

Freshmen class officers elected

All during last week the spirit of competition was flourishing on Marian's campus as the annual Freshman class elections were taking place.

The election turned out to be one of the most unique in recent Marian history. Bob Cannon, a day student, captured the presidential title, but only after a close run-off election with Bob Parker, a Marian resident student.

Also involved in the run-off election were vice-president, Terry Byrnes and Rosie Burns; and Joe Kroner and Mike Hutchison for Student Board representative.

Finally, late Friday afternoon the Freshman votes were counted and the victors announced. They include: Bob Cannon, president; Rosie Burns, vice-president; Margaret Kleusner, treasurer; Dave Vocke, secretary; Joe Jarboe, day representative; and Joe Kroner, Student Board representative.

The first class-officers meeting was held yesterday to talk with Dr. Purchia. Freshman class sponsor. Discussed was the new officer's ideas for possible future activities.

Bob Cannon, president, said, "I feel we have four years at college, and as a class we should start making the best of it now. No one person in the class has any more importance than anyone else. Everything the class does, will be done as a whole."

"I was really pleased with the turnout of voters. It shows that we have a lot of class spirit. Now if we build all our spirit into unity it should make for a good year."

He went on to say, "Personally, I'm glad that I won. I hope that myself and the other officers can all work together with the class to have a great year."

All the officers share a great amount of enthusiasm towards their new offices. A little unsure of what their duties will consist of, all of them have promised to fulfill their responsibilities and represent their fellow freshmen to their highest capabilities.

Seniors, look for jobs early

From Placement Services: What Jobs For The Class of '74?

Most forecasts indicate that employment prospects for the class of 1974 will be better than those for graduates in recent years, but much depends on the health of the nation's economy, the stock market, military commitments, government contracts, and other factors which influence employment. There may be more jobs, but there will also be more competition from fellow graduates.

and from returning service men, and from graduates in recent classes who took interim jobs to tide them over until the market opened up. The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education issued a report in May indicating that during the 1970's there will be about three million more graduates than there will be jobs traditionally requiring a college degree.

What does it all mean? First, don't panic; most graduates in the last four years got a job - at least those who really wanted one.

Second, utilize placement services early.

Third, don't wait for the job to come to you.

Fourth, have a primary goal in mind, but also explore alternative possibilities.

Fifth, launch a mail campaign - see the Placement Office for employer listings, preparation of resumes and letters.

Sixth, keep a number of irons in the fire. Check out all possible avenues - business and industry, government agencies, military service, graduate school, community service and social action organizations which may have internships or other openings; check with your professors for employment leads.

Seventh, don't become discouraged.

BEFORE COMMUNICATING WITH EMPLOYERS

Take inventory of yourself. Before you prepare resumes and letters, take time to look at yourself - your education, work experiences, goals, abilities, likes and dislikes.

Review your high school experience. What courses did you take, and why? In which areas were you most successful? Which outside interests and activities were most satisfactory?

Review your college experience the same way. Why did you choose your academic major? Did you change majors? Why? What kind of grade point average do you have, and why? Did you participate in community affairs and extracurricular activities?

Consider all work experience - part time and summer. What did you like best and least? What gave you the most valuable experience or training?

What do you do with free time and vacations? Do you like to work with people, data, things or ideas? Can you make decisions quickly and correctly? Are you patient? Can you pursue long-range goals with little immediate recognition? Under what circumstances would you go against your own convictions, or go against the boss's convictions? What would prompt you to resign? How heavily do you weigh salary versus satisfaction?

Letters to the editors

Dear Phoenix,

In the Sept. 20 Editorial of the Carbon, Dave and I explained to the Marian College Community information concerning the status of student publications and the proposed changes involving them. I would like to take this opportunity to discuss further these proposed changes and their possible effects.

As stated in the Editorial, the first report of the Self-Study Commission became available to Marian with a number of proposed changes. Among them was the change in the number of Study Committees under the new College Council. One of these committees will concern itself with Student Affairs club and Student Publications. Presently Student Publications are under the jurisdiction of Student Board. This proposed change is of major concern to the editors of both the Phoenix and the Carbon and a number of questions have come to my mind. Will Student publications still reflect the views and attitudes of students with the involvement of faculty and administration? What will become of an editor's editorial policy when a committee such as the Student Affairs Committee has jurisdiction over such a publication? What system will be used to choose editors for Student Publications? These questions concern me greatly because I find that the chances of publications becoming something other than student publications are present. I would hope that everyone who shares this same concern voice his opinion on this matter.

What's happening in Doyle

In an effort to keep the entire campus community informed as to what is happening in Doyle Hall this year, I would periodically like to discuss some of the events occurring in the hall, changes being made, and various plans for the rest of the year.

As everyone knows, the weekends here on campus are often lacking in stimulating activities, and thus many students find themselves with little to do in the way of entertainment or social activities. One of the objectives of the Doyle Hall Council is to make an attempt to provide more activities and programs in the hall, not only on weekends, but also during the week. For example, this past Saturday night W.C. Fields and Three Stooges movies were shown in the lobby; other surprises were also provided. Hopefully many more movies and events such as this will be planned for the upcoming weekends.

Presently we are in the process of buying a color TV for the downstairs lounge; this will not only help out all the people who do not have TV's, but will also provide a place for more socializing for Doyle Hall residents and their guests. Pin ball machines have also been acquired for the lounge downstairs. At the present time pool and ping pong tables are provided for use by the residents.

The main lobby in Doyle provides a pleasant setting for people to sit around and talk, study, or listen to the stereo. The front desk is open from 8:00 - 1:30 Sunday through Thursday, and 8:00 - 2:00 on weekends, but the lobby, along with the recreation areas downstairs, is open 24 hours a day for all residents, guests, and people visiting the hall. This serves the function not as a place to meet and socialize during the day, but at night and on weekends after visitation is over, when things are often just

by Bob Morse

Once upon a time, Charlie Schmidlap turned on his T.V. set and learned about a gas shortage.

So did fifty million other people.

It was Johnny Cash who was telling Charlie about the gas situation. Johnny seemed to be hinting that Charlie could do his patriotic and moral duty simply by removing his chronic lead foot from his gas pedal from time to time. Charlie remembered that Johnny had sung a funny song about a guy with a girl's name, so he decided he'd slow down a bit.

So did fifty million other people.

In the late 1930's, Orson Welles broadcast his famous "War of the Worlds." It was a radio show about a Martian invasion. Hundreds of people, however, thought it was a real invasion.

A week or two ago, I was a movie made for T.V. It was an extended version of "Candid Camera." In one sequence, a man was stopping traffic before a sign post reading "Single City." The man informed married people that they couldn't enter the city. He instructed them to take alternate routes.

A lot of them did.

It seems as if many people accept too readily the voice of authority, any authority. Furthermore, the authority of the machine seems to be questioned the least.

When I was ten, I read in my Weekly Reader that gas and oil would eventually run out. It made an impression on me.

All of a sudden, however, we have a gas crisis. I believe there is a serious problem, yet I also believe that it's possible to make a gas crisis merely by mentioning it five or six times on T.V.

I also have an inkling that the shortage was about as predictable as Halley's comet.

Media continues to ask us to slow down, as if it is the morally correct thing to do. I have one question: Are the oil companies and other interested parties doing their moral duty, or are their morals submerged in the almighty dollar?

I feel mass transportation is the morally correct solution to many of the country's ills. If it became economically advantageous for people to take buses, the gas question and pollution would be greatly remedied. Highways would almost cease to tear up our environment. Most important of all, hundreds of lives could be saved.

This end should always be our leading priority.

I wish that many people would keep this priority in mind. The importance of one human life should dwarf anything else by comparison. It is my hope that people would pursue this aim in every way possible.

In the past "day students" (commuters) have expressed concern about the disadvantages encountered by not living on campus. As a first step in an attempt to determine the concerns "day students" face today, and to consequently attempt to work towards alleviating the concerns, a questionnaire is in today's paper. All "day students" are requested to complete this questionnaire and send it or bring it to the Office of Student Services or deposit it in a box in the Information Office, (Main Entrance to Marian Hall) getting started.

All faculty, staff, and students are invited at any time to come over and visit the dorm. Also anyone wishing to provide a program or activity, such as holding some sort of informal class or group discussion, is invited to do so, either by contacting me or one of the members of the Doyle Hall Council. Any comments, suggestions, or criticisms are always welcome from anyone in the college community.

One of my prime objectives as Residence Director is to make the hall an exciting and stimulating place to live; more than just a place to sleep or study; to provide an informal atmosphere where each resident can benefit the most, not only academically, but socially from his college career. Hopefully with the help of the RA's, the Doyle Hall Council, and all residents in the hall, this type of environment can be provided in Doyle Hall this year.

DR. CLARK RETURNS TO MARIAN COLLEGE

Dr. Clark

After a year of absence, Dr. Dennis Clark has returned to Marian College. During his absence he completed his Ph.D in Biology from I.S.U. (in January, 1973) and worked in the water laboratory at the Indiana State Board of Health.

Dr. Clark is currently serving as director of the Wetlands Laboratory. The project is fully underway and, according to Dr. Clark, will hopefully be completed in four to five years. With the help of volunteers, trails are being built, bridges are undergoing construction and study sites are being designated. A lot more work is ahead and with more student help and more donations, the project will be completed as scheduled. While still unfinished, several groups have already visited the Wetlands area. In fact, two groups of students have taken field trips this fall and more are being scheduled.

While the laboratory covers a large area including and around the lake, Dr. Clark reassuringly states that "the athletic field will not be bothered."

Presently, aside from his involvement with the Wetlands, Dr. Clark is carrying half of a teaching load.

TWO ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ADDED.

In the little white house between the SAC building and the Library dwell two faces new to Marian College. They are Mr. Richard Scott and Mr. Michael Pugh, both Assistant Directors of Admissions. The majority of their time is spent off-campus talking to High School students, acquainting them with Marian College. Besides visiting schools, the Directors keep correspondence by mail and telephone with interested High School students.

Rick Scott, a native of Peoria, IL, is impressed with Marian both academically and by the friendliness of students and faculty. Mr. Scott related, "Even though I am mostly off campus, I hope to establish closer contact with students." He feels, "You get to know a college through its students."

The Allison Mansion is Rick Scott's favorite attraction on campus. He is fascinated by it because it looks "expensive and old."

Mr. Scott received his B.A. from Indiana University with a double major in speech and theater. He is interested in working on his Masters, but is unsure of whether it will be in education or theater. Rick taught Stage Craft and Speech for two years at Lawrence Central.

Also a graduate of I.U., after two years at St. Meinrad College, Mr. Pugh has a double major in English and Psychology. He has previously done admissions work at St. Meinrad College. Michael is also very much interested in beginning work on his Master's degree.

Mr. Pugh's pastime consists mainly of sports, while Mr. Scott's interests lie with the arts. Michael Pugh, a native of Greenfield, spends his free time playing rugby or participating in a fast game with the Indianapolis Reds Team. Rick Scott enjoys working in theater. He designed and built sets for Lawrence Central and has helped out with community plays at Fort Harrison.

The new faces in Admissions are not those of the "big bad wolf" but rather two men with outstretched hands and a concern for seeing Marian grow and become known to all.

PREVIEWS & REVIEWS

I Could Never Have Sex With Anyone Who Has So Little Regard For My Husband is not a dirty movie per se. A few filthy innuendoes are liberally strewn about, granted, but for the most part, the movie is hysterical. The plot centers around two couples' attempt to find harmony, peace-of-mind, and sexual awareness in a vacation community on Martha's Vineyard.

The script for the film was written by Dan Greenburg of How To Be A Jewish Mother fame. For a script which relies heavily on one-liners for its comic impact, it holds together remarkably well. The cast is made up entirely of new faces who, if my judgment is sound, will become bane for what has to be one of the most imaginative variations on a "hide-and-seek" game that one could ever hope to see.

The film is currently playing at the Speedway Cinema II and is well worth the admission fee. See it!

In order to set your minds free for the imminent cloud of mid-term week, the Social Council is presenting a free concert in the Marian Hall Auditorium on Saturday night from 8:00-11:00 p.m. The concert will feature Maelstrom and the admission is free. Invite your friends as the concert is open to the public.

ESPostron 3 opens this Sunday at the Indiana Convention Center. The event deals primarily with parapsychological functions, disciplines, and beliefs. There will be booths staffed by professional psychics dealing in subjects such as magic, Astrology, Biorhythm, Tarot, Palmistry, Yoga, and many more besides. The featured speaker of the evening will be Dr. Edgar D. Mitchell, who conducted a series of ESP experiments while aboard Apollo 14 for the February, 1971 Moon probe. Dr. Mitchell's discussion is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Convention Center Ballroom.

The whole affair seems to be pregnant with the promise of an interesting and informative experience (particularly for those of us who are ignorant of such matters).

Race for Intramural title tightens

The race for the Intramural title has tightened since last week with every team showing their potential winning strategy.

DEGENERATES 47 PLAYBOYS 0

The Degenerates finally came alive to show everyone their contending drive for the title of intramural champs. Jim Stockrahm threw 5 T.C. passes. Bickley was on the receiving end of 3, while Jerry Stockrahm and Dan Walker shared the other two. Walker also scored 2 extra points. Jerry Stockrahm then threw to Jim for another score. Ed Sherman added the point after. Tom Fahey intercepted 2 Play-boy passes along with 4 more by others on the team. The Degenerates looked exceptionally together, keeping tempers down and looking for scoring opportunities. Don't count them out yet! The Playboys played their usual tactics but looked tough defensively.

BRUINS 18 NUTCRACKERS 0

Monty Combs led the Bruins to another victory, calling plays in wide and tight formations. Combs hit Terry Hennesey twice with long arials for touchdowns and added another later to Pat Hennesey. The Bruins look to the playoffs! The Nutcrackers were stifled by the unorthodox play of the Bruins and held tight until late in the third quarter.

BAD Joses 33 DIRTY DOZEN 7

The Bad Joses look "bader than ever" after routing the Dirty Dozen, 33-7. Quarter-back Ken Aust threw strikes to Rick Martin, Ken Ollier, and Steve Burrett, all for T.D.'s. Aust also ran the ball in from close range for another tally. Martin added 1 extra point and is looking for the league's scoring title. Aust added the only other point until Ken Ollier ran back an interception for another score and Mike Bazeley "Ricked" the extra point. The Dirty Dozen put up a great fight, enabling Joe Kuzmitz to hit Terry O'Conner wide open for 70 yards and a touchdown.

The Joses played consistent football and look forward to next week's "clash" with the Lords. With guys like Martin, Ollier, Aust, and Burrett, how can the Joses lose, Lords?

VICE LORDS 25 STONED RANGERS 6

The Vice Lords looked physically rough Sunday, sneaking by the Stoned Rangers 25-6.

Bill Doherty led the Rangers with sharp passes and quick huddles. Dan Bauer and Jerry Kretchman were literally acrobating across the field to make key receptions. Kretchman caught their only tally after 11 plays within the Lords 10 yard line. For the Lords, Pat Zapp brilliantly found Jay Farrell open, needing 3 touch-down completions. Zapp followed one of the scores with his own extra point and Dave Jongleux added another point to his contending league score. The Lords seemed undisciplined in the face of key penalties thrown on them at crucial times. However, they did manage to get by the Rangers and also look forward to next week's match-up with rival Bad Joses

The action has increased to a physically brutal height. Tempers are starting to flare and bones are being stressed. We're looking for a good one next week between the Bad Joses and Vice Lords. Good Luck!

Requirement change proposed

A modified general education program was proposed at the Faculty-Council meeting on Sept. 20. The object of the proposal was to decrease the general education requirements to approximately one-third of the present 128 hours.

"Decreasing the requirements would provide more opportunities for students to choose electives in the students area of interest," said Sr. Norma Rocklage, Dean of Academic Affairs.

One change in the Communications requirement of Area I provided that proficiency in oral or written expression will be determined by testing before registration or during the first year. If lack of proficiency is shown, courses in communications (En 103) and/or (Sp 151) will be required.

Ten to twelve hours are required from the theology and philosophy section of Area I. The student must take two courses in each subject.

In the area of Literature and Fine Arts, the student must successfully complete eleven hours. This may be accomplished by taking the courses En 115, 119, or 120, and Hu 130 and 131.

The department of Foreign Languages and Literature requires each student working for the B.A. Degree to complete three hours from any course above 103. Foreign language requirements for the B.S. Degree in the Division of Natural Sciences may be satisfied in one of two ways. First, students meeting the entrance requirement of two years of high-school foreign language study may continue that language in Intermediate 103. Students entering with one year or less of high school foreign language study, and those who choose to begin a new language may satisfy the foreign language requirement by completing Elementary 101-102.

From Area IV, the student is required to take four courses, totaling twelve hours, in at least three of the following subjects: history, economics, sociology, psychology and political science.

In Area V, the chemistry, physics, math and biology requirement was amended to include one course in each of two subjects or a two-semester inter-disciplinary course totaling eight to ten hours.

One course in Non-Western Studies will continue to be required on the general education program.

The educational program was further revised so that electives are to be taken in more than one area, and preferably extended over the four-year period.

The use of the double-A in honors grading will be discontinued. A student doing exceptional work on an honors course will receive an A-plus for the course, and no additional grade point value will be attached.

Other business on the agenda was postponed until the October meeting.

Library essay contest

The Indianapolis-Marion County Public Library Foundation is sponsoring an essay contest, in which both adults and children may participate as another of the special observances celebrating the 100th anniversary of the library system this year.

The Centennial Essay Contest is open to anyone with a valid library card, and is separated into four divisions: the general adult public, college students, high school students, and elementary school pupils.

Deadline for all entries is October 22 at 9 p.m. Entries may be mailed or brought to the Public Relations Office at Central Library, 40 East Saint Clair Street, or they may be left at any branch library.

Entries must be typed or legibly handwritten and are not to exceed 250 words.

Choose one of the following subjects: "What the Indianapolis-Marion County Public Library Means to Me," "What Books and Reading Means to Me," and "My suggestions for the Library of the Future."

The winning essay in each adult category will be awarded $50.

The prize will be $25. for the best essay in each of the three children's categories.

The Library Foundation will announce the winners and present awards Nov. 14 at a program in Cropsey Auditorium at Central Library.

Are you interested in being a part of a most unique organization on Marian's campus? Does the chance to acquire musical ability and be a part of a group working and having fun together interest you? If so, then the Marian College Drum and Bugle Corps has an opening for you. No musical experience is required, only a desire to become involved. Freshman may take Corps for a substitution of a Physical Education course, while upperclassmen can take it for one hour credit at no additional tuition cost if this would put you over the maximum hours allowed.

In the past few years, the Corps has travelled to Niagara Falls-Canada, the Kentucky Derby, and St. Petersburg, Florida. This year there is a strong possibility of travelling to Washington D.C. So, if you would like to find out more information about the Corps stop by the Music Annex, call Mr. Paul at extension 230, or call Hank Richardson at extension 330. Don't be shy, we will help you "come blow your horn"!

Hay you lovers! Tired of the same old movies and late night walks around the lake? If so, why not make your next date for the Sophomore Hayride. The hayride is set for Friday, Sept. 28 at 7:00 p.m. A bus will be leaving Marian at 6:15 p.m. in front of Clare Hall. The cost is a mere 25 cents per couple, less than the price of a Burger Chef hamburger, nowadays.

The wagons will be winding through the trees around Eagle Creek Reservoir. Sophomores and their guests are invited to attend. Hurry and sign up, contact Lynn Shewmaker, Ext. 316. Only 20 spaces are available.

NOTICE**

The 1973 Marian College Yearbook is due in shortly and will be distributed as soon as possible in front of the Marian Hall Auditorium.

Those people who still owe partial payments are expected to pay their bill when they pick up the annual.

There still are a limited number of books available. Those interested should contact Dave Jongleux at Ext. 393. First come, first served.

Weekend Blues

If you are ever around the entrances to Clare or Doyle Halls (the womens and mens residence halls, respectively) or Friday afternoon you'll probably see a lot of students with suitcases heading home or to a friends home for the weekend. This is the start of a weekend which has come to denote Marian College as a "Suitcase-campus."

For the few hearty souls that choose to stay, (or can't afford the trip home) the weekend is usually boring, without any school sponsored activities.

Where do students go after visitation hours are closed at 1:30 p.m. to relax, meet people or just plain BS? They might go to the Waffle House which is open 24 hours and does a thriving business with the Marian community or go back to their rooms because they can't find a ride?

School is in full swing now and students are beginning, if they haven't already, the task of studying for their first exams. The question I now ask is where do students that haven't gone home for the weekend, study?

If they can put up with the noise from the stereo next door or their friends pestering them every few minutes, they can study in their rooms. If they cannot overcome these distractions they don't have a place to study on Friday and Saturday nights.

Yes, our beautiful new library closes at 4:30 on Friday and Saturday afternoon. There is one redeeming factor though, the library is open Sunday night, because by this time most of the students that have gone home are returning.

The point I'm trying to make is that the Social Council ought to get something going on the weekends, such as dances, lectures, etc. if they wish to keep the enrollment it presently has. Otherwise Marian College will go the way of many small contemporary colleges--That is closed, due to lack of students.

What's going on here? by Bob Morse

Numerous people have asked that I give pessimism equal time.

I like to believe tolerance is a source of strength, so I decided to present some words sanctioning the sprightly tenets of pessimism.

To accomplish this purpose, I decided to dedicate a day to that line of reasoning. That day is tomorrow.

This paragraph is supposed to suggest that time has passed since the first three paragraphs were written, and a new day is about to unfold. The reader might further imagine ominous, dark clouds predominant in the morning sky.

At 9:00 a.m. I awaken to the dull, piercing drone of my alarm clock. I had been set a half hour late purposely, so I would be thrust more immediately into the spirit of the day. You see,

I have a 9:30 class.

It is now 9:21 and, despite my disheveled mind and dress, I am ready to leave for class. After a meteoric rush for the door I am in the car and headed belatedly for M.C.

On Illinois Street, I am confronted with a vast, well oiled plot designed to prevent my making record and law breaking time. It is called traffic.

It is 9:31 and a dump truck has just made an acrobatic left turn from two lanes on my right. My admiration for his gall is such that I forget to curse him.

I do, however, remember to hit my breaks.

I ramble into the school's main entrance at 9:42. Five minutes later I find a parking place.

It has just started to rain. Wet and wild, I enter class at 9:52 and find...no one. It has been cancelled.

The rest of the day has proceeded appropriately. A book was misplaced, an assignment ripped and money forgotten.

At lunch, I dropped my fishwich on the floor..

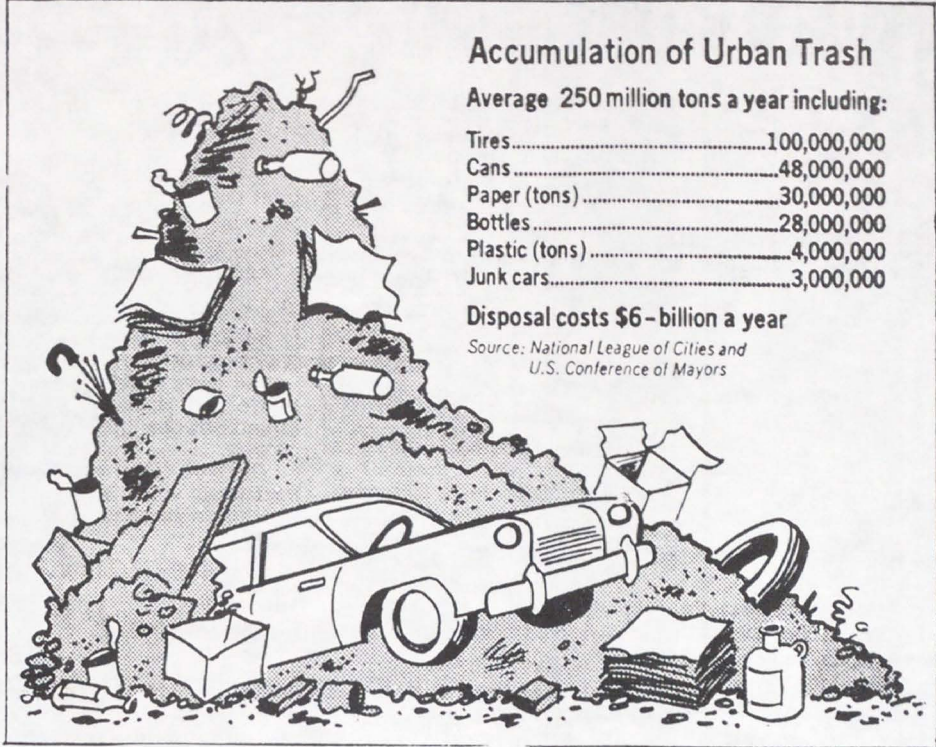

It is presently 7:00 p.m., and the day's developments have yet to have an adverse effect on me. I didn't expect much, and I wasn't disappointed.

A faint voice, however, keeps pestering me. It claims that if I wasn't a pessimist today, I might have found the day's events screamingly funny.

I win the battle. I decide to disregard the voice as childish and pointless.

Why am I writing this anyway? It's just a waste of time. Maybe I should go catch some z's. No, I'd rather buy some cheap wine and watch the fortieth re-run of an F-Troop episode. Nah, maybe I'll

CITIES SUFFOCATING IN TRASH; CRISIS IN 5 YEARS

America's waste disposal cup "runneth over" and nearly half of its major cities will run out of places to dump their trash within five years, a recent study has found.

The significant report by the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors shows that federal action is critically needed to avoid strangulation of cities on their own wastes.

While annually accumulating a trash pile of 250 million tons, including 28 billion bottles, 48 billion cans, millions of tons of plastic, 30 million tons of paper, 100 million tires, and over 3 million junk cars, the nations's cities are running out of places to dump. About 46.5 percent of the cities will face what the study calls a disposal crisis in five years.

What we are throwing away doesn't really go away at all," warns John G. Hutchinson, mayor of Charleston, W. Va. and director of the three-month study. "It has to be put some place."

The study, titled "Cities and the Nation's Disposal Crisis," reports that while the amount of solid waste in the general population has doubled in the last 50 years, it has doubled in the cities in just the last 20 years.

The future looks even bleaker, it found, primarily because of the fascination with packaging, which the study predicts will have increased 63 percent between 1958 and 1976. Ninety percent of all packaging is tossed on the trash heap.

Among the report's recommendations are the following:
Adjustment of discriminatory freight rates, depletion allowances and tax incentives that favor virgin materials over recycled resources.

Provision of below market interest rate loans from the federal government for the construction of solid waste management and resource recovery facilities at the local level.

Government practices that would favor the purchase of recyclable or reuseable materials to encourage their use on a national level.

Removal of interstate and intrastate barriers to the transportation of solid wastes to encourage multi-jurisdictional disposal programs.

"This report," the league and conference point out in conclusion, "is printed on recycled paper."

Previews & reviews

I wish to be by apologizing for a rather gross error I made last week concerning the dates of the Senior class film. Sorry!

The History Club of IUPUI is continuing its International Film Festival this year at their Lecture Hall, Room 101. On Friday, September 28, at 8:15 p.m., "The Trojan Women" will be shown. The movie was produced, directed, and written by Michael Cacoyannis, and adapted from the brilliant play by Euripides which was first presented in Greece in 415 B.C. It is the dramatic story of the fall of Troy and the tragic fates of its women. For such an ambitious movie one would expect some outstanding casting. And one receives. Katherine Hepburn, Vanessa Redgrave, Genevieve Bujold, and Irene Pappas have the principle roles and execute them, for the most part, flawlessly. This movie is a must for all Humanities students and any feminists who might be hanging around.

The Indianapolis Museum of Art, located about one mile east of Marian on 38th Street, has announced a major exhibition of more than 60 watercolors by Paul Jenkins starting on September 26. Jenkins' art is most philosophical as it embodies a unique presentment of both Eastern and Western thought. The exhibition reveals the artist as a master colorist at the same time as it evokes a cathartic response on the viewer. His forms suggest a much deeper meaning through mysterious and evocative imagery which fully explores the watercolor medium.

For an evening of total escapism, I suggest that you sample the show at the Galley, located at 22nd and Talbot. The show features "The Nebulous Players" composed of Jack O'Hara, Gayle Steigewald, and Pat O'Hara. Their show is appropriately entitled, "The Wonderful World of Yuk Yuk." You may be familiar with the elder O'Hara from his role in the Marian College production of "The Tortured Professor"

The performance schedule at the Galley is set up for one show at 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday and two shows at 9:30 p.m. and midnight on Friday and Saturday.

Another Marian Student (part-time), Marianne Elne, is presently singing with Madison Zane at the Holiday Inn East located at 120 East and East 21st Street. Their show is really fantastic and worth your attention and attendance.

Grand Spree benefits settlement house

by Clare Stickon

The gas shortage for this week was noticeable everywhere except at the Third Annual Christamore Grand Spree. Those Marathon pumps kept pumping as the cars entered the 2.5-mile track. The Grand Spree was held this past weekend at Indianapolis Raceway Park in Clermont. The race is sponsored by the Christamore Aid Society. The proceeds benefit the Christamore Settlement House Summer Program.

Over 300 entrants competed in the last national race for 1973 season points in the Central Division of Sports Car Clubs of America.

Saturday's activities included timed practices and the start of races. Sunday opened with more timed practices and continued with the races. A six-car pile-up on the first lap of the Chevy powered Formula A stopped the races for awhile. Evan Noyes of Cederville, Minn. went on to win the race with an average speed of 102.686, the highest speed for the two days.

The match that attracted most of the interest was the Class C and D and B Sedan race. Spectators had their eyes on drivers Bob Tullius, Flass Chrich, Va. and Logan Blackburn of Indianapolis. The race was one pass after another until Blackburn's Datsun lost its rear end and was through. From then on out Tullius ran away with the lead to finish first.

Indianapolis produced an overall winner in the fast A/Sports Racing event as Wayne Nelson brought his Nic Loren across the finish line with a speed of 92.774 mph.

The final race day was a beautiful day for racing but not so good for getting home. The few gas stations outside the Park were flooded with drivers awaiting fuel to return them home.

As another school year begins new faces have inhabited the confines of Marian's campus in the form of students, faculty and administrators.

Two of the newest members of our campus are Miss Barb Ralls, Clare Hall Residence Director, and Mr. Dennis Laynor, Doyle Hall Residence Director.

Miss Barb Ralls, the new Resident Director of Clare Hall doesn't appear here to be too concerned about the forthcoming week's worries.

New faces

A refreshing addition to the Math Department is Sister Theresa Marie Borsig. Sr. Theresa, a native of Indianapolis, has taught in, as she puts it, "thousands of places," from grade schools to high schools to college.

A graduate of Marian, Sr. Theresa got her masters in Math education at the University of Notre Dame and her doctorate in the same field at Purdue University. Currently, she teaches Calculus I, Geometry and Math for Elementary Education teachers and at the same time handles a CCD course at Seccina High School. Unlike other religious members of the faculty, Sr. Theresa lives "off-campus" at the Little Flower parish.

Sr. Theresa is not exactly a new faculty member. She taught summer school here a few years back, but up to this time, she has done most of her teaching in high schools: Rex Mundi High School in Evansville and Seccina High School, specifically. But math is not her only interest. She enjoys music, likes to fiddle around with the guitar and loves a good match of tennis. So, if you see someone in a "Speedway" shirt walking around campus with a tennis racket, a guitar, and a slide rule, introductions don't have to be in order. You'll know that she's Sr. Theresa Marie Borsig.

James Paul new director of Corps

From collegiate band work at the campus of Northern Illinois University to the Marian College Drum and Bugle Corps comes Mr. James Paul, the new director of the Corps.

A native of Waukegan, Illinois, Paul first went to the University of Illinois, then transferred to Northern Illinois University to receive his B.A. and Master's degrees. Paul also did direction work at Northern Illinois dealing with marching and symphony band directing.

When asked about the prospects for the upcoming year, Paul said, "I really didn't know what to expect. However, I was quite pleased with what I discovered." He also added, "the enthusiasm is great."

No definite plans are made for the Corps as of yet this year. However, several events are tentatively scheduled, such as the local Veterans Day Parade, the 500 Festival Parade, and in the spring of next year, the Cherry Blossom Festival, in Washington, D.C.

Paul acknowledged that it is difficult to have a great variety of pieces for playing by the Corps because they use no written music, and always play by memory. However, one arrangement of "Jesus Christ, Superstar" will probably be used.

In contrasting Marian with Northern Illinois, Paul stated that the main difference is the number of students and the size of the campus.

Along with the direction of the Drum and Bugle Corps, Paul also directs a small wind ensemble group which appears at basketball games. He stated no preference between the wind band and the Corps, however.

When not directing, his free time is still full of music. He teaches students as a credit course, along with working on a method book for younger children, for instruments such as trombone, baritone, and tuba. He also does some solo arranging, and is presently trying to sell some of his work.

He also said that the friendliness of the students at Marian impressed him. Paul resides on the north west side of Indianapolis with his Brittany Spaniel, "Penny".

Residence directors enthusiastic about jobs

Barb comes from Indianapolis, Indiana and graduated from Danville High. She then went on to further her education at Ball State University where she obtained a B.A. in Journalism. Barb was a member of The Daily News staff as well as the Yearbook staff. She was a member of Sigma-Delta-Kai a Professional Journalistic Society, Kappa-Tau-Alpha, a Journalistic Honor Society, and Kappa-Delta-Pi and Education Honor Society. Barb also is a certified teacher.

A real sports lover, Barb backs the Big-Red-Machine with a host of others at Clare Hall for this year's pennant contender.

Amazed by the spirit and enthusiasm at Clare, Barb contends that she will enjoy working and living with the girls at Clare, and hopes to see some different types of programs set up between the two Residence Halls on campus.

As an administrator Barb would like to see both faculty and administration become part of Residence Hall living.

Dennis Laynor, a native of New York City, attended West Chester State College, West Chester, Pennsylvania, where he received a B.A. in psychology. He continued his education by attending Ohio State University, in Columbus, Ohio, where he received his M.A. in Student Personnel.

Dennis then worked at Muskingham College in New Concord, Ohio where he was a Residence Hall Director of the Men's Dorm.

Having been to France, Dennis enjoys travelling, and the theater.

Dennis is very objective and hopes to accomplish much with his stay here at Marian. He wants to change the image of the Hall Director to basically a hall coordinator.

He sees dorm life as something that can be invigorating as well as exciting. Dorm life should create an atmosphere where students can benefit most without having a baby sitter, is basically his view.

Looking into campus policies, Dennis would like to see Freshman Hours and the Alcohol Policy abolished. He sees room for possibly more visitation rights and someday even the existence of Coed Dorms here at Marian.

Dennis would like to know everyone personally here at Marian, and looks forward to meeting and talking to everyone involved in the Marian circle.

Intramural football season kicks off

by Ron Seibal &
Dave Jongleux

The 1973 intramural football season opened Sunday with all 8 teams seeing action. Each team came prepared with a few short practices trying to find the right combinations of a successful season.

Sunday's scores:
Bad Jases 39 P&D's Play-boy's 0
Vice Lords 32 Bruins 0
Dirty Dozen 26 Nut-crackers 0
Stoned Rangers 7 Degenerates 7

In the opener, Ken Aust threw for 4 touchdowns and ran one untouched for another. Wide receiver and Aust's favorite, Rick Martin, caught two and intercepted one only to be stopped by one last defender before reaching the end zone. Wally ("Brick House")

Leibel ran back an interception adding to the total and Joe Putz threw a key-block for Scott Vonderheide's T.D. catch. Vonderheide finalized the score adding his own extra point. Rounding out this top contending team are Baxeley, Fisher, Schroth, Kurtz, Burrett, Ollier, and Hayes. Look out Lords!

The Vice Lords, lead by Pat Zapp's needle throwing, scored 3 T.D.'s in their first five offensive plays and coasted from there to a 32-0 win. Jongleux, Farrell and Gerth are the primary receivers with the Leugers, Moose, Morgan and Purcell blocking for Zapp. Bill Eckman is a new addition to the team that will help in the rushing department. Hobbitt "Foxy" Ryan is an all purpose man throwing for his first interception in the contest. How bad is bad--Jose?

Padgett's Dirty Dozen also swept by Sunday with a 26-0 clout over the newly wed Nutcrackers. Receivers Puckett, Fornuto, O'Conner and Ketter are looking for strikes from Joe Kuzmitz or Russ Pawlak both vying for the Quarterback plot. Jim Coch, Dave Stark, Padgett, Jones and Laffer strengthen the team's defense while Al(Toe) Dorko is called for special duties. The Toe looks for a scrapping year after missing his first extra point boot, but sees possibilities of surprising upsets.

The Nutcrackers lead by Art Stoll will regroup for Wednesday's game after being shut out by the Dozen. The team didn't look bad considering its first contest. Stars on the could be Dave Voche, John Beckett, Pat Durkin, and Terry Byrnes. Others are Wally Weber, Joe McGuire, Mark Drury, Mike Emming, Joe Droner, Terry Baker and Dan Krekeler. First names have been given to aid the frosh in getting acquainted and pulling together. Maybe they'll score in Wednesday's game.

Also hampered by defeat, the Bruins will try to get a full team united before next week. Pat Henessey leads this last minute team in hope for a rewarding season. Terry Henessey (Pat's brother and primary target) is ready along with G. Griner, Rich, Dugan, Buchanan, Combs, M. Mauer, Stride, Bosic and Rolman, all looking for a challenge.

The third team suffering the agony of defeat, the Playboys, are lead by co-captains Jon Driscoll and Bill Platt with Steve Whitsett at the helm and ace receiver Randy "Howard" Porter at the wing. Other Playboys are T. Lang, D. Horan, L. Shewmaker, B. Sunan, M. Millisor, M. Marsh and Felix Wong all looking for action and fun. Are the Playboys this year's Hobbitt's Heroes?

In the final game, the Stoned Rangers lead by Mr. B. Doherty could only settle for a tie with the Degenerates, playing as a family. Jim Stockrahm has the quarterback post looking for Jerry Stockrahm and Jim Sherman as primary receivers. Ed Sherman is a veteran blocker with Dave Martini, Tom Fahery, M. Ware, and K. Bigbee on the line. John Klemen is a surprise to the team as well as Steve Bickley, a standout. Bill Doherty, calling the signals for the Rangers, has the arm, but lacks the receivers. Hopeful targets are J. Kretschmann and D. Bruer. Also dismayed with 7-7 tie were other Rangers, Tom Cebulko, T. Koester, Don Masten, G. Rodick, T. Sluss. Leon, Charlie Kishman, Greg Chopin and Dan Geyer. The Rangers scored early and lead all the way until 19 seconds before the gun when Steve Bickley tallied on a strike from Jim Stockrahm.

The teams look tough and ready to go. Some a little weak, but with experience will improve. The top teams look like Bad Jases and Vice Lords, but the Dirty Dozen are out to upset the glory seekers. Wednesday the Nutcrackers will take on P&D's Playboys.

Next weeks's results will aid pre-season predictions and an exclusive on the newly formed Marian College Soccer Team.

RACEWAY PARK

Day & night road race

Indianapolis Raceway Park, located just west of Speedway on U.S. 136 will bring to Indiana for the first time a night road race featuring some of the top drivers in the country, along with a daylight challenge on the 2½-mile road course.

Javelins, Firebirds, BMW's, Camaros and Mustangs in Group I, and Corvettes Porsches, Panteras and Lotuses in Group II, will compete Sunday, October 14. The Baby Grand cars--Pintos, Opels, Datsuns, Mazdas, Austins, Fiats, Alfa Romeos and other small but fast moving cars will run the night before, using available lights.

Road racing is not new to Indianapolis, but the exciting competition which this International Motor Sports Association package offers is new.
