics on enrollment for next fall were also presented. Freshman acceptances recorded by April 1, 1964, totaled 226, an increase of 75 per cent over last year's record for the same date. This, however, according to Sister Mary Rachel, registrar, must be at least partly attributed to the trend toward earlier registration by all high school seniors.

'Brigadoon' Boasts Cast of 60

The magical Scottish village of Brigadoon, which has the perplexing habit of disappearing for 100 years at a time, will materialize on Marian's campus May 8 and 10 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The spirit of Brigadoon has been captured by the musical comedy team of Lerner and Lowe in a play that has been successful in New York and Hollywood.

Two Americans are accidentally enveloped in this village on a day when it is appearing after a 100-

Cornerstone Sets Campus Growth

Marian College formally unfolds its South Campus in the coupled events of open house for the new Music Building and cornerstone setting for the new men's residence hall, Sunday, May 3.

The cornerstone ceremonies, scheduled for 3 p.m., will be directed by Rt. Rev. Monsignor Francis J. Reine, college President, in the absence of Archbishop Schulte. Rt. Rev. Cornelius Sweeney, Chancellor of the Archdiocese, will bless and set the cornerstone. Rt. Rev. John J. Doyle, chaplain, will assist.

Invitations are being extended to civic officials. Dr. Thomas P. Carney, member of the Advisory Board and vice-president of Research Development and Control of Eli Lilly, will deliver the official address.

The first wing of the three-story Norman-type tan brick structure is scheduled for completion by September.

From 1:30-4:30 visitors may tour the new music building in an atmosphere of soft music. Mr. Ronald J. Schmitt, of Schmitt Music Co., will play a Conn organ.

Miss Victoria Montani, well-known Indianapolis harpist and harp instructor, will furnish additional background music.

Refreshments will be served.

Monsignor Reine wishes to extend a special invitation to all students, faculty, and college staff members to attend the historic event.

'Lilac Time' Colors Setting for Prom In Marble Garden

"Lilac Time" is the theme of the annual Junior-Senior Prom, Saturday, May 9, at the Marott Hotel. The dance will be in the Marott's Marble Room, which is decorated in lilac. Larry Liggett and his orchestra will furnish the music.

Juniors may vote for the prom queen May 4, in room 204. Sister Augustine will count the ballots and the winner will be announced at the dance. Candidates are: Bonnie Johnson, Jo Ann Lauck, Dianne Lenarz, Beth Sutherland, and Mary Margaret Turk.

May Crowning Honors College Patroness

The traditional May Crowning and all-school dedication to Mary is scheduled for Monday, May 4, in the main college chapel, prior to the 11:30 Mass.

Sally Myers, prefect of the Sodality, will place the floral crown at the feet of Our Lady's statue. In the crowning party will be the remaining officers: Judith Dill, vice-prefect; Caron Cousins, secretary; and David Mader, treasurer.

A short homily will precede the crowning.

The Men's Schola will take part in the congregational singing.

12 Outstanding Seniors Receive National Honors

Three national Catholic honor societies will accept new members after a 9 o'clock Mass and breakfast for seniors, May 7, Ascension Thursday. The Mass and breakfast will be attended by the faculty and by alumni members of the honors societies.

Delta Epsilon Sigma, honoring students who have achieved the highest scholarship during their four years of college, will induct the following: David Armbrorst, Donna Tatroe, Patricia Felke, Barbara Franz, Robert Hensel, David Mader, Phyllis Palmer, and Thomas Steiner.

Kappa Gamma Pi, honoring women students who have attained a 2.6 general average and have demonstrated strong community leadership ability, will induct the following: Marian Rivas, Patricia Felke, Donna Tatroe, Jane Ying, and Jeanne Vigue.

Delta Mu Theta, recognizing outstanding achievement in music combined with an overall average of at least 2. will induct Jeanne Vigue.

Earlier, May 2, Donna Tatroe and Caron Cousins will be formally admitted to Iota Sigma Pi, national chemistry honor society, in ceremonies at Purdue.

NFCCS President Explains Program

Ollie Barber, Ohio Valley NFCCS regional president, will address an assembly here, Thursday, April 30, at 10:30 a.m. He will also confer with any interested persons during his day-long stay.

Mr. Barber is the outgoing president. He will discuss the national and regional organizations and the relationships which exist between them and the campus group. He will also tell how NF

Jeanne Vigue Presents Senior Recital in May

Pianist Jeanne Vigue will play selected works ranging from baroque Bach to contemporary Poulenc for her recital, May 17. She has studied piano since she was six. Her program will fulfill a partial requirement for a B.A. degree with a major in music.

A senior, Jeanne has accompanied the Men's Glee Club and sung with the Mellotones and Bel Canto for three years. She has also played for the musicals the last two years and will portray the female lead in Brigadoon next month.

Active in other fields, Jeanne has served as NFCCS delegate and student board member for three years. She is also a participant in the honors program.

The program is as follows:

Sonatine	Ravel
Reflections on the Water	Debussy
Ballad in G minor	Chopin
Toccata	Poulenc
Allegro Barbaro	Bartok
Sonata Pathetique
First Movement	Beethoven
Italian Concerto
Third Movement	Bach

VILLAGE WELL is readied by players, Judy Pille (l.) and Charlotte Van Noy. Director Robert Moran contributes to progress from inside the well.

Producing Brigadoon is the joint effort of Sister Vivian Rose, O.S.F., head of the music department, and Mr. Robert Moran, drama professor.

"Brigadoon is a fantasy, thereby giving the director freedom to experiment with boldly theatrical effects," commented Mr. Moran.

The cast includes: Michael Cancelli, Jack O'Hara, Charlotte Van Noy, Michael Hughes, Patricia Ahern, Jeanne Vigue, Bonnie Johnson, Gene Damm, Mike Roell, Peter Thoman, and Judith Mollaun.

Approximately 40 other students are involved in the musical, taking part as singers or dancers.

RECITALIST JEANNE VIGUE rehearses Bach.

Realize Necessity of Choosing Qualified Leaders

It's spring, when young men's (and women's) fancies turn to thoughts of —elections. Once again, it is time for campaign speeches, posters, and friendly smiles.

Each candidate predicts that next year at Marian will be even better than ever if he is elected. Indeed, with the new men's dorm, things do seem to be looking up. With its coming many unprecedented situations and problems will undoubtedly arise. Because of this, it is imperative that the most qualified and competent persons be chosen for office.

Marian students owe it to themselves and to the school to carefully weigh the merits of each candidate for every office. Check for leadership qualities of responsibility, dependability, ability to work with and to get along with others.

The students who are elected will be representing all of us next year. They will be making decisions which will affect the future of Marian College, as well as each of us personally.

One must think before he votes. It is necessary to decide, by talking with the candidates, checking their platforms, and, most important of all, considering their past performance.

When students have done this and have selected the candidate who can best represent them and their views, they should cast their vote for him.

Students should keep in mind that each member of the Student Board possesses an equal vote. For this reason all candidates, even those for minor offices, should be carefully considered in order to select the best qualified.

Life Begins at 400?

Probably everyone has heard the expression: "Life begins at 40." The other day we heard that "Life begins at 400." This could be in reference to only one person—William Shakespeare. For it was 400 years ago this week that he was born—at least we know that he was baptized April 26, 1564.

It is certainly erroneous to imply, however, that he has been relatively "dead" all these years, and that he has only recently been discovered. It is the renewed interest in him and his works, during this quadricentennial year, which lends truth to the expression.

The late President Kennedy appointed a special Shakespeare Anniversary Committee to commemorate the Bard's birth. A sudden interest in performing his plays is evident by the number of repertoire groups, civic leagues, and college theatres which offer Shakespearean drama this season. New biographies have only recently been published.

All this is fitting. For truly William Shakespeare was one of the greatest playwrights who ever lived. His power to create characters who are immortal and who live today mainly because we are able to see something of ourselves in them is a wonderful talent.

And what is Marian College doing to pay tribute to this great master of drama? Nothing, at least nothing in the immediate future, we are sorry to report. What a pity! A considerable number of our faculty members are in the English or speech and theatre departments. This year's Shakespeare class is unusually large. In view of this, it would seem that there would be enough interest on this campus for at least a special lecture, if not a reading of one of Shakespeare's plays.

Marian students who wish to recognize this anniversary must go elsewhere. As far as Marian is concerned, life does not even begin at 400. How many years will it take?

Sympathy

Students and faculty extend deepest sympathy:

- to Charles Federle, junior, on the death of two brothers, April 4.
- to Beverly Nelson, senior, on the death of her father, April 7.
- to Bill Davidson, junior, on the death of his father, April 13.

'Little Foxes': A Critical View

Reviewed by Tom Widner

Regina Hubbard Giddens has a simple problem. She wants money—as much of it as she can get with as little effort as is necessary. She has two brothers, Ben and Oscar Hubbard. The three of them vie for a wealth which is falling into their hands. Sometimes they stick together. Sometimes they fight each other. According to Lillian Hellman who authored their story, it is for these people that the 20th century was opened. This is the century of greed.

Under the direction of Sister Mary Jane, the story of the Hubbards was retold by a very talented cast in the recent production of The Little Foxes. Undoubtedly one of the best productions ever presented at Marian, the play brought several students into the limelight. As Regina, Mary Ann Drew acutely caught the cold, unemotional nature of the scheming villainess, Kathie McCarthy, as Birdie, evoked compassion and sympathy for the woman driven to drink and the brink of insanity by a husband and family who desired only her wealth. Particularly noteworthy was Ed Schaefer, in the role of Ben, the older brother who heads the Hubbard clan.

Despite its fine qualities the production did reveal a few flaws. Pacing was much too slow. A couple of sequences in which there was little action but a great deal of sitting down seemed to drag endlessly. Interpretation tended to be melodramatic, both in some characters and in the play itself, yet the author is clearly dramatizing a tragedy; for she is portraying what she considers to be the tragedy of this century.

Tutoring, Possible Solution to Dropout Problem

by Pete Method

All of us are well enough aware of the drop-out problem to know that it is serious. Still, the closer we look at the situation, the more startling it becomes. For instance, did you know that more than 22% of the total enrollment of one of the high schools in Indianapolis dropped out during the school year 1962-63? And that over half of those dropped out during their freshman year?

In view of the fact that employment is demanding more and better education for ordinary laborers, the effect of such a large percentage of high school dropouts can be the cause of an even greater rise in unemployment than we see today.

For this reason we, the youth of America must be willing to help ourselves and the members of our generation. By helping to ease the dropout problem, we will help those who would be unemployed because of a lack of education, and we will be protecting ourselves in the future.

There has been a program initiated in Chicago, New York, and other cities where by America's youth help one another.

This is a program of tutoring potential high school dropouts by college students. The Flanner House of Indianapolis, under the direction of Mr. James Churchill is about to launch a similar program here. It is to be organized for the last month of the current school year, and will continue next September when school resumes.

This tutoring system will be completely voluntary on the part of the student and on the part of the tutor.

Each student who wants help in a particular subject fills out an application. He is interviewed to make sure that he wants the service, and is assigned to a particular tutor. The two meet twice a week for an hour at each session, at a place convenient to both. The meetings are in informal surroundings, perhaps a lounge or seminar room.

The tutor should be willing to listen to any problems the tutee might have, not necessarily having to do with the subject in which the tutee needs help, or even having to do with school. In many cases, the student's difficulties in school are a result of influences outside school. Just dis-

Greetings from our new home! This issue of the Phoenix marks another first. This is the first issue to be published in the new publications building, affectionately referred to, by at least one editor, as Jochim Hall (the former music studio, to our less-journalistically-minded readers).

Moving is nothing new to the Phoenix; this is the fourth home it has had during its 27 years. In its infancy, our favorite bird lived in what had been Mr. Allison's dark room—the present men's shower room off the swimming pool. Leaving this nest, the Phoenix flew, in 1949, to what is now the coaches' room, outside the Mixed Lounge. In 1954 it soared to new heights—all the way up to the third floor of the administration building.

Perhaps there is something of an aquatic nature in our bird. His present home is on the lakeside with a beautiful view of the peninsula.

The Home Ec Club's Style Show proved that one needn't have a lot of money to be stylish and smart looking. Over 60 outfits, made by extremely talented Marian Maids, were shown. Ranging from tennis wear to evening gowns, the clothing spanned the four seasons. To prove that nice clothes need not be costly, one girl modeled a dress made from a remnant. Total cost: less than $2.50.

FYI

Should the administration require all students to make a religious retreat? We think not. We're not against retreats, by any means. We think that they are wonderful. We also feel, however, that to compel us to make one is going too far. Much better to encourage and make the opportunity available. The realization that one is making a retreat because he wants to, rather than because he has to, puts one in a better frame of mind to begin with, and it results in a much better retreat.

cussing them with another person, whom he can trust, might help a great deal.

The object of this program is to give the potential dropout confidence in his abilities and a desire to better himself by completing his secondary education if that is possible, or by choosing valuable courses in high school if he is unable to graduate.

Here at Marian College, the tutoring program has been discussed in SEA meetings and by the students present at the Coffee Hour, April 13. Several students have expressed a desire to take part in the program.

Sister Mary Giles, head of the education department, has proposed a training clinic for those interested in this work. She has also received application forms from Flanner House, for the prospective tutors to fill out. The tutoring program is a special project of the SEA, but anyone is welcome to participate.

Sponsors of the program do not pretend that it will eliminate dropouts. But perhaps it can help to increase the chances of those entering high school to graduate.

Fr. Ajamie Enjoys Bi-ritual Privilege

Father Albert Ajamie, chairman of the theology department, recently requested and received permission to celebrate the liturgy in the Melkite Rite. The Sacred Congregation of Oriental Rites granted him the bi-ritual privilege for a period of three years.

Father Ajamie pointed out the benefits of his permission. Catholics of the Eastern Rite can now attend Mass in their own rite. Latin Rite Catholics have the opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the Byzantine Rite. Orthodox Christians in the area are enabled to attend services in a rite similar to their own.

Four other priests in the Indianapolis archdiocese who hold the bi-ritual right, are instructors at St. Meinrad Seminary, where Father Ajamie will study this summer.

Discussing the principal differences between the Latin and Melkite Rites, Father commented, "This rite has an awe about it. There is more singing of hymns, which are simple enough for the congregation to learn."

"The Eastern Rite follows a seasonal calendar," he continued; "that means there is no set liturgical color for the vestments, and the liturgy centers more on Christ and His life than does the Latin Rite."

Retired Teachers Leave Amounts Totalling $27,000

Marian is the recipient of two bequests.

Miss Elizabeth Curran, 89, of Indianapolis, who died Oct. 2, 1963, designated $7,000 as the college share of her estate. A native of Indianapolis and a retired public school teacher, Miss Curran was a member first of St. Patrick's parish and later of Sts. Peter and Paul Cathedral.

Dr. Margaret A. Marshall, 80, a retired teacher and psychologist, who died Dec. 14, 1961, included the college as one of eight Catholic institutions and organizations to receive specified percentages of her $239,000 estate. Marian's approximate share will be $20,000.

Dr. Marshall, also a member of Sts. Peter and Paul Cathedral parish, donated the furniture for the curriculum library in 1960.

November Elections Subject of Debate

"Resolved: That the Republican Party should be returned to national power in 1964" is the topic which will be debated by the Marian Debate Society at 10:30 a.m., Thursday, April 30.

Debating on the affirmative side will be Robert Campbell and Clement Richards; on the negative James Johnson and Frank Hogan.

Moderator of the event will be Dennis Mercier. Mr. Robert Moran, speech and theatre department, and Mr. James Divita, history department, are judges.

All Marian students are invited to attend.

Marian Arranges New Archdiocesan CSMC Week-end

Marian was the site of the Archdiocesan Conference of CSMC the week-end of April 24-26. About 300 students from 15 Catholic high schools and St. Mary-of-the-Woods and Marian College attended.

The convention, which was the first of this kind for the CSMC, was an attempt to get unified mission spirit in the archdiocese, according to Sister Margaret Ann, sponsor of the organization at Marian.

Friday evening the group attended the Spring Concert of the Marian College Chorale and a mixer.

Saturday's activities included a general business meeting, panel discussions on aspects of mission life, a banquet, and semi-formal dance. Mass and brunch on Sunday were followed by election of officers at a closing meeting.

The 'Inside' Story of Classrooms Told by Typical Student Teachers

by Carol Hase

Have you ever wondered how the classroom looks from the other side of the desk? Some of the 36 student teachers on Marian's education program have contributed "inside" story of teaching.

Mary Ann Gaynor found that patience, in barrels, is indispensable at the fourth-grade level.

Loretta Matrejek saw results when she tried to create a stimulating environment for her third graders.

Donna Frerick testified to the importance of enough rest for the new first-grade teacher. "Teaching is physically and mentally exhausting."

Theresa Catellier underscored the essential role of daily, careful planning.

Al Kreutzjens, after piloting three Latin classes, appreciates "the need for flexibility and durability in a teacher."

Dianne Lenarz, clothing instructor, profited most from the advice, "to give your smile to the unlovely and the unloved."

Theresa Meyer experienced a minor shock while preparing her Spanish class to watch a television lesson—the TV teacher walked into the room to observe her class.

Jim McMahon found a thrill in challenging his mathematics students to give their best.

Beverly Hilby expected less than she received from her English students.

Betty Talley, also in English, emphasized that a teacher can never know his subject too well.

Stephen Noone has "gained an insight into the minds of adolescents." He feels that the practical experience revealed his capabilities and limitations as a prospec-

Quantity Cookery Course Offers Training, Insight

CULINARY ARTISTS Terry Tehrany, Julia Zauss, Lillie Moore, Dianne Lenarz, and Mary Jo Boyle inspect the bread and rolls they have prepared for Riley Hospital patients.

In a recent interview with Sister Miriam Clare, head of the food and nutrition division of the home economics department, quantity cookery was defined as "the preparation of food, in quantity for institutional food services such as: hospitals, college food services, restaurants, and tea rooms." For students planning to be dietitians, quantity cookery is a basic preparation and requirement of the American Dietetic Association.

Five Marian students enrolled in this course are doing laboratory work in the dietary department of Riley Hospital, part of the IU Medical Center. They are: Mary Jo Boyle, Dianne Lenarz, Lilli Moore, Terry Tehrany, and Julia Zauss.

Under the supervision of three staff dietitians, students are preparing distinct parts of the menu for the evening meal, and, through rotation of assignments, securing general experience. Experimental menu planning, determination of the cost of the prepared food, serving food to the patients, and possibly purchasing for quantity purposes are also part of the work.

Summarizing the program's purpose and usefulness, Sister Miriam Clare commented: "I think it certainly gives the students some insight into the planning, organization, and supervision involved in the preparation of high quality foods in quantity."

"Let us tonight be bounteous at our meal."

Dr. Ray Dutcher, Noted Virologist, To Speak Here

As part of the Visting Biologist Program of the American Institute of Biological Science, Dr. Ray M. Dutcher, head of the virology department at South Jersey Medical Research Foundation, Camden, N.J., will be on campus April 29 and 30.

Six lectures, open to all students and faculty members, are scheduled. High school teachers of science and biology are also invited to attend "The Tissue Culture Story" at 4 p.m., Thursday.

Professional persons from Indiana University Medical School and local pharmaceutical corporations will be in attendance Thursday evening at 8 p.m. for the "The Etiology of Bovine Leukemia."

The complete schedule will be posted on the main bulletin board.

The principal aim of the Visiting Biologists Program, co-sponsored by the National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission, is to cultivate greater interest in biological careers. Each speaker is a scientist in his own right.

Twelve Exhibit Art on Packages

Twelve art students, under the direction of Sister M. Dolorita, have entered the Fifth Annual Collegiate Packaging Design Competition sponsored by St. Regis Paper Co.

Representing the Advertising Layout, Lettering, and Fashion Illustration classes, the competitors are: Stanley Scherr, Sandi Mivec, Kathleen McCarthy, Peggy Mader, Nora Fitzpatrick, Kathy Kiley, Marie Depasse, Patarka Korbly, Mary Anne Barothy, Sandi Ritter, Kitty Tung, and Sister Mary de Paul. They submitted designs for the paper plates, bread wrappers, sugar and flour bags, and a cookie box.

Winners will be announced in May.

Knights' Tale • Sports Editor
Bob Hensel

Spring's the season, baseball's the game, and 21 Marian Knights have sallied forth to fend for honor on the dusty diamond in Marian's version of our national pastime.

ALTHOUGH we don't want to appear overly optimistic so early in the season, a hard core of returning lettermen and a bright crop of freshmen rookies make the prospects for this year's action anything but dim. Indeed, the chances of bettering 1963's record of 5 wins, 16 losses are excellent.

Mainstays this year are expected to be: Chuck Federle, Harry Sanders, Tom Bubb, Ron Strange, Bob Canallas, Tom Alsop, Fred Carr, Larry Zimmerman, Tony Ardizzone, and Lester Weiss.

Chuck, a left-hander, pitched about half the time last season and walked away with four games to his credit. Sophomore, Harry Sanders, another southpaw hurler, led the team in hitting with a sizzling .329 average. Coach Cleon Reynolds expects big things from them this year.

While the plans generally call for the veterans to carry most of the weight, freshman Rick Malad started the season at Shortstop. If Rick's pre-college credentials and his batting performance thus far this year can be considered indicative of his ability, he'll prove a most valuable asset to our Knights.

IN SIZING UP this season's outlook, we here at the sports desk also note that Coach Reynolds is no Johnny-come-lately to the game of baseball although his name has been associated more with the hardwood than with the diamond. He played high school baseball at Terre Haute Wiley and college ball at Butler and had been active as a coach until he decided to devote his full attention to basketball nine years ago.

Here's wishing our boys all the luck in the world and a winning season.

Baseball Team Stands 1-3;
Federle, Essling Star

by John Ford

Faced with a 17 game schedule against some of the better college baseball teams in Indiana, Marian has started the season with a ball club strong in some departments, while noticeably weak in others. The biggest gap that Coach Reynolds has to fill is that of hitting. After four games, the team's average works out to .114, or approximately five hits per game.

IN THE OPENING double-header of the season, the Knights bowed twice to the visitors from Hanover 5-3, 7-2.

The Reynoldsmen traveled next to Terre Haute for another twin-bill, this time with the Engineers of Rose Poly. Our boys copped the first game 4-2 but turned around and dropped the next, 12-6. The scheduled game with Villa Madonna was rained out, so with four games under their belts our Knights stand 1-3.

Jack Essling is currently leading the team in the batting race, sporting a .600 average. Following not too closely, is Harry Sanders, last year's batting whiz, with a .333.

SOUTHPAW HURLER Chuck Federle is off to a fine start this season. It's a little early to talk about win-loss records, but Chuck's earned-run average so far is a low, low 1.73. The Knights' other southpaw moulder, Harry Sanders, holds a 3.75 ERA.

The opening losses could be attributed to the inclement pre-season weather which afforded only four outdoor practices before the first game. With continued good weather—and good luck—the Knights should be able to look forward to a fairly decent season.

THE KNIGHTS have only six home games left to play this year, so those of you who haven't yet had the chance to see your ball club in action had better get with it.

Good Sports-Keeping

Each year one day is set aside for Marian students to close the books and enjoy the spring weather, picnicking and participating in various games.

Field Day, sponsored by the Student Board and organized by the Booster Club, M-Club, and WARA, is a popular tradition at Marian.

Variety aptly describes the types of games offered. The egg-throwing contest, three-legged race, tricycle race, and cross country are only a few of the games annually enjoyed. Participants share their fun with the amused spectators who secretly chuckle at the thought of that delicate egg splashing over some unfortunate friend.

Competition is high with each student hoping to gain points for his class. Awards of $25, $15, and $5 are offered the highest scoring classes respectively.

Knight Netters
Open Season
With Slow Start

Marian's tennis season got off to a shaky start this spring with the Knight netters dropping their first three games to powerful foes from St. Joseph's, Rose Poly, and Indiana State.

The Knights opened this year's action against St. Joseph's to the tune of a 6-1 defeat. Bill Donis captured the only Marian win of the day in a singles match, scoring 6-1, 6-2. St. Joe experience and, perhaps, the cold, windy weather which severely limited the Knights' pre-season practice time, told the tale.

Sophomore Larry Ramsey led Marian's effort against Rose Poly, winning his singles competition 6-4, 6-1. The Knights, however, lost to the Engineers, 6-1, in spite of his win and strong performances from Donis, George Gencenser, and Jim Kalin.

The meet with Indiana State saw the Knights tumble, 7-0. Bill Donis again put up a game fight with a 6-2, 4-6, 8-6 series, but Sycamore might carried the day.

Optimism prevails, though, especially since the season is so young. The experience gained thus far could prove a telling factor in the games to come.

Turfers Lose Twice;
Outlook Still Promising

Marian's golf aggregate has failed to meet pre-season expectations thus far, losing two close matches to St. Joseph's and Indiana Central, but hopes are still high for a successful campaign. The Central meet found everyone a bit rough from the winter lay-off. Tom Zeunik alone was able to perform creditably, winning 2½ points.

DESPITE the loss to St. Joe's turf, a definite team improvement was noted. John Carr began his season with a near-perfect 75, winning all 3 points. Mike Leon-

New Marian Track Team Shines
In Surprise Showing at Wabash

Our new Marian College track team turned in a surprisingly good showing at the Wabash Relays, April 11, capturing second and fourth places in the second heats of the sprint medley and the 880 relay respectively. This was the team's initial intercollegiate performance and it faced stiff competition from 15 colleges and over 400 athletes from Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio.

The relay squad of Mike Schnelker, Carl Wagner, Gene Payne, and Marty Liddy was responsible for the showings in the two events.

Coach Jeff Geoffrion, no stranger to the cinder track himself both as a coach and an athlete (He ran for Cornell in the early 30's and coached at Cathedral) believed the relays proved that our small group was far above the average.

"The boys are working hard and diligently," he said, "and we expect to see some concrete results in ribbons and medals before the season ends. With a few more boys, Marian could have a team to be reckoned with."

Two more meets are scheduled for next month. On May 25 Marian will run against Franklin and Indiana Central Colleges, and on May 28 our harriers will face the Engineers of Rose Poly.

NF Assembly

is related to student government.

A skit, parodying student apathy and misconceptions of NF will follow. Jim Roth is chairman of the skit committee.

Accompanying Mr. Barber will be the regional president-elect, Sylvia Sieve. They will become acquainted with the newly elected Marian Student Board members at a special luncheon. They will also confer with students in the Perc and the Mixed Lounge.

At the spring congress of the region, April 10-12 in Memphis, Tenn., Marian was represented by Jeanne Vigue, senior, and Evelyn Looney and Susan Charbonneau, sophomores.

"Responsibility in Politics" was the congress theme.

Officers for 1964-65, elected at the congress, are: Sylvia Sieve, president, and Cecilia Russell, second vice-president, both of Our Lady of Cincinnati College; Tom Hogan, Bellarmine, executive vice-president; Mimi Haas, Ursuline, secretary; and Jim Hagan, St. Catherine's, treasurer.
