Fire strikes Clare Hall

by Stacey Nicholas, Tina M. Kunkler, and Karla Chrisler

On Sunday, Oct. 30, at approximately 12:15 p.m. a fire engulfed room 222 of Clare Hall.

Indianapolis Arson Investigator John Wood said that the fire was a result of an unattended candle burning under a loft.

The fire that damaged the suite of Kim Sult, Jane Plummer, and Rhonda Laker was short-lived, but caused an estimated $30,000 in damages. The damage was mainly caused by smoke and water.

Resident Assistant, Aimee Crawford recounts the event, "I heard the smoke alarm. If it hadn't been for the smoke alarm it would have been a hell of a lot worse. Kelly Ach heard the smoke alarm and pulled the fire alarm. He (Security Officer Greg Wright) went down and got the hose, sprayed the door, got my key, and sprayed the room."

Many people complimented the residents on their evacuation. Resident Director Phil Bernard commented, "We evacuated in under two minutes. The only person running was me."

Wright adds, "It was an excellent evacuation. I was in the security office when the alarm sounded. When I got over there they were all out."

Maintenance Director Ron Schmolz denies student allegations that a gas leak contributed to the fire. There is no gas being pumped into the rooms. Wood also denied the gas leak charge.

The school's insurance policy will cover the damage sustained by the room and the furniture owned by the college, but will not cover the lost personal items. The students' parents' home owner's insur-

Non-traditional issues aired

by Tina M. Kunkler

"I want to be able to help people coming back," said part-time student Linda Bloomer when asked about non-traditional student issues.

On Friday, Oct. 21, Joyce Johnstone, Chairman of the Education Department, led a meeting to discuss that topic. Twenty-seven faculty, staff, and students attended.

Although an accurate count has not been released, Johnstone estimates that more than one third of the student body is classified as non-traditional. Johnstone described non-traditional students as being over 25 years of age, mostly commuters, and mostly self-supporting.

In their article "The Over-25 Set Moves In," Michele Donley and John E. Gallagher state, "According to the College Board, more than six million students - 45 percent of those enrolled in American college programs - are 25 or older." They go on to project that "within a decade, this

Letters to the Editor

Thank you

"Bring a Friend to Campus" weekend was a success a second time around. The 65 friends of Marian College students most of all enjoyed the costume dance on Saturday night with all other events adding to the fun of experiencing Marian College life. A big thanks goes to all the students, staff, and faculty who contributed. Music department, ARA, Alumni, the Carbon, Golden Knights, and Admissions Staff were cooperative in hosting these students. Thanks. The weekend ended with the Clare Hall fire and parents witnessed the students' care and support for each other and the very adequate service as five fire engines arrived at the scene.

Correction

I would like to thank you for your recent coverage in the Carbon about the fashion merchandising program and my position. Although, I would like to correct some errors in the language of the article. One year ago the Home Economics department changed their name to Dietetics/Merchandising. This change was necessary to reflect the changes in focus of the department. We offer a two year Dietetic Technician degree, a four year Dietetic degree and a two and four year degree in Fashion Merchandising.

Across the country, Home Economics departments are changing their names to up-date their image. The old image of "stitching and stirring" is gone and replaced with the professional image that we have been representing for years.

We would like for the students and faculty to be aware of our name change from Home Economics to Dietetics/Merchandising.

Thank you very much for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Ellen Green
Program Director
Fashion Merchandising

Maggots

I am deeply appalled at the attention, rather lack of attention, that is given to students' needs and problems. For example, on the third floor of Clare Hall, we have now had to live without lights in our bathroom for about a week, due to a blown fuse, which maintenance cannot fix.

In my own situation, my ceiling has been "raining" maggots over my bed for the past couple of weeks. On one occasion in the middle of the night, I brushed something off my lip, and when I turned on the light, I found that it was indeed a maggot. Because I refuse to sleep under such conditions, I have reverted to sleeping on the floor on the other side of the room, where it is supposedly safe.

In spite of the fact that I have tried on several occasions to get some assistance, nothing is being done. Maggots continue to fall from my ceiling, and I continue to sleep on the floor. Is this why I am paying $8000 per year, so that I can sleep on the floor, because it is too disgusting to sleep on my bed, with maggots falling on my head?

Most sincerely,
Yvonne Spartz

ance should cover that loss. At an all-dorm meeting Sunday evening, Clare residents took up a monetary collection for the girls.

Schmoll hopes to have the rooms repaired by next semester. He comments on the damage, "Clare is perfect for a fire. There is concrete all around, even the ceiling is cement. The fire is contained because the room acts like an oven. It's the same with Doyle and Alverna Halls."

When asked if smoke detectors were needed in every room, Controller Joe Ryan responded, "The law doesn't require it, but it's not a bad idea. It would be up to the students to help us maintain them."

Wood comments on the fire, "The only way to prevent this is to prohibit the burning of candles."

Student Board meetings

Nov. 6 Dec. 4
Nov. 20

All meetings are in the Student Board Room from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

Editor's note: (regarding "Maggots" letter) Hub State Pest Control came out on Nov. 2 and investigated. They treated the room for carpet beetle larvae. The carpet beetle is carried in on fibrous material (i.e. clothing).

Carbon meetings are held each Monday at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Board Conference Room. You are welcome.

Letters to the editors must be turned in to the Carbon's mailbox in the faculty mail room by 12:00 noon, Monday, the week they are to run.

Senior Profile

by Stacey Nicholas

"He's a mammal and he doesn't pick his nose in public anymore." That's how Steve Southwood responds when asked about his friend, Bill Pedtke.

Pedtke is a senior Math major who will not be walking down the graduation aisle with Southwood; he opted for the five year plan.

Many people remark that Pedtke is very serious. To this he responds, "They just don't know me." Yet, in the same breath, when asked about his free time, he answers, "I practice being serious."

If that's the case, it is good that Pedtke is actively involved in campus life as a baseball player, a resident assistant, and for the past two years, the class representative to College Council.

Remember this last spring?

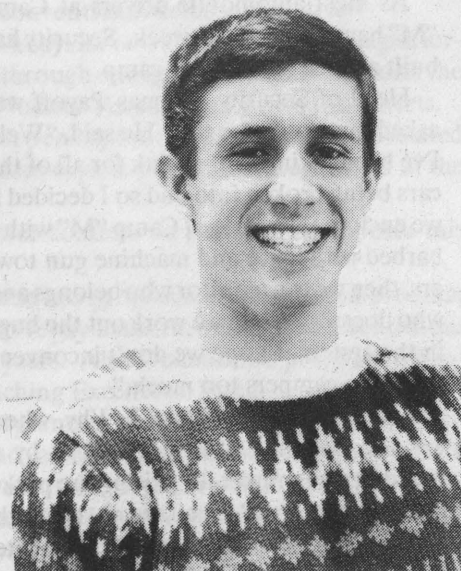

The batter swung, his bat crunched the ball with the sound of a solid hit. Juan Escalante, playing second base, and short stop Bill Pedtke saw that right fielder Mike Curtis had the play on a fly ball. They feigned a play on the stealing base runner at second base, which sent the latter into a slide. Meanwhile, Curtis caught the fly ball and fired it to first base -- a double play.

An intricate part of the team, the short-stop comments on his position. "It (short-stop) gets lots of action. You're always on your feet."

Being an R.A. also keeps Pedtke on his feet. When asked if the money drew him to the job, Pedtke softly laughs. "It is definitely not the money. I think it's because I like to help people."

Pedtke ended the interview by saying, "Actually, I'm scared to think what the guys on my wing will do with the article's picture."

Editorial

MCSA President Ellen Frommeyer and the members of the Budget Committee should resign.

There are two reasons. First, Frommeyer has disregarded the MCSA Constitution. When Bob Bowie, sophomore student representative, resigned his term, Frommeyer appointed his replacement without observing the guidelines of Section Seven, Article D, of the MCSA Constitution. It reads, "Vacancies in the constituency positions shall be filled according to the constitution of the affected group or through another election if no constitution exists."

Second, Frommeyer has completely lost control of the Finance Committee of the Board. She has allowed it to act beyond its authority and to impose virtual censorship on the Carbon. As an ex officio member of the committee and the past chairperson of the committee she sits silent or absent.

The Budget Committee has botched the budgeting process this year. Its allocations are arbitrary and inconsistent. The English Club was denied $30 for a luncheon with visiting poet Gwendolyn Brooks because the luncheon did not include the entire campus community. But earlier in the fall Frommeyer was granted $40 for a catered luncheon at Allison Mansion for herself and presidents of Indianapolis college student governments. Clearly, not every one was invited.

The softball club was denied funds because only eleven players play at a time, thus, everyone could not participate. But the Board approved cheerleading uniforms for a five-person team.

At its last meeting the Board declined to reallocate more funds to the Carbon, creating a serious financial crisis for the paper. The mismanagement continues.

Frommeyer is ultimately responsible for the actions of this committee. She is responsible for acting within the letter of the constitution. Her failure to lead effectively and the resulting inequities and problems among student clubs and functions are unacceptable.

She and her committee should resign and permit more competent students to stand for office.

new group of learners... will make up a majority in college classrooms."

Issues discussed at the meeting included parking fees, class scheduling, tutoring, financial aid, day care, communication, and orientation.

William Woodman, Dean of Student Affairs, said, "In some ways, the needs of non-traditional students are greater than those of traditional students. So much of this institution's focus is on traditional students." He cited the academic program as an example. Woodman suggested "a whole rethinking of the way we offer our educational services."

"I think there are some things that I had to cope with... that the faculty can be made aware of," commented Bloomer. She dislikes the term "non-traditional" because of negative connotations associated with it. Bloomer suggested "students-plus" as an alternative.

Johnstone presented a report of the meeting to the department chairpersons recommending the formation of an ad-hoc committee to continue investigating these concerns.

Lighter side

by Michael Rinard

As most automobile drivers at Camp "M" have realized this week, Security has built a fence around our camp.

Head of Security Thomas Payoff was asked the reason for this. He said, "Well, I've been taking a lot of flak for all of the cars being broken into and so I decided if we enclose the whole of Camp "M" with a barbed wire fence and machine gun towers, then we can monitor who belongs and who doesn't. While we work out the bugs in the system, I hope we don't inconvenience the campers too much."

Inconvenienced? No way! Why, when was the last time you were shot at by a guard in a gun turret for exiting the parking lot too quickly? If you are not through the gate in under five seconds, the gate closes on your car. (Must be one of the bugs that need to be worked out.)

Freshman camper Peter Cottenpatch wanted to report that he saw a member of the security force breaking into a camper's car. When Payoff heard about this incident, he said that Peter must have been high on drugs or dreaming. "Why I can personally vouch for all of my security officers. After all, they were trained by the finest Campondants in the world, Colonel Klink. He never had a successful escape."

While the bugs are being worked out of the system, campers should know the following information:

1. Exit through the gates in less than five seconds.
2. Do NOT report any security officers breaking into cars.
3. Smile at the guards -- make them wonder what you're up to.
4. Always carry your identification as a Camp "M" camper.
5. And last, but not least, make sure that your will is in order.

Well I hope that I have been able to bridge the communication gap until the system comes fully on line. Drive defensively! The guard you hit may be the one that broke into your car.

Student funds reallocated

by Stacey Nicholas

On Monday, October 31, at 4 p.m., the Marian College Student Association voted eight to three to reallocate $355.00 in undistributed funds to the Booster Club.

In her presentation, cheerleader Melissa Peters said that "Personally, it's embarrassing for me to go to other schools and get laughed at because of our outfits."

Currently, the cheerleaders are funded through the controller's office from which they received $250 this year.

The Carbon also asked for the money in order for the paper to continue publishing. This request was denied.

It should take the cheerleaders three to five weeks before they receive their five new uniforms.

The next regular meeting of MCSA will be November 6.

National election issues assessed

by Jodie Skelly

George Bush and Michael Dukakis look at the same America and see different countries. They differ on a host of issues from capital punishment to capital gains.

Bush the Republican sees an America that has created "eight million jobs in six years."

Dukakis the Democrat sees a nation that has "mortgaged our children's future to a mountain of debt."

Issues up for debate are taxes, deficit, health, social security, defense, foreign policy, drugs, crime, and education.

With the deficit, neither man has supplied a detailed blueprint for overcoming the $150 billion a year deficit. Bush calls for a "flexible freeze" on all federal spending. Dukakis expects "tough choices on spending."

Concerning healthcare, Dukakis, who made universal health insurance a calling cry for his campaign, would require most employers to offer workers basic coverage. Bush favors pressuring states to expand Medicaid. Bush also favors a constitutional amendment banning abortions and criminal penalties for abortionists, but not for women who obtain abortions.

Bush promises to keep hands off social security benefits and cost-of-living increases. Dukakis maintains social security would be safer in the hands of a Democratic president.

In our nation's defense, Bush promises to press ahead with SDI research and deploy a space-based defense shield. Dukakis says the military needs a "conventional defense initiative."

In foreign policy, Bush says he would continue the Reagan foreign policy of "peace through strength." Dukakis supports the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty with the Soviets.

Bush favors the death penalty for cop killers and drug-related killers. Dukakis opposes capital punishment regardless of the crime.

Dukakis favors tighter controls on guns. Bush opposes this measure.

In education, Dukakis has proposed a college loan program that would let students repay loans through payroll deductions during their working years. Also Dukakis has proposed a $250 million National Teaching Excellence Fund.

Bush wants to award grants of up to $100,000 to Merit schools and a new federal fund to encourage school innovations. Bush supports organized voluntary prayer in public schools.

It is obvious that many issues are at stake in the upcoming general election. These issues will affect each American directly or indirectly. Those eligible are encouraged to vote for the man they choose. Cast your ballot.

Women post winning season

by Jeff Redenbaugh

The women's tennis team finished this year with a record breaking season of 6-3. The team finished in sixth place out of 14 teams in the District 21 Tourney which was also a school record.

The team includes Gretchen Fagan, Pam Byerly, Suzie McOmber, Jodi Perkins, Robin Reed, and Jeri Lynn Harland as singles players. Others on the team include the number three doubles team of Laura Netherton and Betsy Uhl.

According to Coach Brad Kolter, "The women have vastly improved since I took over the team two years ago. I am very proud of the team's effort this year. We will be better next year with a couple of recruits. They could be the top three in the state of Indiana."

The only tennis player that the team will be loosing this year is Jeri Lynn Harland. With her experience and leadership, Kolter said that he enjoyed her dedication to the team.

In closing, Kolter had these comments, "The team did very well and had records teamwise and individually set this past season and I am looking forward to next year to be even better and set some more

Tourney notes

by Stephen Tweddell

On the weekend of November 4-5, the Lady Knights Volleyball Team will compete in the NAIA District 21 Tournament at Purdue University at Calumet.

They are seeded number three and will face sixth seeded Goshen at 7:30 p.m.

The Ladies are hoping to improve on last year's 2-2 fourth place finish.

Head coach Molly Totten feels her team's chances to win are very good. "If we play like we're capable, we can do it, but we have to play well." For the Lady Knights to win, Totten says that they will have to communicate well and capitalize on the attack instead of depending on defense.

Four of the six starters are seniors. They are Amy Beckham, Sharon Effinger, Tina Meyers, and Terrill Reed.

Sports

Freshmen set best times

by Corrine Wickens

The Mid-Central Cross Country Championship, held at Marian on Saturday, Oct. 29, ended a disappointing season for the team, said Dave Roberts, cross country coach.

Huntington College dominated the scene, winning the conference with 39 points, Indiana Wesleyan University came in second with 40 points, Goshen College, third with 45 points, and Marian trailed with 100 points.

"It was an excellent race for three teams; we did nothing," Roberts said. "You can't have even a mediocre performance and expect to do well, because the other schools are so good and have such good runners."

The only highlight of the conference meet was three freshmen who ran their best times of the entire season -- Brian Boyle, Jason Bridwell, and Steven Sitzman.

Boyle had an exceptional season overall; whereas Bridwell and Sitzman hadn't done much running, but have a lot of potential, Roberts said. "Hopefully it was just one of those days that you write off as a bad day. We hope to do better in the future."

One of the main problems that Roberts attributed to the poor season is the number of accidents that occurred. For example, one of the leading team members, Brad Bechler, was out of running for three weeks because of a knee injury. After that, he never fully regained his potential in time for the last deciding meets.

"Now we have to regroup and bring in some new people next year to improve the program," Roberts said. "Mainly, though, it depends upon how hard they (the team members) want to work during the off season, in order to be competitive."

Men's tennis ends at 5 and 5

by Jeff Redenbaugh

The men's tennis team had a break even season this year as they finished the season with a record of 5-5. The five wins this year tied a school record for the most wins by a men's tennis team in Marian's history.

The men's team finished in third place in the Mid-Central Conference behind Grace, who took first place, and Goshen and Indiana Wesleyan, who tied for second place.

This third place finish in the Conference is the best placing for the Knights in Marian history. With this third place finish, the Knights scored a record number of points, 12.

In the District 21 Tourney, the Knights finished seventh out of 13 teams with a total of seven points which is also a team record for most points scored in the District Tourney.

The team consists of Devon Papa, Dave Owens, Darryl Romero, Randy Domingo, Mike Kenny, and Brad Kenisley who also is with Chris Hill for the doubles team.

Others on the tennis team are Bobby Archer and Chris Geis who played on the junior varsity team.

Coach Brad Kolter says the following about Papa, "Devon held his own throughout the entire season. He held the number one singles spot." He also says that, "Devon has the chance to be the best number one singles in the district if he continues doing well."

Kolter continues that "Dave Owens showed strong leadership on and off the tennis court, being first year captain." Kolter also says "that Dave is a good example of how a man can handle himself."

Kolter comments on the team, "The team should be very proud of themselves... I am very pleased with the attitude during the year and was proud on how they competed in every match."

Kolter also says, "The team is young; but the youth trend should carry us into next fall's season as being a tough tennis team in the state of Indiana."

Traci named to library staff

by Illka Tabb

If you've been to the library lately, you may have noticed a new face. Ms. Kathleen Traci, a former English teacher of elementary and junior high school students, recently joined the Marian staff.

Traci's favorite hobbies include sailing, folk arts, nature walks, and reading.

After attending the University of Wisconsin, she worked with the Madison Public Library in Ohio for ten years.

Although this is her first experience working with college students, her love for information in the use of life-long learning skills for students is evident.

Her philosophy is "If you give a man fish, you feed him for a day. If you teach a man to fish, you feed him for a lifetime."

She is concerned that students often hesitate to ask for help or do not take full advantage of the library and the information services currently provided.

Traci works with a staff of librarians and information specialists. Sandra Quiatkowski, Acting Director, has had specialized training at Purdue and I.U. Sr. Pat Conner is in charge of the interlibrary loan system -- the on-line Computer Library Center. Collen Method is the technical assistant who is responsible for cataloguing library materials and keeping records of resources up-to-date. Mrs. Rose Marie Kelsey, who attended Marian College and Ball State University, also works part-time.

Nicholas attends CNF journalism conference

by Dallice Hesselgrave

"I think it's important for a newspaper foundation to sponsor a conference like this. It backs up our first Amendment rights."

On October 21st and 22nd, Carbon editor Stacey Nicholas attended a conference sponsored by the Central Indiana Newspaper Foundation. The conference is for students, like Nicholas, who have been awarded a Central Newspapers foundation journalism scholarship. These scholarships include $1500 and the conference.

Held at the Indianapolis Athletic Club, the newspaper conference included instruction by four writers, including George Stuteville and Nelson Prile, from The Star and The News. These writers shared their experiences of what writing means to them, how to do interviews, how to get stories, and tips on critiques.

Nicholas learned of the drastic change in the newspaper industry. No more are the noisy copy rooms depicted in television and movies, with people yelling, typewriters clacking, and general chaos. With the quieter offset presses and writers using PC's, the new image of the newspaper copy room reflects the "new image" of newspapers--ordered and professional.

Student recital held

by Shannon Harvey

Private lesson students and ensemble groups performed for family, friends, and staff members last Sunday, October 30, at an all-school student recital.

The event took place at 3:00 p.m. and lasted for almost an hour. It featured voice, clarinet, flute, piano, trumpet, and woodwind groups.

Friends visit campus

by Illka Tabb

Students invited friends and family to Marian College this past October 29 and 30 to "Bring a Friend to Campus Weekend."

More than fifty guests registered Saturday morning and received a collection of "goodies" that included T-shirts, meal passes, pictures, license plates, and discounts on bookstore purchases.

Scheduled events went as planned. However, many guests and their patrons were absent from the planned activities. Still, there was a fair crowd of people for the tours.

The most successful event this weekend was the costume party held at Doyle Hall. Although the party was skimpy at first, it swelled to an elbow-pushing crowd.

Students agreed that the weekend was enjoyable and expect next year's to be even more exciting.

The junior was most amazed by what she learned about the differences between small and large college newspapers. They have totally different needs to be met. Unfortunately, it was not possible for the conference to break down into two parts, one for small papers and one for large ones. Even so, Nicholas has learned some concepts to make the Carbon an even better paper and to prepare her for her future career.

International Club

by Illka Tabb

!Hola Amigos! Sister Roseanne Taylor is looking for enthusiastic students to join the International Club. Students first met Monday, October 24, 1988, and discussed their expectations for the club.

Suggested club activities were designed to encourage better cultural relations. Suggestions included a food fair, language tutoring sessions, films and sight-seeing trips.

For students interested in joining, a pizza party is planned by the club for their benefit. The "ice-breaker" pizza party will be held Saturday, November 5 at 7:00 p.m. in the Clare Hall Lounge.

If you have any questions, please call Sister Roseanne Taylor at ext. 272.

Any student of Marian College may place a mounted photo entry into the entry box in the Theology/Philosophy Department office.

Prizes will be awarded for the best three photos. Businesses contributing prizes include Show Biz Pizza, Chi-Chi's, Subway, and Cuts and Curls.

Mr. Denis Kelly, Jr., a professional photographer, will judge the contest.

The following rules apply:

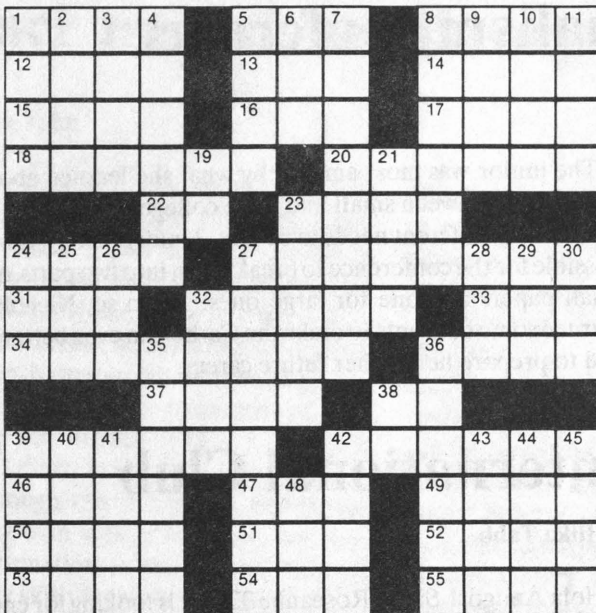

1. Photos should represent the theme "Typically Marian College."

2. Photos must be firmly mounted on a piece of cardboard. The following information must be firmly attached to the back of the mounted entry: name, phone number, year in school, campus address, and type of camera used.

4. All photos submitted become the property of the Carbon and may be used in the paper at the editors' discretion.

Deadline for entries is November 17, 1988. The winners will be announced on November 31.

Photo talents, here's a chance to get some great food prizes and show your stuff. A picture is not only worth a thousand words. It can this time bake your bread.

The Sisters of St. Francis of Oldenburg, Indiana, invite single, Catholic women to find out more about life as a Sister by attending a Vocation Awareness Retreat, November 12-13 in Olivia Hall on the Motherhouse grounds. For information or to register, contact Sister Maureen Irvin, Sisters of St. Francis, Oldenburg, IN 47036, 812-934-2475.

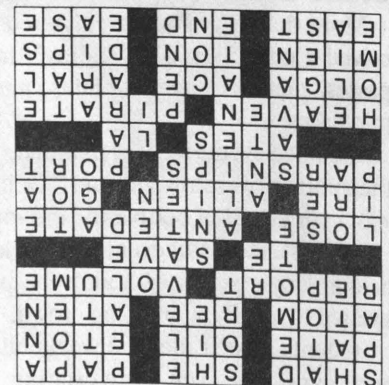

TORNADO DRILL ACTION: People moved more quickly to the designated locations last Thursday and spilled into the stairwells in single file order. Some people need to be reminded to stay on the proper side of the stairs as they descend the steps especially when they enter the stairwell from the second floor. It wasn't so crucial on Thursday as the total number coming from the third floor was limited.

PRE-REGISTRATION WEEKS: 7-11; 14-18. Schedule of classes for spring semester will be available to pick-up at the Registrar's Office on Thursday or Friday of this week. Information about procedures and class list signing is printed with the schedule materials.

The last day to withdraw from a course with a WP or WF grade is December 2, 1988. Students wishing to withdraw should leave themselves enough time to get all appropriate signatures. There is no guarantee that an advisor or instructor will be on campus on the deadline date.
