'Messiah' Excerpts Unfold Message At Traditional Nativity Observance

As Christmas Madonna, Judy Pille, campus YCS co-president, will portray the Blessed Virgin Mary in the Christmas assembly program, Dec. 17. Selection for this role is one of the highest senior distinctions.

Christ Child in the Nativity scene will be John Michael Sifferlen, son of alumni, Mr. and Mrs. L. Michael Sifferlen. (Mary Ehlinger)

Completing the cast for the Advent-Christmas mystery presentation will be: Jack O'Hara as the Archangel Gabriel; Patrick Harper, St. Joseph; Kathleen Simmons, St. Elizabeth; and Allan Burnson, Max Henschen, and Michael Hughes, shepherds.

Narrator of the prophecies of Isaiah and the New Testament events will be James Johnson.

Reflecting the mood and carrying the theme from "Drop Dawn Dew" through Handel's "Hallelujah" chorus will be the contribution of the Marian Chorale and soloists. Included from the Messiah will also be: "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings from Zion," "For Unto Us a Child is Born," and "There Were Shepherds" with Barbara Titzer as soloist.

Bel Canto, women's choral group, with Mary Cronin as soloist, will sing "My Soul Magnifies the Lord." Choraliers, men's group, will greet Mary and the Christ Child with "Lo! How a Rose E'er Blooming."

Accompanists on the piano and organ, respectively, will be Connie

Knoll and Marianne Stout.

Directors of the program are: Sister Mary Jane, drama; Sister Vivian Rose and Mr. James McCaslin, music.

Philosopher Speaks On Existentialism

"Existentialism" will be the topic of Father Michael Montague, S. J., dean of philosophy at the Bellarmine School of Theology, North Aurora, Ill., at the assembly, Jan. 14.

A native of Chicago, Father Montague earned his doctorate in philosophy at St. Louis University. He filled the position of dean of philosophy at West Baden College for six years.

Yule-Spree Skit Solves 'Sabotaged Santa' Caper

The 1964 edition of Marian's annual Christmas party will be held in the Mixed Lounge Dec. 14 at 8 p.m. The entire student body will be allowed the privilege of attending this gala event. Refreshments will be furnished by the senior class and the juniors will decorate the exotic hall in a Christmas motif.

SMHA Collects Gifts as Project

Members of the faculty and students joined other colleges and universities throughout the state in contributing gifts to this year's Christmas Gift project for the mentally ill.

During the two-week drive, a variety of gifts was collected, including cosmetics, sleeping wear, sport shirts, gloves, purses, cigarettes, stationery, scarves, and other wearing apparel. One gift, a Japanese Happi coat, or smock, was sent from Okinawa, Ryukyu Islands, by an interested parent, Sgt. Major S. J. Peloza, U.S.M.C.

The gift collection at Marian was launched by the Student Mental Health Association, a new organization on campus. Among other colleges participating in Mental Health are Indiana University, Butler, Ball State, Hanover, Wabash, Notre Dame, Valparaiso and Indiana State.

The highlight of the evening will be the program prepared by the sophomore class. It will open with a fabulous James Bond thriller entitled "From the North Pole With Love". In the skit, Jack O'Hara plays James Bond, who is involved in the case of "The Sabotaged Santa". Bond confronts his adversary and the play closes with a violent ending. (Adult Entertainment).

The play is to be followed by such international favorites as the Marian choral groups and Father Kahle's Sing-Along. Jerry Traub will serve as disc jockey for the dance following the program. The evening will conclude with the traditional serenading of the girls' dormitory.

The entire evening is sponsored by the Student Board. The students are not the only ones to share in the Christmas Spirit, for an extra in the evening will be Old Saint Nick's Christmas list for the faculty. So to one and all: "You better be good; you better not cry, for Santa is coming to Marian!"

A Joyous Christmas To Our Readers

President's Christmas Message

Certainly one of the most fascinating aspects of Christmas is the fact that when the Son of God became man, He appeared first as the Babe of Bethlehem. Then, like the rest of His contemporaries, He passed through the various stages of a human life until reaching mature manhood. The Incarnation is difficult enough for the minds of men, but this similarity of Christ's life on earth to our own lives enables us to grasp this mystery somewhat more easily.

As He wished it, one can see Christ as truly one of us. As much as possible, He wanted to emphasize His similarity with men—"in all things like us, sin excepted." This thought should have special significance for us in the light of the recent decree of the Second Vatican Council on ecumenism. While recognizing that there are serious differences with separated Christians, the decree points also to the many significant elements of similarity.

Contemplating the Babe of Bethlehem, we must be reminded of our oneness with Him and our oneness with our fellow men through Him. This newest coming of the Prince of Peace must remind us of our Christian obligation to live in peace and brotherhood with all who differ with us and from us. A most fitting gift of welcome to Him would be to dismantle in our lives one more big or little wall of separation between ourselves and those who are different from us. May He in turn enlighten us to attend more closely to the similarities that make us brothers.

Catholic Education—A New Perspective

Speaking before several hundred archdiocesan teachers, Nov. 15, at Marian College, Mary Perkins Ryan questioned Catholic education policies. Mrs. Ryan, author of "Are Catholic Schools the Answer?", called for expansion of instruction to include the family and the parish in order to better fulfill the aims of Catholic schools.

Mrs. Ryan pointed out that our present system produces few dedicated adults because it fails to prepare students to live in our non-Catholic world. It also neglects problem children and those in public schools and secular colleges.

The basis of these problems has been that our education policies have aimed only at indoctrinating children. Mrs. Ryan urges emphasis on programs like the CCD and the Newman clubs.

Interviewed after her talk, Mrs. Ryan related the religious apathy sometimes found on Catholic college campuses to over-indoctrination in school and the lack of dedicated, instructed parents.

Stamps Honor Council, Pontiff

Unique memorials to the still unfinished Vatican Council and to Pope Paul's recent pilgrimage to the Holy Land are five stamps brought from Rome by Archbishop Schulte and presented to Marian College library's stamp collection.

The first, sketched above, is mounted in a folder bearing this inscription in French: "On the occasion of the Ecumenical Council Vatican II, convoked by His Holiness of John XXIII and continued by His Holiness Paul VI, His Most Serene Highness Prince Rainier III, Sovereign of Monaco, a principality in which the Catholic religion is the Religion of the State, has decreed the issuing of this stamp."

Against an olive background, the dove, symbol of the Holy Spirit and of peace, hovers over St. Peter's basilica. Rays of light, encompassing olive branches, stream down to the world. Clustered around St. Peter's are campaniles, turrets, and facades of cathedrals and basilicas of oriental and western, of medieval and modern design. Even three pillars of an ancient pagan temple are there.

Tints of red, blue, and green combine to add distinction.

The other four stamps, a series issued by the Vatican City Post Office, Sept. 14, 1964, are headed: "Paul VI, Apostolic Pilgrim." They depict the shrine marking the Fountain of the Blessed Virgin at Nazareth, the basilica at Jerusalem, the church of the Nativity at Bethlehem, and the Holy Father himself kneeling in prayer during his pilgrimage.

Sister Joan Marie, custodian of Marian's stamp collection, requests students to save their stamps from their holiday mail and to contribute them to her. Sister would also welcome the donation of any collections which students may no longer wish to keep.

Expectation

The leaves are gone and all is barren.

The world's now dark and dim.

The snowflakes fall and seem to call,

What Is Christmas?

You ask, "What is Christmas?"
Christmas is the snow glistening in the moon.
Christmas is the bells chiming out their tune.
Christmas is the carolers with numb and tingling toes.
Christmas is fresh-baked cookies teasing the nose.
Christmas is the tree arrayed in all its folly.
Christmas is the hearth fire, the strains of "Let's be jolly."
Christmas is the stable, shelter of God above.
Christmas is the manger, cradle of infinite Love.

Mother of Eleven Sons

She was proud and praised them each yet she always thanked the Lord,
for she was the mother of eleven sons.
She was gentle and understanding yet she always knew the way for she was the counselor of eleven sons.
She was strong in reprimanding yet she never raised her voice for she was the father of eleven sons.
She made peace in all their quarrels and she taught them love of man for she was the heart of eleven sons.
She was affectionate and giving and she'll have their love forever
for she was the mother of eleven sons.

Congratulations

Congratulations to the editors and contributors of A Bird's Eye View of Vatican II, who have continued to keep the students aware of the progress the Council has made throughout its sessions.

Hats off to Kathy McCarthy on her performance in "Little Foxes", which the Players presented at the Play Festival in Evansville Nov. 14-15. Samuel Smiley, instructor of drama at Evansville College and critic for the Festival, said that Kathy's portrayal of Birdie was the best he'd ever seen.

Congratulations and best of luck to Jean Johnson '64, whose Peace Corps assignment took her to Tanganyika Dec. 4.

Sympathy

Faculty and students extend their deepest sympathy to Sister Mary Jane on the death of her brother, Janet Blaschke on the death of her infant brother, and to Flaviana Mosha on the death of her sister.

Birth of a Saviour

They traveled by night,
They journeyed afar;
In search of the Saviour,
They followed the star.

Fine gifts did they carry
To offer this king;
When they neared the stable
They heard the angels sing.

Sweet strains of their singing
Rose to the sky,
And God smiled upon them
From His throne on high.

Gold, frankincense, and myrrh
They brought to the child.
The Wise Men adored
This King meek and mild.

They could not know
Of the glory He would bring.
Of the suffering and sorrow
The angels did not sing.

On this night
A Saviour was born—
The God-man who would redeem us
Through ridicule and scorn.

This infant, this babe—
So much did He bring.
Yes, this Divine Saviour
Is our God and our King.

"It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas. . . ." So goes the song, and Marian has decked her halls not with boughs of holly, but with part-time merchants, offering charms, tie tacks, and other items for the "him" or "her" on your Christmas list.

The walls bear invitations to Christmas mixers and choir programs, and gayly colored boxes await donations for the needy. The smell of pine and bayberry fills Clare Hall, and the dormies, caught up in the mischief of Pixie Week and the planning of the mixer and dress-up dinner, go to sleep while visions of Bernie Lawrence and mistletoe dance in their heads.

As we well know, Christmas is a time for children. They love to hear the traditional tales of the season each year. But lest some of the older ones become bored with the same old night-before-Christmas tales year after year, you might relate the following little gem for a change of pace:

So she went into the garden to cut a cabbage leaf to make an apple pie; and at the same time a great she-bear, coming up the street, popped its head into the shop. "What! No soap?" So he died, and she very imprudently married the barber; and there were present the Picinnies, and the Jobillies, and the Garyulies, and the Grand Panjandrum himself. . . . and they all fell to playing the game of catch as catch can, till the gunpowder ran out at the heels of their boots.

And with that, we leave you with wishes for a very Merry and Safe Christmas and a Happy New Year, and with one solemn thought: what is Christmas at Marian without Mr. Moran to play Santa? Merry Christmas, Mr. Moran, wherever you are!

Births

Congratulations to:

Mr. James W. Lyle '68 and his wife on the birth of a son, James Wm. Lyle, Jr., Nov. 12.

Mr. Jon Havens '68 and his wife, who are the parents of a son, Kelly Lee, born Oct. 26.

Restyled Bookstore To Buy Used Texts

by Michael Brown

Sister Augustine, manager of the Marian College Bookstore, is initiating a series of improvements in the store's service.

At the end of the current semester, during final exams, the bookstore facilities will be expanded to include a stock of used books. The management will purchase any book that will be used next semester.

Self-service will be the bookstore's method of operation. To eliminate misunderstandings and confusion, customers are asked to leave all of their own books on shelves provided for that purpose.

To supplement their present inventory the management will order any book upon request. A down payment of one half the purchase price is required on any textbook and the complete purchase price on any paperback.

Another innovation is a new display of the Harper Torch paperback series. This is an extensive collection of authoritative works in science and social studies in inexpensive form.

Sister Augustine and the bookstore staff will appreciate their customers' cooperation with these changes. They hope the expansion will be a convenience to students and faculty, and they welcome suggestions for further improvement of service.

New Guinea Convent Devastated by Fire

by Mary Jo Boyle

Fire, midnight, Nov. 6, devastated the mission convent of the Sisters of St. Francis in Mendi, New Guinea.

No persons were injured, but material losses have been estimated at $70,000.

Within 30 minutes the fire consumed the Sisters' dwelling, valuable papers, major school aids, and several hundred children's garments.

The Blessed Sacrament, however, was rescued through the heroic efforts of Brother Claude, O.F.M. Cap.

A defective coil in the kerosene refrigerator was the apparent cause of the blaze.

Deprived of their convent, the Sisters are temporarily living in the home of lay missionaries.

Floor plans for a new convent were drawn up within 24 hours of the fire.

BOOKSTORE attendants, Alice Laker, Laura Schaefer, and Bernie Schneider serve customers Jim Kuchler and Carolyn Weymouth in the newly arranged shop. New policies include self-service patronage and the sale of used books as well as new.

Marianites Respond to Call Of Missions in Southwest

by Mary Jane Scheidler

"Westward ho!" was the cry of six Marian students as they headed for the Southwest last summer as "pioneer" lay missionaries.

Donna Tatroe, one of last year's Honor graduates, followed the trail already blazed by 14 other Marianites, including senior Prov Benedict, '64 graduates Susan Parrish and Mary Ellen Babcock, and Patricia Doerger '55, the program's founders.

She was a catechetical instructor among the Navajo Indians at the Franciscan mission in St. Michael's, Ariz. Having found a great deal of satisfaction in this type of work, Donna forfeited a graduate fellowship at Indiana University in order to continue her work in Arizona.

Three 1964 graduates, Carol Becherer, Patricia Miller and Catherine Jarosinski, plus sophomore Mary Jane Scheidler joined a Marian alumna, Nancy Zore, in her work among the Spanish American people in New Mexico.

Their activities were part of a program initiated by Father James Flannigan, in which priests, sisters and lay people work together as a community of missionaries.

The girls lived and worked as early pioneers in an adobe house with no running water or electricity, and only a wood-fed stove on which to cook.

"I seemed to gain much more than I was able to give," remarked Patricia Miller as she completed her summer's work.

Nancy Zore entered Father Flannigan's religious order as a Sister of Our Lady of the Most Blessed Trinity. Convinced of the value of her work as a lay apostle, Catherine Jarosinski joined the program for an additional one-year period.

Recently Father Flannigan moved his organization to Kansas City, Missouri, where missionary endeavor will be among the Negroes.

The pioneering of these Marian students was under the direction of the CSMC organization and their moderator, Sister Margaret Ann.

Ellsworth Chosen Day Hop Leader

Jim Ellsworth, senior economics major, from Monticello, Ind., was elected Day Student Representative, Friday, Dec. 4.

Besides occupying the position of Phoenix business manager, Jim is active in football, basketball, and baseball.

Campaigning on a six point Program of Progress, Jim proved victorious over the other candidates, Edward Arszman, junior; and Donovan Busby, sophomore.

Six Freshmen Follow Examples Set by Alumna Mothers at Marian

by Regina Hyatt

"Like Mother—like daughter," or, in this case, son and daughter. Marian College is becoming a tradition for six students who are the second generation of their family to be attending the college.

Joanne Lauber, attended Marian from 1942-44, during which she developed her musical interests. Richard Kern, her son is a freshman at Marian, who plans to major in mathematics and enter a pre-engineering course.

A mutual interest in English is demonstrated by Bette O'Neill and her daughter, Maureen Northcutt.

Maureen's mother attended the college in 1942.

Ann Kingsbury, a freshman interested in dietetics, can also boast of a Marian tradition. Ann's mother, the former Marie Farrington, studied English at Marian in 1943.

Sylvia Fritch, a former Marian coed who majored in business during 1940-42, now has a son following in her footsteps. Freshman Steve Jones is considering either a business or social studies major.

Janet Murphy, freshman, plans to be a teacher. Her mother, the former Angelus Lynch, studied history and education during the first three years of Marian's existence, 1937-40.

The former Ruth Elder was a Marian student in 1937, majoring in English. Her daughter, Susan Seal, is from St. Vincent's School of Nursing and attends classes at Marian three days a week.

Act I, Scene 2, and you are the center of attention. Your hair looked great in the first scene, but what do you look like after a busy class schedule, or just a single blast of brisk December wind? Do you have that carefree casual look, or is there a chance that you could get government aid as a hurricane victim? The proper care makes the difference.

The first step to "hair confidence" is a good, basic cut. The shorter styles are evenly trimmed and tapered for maximum benefit whether worn slightly bouffant or casually cloche. Hair should FALL in place naturally, not with a stiff, plastered look. Long tresses should be trimmed and shaped just as often and just as meticulously as short.

The swinging look calls for long hair to be gradually tapered down the back, so that the front is slightly longer, and free to move.

Every hair texture and style requires frequent, vigorous brushing, and a thorough cleansing as soon as it begins to lose that luster we love.

Remain a star, the public will love you. And let your "crowning glory" be just that.

Capping Ceremony, Mass Mark Feast Of Mary Immaculate

The junior capping ceremony was held Monday, Dec. 7. The ceremony began at 9 a.m. with the investiture of the juniors. Monsignor John J. Doyle spoke on the significance of the cap and gown. The juniors were capped by Monsignor Francis J. Reine, president, and Sister Mary Karen, dean.

After a brief recess, the student body returned to the auditorium for Mass, celebrated by Archbishop Paul C. Schulte. This Mass was particularly significant in that it was the first time that Mass had been offered in the auditorium. The Archbishop entered in procession while the student body sang "O Come Emmanuel." The Mass was celebrated according to the new liturgical reforms.

The college, celebrating this annual day in honor of Mary Immaculate, patroness of the college, canceled classes for the day.

Leading the fast break Bernie Schneider drives for two points against Rose Poly. Defending for the Engineers are 41 Jim Pettie and 51 Ed Holt.

Knights Win First 3, Boost Record to 4-3

The Marian Knights, on their way to their finest season in eleven years of varsity basketball, opened with three consecutive victories against St. Francis, Rose Poly, and Franklin.

Despite fine efforts on the part of individuals on the St. Francis team, Marian downed the visitors from Fort Wayne 100-87. Chuck Federle set the pace with a hot .703 from the floor for a record 51 points. The Knights picked off a total 74 rebounds.

Rose Poly ran out of steam in the second half and bowed to the Knights by an 86-80 score. After leading 42-38 at the half, the Engineers fell behind 44-42 after three quick buckets by the charging Knights and never caught up. Bernie Schneider was the big bomb with 28 points.

Franklin College traveled north with a big front line averaging 6-4, but it proved of little worth as the Knights out-jumped them to the tune of 80-66. Balanced scoring, headed by Chuck Federle's 22 points, paved the way for a run-away win. All five starters were in double figures.

The first blemish on the Knights' record came in the opening game of the City of Richmond Tournament, at Earlham College. There they were defeated by Manchester 72-65. After the game, Earlham's athletic director, Stanley Hall, said that this year's team was the best he had ever seen from Marian.

His statement may have been proven the following night as Marian dumped Earlham 81-55 to take third place in the tourney. Jim Chase, 6'2" junior forward, was voted to the all-tourney team.

At Hanover Dec. 2, the Marian Five dodged elbows and knees, but scored only 76 points to Hanover's 88. Errors proved costly, as the Knights threw the ball away 18 times. Chuck Federle led the way with 23 points.

Both Marian's centers, Kie O'Conner and Joe Bittlemeier, got into early foul trouble as the Knights fell prey to the Little Giants of Wabash, 89-74. The teams played on equal terms the first half, with Wabash getting its first lead 28-27, four minutes before halftime. Marian trailed 40-39 at the half, but a second half average of over .600 shooting made the difference. As usual, Chuck Federle was high with 16 points; Larry Brodnick came off the bench to tally 14.

Knightcap

Sports Editor
Denny Hoffman

"The team that controls the ball, owns the game." This is a much-quoted phrase, but it never has applied better than to this year's Marian Knights. Led by hustling 6'2" forward, Jim Chase, the Marian Five have owned the game against four opponents, by controlling the rebounds. In both their losses they have been out-rebounded. The Marian victories have been accompanied by winning the battle of the boards. The most outstanding effort in that line was the 74 rebounds grabbed by the Knights against St. Francis, compared to the visitors' 41. Chase set the pace by tying the all-time rebounding record of 25. So far, Jim has picked off 70 rebounds in six games.

In the scoring department, Chuck Federle is running away with the honors, although he has seen limited action in the second halves of some games. After scoring a record 51 points in the season opener against St. Francis, Chuck, the team's only senior, has paced the Knights with 147 points and a shooting percentage near the .600 mark. Bernie Schneider, who has been outstanding on defense has 84 points to his credit, while Jim Chase and Joe Bittlemeier have 73 and 64 points, respectively.

Two freshmen, Bittlemeier and Larry Brodnick, have done fine jobs so far. Bittlemeier has shown improvement with every game, and is averaging 12 rebounds per game. Brodnick, though only 5'11", has made his presence felt repeatedly. A real fighter, Larry seems to spread enthusiasm to the rest of the squad. He has very good moves, lots of poise, and with time should develop into an outstanding ball player.

The entire team has done a fine job, and we expect they will continue in their winning ways.

Overheard from the bleachers:

He: "See that tall forward over there? I think he's going to be our best man next year."

She: "Oh darling, this is so sudden."

Lots of praise should go to the men of Marian's first cross-country team. The runners made impressive showings in their three outings, due mostly to the efforts of Marty Liddy and coach Mike Hughes.

Intramurals Begin; Sugars Down Finks

by Jim Nalley

Victory was sweet for the Sugars as they downed the Finks, the league champions for the past two seasons, by a score of 57-35 Sunday, thus avenging their only loss of last year. The Sugars have dreams of winning the title this year, but with 14 teams in the league the competition will be intense.

Among the leading contenders are the Whiz Kids and the Old Dogs. The Kids, led by big Tom Commons and Tom Cardis, looked impressive Sunday as they completely routed the Jokers 85-17. The Old Dogs, however, were not to be outdone and they slaughtered the Rogues 67-19, with Denny Straub dropping in 27 points.

Most colorful game saw Manuash Mixers defeat the Passionate Few 46-34. The Mixers, who have acquired a rather large cheering section, bought yellow uniforms, imported a student coach from Boston, and will also be a strong contender. In other games of the day the Aces Full defeated the Trashmen 48-31. The Vets downed the Bombers 40-19, and the Hot Shots routed the Chews 70-40. Rich Ridge of the Hot Shots, scored 41 points.

AT THE CLOSE of the season the faculty will play the league champions in the traditional faculty game.

Girls' Volleyball Team Victorious; Franklin Cops Hardwood Tilt

Marian's ladies were victorious on the Butler volleyball court, but ran into stiff competition on the basketball court at Franklin.

The A-team in volleyball conquered Butler in a best-of-three match. Our girls took the first set, dropped the second, but won again in the final deciding set. In the B-team contest, Butler won in straight sets.

At Franklin, in their first game of the season, the Marian Maids lost a close one 29-28. Next game will be at Indiana Central Dec. 14. The remainder of the schedule will be played at home.

Jockeys Avenge Only Loss; Blank All-Star Team 25-0

by Dave Jonta

The Jockeys showed why they have gone unbeaten in two seasons of play, as they trounced the All-Stars 25-0 to avenge a post-season loss to the All-Stars last year.

It was sharp, hard rushing defense, experience, and an alert offense which overpowered the All-Stars on a chilling Potter's Field. But most of all, it was Tony Ardizzone, who ran for three of the Jockeys' four TD's, intercepted two passes and passed for the fourth Jockey touchdown.

The only serious threat posed by the All-Stars came early in the first half when Tom Cardis intercepted a pass deep in Jockey territory. But the All-Stars didn't capitalize and the Jockeys took over, combining two long pass plays which set up a thirty-yard touchdown run by Ardizzone. Harry Sanders threw to Joe Pierle for the extra point.

Sanders intercepted in the next series of plays and the Jockeys kept moving as Larry Zimmerman snared a pass and gained twenty yards. Ardizzone threw to Pierle, who grabbed the pass for the second TD as it bobbed from the hands of the All-Star defense.

The Jockeys continued their barrage as Gene Payne opened the second half, sprinting 30 yards on a pass play. Ardizzone again carried the ball across to register the Jockeys' 19th point.

The All-Stars' spotty offense sparked late in the game as Jim Nalley threw to Dan O'Brien for 40 yards. But the surge ended when a bad hike nullified the fourth down play.

The Jockeys provided a little razzle dazzle with 30 seconds remaining in the game, when Mike Leonard took the hike and, dodging the defensive rush, flipped the ball to Pierle, who threw to Ardizzone, boosting the score to 25-0.

The two outstanding players from each of the seven teams finishing behind the Champion Jockeys were chosen to represent the All-Stars.

Good as the Jockeys are, don't take too much away from the All-Stars. It's pretty tough to effectively organize a team with little or no practice.
