Bluntpoint

Dear Friends,

We would like to make PINPOINT-BLUNTPOINT a weekly feature in the CARBON and would like any two of you to get together and air your views on a particular subject of your choosing. One may argue for the topic and the other may argue against. Keep sending your articles and we'll keep printing them.

This week, to get the ball rolling, Dennis and Neel match wits on a controversial subject. It need not be your view. The single purpose is argument for its own sake. We invite you to challenge either NEEL or Dennis to a discussion.

DORM DRINKING

Good or bad? Right or wrong? These are some of the questions that rush into our minds at that the very mention of it. But the way I look at it guys and gals in college aren't kids anymore. They have undergone the rigorous training for self discipline in high school and are able to distinguish between right and wrong, good and bad. Restricting the students from doing what they want means infringing on their liberty to choose. Sure they must be prepared for the consequences if they are bad. It's up to them to decide. No one who reaches legal age likes dictatorship. If someone is restricted from doing something he/she would do it anyway or something else until satisfied. Sure, discipline is necessary but restricting alcohol and cigarettes only bring forth problems. Those who choose to drink do so at home also with their parents knowledge. Most parents merely advise "Don't do it in excess." Do anything in moderation.

Some of you may agree with PINPOINT but I for one cannot. Once college students are responsible for their own well being, and of legal age they become legally allowed to drink. The law applies to everyone but let's look more closely. Other considerations crop up. The health and well-being of those drinking and those affected by those who are drunk. Over indulgers become belligerent and we all know what can happen - hangovers, etc. To allow drinking on campus would do little other than disturb those who need to study, and grades can drop. This is an institution of higher education, with rules so that all students can live together peacefully. If they want to get drunk let them pass out in a bar somewhere.

FROM THE EDITORS....

It has been and is the policy of the CARBON that any contributions (except for APPLAUDS and hisses) must have the author's signature - or it will not be printed. You may request that your name be withheld from publication, but we must know who wrote each article. The reason for this is that any editing that is done in an article (unless grammatical) is usually done only with the permission of the author. We can contact you only if we know who you are! One article submitted this week did not appear for this reason; those who wrote it should contact either Danine or myself, so that we can discuss this article.

Thank you,
Karen

NOTICE

On September 21 (yesterday), a wallet was stolen from the purse of faculty member Mrs. Connie Wesner. The wallet contained photographs which hold sentimental value for Mrs. Wesner (in addition to other valuables). Mrs. Wesner has emphasized that no Marian College students are suspected of stealing the wallet; as some persons from off-campus were seen in the vicinity at the time the wallet was taken. A monetary reward for the return of the wallet is being offered. Please call Mrs. Wesner at ext. 254 if you have any information.
