No. 19 Insecurity is being the first to hand in a test paper. MARCH 6 1964

A PEACEABLE CORPS

What shall we make Marian? Marian is already made. It's living on its reputation now and will do so as long as there are students attending it.

Why not spend Saturday night at Daymon's? Where else should we stand guard? We are in Indianapolis; Saigon is in Saigon. Students march in Maryland. It's March at Marian. If we had an integration problem we would march too.

What shall we make the students who feel that this is a place to loaf, cheat, and have fun.

Relaxation is a break. Students shouldn't make the rash judgement on someone "loafing", for all he knows that "loafer" may have been up the whole night studying.

The attitude that cheating is a prevalent problem is by for only in the minority. The accademic records will speak otherwise.

Having fun is part of college life and getting a degree is the climax to four years of intellectual and social experience.

The author of last week's letter to the editor should reevaluate his fellows, for surely he is mistaken.

THE TREES CAME TUMBLING DOWN

Mother Nature attacked Mother Nature Wednesday night and Marian suffered the loss. The front landscaping will be marred firever, but our love fir them will never die.

OH SAY CAN Y U SEE

The junior girls would like to thank the responsible people for giving light and saving the women's lounge from social darkness.

VOTE

Vote today in the Reading Room for a Day Student representative. Candidates are Bill Beck and Mike Schnelker.

A miser is pretty miserable to live with--but he makes a marvelous ancestor.

A MIDDLE OF THE ROAD VIEW

For the last two weeks a rather mild battle has been raging over the question of the Electoral College. While I doubt that the articles printed in our humble news sheet make any permanent impression on our representatives in Congress, the value of debating the question remains high in an academic sense. Therefore----- would not a reasonable compromise be to divide the electoral votes on a percentage basis of popular votes? Thus in a state where 20% of the people vote Republican then 20% of the electoral votes would go Republican. It seems that this would smooth the ruffled feathers of the "tyranny of the majority-ists" but would still allow vote distribution in accordance with population density.

The CARBON applauds the Current Affairs Club for its efforts to stimulate interest among the Student Body and to broaden the scope of scholastic interest.

ABSURD

This very evening a CoBvair 880 will leave from Weir Cook Airport bound for an unknown destination overseas. The CARBON has acquired secret data disclosing its mission and its port of arrival.

It carries one conscientious college student bound for turbulent Saigon and the explosive battlegrounds of Viet-Nam. This journey will be of relatively short duration because the patriotic young man must be in class on Monday. This journey will be quite unhappy because he will be ridiculed by our soldiers assigned to this area. Name calling will become profuse when these veterans learn that this conscientious individual prefers the heinous vehemence of war to a college education and the opportunity of a quiet beer at damnable, degenerate Daymon's. Alas our militant banner carrier, our week-end warrior returns, unhappy, disillusioned and despondent to his damnable, degenerate college routine perhaps to drink, perhaps to cheat and perhaps to attain his degree.

INVASION!

There has been a notable increase in the number of week-end visitors to our campus. Prospective students and their families are viewing the grounds and, aware of it or not, they are observing you. The student body through its appearance and conduct can alter the impression gained by these visitors.

By your personal conduct and manner (which should not be something only dressed up for the week-end), do your part in promoting Marian to its future students.

BE COURTEOUS--BE YOURSELF

BE CAREFUL

WHAT STUDENTS THINK OF COLLEGE:.....

Freshman: I hate this damn place!

Sophomore: It could be worse!

Junior: It's rough but think of the future I'm building!

Senior: I hate this damn place!

ALL ALONE ARE WE

The sun has long set on Marian College and the campus is quiet. In a small room on the third floor, two figures are hovered over a table, papers are scattered, and through the window the quacking of ducks lends its mournful overtones. Empty stencils and silenced typewriters echo promises unfulfilled -- articles from students which "just never got written". In a fit of despair the CARBON editors gnaw at their nails, tear their hair (notice the internal rhyme) and search their inept minds in an effort to produce a publication worthy of a member of the collegiate press.

Hours pass; homework lies untouched and occasionally the silence is shattered by gastric growls of hunger.

Somewhere in the distance a bell rings and summons the students from night class. Two coeds walk by the open door of room 310 and on seeing the pitiful pair still hard at work are heard to say, "There but for the grace of God sit I".
