

Pert Janet Kitchen returns with Serendipities

BY PATTY KANE

A little over two years ago, the Serendipity Singers visited Marian College for the first time. When they left, they stole one of Marian's most talented performers, Janet Kitchen. Last Friday night they returned to the scene of the crime, along with their hostage.

The show was well worth a 45-minute delay, due to a $5,000 theft of costumes in Detroit. Containing both medleys of "goldie-oldies" and current songs, the show was undoubtedly the finest to ever meet Marian audiences.

Since Janet has joined the Serendipity Singers, they have worked with such celebrities as Bill Cosby, Bob Hope, Oliver, and the Fifth Dimension. They have a weekly syndicated TV series, and are in the process of filming six specials.

In the special filmed in New Orleans, Janet has a solo spot. The others are being filmed in San Francisco, North Carolina, Atlanta, Houston and Chicago. The latter being the Midnight Special, hosted by Wolfman Jack. Be sure to watch the tube for this October performance.

Janet and her compadres keep a busy schedule, working 52 weeks out of the year. "But this year we will get a week off for Christmas!", she enthused.

The remainder of the Serendipity Singers are: Ed Hollingsworth, Caroline Coy, Marcie Gensic, Jim St. James, Dennis Arnold, and Ken Gedders, their musical director.

On behalf of the group, Janet wishes to thank all her MC buddies for giving them such a warm welcome.

Frosh bounce in style through orientation

BY L.L.

During the week of September 2 through September 6 the freshman class of Marian College was orientated, investigated and warmly welcomed to a new adventure—college life. Throughout the activities, assemblies, initiations, pizza parties, dances, and other informal parties, I developed the feeling that I was proud to be here at Marian, not only because of the high quality curriculum, but also because of the people. Jackie Thiesing, a freshman commuter originally from Ritter High School Indianapolis, commented on the M.C. student body, "I was especially impressed by the friendly atmosphere that greeted the freshmen at Marian."

"Sometimes it's difficult to leave your home, family and friends, to enter a college where you don't know anyone. Yet, the minute I arrived, Marian College became my home away from home. It didn't seem alien or frightening to me because of one element: the warmth of the people." This comment, voiced by Jim Ward, a freshman from South Bend, Indiana, illuminates on the previous comment. It centralizes the common feeling of warmth of the people.

Lisa Baker, also a freshman from Ritter High School, Indianapolis, commented on the basic ingredients of orientation, "I enjoyed orientation, however, I felt that the program might have been condensed into two days."

Joe Cochran interjected, "I thought the formalities were rather extended. In fact, they were dragged out. But everyone was friendly and that made preliminaries bearable."

Even in these slightly critical remarks, the undertone of friendliness was present.

I feel the songwriter James Taylor sums up the vibrations given by the faculty and student body at Marian, in respect to its newcomers, in his song YOU'VE GOT A FRIEND.

"You just call out my name, and you know where I am, I'll come runnin' to see you again. Winter, Spring, Summer, or Fall, all you have to do is call, and I'll be there; you've got a friend."

Day students organize; plan many activities

BY STACY VEREEN

Among the new freshmen, the new dean, and some new faculty members, the commuting students at Marian have a new organization on campus. Last May, day student representatives from the three returning classes met with other interested students to propose the Day Student Activity Organization.

The main objectives of the organization are to unite the commuters among themselves, bring them into the campus activities and serve as a vehicle for communication. Not only will the organization be set up for the commuters, but hopes to bring the resident students in as active members. This unification should help to dissolve the distinction between the commuters and residents. Since the organization was not yet officially recognized by the Student Board, activities during the summer were unofficial, used as a get-acquainted meeting to discuss the proposed constitution and to nominate temporary officers.

These are: soph Bill Lower, president; Elaine Watson, junior, vice-president; Don Masten, senior, treasurer; Jackie Thiesing, freshman, corresponding secretary; and Stacy Vereen, junior, recording secretary. Among the activities were a picnic at Eagle Creek Park, a day at King's Island, and a weiner roast at the school pool. The officers have met to work out a budget and plan activities for the year.

In organizing the commuters, car pools will be made to help with transportation to the campus for activities as well as the daily trip for classes. Since this is the first organization of its kind on campus, enthusiasm and interest has been high among the day students. The organization hopes to increase the interest of the resident students as it grows with Marian College. On Sunday, September 8, the D.S.A.O. constitution was clearly passed by the Student Board. As an established organization, activities will get underway immediately.

Program launched for volunteers

BY LUCY PRITZ
AND CHRIS McCORMICK

"A Volunteer extends his life to other life. And when life extends to other life, a mysterious and miraculous thing happens; both lives are enhanced."

Over the summer, U.B.I. and Manasa have been working together in efforts to start a Volunteer Services program at Marian. The purpose for such a program will be to actively involve Marian College students in the community through volunteer work. Also, this program will act as an intermediary referral agency for any student who wants to get involved in volunteer work and for any agency which may be looking for volunteers.

Presently, efforts have been made for this program to work out of Student Services and the Volunteer Services Office is located in Room 8 of SAC, ext. 585 or 259. The office will serve as an information center for possible areas of volunteer work, with a listing of different volunteer agencies which need volunteers. Also, a record will be kept of the number of hours a student does volunteer work.

As part of initiating this program, September 25, 26 and 27 will be "Volunteer Service Days" here at Marian. During these three days, a representative from the Marion County Welfare Department, Flanner House, Marion County Juvenile Court Volunteer Services, Noble School, Hospital Audiences, Inc. (H.A.I.), and the Deaf Ward of Central State Hospital will be on campus to meet with students and explain their programs.

Plans for year outlined

Greetings:

In this, my first editorial, I would like to extend thanks to all the enumerable people who have given their assistance in getting the Phoenix to press. Many times during the summer I wondered how to write my first editorial and the ideas rampaged through my head. At this instant I wish I would have recorded those thoughts for use now.

I am new at this. Being a science major, I don't have much occasion to express my thoughts in words. In many ways I might lack the professionalism expected by many a student, but I am only doing the best I can. All I ask for a little time to straighten out all the bends in the road, as it were. In no way do I want the paper to be the same as last year; it should continue to grow. With this growth will come change and I only hope it is beneficial to the Marian College Community.

New innovations are in the planning and hopefully they will improve the content of the paper. This edition has a guest editorial by John Klemen; in subsequent editions of the paper I plan to have more guest editorials by administrators, faculty and students. If directed properly, I believe they can be both informative and critical of situations concerning Marian College. The face value quality of the paper will be greatly enhanced by the generosity of Mr. Paul Fox, Director of Public Information. A cartoon is hopefully going to be added if a cartoonist can be found. In the editorials, I hope to achieve a certain relationship between Marian College and the "real world." I believe that the Phoenix should in fact make editorial stances which at many times may seem provocative, but will cause people to think.

Finally, I extend to anyone the opportunity to help us by giving feedback concerning the content, layout and function of the Phoenix.

LETTERS

To the Editors:

We would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Mrs. Mary Wassel, our campus switchboard operator, for the unusually heavy load of work she performed over the summer months.

No ONE person is aware of how many phone calls she answered, how many people she tried to locate for a caller, how many times she answered questions herself without bothering a staff person with trivia, how many directions she gave to salesmen, how many deliveries she signed for, how many stencils she typed, or how many frustrations were imposed upon her,

Although Mrs. Wassel literally has her finger on the pulse of the entire college community, the education department is one of the greatest beneficiaries of her services. This is due to the inordinate number of calls which come in related to the complications of licensing and job placements,

We just want you to know, Mary, that we've noted your smile with every single, "Good Morning, Marian College!"

Dan Niccum added to Admissions staff

The newest member of Marian's "front line"—the Admissions Office—is Daniel E. Niccum, who began work last month as Assistant Director of Admissions.

Niccum, 24, is a graduate of Indiana University, where he received an A.B. degree in sociology. He had attended Hanover College his freshman year and was active in student organizations at I.U., including Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity.

The New Haven, Ind., native sights from his previous experiences of college life the advantages of a small college over the big universities. One such advantage is that there are better interpersonal relationships between the faculty and students and among the students themselves.

In the words of Niccum: "It's great to be back in a small college atmosphere."

He succeeds D. Michael Pugh, who is pursuing graduate studies in college administration.

Year" for Indiana; a year with special emphasis on volunteer work. This is a new program for Marian College that offers a lot of opportunity. Show that you care by sharing and taking an active part in this program.

MCSA president speaks

Guest Editorial

When I assumed the MCSA presidency last year, I experienced intense ambivalent emotions toward my newly-acquired leadership position. I was proud of my accomplishment and confident that I could serve the students as well or better than any of my predecessors, yet I simultaneously experienced both humility for my colleagues and embarrassment for myself; the latter feelings were elicited by a phenomenon known collectively as "student apathy."

This obvious attitude surfaced during the Student Board elections, for two executive officer nominees ran unopposed. (It may be significant at this point to interject that of those candidates who did run for Board offices, other than day-student representative, only one candidate was a day student, and there was only one black candidate.)

I made a meager attempt to resolve the situation by publishing a derogatory letter in the final issue of the Carbon. It was aimed directly at those "apathetic" students who are the type that sit around, complain, and that's it. In essence, I equated those students with lethargic leeches, but now I believe that this opinion was a mixture of spontaneity and naivety on my part.

It was spontaneous because I had to get it off my shoulders, and it was naive because I assumed that it was a student's nature to become active. Fortunately, I have seen how getting involved can be rewarding—the only problem is to motivate the rest of those damn leeches!

K. Gibran wrote:

"Believing is a fine thing, but placing those beliefs into execution is a test of strength. Many are those who talk like the roar of the sea, but their lives are shallow and stagnant, like the rotting marshes . . ."

If you believe in something, be it large or small, the most important contribution that you as a student and a member of the Marian community can make is to take action; for dissipated knowledge without foundation is far less virtuous than unified knowledge incorporating action.

NEW FACULTY, STAFF PROFILED

We have quite a few new faculty members at Marian this year, but in introducing this member we couldn't really say this is her first year here because she has been on the Marian faculty since 1966.

Sister Margaretta Black is our new Dean of Academic Affairs. The Phoenix staff would like to congratulate Sister on her promotion and enumerate her background.

Sister Margaretta was born in Chicago, attended Marian and earned a B.A. in French. She then went to Case Western University in Cleveland and attained her master's degree, followed by a doctorate in French at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Sister describes the students here as "Very nice to work with and interested in studies as well as social life."

In her message to the students, Sister responded, "Take each day as it comes, and have a very successful year. Also remember that learning experiences in college really go beyond and include much more than the classrooms."

Although competition is an integral part of life for Bob Griesse of the Miami Dolphins, it was not part of his educational training under Sister Stella Gampfer, at Rex Mundi High School, in Evansville, Indiana.

Sister Stella is a new member of the English Department and has intrigued students with her non-competitive philosophy of education. Those who have experienced her style in either the Communication, Major American Authors, or American Romanticism courses know that Sister Stella believes that writing is a personal matter, and should not be inhibited by the competitive race for grades.

Born and raised in Cincinnati, Sister Stella received her B.A. degree from Marian and her M.A. degree from Notre Dame University. Her innovative methods and personal experience of Marian, should continue to make education enjoyable and interesting around the Marian community.

Sister Susan Bradshaw, originally from Indianapolis, is assistant professor in the history department and has spent the last four years earning her Ph.D. at Georgetown University. She is enjoying herself here at Marian and likes the warm friendliness that surrounds Marian people.

Sister Sue is already becoming active in the Religious Affairs Committee, starting with a Challenge Weekend, September 27-29, a spiritual weekend gauged for college-age youth. She expresses an honest concern for the welfare of not only students, but all people.

When asked for tips on what students definitely should or should not do while attending her classes, she replied: "Look interested. If all else fails, ask an intelligent question. And never, never fall asleep, or all the things that precede that, such as the yawning, the propping the chin or the head on the desk."

So, all you history people, keep your mind on the material and get a good rest before going to Sister Sue's class.

Serving as an instructor of theology, Father Francis E. Bryan has been added to Marian's faculty. Father Bryan has been teaching religion for twelve years and has also worked as the Associate Superintendent of Education and Director of Religious Education for the Archdiocese of Indianapolis.

Father Bryan received his undergraduate degree from St. Meinrad College. He, also, is attempting to complete his graduate degree in religious education at the Catholic University of America.

Because he enjoys teaching at the college level, Father Bryan decided to come to Marian to continue teaching theology. His special interests lie in the area of the Scriptures. Father Bryan hopes to continue teaching at Marian in the years to come.

Coming to Marian from teaching grade school in New Alsace, Indiana, is Sister Patricia Connor, the new Asst. Librarian. She earned a B.S. in Education from Marian and a M.A. in L.S. from Rosary College.

This is Sister Patricia's first experience in a large city. She's a typical farm girl from Wa Keeney, Kansas, which was named after its founders, Mr. Walker and Mr. Keeney.

Sister Patricia is currently an avid reader of science fiction and enjoys "working in such a beautiful library."

The Sociology Department of Marian has broadened its staff to include Mr. William Cisco, who has been teaching for the last eight years. Five of these years were spent at the Waukesha County Technical Institute, where he served as chairman of the Social Sciences Department.

Mr. Cisco has also served as a professional house parent at a home for emotionally-disturbed children and has taught a marriage and family course at the Sandstone Federal Prison.

He is presently a candidate for his Ph.D. in sociology at the American University in Washington, D.C.

Sister Mary dePaul Schweitzer carries the title of Acting Chairman of the Art Department. She was born and raised in Cincinnati, attended high school in Oldenburg, and was a full-time student at Marian during the 1963-64 academic year.

From Marian, she taught at St. Louis School in Batesville and later at St. Mary Academy in Indianapolis. The Tyler School of Art of Temple University in Philadelphia was her next stop, studying there last year to finish her in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Wesner plans to involve her students actively in professional organizations so they will be acquainted with and knowledgeable of their chosen careers. She hopes to maintain a high standard of education as set down by her predecessor, Sister Miriam Clare.

In early June, she arrived at Marian to become active in the summer session. Her most important objective for the Marian students is to help each person develop self-realization in terms of his own creativity.

Mrs. Connie Wesner, the new Head of the Home Economics Department, is a native of southern Indiana and has lived in Indianapolis for the last four years. She completed her undergraduate studies at Purdue University in West Lafayette, and her graduate work and internship at Indiana University Medical Center

Richard Moon is now the Director of the Drum and Bugle Corps of which he was a member. He earned his B.A. from Marian in 1974. Currently he is taking graduate courses in music at Butler University while living in the Doyle Hotel.

In 1973, Richard wrote the Corps' musical score for the Festival of States in Florida. Last spring he went with the Corps to the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C. This year he hopes to expand the size of the Corps to at least 80 members so the Knights can go to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans in February.

BLACK SOUNDINGS

BY CURTIS GOAR, O.S.B.

At the "jim crow" hour, Sunday September 8, 1974, another national fiasco took place, President Jerry Ford, alias Leslie Lynch King, Jr. pardoned Dick Nixon, alleged pirate in the Watergate Scandal. The media has stated that a flood of letters, telephone calls, telegrams, and the American Pickets Carriers, Inc., have been launched upon the White House. This act by Ford, states many Congressmen, has ended the honeymoon with Congress and may possibly cause a divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty. This double standard of pardoning before conviction has a great deal of possibilities. One being, the ruling dictator could pardon the new king before the taking of the crown for any act he may commit during his tenure in office, lest we have another Watergate on our hands.

There is a solution that I feel will make all concerned parties delighted, both those who feel Dick should be pardoned and those more stable Americans who feel he should not. Phillip Petit, an aerialist, was sentenced by a New York judge to 'high wire' Central Park, after his feat at the World Trade Centre Towers at 8 o'clock in the morning. I propose that Nixon be placed in stocks on the White House lawn (the east lawn) with the inscription above him reading, "Let me make this perfectly clear, I'm not guilty" for 24 hours to entertain the American public. Who knows — this may be the best performance in his career. Later...

Food service head promises 'new era' for cafe and Perc

BY JACKIE THIESING

Who keeps up with the Basic Four? Why it's Dave and that's what he's here for. Dave Friesen, a native of British Columbia, is the new and enthusiastic Director of Saga Food Services for Marian College. He holds a degree in Sociology and Anthropology from Western Washington State College in Bellingham, Washington.

Dave arrived at Marian College in June after serving as Food Service Manager for two years at the University of Loyola in New Orleans. Previously he had worked for Saga at colleges in the South, Southwest, and on the West Coast, Dave became acquainted with Saga during his college years.

Saga is a national food service company for colleges, high schools, grade schools, hospitals, and business and industrial plants. According to Dave, Saga is a young company but is fast becoming one of the leading companies for food services in the United States. Saga is primarily concerned with customer relations and keeping their customers satisfied. To accomplish this, Dave is now working with a food committee composed of commuter and resident students. Together they will endeavor to maintain a high quality food service here at Marian.

Dave also has a variety of plans for the Perc. These include a Pizza

DAVE FRIESEN

Parlor with delivery service to the dorms; an Ice Cream Parlor with 16 flavors; and a Country Store where items such as breads, cheeses, and "six-packs of pop" can be purchased. A bright future is in "store" for all the hungry students and faculty at Marian.

When I asked Dave how he felt about Marian hospitality he remarked, "I think the students and faculty at Marian are the nicest and friendliest people I have ever met, and I am looking forward to an enjoyable year this year and for many more years to come, I have set a goal for making Marian's food service the best there is."

Indy is . . . places to go

Thank god it's Friday is a cry that echoes through Marian Hall at the end of each week. Looking for a place to celebrate this momentous occasion? T.G.I.'s is the place for you! Located at 3500 E. 86th Street, T.G.I.'s is a restaurant-lounge that specializes in prices to fit the budget of the college student. Shrimp, chicken, and steak are among the dinners served ranging in price from $2.95 to $5.95. The dinners include salad and baked potatoe. I personally recommend the shrimp and chicken dinner, $3.95!!

Because of the great prices and the fact that it's a college hangout, there is usually a wait of about 40 minutes before you are seated to eat. Of course there is the bar to occupy your time. Be prepared to show one I.D.

'HAYRIDE TIME'

BY JUDIE DZIEZAK

It is once again time to don a pair of overalls and a flannel shirt for the Annual Hayride. Sponsored by the sophomore class, the event will be held Friday, September 20, from 8 to 10 p.m. A bus for the Saddle Horse Barn will leave the campus from Clare Hall at 7:30 p.m. for those without transportation.

The haywagon will trail the old country roads to the accompaniment of folk music, singing, and moonlight. Hotdogs and refreshments will be served at the bonfire, which is scheduled following the hayride.

All students—couples and singles—are invited to attend. Cost is 75 cents per person or $1.25 per couple.

'Booty' . . . joy, love

In all we do each day, let us take a moment to remember the joy, love, and total zest for life that was radiated by the girl weknew as "Booty," Mary Lou Scherch.

Danforth Fellows need applicants

Inquiries about the Danforth Fellowships, to be awarded by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., in March 1975, are invited, according to the campus representative, Sister Rachel West, assistant professor of history and political science, Room 211.

The Fellowships are open to all qualified persons of any race, creed or citizenship, single or married, who have serious interest in careers of teaching and-or administration in colleges and universities, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in any field of study common to the undergraduate liberal arts curriculum in the United States.

Applicants must be under 35 years of age at the time application papers are filed, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate. Persons must be nominated by Liaison Officers of their undergraduate institutions by November 20, 1974. The Danforth Foundation does not accept direct applications for the Fellowships. Approximately 100 Fellowships will be awarded in March 1975.

The award is for one year, and is normally renewable until completion of the degree or for a maximum total of four years of graduate study. Fellowship stipends are based on individual need, but may not exceed $2,025 for single Fellows and $2,200 for married Fellows for the academic year, plus dependency allowances for children and required tuition and fees.

Other fellowships may be held concurrently with a Danforth Fellowship, except for those administered through other programs of the Danforth Foundation. Income from other awards will be taken into consideration in determining the supplementary living expense stipend if the amount received is less than the Danforth Foundation maximum, and if the agency concerned will allow this.

The Danforth Foundation was created in 1927 by the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth of St. Louis as a philanthropy devoted to giving aid and encouragement to persons, to emphasizing the humane values that come from a religious and democratic heritage, and to strengthening the essential quality of education.

HEDDA GABBLES

A welcome is extended to all new students here at Marian. For those of you who did not read this column when it was first published last year, its format is basically a gossip column. All names mentioned should not be offended at what is written — all comments are aimed to be constructive or humorous and not malicious. Now that I've apologized to those who were upset about this column from last year, I'll get on to the news here at Marvin U.

Some people say that "no news is good news" but I need a few items to fill up space in this column so if you have any hot gossip just write it down and slip it in the PHOENIX mailbox — you don't have to sign your name.

Congratulations to all the couples from Marian who were married this past summer. Best wishes to all of you. To all of those who recently got engaged: good luck and future happiness.

Have you noticed a strange glazed look in the eyes of your fellow classmates these past couple of days? I believe this is a symptom of post Mug-Rack Reunion recovery and homework assignment syndrome. I mean, I believe in homework (once in a great while) but this is ridiculous.

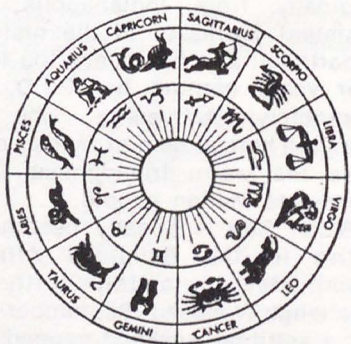

I heard a rumor that Chuck T. is going thru the process of being formally adopted by C.P. I knew you were interested in B.S. Chuck, but, this is too much. How is "Dad" by the way? In case you haven't noticed, the girls who lived in the Annex last year are walking around with sad expressions on their faces. Could it be they miss their Pepsi and popcorn parties? Well, can't think of much gossip this week so I'll sign off and wait to hear the comments on how boring this article was. See you next issue (unless they fire me!)

THE OCCULT CORNER

As Mercury rises, our astrological journey brings us to the 6th house, that of Virgo the Virgin. Characteristically, the Virgo native, born between August 23 and September 23, is very enduring and can adapt himself to tackle almost any situation he faces.

Tact, cautiousness and wisdom are among Virgoan attributes. His industrious nature wins him the tag of the "workhorse of the Zodiac." Sometimes this can even go as far as to pass up a Friday night at the Mug Rack to "book" for that important test on Monday morning.

All these factors combined with Virgo's desire for money, makes this sign one of the most susceptible to the business world; although other careers are sometimes chosen by the level-headed Virgoan.

Now for the flip side of the Virgoan personality. Virgo rarely praises anything and more often grumbles and criticizes. This does not mean very much, however, and is more a matter of habit rather than an expression of real disapproval.

Unfortunately, this penchant for criticizing often results in rebuff, which is a little hard for the Virgoan to stomach. Before long, however, the once-crushed Virgoan bounces back, smiling, more provocative than ever.

ORIENTATION WEEK BONFIRE—Sophs sit it out

Greetings once again, music buffs. Nothing new this year to speak of—just a few minor improvements here and there. Aside from a solo act, keep an eye out for the “Quickies”—it’s a review in two sentences or less. It’s purpose is to get more music your way, so beware. And keep reading.

BACHMAN-TURNER-OVERDRIVE:
“Not Fragile”

This is the group’s third work to date, and from the sounds of “Freewheelin’ ” and “Roll On Down the Highway,” it’s undoubtedly their best. Unlike the sound of the previous albums, the boys have finally achieved that tight-knit sound they once lacked. They’ve given us an entire album of good music; not just one or two legends thrown in with some filler.

Since last reviewing BTO, the Canadian-based group has grown from nothingness to one of the biggest acts in the country. They replaced Bob Bachman with the multi-talented Blair Thornton, and it’s helped more than just a little.

But it’s still C.F. Turner’s vocals that hit it with me, as well as some of the catchy melodies he and Randy Bachman conjur up. Age has given the group what they’ve needed: direction. No more turning around for BTO.

Aside from the previous listings, lend an ear to “You Ain’t Seen Nothin’ Yet,” as well as my favorite (and the lp’s best cut) “Blue Moanin’.” (Definitely good time rock ‘n roll.)

HEARTSFIELD: “The Wonder of It All

If you were to combine the sounds of CSN&Y, The Eagles, Poco, and NRPS, you’d have Heartsfield.

A six-man band hailing from Nashville, Heartsfield has more than effectively fused some strong, smooth vocals with an acoustic-folk rock (bluegrass if you will) style resulting in a new album that rates as one of the very best the Dog has stumbled across.

Their music isn’t exactly folk. Nor is it exactly country or bluegrass. It’s the sum total of all three, with a bit of foot stompin’-toe tappin’ thrown in to give it just a bit of spice. Mellow and acoustically superb, their music is above all refreshing.

All the guys write and sing, which shows quite a bit of depth as well as talent. “Pass Me By” is so nice, it’s hard to find words to describe it. “House of Living” and “I’ve Just Fallen” show two different sides of their music, while “Racin’ the Sun” showcases some of the best guitar work to be heard.

1974 could well be the year for Heartsfield. If it isn’t, though, it’s going to be the listener who pays the price. I’d give the band a good listen. They are well worth it. (Highly recommended.)

QUICKIES:

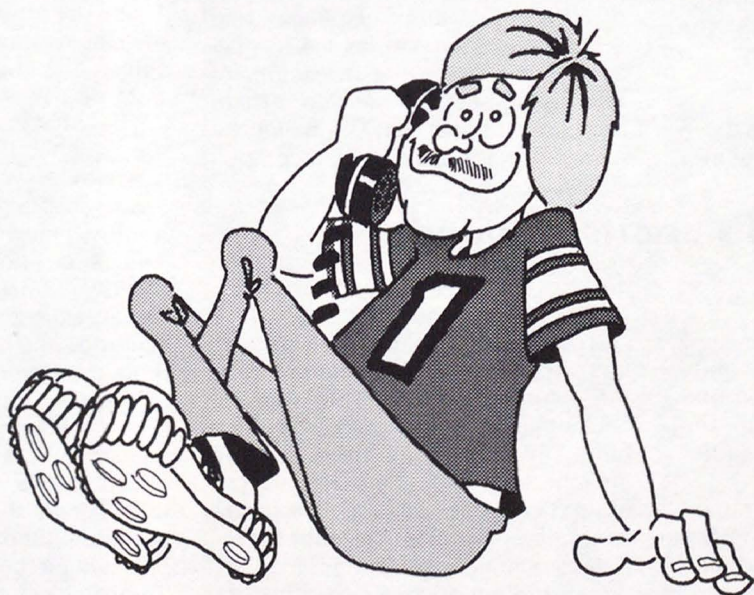

ROBIN TROWER: “Bridge of Sighs”—Jimi Hendrix lovers, wake up. Robin Trower has arrived with a sound that’ll make your ears tingle. Hard-driving rock all the way up . . . and all the way down.

TRAFFIC: “When the Eagle Flies”—We all know what happens on payday, and, sad to say, Winwood & Co. have done likewise. While not bad, it’s not what I’ve come to expect from the makers of “Empty Pages.” (Recommended for mellowing out after a Pit party.)

UFO: “Phenomenon”—Another English rock-roll band trying to soak the Yankees for all their dollars. While I do like the lp, I can’t honestly distinguish it from any other English album, which in the long run could be their downfall. (What else can I say, but that it’s good music?)

MC soccer club launches season

BY MARK FISCHER

The exciting new soccer season has officially opened with the first match against Depauw University last Saturday. Unfortunately we are unable to give you that score at press time.

The highlight of this season will be next week's game with the Notre Dame Soccer Team here at Marian, with a return match at Notre Dame.

This season's club will be gifted with nine returning veterans out of last year's starting 11. The mainstay of the club is the Ethiopian wonder, Eyassu Chernet, who is also the coach of the club.

Offensive stars for the team are: Felix Wong, Tom Schroth, Joe "Puma" Putz, Bor Chin Eap, and a newcomer to the squad, Jim Stout.

The defensive stalwarts are: Mike "Squirrel" Bazeley, Wally Leibel, Tom "Broke" Lang, and goalie, Tom Fahey.

This year's club should be much improved over last year's squad. We hope that the interest in soccer in the Marian Community will equal the growing interest in the sport found around the country.

Sportsmanship, not the "win-at-all-costs" attitude, will be the main goal of the club. If you are interested in joining the club, contact Mark Fischer, Ext. 287, or Don Dunevant, Ext. 320.

Intramurals: men's sport scope

BY CURT STOLL

On Sunday, September 22, Marian College intramurals will kick off another year with the beginning of the football season.

Commissioner Tom Schroth reports that the league will be composed of five teams this year, including last year's runners-up, the Bad Jose's. A revitalized, veteran Stoned Rangers' team that hopes to pose a threat to the Jose's, followed by several yet untried teams.

Women's sports abound

With the opening of the new school year comes the opportunity to lose those extra inches around the middle. How? — through the Marian College women's sports program.

During the fall, intramural volleyball is played bi-weekly in the Clare Hall Gym. Here many women find themselves serving, spiking, and occasionally slipping to the floor in an effort to put their team on top.

In addition to intramural volleyball, varsity competition swings into gear with try-outs being held in early fall. Many practices

MARIAN SOCCER—Season warms up

MC B-ball packing for odyssey of travel

BY MEL ARNOLD

The 1974-75 basketball season is still two months off, but for the returning veterans and new freshmen, it means many hours of grueling practice before the November 16 opening game. This year's scheduled opponents are the hardest to confront a Marian team. Added to the roster are NCAA powers St. Joseph and The University of New Orleans. NAIA powerhouse Alcorn A&M is also an added torpedo. The Knights play in the Wabash Cannonball Classic in late December with Coe College of Missouri and Slippery Rock State.

Looking over the prospects this year, one must smile. Headed by juniors Brian Wallace, Stan Bengé and Mel Arnold, the Knights will be faster than in years past. Returning sophomores include Andy Krakowiak and Rick Mack. Ed Watko, who successfully tried to stop a lawn mower with his foot this summer will be out of action most of the year. Other veterans are Wayne Poore, Big John Folkerth and Bob Nocton, who has retired his jersey to take over the underground coaching responsibilities. Another face to watch will be senior Bill Fox, who looked impressive this summer and will try his luck in his final year of higher education.

Looking at the new people, the freshmen would make you smile, also. Mike Kilcline, a 6'6" 205 pounder from Kokomo heads the list. His high school running mate, 6' guard Tom Bergman is also a top prospect. Guards Chris Russell and Dave Chandler come to Marian with lots of experience behind them. Last, but not least, is 6'3" swingman Jim Dossman from Indianapolis Brebeuf High School. These five should add more color to the team this year. Speaking of color, the team will sport new warmups this year.

The spacious Naval Armory, a tough schedule and players should make it a very interesting year. Team captain, 6'7" sophomore Andy Krakowiak feels the same. Andy's outlook is like that of a positive businessman on Wall Street. He sees the team as young, exciting, and quick, but with much room for improvement. Andy also thinks the frosh have big shoes to fill and will play a big role in the team's success this year.

The team's trip to New Orleans this year will be a big lift to Marian basketball and the college as well. This will be the longest odyssey the Knights have ever taken and it will be first class all the way.

So, fans, there you have it, a pre-season peak at Marian U. basketball. All that's left is the fans, so come November, back the Knights. Remember, the team is playing for you.

Golfers teed off

BY PAUL KERN

Most people associate fall with the opening of schools, the harvesting of corn, and the opening of the wild boar hunting season, but few people associate golf with fall here at Marian College, until this year when the golf team begins its inaugural autumn season.

Col. Roy Pille, who is entering his fifth year as head man, is confident that his golf team will break the .500 level this year. His hopes rest on the experience and talent of his squad. Included in this squad is Joe Kuzmity, who in his fourth year of golf competition, leads the team. Seniors Jim Kilps and Mike Elward and junior Jon Driscoll are also strong returning players while Jim Reinstatler and Tom Bergman are relatively new faces at Marian, Jim being a transfer from Northwood and Tom, a freshman from Kokomo.

Actually the term, team golf, is a misnomer because teamwork isn't stressed like other sports that call for the players to work together such as, field hockey or donkey baseball. In fact, individual results are the only scores that count. After playing 18 holes each, the top 4 out of 5 scores are registered and a winner is then determined.

With such emphasis on the individual results, Col. Pille insists he only co-ordinates, not coaches, his team since his golfers do a lot of their own coaching. Plus, the title Coach Colonel Roy F. Pille is a little too wordy.

The opening match of the fall season began on September 10 with the Butler Invitational at Coffin, in which Marian got off to a little shaky start and finished 9th. Hopefully the players had all their bad luck for the year and horseshoes will abound in their coming matches which include September 23 against Indiana Central at Hoosier Links, and October 1 and 10 against Butler at Riverside and Coffin respectively, so come out and watch the team get "teed off!"
