

"Pass the salt, please."

"Gladly."

Outside the battle rages. Far away, a child picks through a garbage heap for food. Closer, a man is told that the food at the restaurant down the street is much better.

"Lovely day, isn't it?"

"Quite."

And here at MARIAN life continues in our own little dome-covered world. All is taken care of for us. Three times a day food is automatically laid out for our dining pleasure. A soft bed and warm room welcome us every night. Leisure time is at our command. Little is left for us to do except, oh yes, to decide when to get up, whether to study or to "perc it," when to catch that new flick, whether to....

For four years, or more, we risk, and often succumb to, the danger of falling into complacency and indifference. We run, or shy away from, any commitments or basic decisions. A sugar drug keeps us on a four year trip. We ignore our larger responsibility as functioning members of the college community, as citizens, as human beings.

"Hell, decisions and commitments take time. Besides, they may hurt. It's much easier to float along on that soft white cloud which glides through the light, blue sky, the fresh breeze washing across our faces."

But then the drugs wear off, we wake up to face reality, stark reality. What are you going to be? Who are you going to vote for? How can we pay the rent this month? Donate blood to who?

"Hey man, hold it, not so fast. I'm not use to this. I haven't had any experience. Let me sleep a while longer--just a few more minutes--five more."

"Pardon me sir but your lease on life has expired. Good-bye."

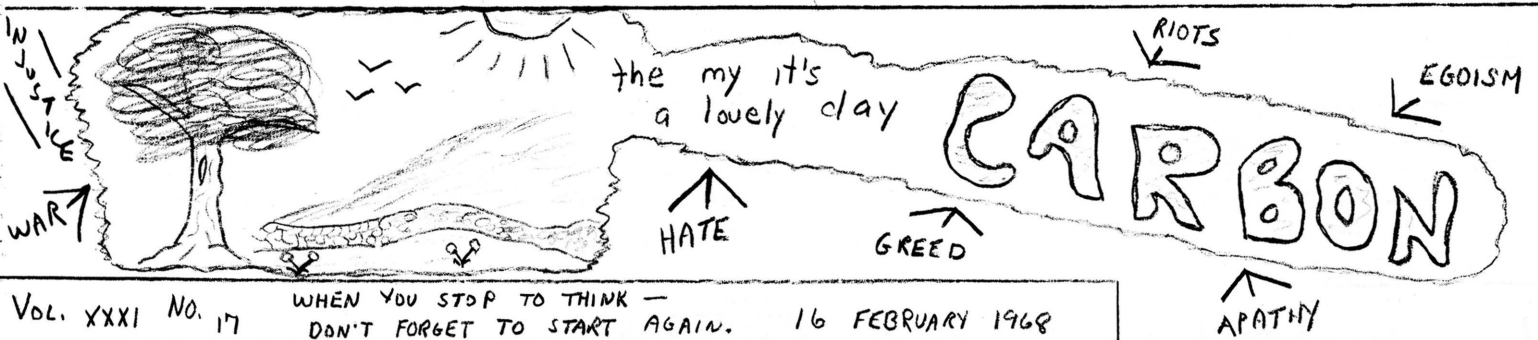

Will we continue to take the drug, continue to stretch out that pleasant nap, or will we answer the call for conviction and commitment that beckons from our community, from our society, from our fellow man, from ourselves? Today, especially today, the need for this conviction and commitment to our fellow man is great. But will we still

After a week of voting for everything under the sun, we might try to settle down to a few non-democratic activities this week such as the Sweetheart's Ball tonight at the Westside K.O.F.
from 9:00 til midnight. Music will be provided by the "Highlighters" (aren't you thrilled?)
In case you decide that you're not in the mood for dressing up, you can always head over to the auditorium tonight for the presentation of three medieval farces. It's a project in the Theatre in the Round, and with names like Everyman, Second Shepherd's Play, and Gammer
Gorton's Needle can you see why they call them farces? There are some tickets left, so do make it a point to see them either tonight, Saturday
Sunday or Monday nights at 8:00 p.m.

Next monday, Feb. 19 at 11:30 a.m., John O'Hara and Patty Tangler, your student reps to the Educational Policies and Curriculum Committee will be in the Merc to answer and solicit questions.

INTRAMURAL FAVORITES ROLI TOWARD SHOWDOWNS

The pre-season favorites in both divisions have fulfilled expectations thus far and now face their final preparatory contest en route to their showdowns with their respective league challengers.

In the Atlantic Division co-favored faculty, WCCF's and Cleon's Peons own unblemished records after last Sunday's action. The faculty downed stubborn Hill's Angels 40-26, the WCCF's routed the Manuah Mixers 51-18 inspite of the help offered by Oscar Graf to the Mixers, and Cleon's Peons romped to a 77-23 conquest of the Lost Souls. The Organ Grinders cut down the Professional Students 42-23 in other action.

Pacific Division action saw Berger's Boozers and Big 8 emerge undefeated, as expected, through last Sunday. The Boozers uncorked a tough 38-33 win over the Pacers, Big 8 trampled the frosh Cremus 62-16 while other tilts saw the Bowery Boys rout Dumbrowsky's Dummies 52-17 and the Bruins dump the Mod Squad 47-36.

Feb. 16(Friday) sked: PACIFIC DIV.

6:00 Berger's Boozers vs Dumbrowsky's Dummies
7:00 Cremus vs Pacers
8:00 3rd Reich vs Bruins

2:00 Bruins vs Oremus
3:00 Pacers vs Dummies
4:00 Boozers vs Mod Squad

VARSITY BASKETBALL

MARIAN made it three in a row last Saturday as the Knights downed Tri-State's cagers 76-74 at Angola. Two free throws by Jeno Ancelet with 5 seconds showing on the clock were the margin of difference as the MARIANites attoned for the setback by one point administered by the Tri-Staters here last year. Jeno had 14 points for the night but Cleon's charges were led by George Schmalz's 19 points while Larry Brodnick was limited to 15 points and Tim Berger came off the bench to contribute 11 points.

The victory string was broken the next day in Grand Rapids, Michigan as the Knights dropped a 78-73 verdict to Aquinas College on the Tommies' home floor. The Tommies were down by 13 at halftime but roared back in the second half to outscore the Reynoldsmen 44-26. Larry Schmalz and Larry Brodnick headed MARIAN scorers with 15 each while Tim Berger popped in 14, Joe Bittlemeyer canned 13, and Jean Ancelet nicked up 12 in the losing effort.

The Knights played possibly their best game of the season and still couldn't pull off a victory as the Earlham Quakers outscored the Marianites 13-8 in overtime to escape with a 103-98 heart-stopper.

Down by a 46-36 count at half, the Knights roared back in the second half and finally took

BOARD REPORTS

Board Meeting - Feb. 11

Attendance Down 33%

(4 of the 5 members absent sent a substitute but the substitute is not entitled to vote.)

Student Board move to save Lynch

John Lynch, former dormie, has been asked to remove himself from his position on the Student Welfare Committee, however, the Student Board in response to the removal moves to reinstate John stating that he is still very capable of fulfilling his function as a representative of Doyle Hall.

(ed.note: John was reinstated as of Thurs.. Feb. 15.)

NSA provides Education Symposium at St. Mary's

Perhaps N.S.A. should sponser a symposium on educating... Student Board members. After much trivial deliberation the motion passed to send 3 juniors and/or sophomores.

Problems relating to this motion were probably caused due to an on the spot unorganized motion by Ann Massa followed by frugal money-minded board members Rick Entrikin and Steve Miller's comments who felt that Academic Affairs Committee members couldn't gain anything at the 2-day conference. One wonders if it is not beneficial to involve committee members insid symposiums in order that they will become more interested and enlightened in and about academic affairs.

Inter-club Council met Thursday afternoon to further plan the up-coming carnival. Also the idea of a club-president workshop in early spring was suggested. This seems to be a real opportunity for the ICC to prove it's worth.

What happened to the tentative Academic Affairs Committee meeting planned for this week?

the lead at 10:39 to play, holding the lead until the last seconds of regulation play.

Larry Brodnick broke loose for 25 points to lead the Knights, Joe Bittlemeyer followed with 19, John Hendricks clicked for 16, Jeno Ancelet collected 13 while Larry Schmalz and Tim Berger chipped in 10 each. Mike Martin bombed in 41 points, high for the Quakers.

Marian returns to the court Tuesday night to test Indiana Northern in Reynolds Fieldhouse.

Marian's cage beauties tamed the she-beast of Franklin College on the home court Wednesday by a 36-11 count to run their fine mark to 5-1.

Francie Feistritz again led the way even though she was held to 13 points. Linda Heichelbach followed with 11, Dot Mettel and Terry Disque netted four each. Indiana Central invades Reynold's Fieldhouse Monday night in the Maid's next tilt. Eyeball the scene, fans.

SETTING THINGS STRAIGHT

Q. How is the Student /Academic Affairs Committee structured?

A. Presently there are five functioning sub-committees. These include:

1. A committee to compile a list of students in the major and minor fields offered at MARIAN. These students to be used as reference people and consultants.
2. A committee to evaluate the textbooks being used at MARIAN.
3. A committee to develop a questionnaire(s) evaluating teachers and/or courses.
4. A committee to investigate a possible study period prior to finals.
5. A committee to investigate the possible availability of other books (books other than those strictly required for courses) in the bookstore.

Q. What is the Jack O'Hara Dramatic Award? (Found hanging in the lobby in front of the Auditorium.)

A. "This award is presented by the Players for outstanding contribution to MARIAN College theatre, awarded to a graduating senior. It is not necessarily an annual award, but to be given only when the Players recognize outstanding contribution."--Mr. Robert Moran.

Q. How were the members of the President's Student Advisory Board selected?

A. "Areas which should be represented were recommended by the Student Board. Individuals from these areas were selected by members of the administration in cooperation with Dr. Guzzetta. These members are to be tentative appointments. Members of the permanent advisory committee, which will meet on February 26, are to be chosen from a list of names submitted by the present tentative committee."--Tom Turner

ROUND NAPTOWN

Finally, after exhausting all the thrills and excitement of continental Europe, Africa, South America, and the Bahamas, the International Jet Set has turned to Indy, Fun City, U.S.A. for new "highs".

For their cultural appetites they will feast their souls at Clowes Hall tonite at 8:45 p.m. when classical guitarist John Williams accompanies the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra. Culture will then give way to comedy when Wayne Newton sings out on Wed., Feb. 21 at 7:00 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. (he gets two chances!)

On I.U.'s campus the greatest pantomimist alive, Marcel Marceau will perform at 8:00 p.m. tomorrow. A "must" for anyone who would appreciate it. Tickets are $1.50-$4.

Next on the schedule will be a fast game of archery at Midway Archery Lanes, 1003 N. Meridian open daily 1-11 p.m. and 9:30 a.m.-11 p.m. on weekends. Then on to the Custom Auto Show at the Fairgrounds Agricultural Building tonite thru Sunday. Finally, all will unwind at the Black Curtain Dinner Theatre, 2145 N. Talbot watching The Fifth Season at 8:30 p.m.

For those who want to entwine instead of unwind The Graduate is now at the Cinema II at 2, 4, 7:50 and 9:45 p.m. Dare to defy the Legion of Decency and organized free thinking everywhere.

Well, that wraps up the stopover in Naptown. Next on the Set's itinerary is a 3-week rest in a Siberian salt mine.

produced, through the courtesy of Time-Life, so that all Americans could witness one of the soldiers leaving the field of battle, and bloody face and belly dragging in the sand.

Aside from keeping the careers of clever photographers gratifying and profitable, moments like these move one to dangerous doubts about the potential success of human endeavor. With a little creative thought, the sudden death of a single boy makes a war which has become a national past-time to McNamaras, Snocks, Rusks and Galbraiths across the nation become overwhelmingly indicting evidence supporting the proposition that men are not so rational as they would like to think.

It's wonderfully convenient that we, in a bustling urbanized society have devised innumerable means for sublimating, or denying the futility and emptiness of human efforts toward the dissolution of world problems. Otherwise perhaps, altogether too many of us wouldn't wait for wars, typhoons and other catastrophes to kill us off, but might be tempted to flood the mail order gun trade, and indulge ourselves in shameless exhibitions of suicidal prowess.

This writer, for one, has devised a guaranteed, foolproof system that leaves him free to enjoy his egg-shell protected world six days out of seven. This writer allows himself to look at that picture of the soldier being dragged to his final reward only once a week. But he only looks at it long enough to get sufficiently worked up to write clever phrases and sobbing lines lamenting the human-Thursdays-night-condition: and wakes up Friday morning to read the CARBON and wonder "Whatever made me write that...!"

NOT THAT IT MATTERS MUCH BUT...

A particularly devastating photograph in the recent Time magazine coverage of the Viet Cong Saigon offensive, testified to the ferocity of the conflict by showing two G.I.'s each tugging at a lifeless ankle, performing the unharpy task of pulling a freshly-slaughtered comatriot carcass out of the line of fire. With merciless clarity, a fleeting, horrible moment was captured on film, flown across the seas and re-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PLACEMENT NEWS

Dear Editor:

In the past few years at MC I have noticed a kind of new spirit of evaluation and change which is beginning to amount to a revolution. Especially this past year students have been questioning exactly where their rights and those of the administration-faculty-personnel complex lie. Only three years ago there seemed to be an excessive concern about coffee machines and boring week-ends.

The center of interest has shifted to one concerning student rights and the role of the student body in the whole operation of the college. Enthusiastic responses can be noted in the profile of the welfare board's decision on hours and in Dr. Cuzzetta's attitude, indicating a potentially hopeful level of communication. This type of basic change in attitude on most levels constitutes a real revolution. What is happening at present is that each party is feeling each other out to determine exactly what the other wants and how far they will bend.

But I would warn that this initial period must necessarily terminate. The time is approaching when some action will be taken. A great deal of tension exists now and whether or not any action will be mutual depends on how this tension is resolved. Therefore, it appears imperative that all concerned withdraw a bit and try to honestly redefine their rights and responsibilities. The character of an institution cannot be determined by a policy but by all the elements that compose it. There is no way to exclude students from this!

A few points--should the academic concerns of the faculty rightfully include ratification of the decision on hours? can the student personnel services honestly presume to moral censure. why can't a student of 21 and/or having parental consent decide where to live? should not the students be represented at faculty meetings? will the Student Personnel Offices offer services or a barrage of regulations?

There is no room for comparing MC to other institutions since we have our own personality and needs. What must happen is a disintegration of policies and rules and the building of a more basic level of communication. This alone will determine the nature of this revolution.

Until now it has been a quiet, cautious revolution, but the urgency for change increases daily. Heads may roll on either side, so I hope we can measure up and meet face to face in dialogue and then act together. But vive la révolution.

Sincerely,
Dennis von Pyritz

And to look ahead a bit, next friday, is another of the fine films and when we saw what it was about we thought "You gotta be kidding!" It's a Japanese thing about the search for meaning to life by a man who knows he has but a short time to live. Ben Gazzara, won't you (continued next column)

Recruiters, the kind who want you to work, will be on campus on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of this coming week recruiting for Western and Souther Life Insurance (Northerners need not apply) and for Presidential and Royal Globe Insurance. The Department of Army Finance Center will also be here Tuesday.

Both the Firestone and Civilian Careers with the Department of the Air Force scheduled visits were cancelled due to a lack of any interested students. These two visits can be rescheduled, though, if there is an interested student or three. Any other new or changed recruitment dates will be posted on the main bulletin board in MARIAN Hall.

Dear Editor:

I just thought that some of your readers might be interested in reading something that appears in the March, 1968 issue of Esquire Magazine, "The Magazine for Men":

GREAT TRUTHS OF OUR TIMES:

Everyone knows,
or should know, that a Woman's Body is not just a sex object to lust
after but is really Very Beautiful if regarded as a Work of Art. Also,
everyone should know that a Photographer is not just a man with a

please come home! (the "eagle" on Clare 3rd floor needs you!)

Now, for the moment you all have been waiting for: the SAC Ping Pong Tournney Rules!! (Are you ready?) 1) All contestants must be registered before Feb. 21 and must have paid the 25¢ per person entrance fee to Bob Crouch. 2) All paid entrants will then be matched by drawings and these matchings will be announced. 3) A period of one (1) week will be allowed for the completion of each round in the Tournney 4) It is the personal responsibility of each victor to notify SAC director Bob Crouch of the victory before the week allocated for that round is ended.

5) there will be three categories: 1. Men's singles; 2. Women's singles; 3. Mixed Doubles (an entrant may be entered in two or more divisions but must pay an additional 25¢ for each division entered)

6) The champions will be awarded either with trophies or a standing plaque.

7) It is the responsibility of the parties involved to solve all protests. (in the manner they see fit?)

8) It will be best two out of three contests. There they are ladies and gentlemen, in all their radiant beauty.
