EDITORIAL

During the past week, it became necessary for two Doyle Hall R.A.'s to resign from their positions. All financial ramifications set aside, this can only serve to their benefit. For the time remaining in this semester, they will once again be able to associate with their friends.

The obvious problem which arises from this situation is a shortage of available nursemaids to hold our hands. It has long been known that the moral conduct within Doyle Hall has been deplorable. The Pit has long been a trouble spot, with 2-East not far behind. (They have more dope in the Pit than we do, but we hold our own in terms of booze and broads.) With the Hall staff spread so thin, I seriously question their ability to maintain an atmosphere conducive to scholarly pursuits. Perhaps a couple of additional nannies should be hired to protect us from ourselves. Scrupulous hiring of such individuals seems to be Dean Woodman's forte, so I'm confident this situation can be quickly remedied.

Immediate action on this problem is imperative. After having been "mothered" by an R.A. for the past four years, some of us probably will not be able to function in a constructive manner. After all, who will be there to tie our shoes in the morning, wipe our noses when we come in from the cold, and tuck us in at night?

INCOLSA

Thanks to an $8,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., Marian College's library will join the Indiana Cooperative Library Services Authority (INCOLSA) a computer linked library service.

INCOLSA is made up of 11 colleges in Indiana Marian, along with Indiana University Medical Center, Indiana-Purdue University at Indianapolis and the Indiana State Library will be working in mutual service.

To the average student the questions might arise, what is this computer and how will it improve the library for me? Dr. Russell G. Mawby Kellogg Foundation President explained that "The grant to Marian is one of approximately 300 similar grants being made to small private liberal arts colleges throughout the U.S. as part of the Foundation's continuing program of support for improved college library services"

First this new service is not a computer. It is called "OCLC" or Ohio College Library Center and Marian is provided with an access terminal which is connected through the telephone lines to the OCLC center in Columbus, Ohio. There $10 million in computers await the librarians request.

From this computer the librarian can locate any book that has been catalogued into the OCLC system indicating what libraries have the book. This system also cuts down on the time needed to type the catalog card since the computer will type them and ship them to the library. "The system is excellent for doing research since all the information usually provided on library cards is seconds from your fingertips," according to Sister Therese Wentz, Marian's head librarian

The OCLC computer is also very "polite" in providing opening and closing times, also by typing END when one is completed the computer politely replies "Good-bye."

To the Masses:

This past week members of Student Board met with College administrators. There were a variety of topics discussed along with the results of a recent student survey. This meeting as all monthly meetings was very productive. Some things talked about were maintenance concerns, school athletics, admissions, ELS program and Saga food service.

Recently many of us have pointed out certain things about our school that may displease us at times. I feel that these gripes are healthy and make Marian stronger. It has been a tendency for me at least to emphasize and re-emphasize areas that are bothering students. I think it may be good to think about the things that are positive and the things that make us happy. In lots of discussions I've heard people say that the main thing they'll remember about our school is the people. Well, people, if we "are" "our" school, we should be together in working for and with each other. There are many things going on around here! Those of you who are involved, thank you for yourselves, and keep griping but.....keep striving. Those who aren't involved, well.....people's ears are getting worn out.

Board members will be happy to inform you, discuss with you, and yes, listen to you! Please use your elected Student Board members. There's no way I could communicate in writing all the topics that are dealt with. Also, the administration has an open door policy to all students. If you have a question, compliment, or a Hello, stop and say it. They'll be happy to visit with you. If any student doesn't know an administrator, its time to take you in and introduce you! We'll be happy and I think you will be happier too.

Student Board will meet this Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. Come over and participate at the Board room at SAC.

Have a good day,
Dave Record
President, MCSA

To the masses:

This is a plea—a plea for students and faculty at Marian to express who you are—any thoughts, prayers, ideas. As co-editor of this years Fioretti I want to invite all those interested to contribute to your literary magazine.

We are asking for poems, short stories, photographs, etchings - any artistic expression you wish to share with our community.

In the past, the Fioretti has been a very successful publication and this is what we are striving for again this year—but we can't do it without your contributions. We are offering cash prizes for each category so here's an opportunity to pick-up extra cash as well as getting your material published (someday you might be famous!)

Submit your work by February 23, 1977 to Don Dunevant or Denise Germonprez.

Thanks-----Denise Germonprez

To All Teacher Candidates:

Mr. Walter Bean of Indianapolis Public Schools was very pleased with all of you. You were well prepared academically, had read their literature, thought about the teaching profession beforehand, and presented yourselves very well. He has requested complete credentials of everyone except those in two areas he was sure there would not be any openings.

I want to thank you for doing such a fine job individually and as a group. You have also represented Marian College and laid a good groundwork for future graduates. If all seniors interviewing impress their respective employers as you did, a degree from Marian College will mean very much on the job market. Please feel free to stop in or call me if you want further feedback or have any questions concerning placement.

Mr. Bean said this is the first year at Marian that he had so many outstanding candidates and such consistency in the excellent quality of interviewees. You are all to be commended. Keep up the good work in future interviews. From my standpoint I only know you all were neat, sharply dressed, and looked alert.

Thank you - Merle Tebbe
