

Recognizing and Helping Students in Crisis

Where do I start?

If you are concerned about a student, don't let uncertainty stop you from taking action. Marian University is committed to supporting students in crisis. This guide will help you recognize, respond to, refer, and report troubling student behavior. For additional information, talk to your supervisor or department chair and contact the Dean of Students Office at 317.955.6318.

Responding to Students in Crisis

- Stay safe
When a student displays threatening or potentially violent behavior, your and the student's safety and the welfare of the campus community are the top priorities. Coordinated professional help and follow-up care are effective ways to prevent suicide and violence.
- Trust your instincts
If you are concerned about a student, consult your department chair, supervisor, and the Dean of Students Office. Promptly report safety concerns and violations of the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities.
- De-escalate and support
Distressed students can be sensitive. Avoid threatening, potentially embarrassing or intimidating statements. Help students connect with the resources they need.
- Clarify expectations
Set early limits on disruptive or self-destructive behavior. Remind students verbally or in writing of standards/expectations for conduct and possible consequences for disorderly behavior. Refer to the Code of Student Rights and Responsibilities.
- Listen sensitively and carefully
Vulnerable students need to be heard and helped. They may find it difficult to articulate their distress. Ask directly if they feel their functioning is impaired or if they have thoughts of harming themselves or others.
- Share what you know
State and federal laws and university policies mandate reporting in many crisis situations. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) allows faculty and staff to report student health and safety concerns to relevant campus offices trained to handle situations with sensitivity and care. Taking appropriate action does not violate a student's privacy.
- Consult to coordinate a timely response
Consult with appropriate university personnel to coordinate care for the student. Always report serious or persistent behavior to the Dean of Students Office as soon as possible. Misconduct may be formally addressed through the student conduct process and additional campus resources may be necessary to help reduce or eliminate disruptive behaviors.
- Follow up
Once you have referred a student in crisis, it is helpful (but not obligatory) for you to follow up in their ongoing care. Your firsthand knowledge and personal connection to this student is valuable in understanding and appropriately responding to their situation.
- Take care
Helping a troubled student can take a toll on your personal well-being. Make sure to acknowledge what you've been through and receive adequate support.
