Braun named new Clare Hall RD

by Laura Horner

Among the new faces at Marian this year is Clare Hall's new resident director, Tricia Braun. Braun graduated from Franklin College and currently takes classes at IUPUI to obtain a degree in sociology and receive her teaching certificate. She plans to teach high school and then eventually college.

Braun learned of the position for resident director through the vice president of Franklin College who submitted her name to William Woodman, Marian's dean of student services. Having been a resident assistant for two years, she has the necessary experience. Braun says, "I see my role as R.D. to be a support for the R.A. staff and also to be available for students. I also see myself as a facilitator between the administration, the R.A. staff and the students."

She wants to see more unity between upper classmen and lower classmen, and between the residents of Clare, Doyle and St. Francis Halls. Eventually, the upper-classmen will become role models.

In the area of discipline, Braun thinks the new system of fines is more defined. "I feel this system will be black and white. There will not be any need for judgment calls, and there will be more consistency."

Braun is from the east side of Indianapolis and from a family of twelve children. Her twin brother and she are the youngest. Recently, she became an aunt for the seventeenth time. Being from a close family, she fits in with the friendly atmosphere of Marian.

Braun involves herself in many activities including running, basketball, making crafts and with religion programs for high school seniors. At Franklin, she played basketball and was a member of the sorority Pi Beta Phi, in which she is still active through the alumni club.

International Club hosts Fest

by Kimberly Blair

On Wednesday, September 13, the International Festival took place in front of St. Francis Hall from 11:30 to 2:30. The festival was planned by the International Club and the English Language Services (ELS) program.

Arts and crafts were on display from the various countries inside the lobby of St. Francis Hall. Booths were manned by students in the ELS programs and consisted of foods native to the various countries. There was a booth where ELS students translated a person's name in their native language.

International items were on sale in two booths: Global Gifts and U.N.I.C.E.F.

There was also a booth in which students were able to sign up for the Conversation Partners Program. A student studying French, Spanish, and German could converse with ELS students in their native language. In turn, the student can help the ELS student in English.

Entertainment was present through a mixture of international music. People in attendance at the festival were entertained by the Japanese ELS Students who sang their national anthem and "If You're Happy and You Know It, Clap Your Hands" in their native tongue.

Jami Gonzalez from Panama commented, "We should have more festivals like this at least once a year. We are very proud of (please see FEST, continued on page 3)

Letters to the editor

Liturgy in a time capsule?

After attending the opening of school liturgy, I wondered if I had been placed in a time capsule moving backward. Years ago, I remember attending liturgies where I watched the action and was sung to. But then, Vatican II happened, and I went to college. I was involved and participated actively in liturgy. The meal was a celebration and a bonding experience for students and faculty alike. The music invited us to joyfully respond and generously extend the peace and fellowship we experienced far beyond the campus. My classmates and I acknowledged with pride and gratitude that we had a role in the "new church." What a high to have our gifts and talents used in practice and not just given lip service from the pulpit.

I wonder if the community at Marian will ever know that high again. If we do not bless one another with this experience, who is going to continue to carry the message and keep it alive in our parishes? Will we be relegated to attending services that have little meaning and no power to fan the flame of life; will we not learn the new song that can lighten the steps of our journey?

As a Catholic college, do we not have an obligation to the Church of tomorrow? Are we not expected to prepare, in a special way, our students to assume full, meaningful positions in their own local churches? Shall we not gift them with an experience of community which will enable them to go forth and challenge their congregations to growth?

A concerned alumna

Thank you

We would like to thank Tina Kunkler and Stacey Nicholas who took their time and energy to mop up Lake St. Francis after the rain on Saturday, September 9. There are also two gentlemen who helped on that same Saturday afternoon whose names we do not know.

Lake St. Francis came to life again with the rains on Thursday morning September 14. This time maintenance was able to identify the problem and hopefully the lake will never again "spring" to life. To all of you, a very heartfelt "thank you."

The Carbon, a source of news and information as well as an open forum for the Marian College Campus community, is not an official publication of Marian College and does not necessarily reflect the views of the college administration, faculty, or editors. Readers are invited to submit timely and relevant letters of opinion to the editors. Such letters should not exceed 150 words and must include the author's name and phone number. For verification purposes the letter must also be dated and signed. Telephone numbers will not be published, nor will anonymous letters be published. Letters may be edited for clarity and brevity. Editors have authority to reject any letter they feel to be potentially libelous, obscene, inflammatory, or in poor taste. Ordinarily such letters should aim to address issues, clarify events, promote understanding, or clearly identify what is going on in an event, issue, or scene. No guest editorials will be accepted unless explicitly solicited by the editors. Unsolicited pieces will be treated as letters to the editors. Letters to the editors must be turned in to the Carbon's mailbox in the faculty mail room by 12:00 noon, Monday, the week they are to run.

Any campus club or organization sponsoring an event can advertise in the Carbon at no charge by submitting a 4"x5" ad to the Carbon in the Carbon mailbox in the faculty mailroom one week before the ad is to run. If typesetting is required, the ad must be submitted two weeks in advance, and a fee will be charged. The Carbon will run the ad for the two weeks preceding the announced event.

Events or informational notes can be submitted for the Knightly notes by campus organizations or persons. The text must be 50 words or less. The deadline for Notes is Mondays at 12:00 noon in the Carbon mailbox. The editors reserve the right to edit all advertisements and notes submitted.

Senior profile

by Beth Peter

Scott Van Alst, biology major, comes to Marian College from Shenandoah High School in Middletown, Indiana. It was a small school, which may be one reason why he chose to attend Marian. He is the second oldest in a family of four. He has an older brother and two younger sisters.

Van Alst is vice president of the Senior Class and also co-captain of the cross country Team. During his junior year, he held the position of secretary for his class. He has run cross country all four years of his college career.

Presently, Van Alst works and lives at a local mortuary. He describes this unique experience as a "great opportunity." It is a paid job plus a free place to live. The problem is that commuting back and forth from campus is often inconvenient. The physical closeness and camaraderie of Alverna Hall are some things he misses this year.

Van Alst had applied and been accepted to Purdue and planned to attend school there until he made the campus visit. He and his mom were there only 15 minutes and got lost trying to find their way around. After learning from Doctor Donald French, director of admissions, about Marian's Cross Country Program, Van Alst visited Marian and decided this was the place for him.

Van Alst commented about Marian, "What makes this campus special is the people. We may not have some things, like a student activity center, but everybody is friendly to everybody else which is what really counts."

Van Alst plans to enter the field of medical technology. He will need to take another year of classes possibly at Methodist Hospital or St. Francis Hospital in Indianapolis or Ball Memorial Hospital in Muncie. He would eventually like to attain a medical doctorate.

When asked if there was anyone he would like to thank for helping him during his college career, Van Alst replied, "It would definitely be my mom. She's been very important."

our cultures and want everyone to know our cultures."

Carlos Hernandez from Spain said, "It's a good idea to share the cultures of different countries."

"I think it was a good idea, but the food part would have been better inside. The bees and flies may have made people wary of trying it," explained Kenny Richards, a senior.

Junior Regina Garza thought it was a good idea to see an effort being made from Marian and ELS students to learn about each others cultures.

Senior Trisha Miller thought it was interesting. She has 15 pen pals all over the world, but it was nice to meet exchange students in person.

"Anyone who wants to join in activities the ELS has planned are welcome, as well as to the International Club activities," said Rob Deems, president of the International Club.

Lighter side

by Michael Rinard

As the inmates filed off the bus, the turnkeys straightened out the lines when the warden addressed the new inmates. "This camp is a maximum security camp. There have been no successful escapes from here as long as I have been warden. You will conduct yourselves as prisoners and you have no rights! Your cell doors will be locked. As a matter of fact, all of your doors will be locked. You will have no visitation from the outside."

While the warden was speaking, the new inmates could see above him a figure of a person climbing down a homemade sheet ladder to the ground. Just then a guard in the north tower opened fire on the subject, spraying debris and red-splattered bits of clothing all over the area.

"See," said the warden, "no one escapes from my camp! Turnkeys, take charge of these prisoners." With that, the warden walked back into his air-conditioned office. The turnkeys marched the prisoners through the large, steel main door and as they slammed shut, the first turnkey said to the new arrivals, "This is your last contact with the outside world. All of your movements are now confined to this building. You will not leave this building alive."

As the prisoners were being shown to their new rooms, they could see and hear doors shutting and being locked behind them. Sally turned to Jill and said, "It doesn't look good!" at which Jill wondered, "What happens next?"

500 Festival Queen Pageant seeks entries

Each year, the 500 Festival sponsors the 500 Festival Queen Selection Pageant which is a contest open to all young ladies attending a college or university in the State of Indiana. Any young lady, who is duly qualified, is invited to submit her application and to make a personal appearance before a panel of judges who will select the 33 who will serve as the 500 Festival Princesses. From this group of 33, the four members of the Royal Court and the 500 Festival Queen will be selected. All 33 will take part in the events sponsored by the 500 Festival.

Not only is the 500 Festival Queen an honored guest at all Festival events during May, but she will receive many lovely gifts including a $4,000 scholarship to help further her education. The four members of her Court receive a $750 scholarship and all 33 Princesses receive many beautiful gifts as a remembrance of their experience.

We want to be sure that this information is made available to any young lady who is interested in entering the contest. To obtain an entry form and the complete list of eligibility requirements, simply send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: 500 Festival Associates, Inc., P.O. Box 817, Indianapolis, IN 46206, 636-4556.

Irritating behaviors

faculty rate students and students rate faculty

Doctor Drew Appleby recently conducted a study to determine the most common student behaviors that irritate faculty and vice versa. In his report, Appleby stated, "The purpose of this study is to identify perceptions that negatively affect the teaching/learning process."

The following are the three most commonly reported behaviors in the stated categories that irritate members of the faculty and student populations, according to Appleby's research.

Student behaviors that irritate faculty:

Immature behaviors

1. Talking during lectures.
2. Chewing gum, eating, drinking noisily.
3. Being late.

Inattentive behaviors

1. Sleeping during class.
2. Cutting class.
3. Acting bored or apathetic.

Miscellaneous behaviors

1. Cheating.
2. Asking "Will it be on the test?"
3. Being more interested in grades than in learning.

Faculty behaviors that irritate students:

Communication problems

1. Present poor lectures (e.g., unprepared, monotone, digress, too fast, ramble, repetitious, unorganized).
2. Cannot explain concepts clearly.
3. Cannot or will not answer questions.

Unresponsive to student needs

1. Keep class past end of period.
2. Arrive late for class.
3. Have obvious favorite students.

Evaluation problems

1. Use subjective, too strict, unfair, inconsistent or picky grading criteria.
2. Include material on tests that has not been covered or assigned.
3. Give too few tests that cover too much material.

Miscellaneous

1. Take attendance.
2. Dress in an unprofessional or shabby manner.

Career Corner

from the office of Career Services

by David Roberts

Planning a job search in the near future? If your answer is yes, then you will want to attend the Eighth Annual "Packing Yourself for Success" interviewing workshop sponsored by the Career Services Office and the Dietetic/Fashion Merchandising Club on Wednesday, October 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Library Auditorium.

Featured this year will be a presentation on appropriate dress for the interview situation by representatives from L.S. Ayres and Company. Ginger Shilling, Fashion Coordinator, will present models displaying clothes for both men and women which will enhance their interviewing image.

Speaking on interviewing skills will be James D. Cuniffe, Vice President and Director of Personnel for First Indiana Bank. Cuniffe will be offering helpful advice on what recruiters look for during the interview from potential employees.

He will also be conducting a mock interview with graduating senior Brenda Gauck.

The program is open to all members of the Marian College community, and may be of special interest to seniors graduating in December, May or August.

Senate offers internships

Senate Democrat Leader Dennis P. Neary, D-Michigan City, has announced that the Indiana Senate Democrat Caucus is now accepting applications for 12 legislative internships with the 1990 Indiana General Assembly.

The three-month paid internship beginning in January, 1990 is available to college juniors, seniors, graduated students and recent graduates. No specific major area of study is required. Course credit is determined by each school.

Each intern works on a one-to-one basis with two senators with the exception of one journalism major who is assigned to work with the media relations staff assisting all Democrat senators.

Intern duties include: legislative research, attending committee hearings, responding to constituent inquiries, writing press releases and assisting senators with daily activities.

Applicants will be interviewed next month and selected by November. For more information contact Laura Bauman, Senate Democrat Intern Director, State House, Room 401, Indianapolis, IN 46204, (317) 232-9506.

Rain dampens intramural fun

by Trisha Miller

The intramural co-ed softball games got off to a slow start last week. There are 10 teams signed up to play. Difficulties with rain and mowing have caused the cancellation of several games. Mike Henderson, Director of Student Activities says, "We're having a great time, and we're doing well." Henderson also says that the office is still taking entries for more teams.

Upcoming events include individual tournaments in soccer, volleyball and a surprise. These tournaments will take place between now and mid-term.

CC plagued by injured runners

Marian's injury-plagued cross country team placed 12th of 14 teams at the Taylor Invitational on Saturday. Running without injured team members Brad Bechler and Scott Van Alst, Marian had solid performances turned in by Brian Boyle, (50th) and Aaron Graeb, (62nd). Anderson University won the meet with 27 points. Marian's 312 was better than both IUPUI Ft. Wayne and Cincinnati Bible College.

A week earlier, Marian finished behind Tri-State University and Huntington College in a triangular meet at Tri-State. Brad Bechler led Marian runners with ninth place finish, followed by Aaron Graeb in 10th place. The results of the meet were Tri-State University 23, Huntington College 47 and Marian 64.
