

Ten Seniors Gain 'Who's Who' Honor

American Dancer Presents Culture, Dance of India

Shrimathi Gina, an American artist whose medium is the dance-form of India, will perform at assembly, Nov. 21.

Gina will wear the authentic Indian sari and a vermillion dot on her forehead. Her performance will give Marian students an opportunity to acquire a deeper and more significant understanding of India, its art and its culture.

In Madras, India, she fulfilled a long-cherished desire to learn the classical dances of that country.

After a solemn ritual of dedication to the sacred temple dance, she was admitted as a cheli (disciple and student) of the celebrated Shri Chockalingam Pillai, of the Pandanallur school. She specialized in two great Indian dances: The Bharata Natyam and the Kathakali.

These Indian dances are dependent on the disciplined use of the eyes, face, limbs and body, and the eyes at all times follow the movements of the hands.

Because of her proficiency and artistic achievement in the 200-year-old dance art of South India, the Institute of Fine Arts of Madras awarded her the title, "Jewel of the Indian Dance."

'Fioretti' Names Editor For Fifteenth Volume

Senior Mary Byer will edit the Fioretti first semester with associate editor, junior Miriam Gannon. Assistants are: Marguerite Brandy, Phil Doherty, Judy Hirn, Joe Hertz, Margaret Darnell, Jo Schneider and Sylvia Johnson. Jane Davis is art editor.

"Fioretti" is an Italian word meaning "little flowers." The book itself is a literary anthology of student contributions.

The fifteenth annual volume will be distributed in February. Sister Marie Pierre is moderator.

Portraying the gay "baker's wife" in one of the fast moving scenes from Duquesne University Tamburitzans' program is saucy Miss Aurelia Mogun.

Boosters Schedule Tamburitzans In Dec. 7 Slavic Folk Musicale

The nationally famous Tamburitzans will demonstrate the traditional folk songs and dances of Eastern European countries on Saturday, Dec. 7, at 8:15 p.m. in Marian auditorium.

The 24 performers, senior honor students at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa., sing and dance their way to a university education. All troupe members are of Slavic descent and wear authentic native costumes.

Opening the two-hour program is a tour of small and little-known nationalities as Croatians and Serbians, moving to the Balkans, visiting Hungary and Rumania, then going northward to Poland. Historical folklore of many countries is presented.

Background music is played on the "tamburitzna," a stringed instrument from which the troupe name is taken. It was a forerunner of the mandolin, guitar, and balalaika.

This program is being sponsored by the Parents and Friends Organization, the Alumni, and the Marian Guild for the benefit of the college. Tickets will be available at the college bookstore at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Policy Group Outlines Academic Standards

The Educational Policy Committee has announced new academic regulations, effective this semester.

1. Of the 128 semester hours earned for graduation, at least 60 semester hours should be upper level (that is No. 200) courses.
2. Before being classed as seniors, students must have an average of 1.0 in their college courses.
3. In the sophomore year, students who do not attain an average of .75 in their classes will be placed on probation. If this probation is not removed by the end of the following semester, they are ineligible to continue.

SISTER MARY OLIVIA, dean, explained that the first recommendation was made so that upper-classmen would be doing advanced study rather than be placed in classes with lower division students. In the latter case, sometimes, the class level would be unbalanced.

The second point is for the student's own benefit, because he must attain that average by the end of

Chapel Door Program Enlists Song Groups For Week's Series

Carol Martin and Mary Ann Lindeman were scheduled soloists on the "Chapel Door" television program Friday, Nov. 8. They were seen at 4:30 p.m. on channel 8.

Nineteen other students participated in the daily programs this week, singing religious hymns. Sister Mary Vitalis organized the groups.

Other performers were: Bernard Dever, Don Gibbons, Carol Gapen, Deanna Darkin, Delores Seaths, Layne Lahrman, Carol Welchans, Judy Larson, Mary Lou Szuter, Suzie Shumate, Martha Rosenacker, Jan Janesheski, Rosemary Sikorski, Mary Stoffregen, Kay Rainey, Connie Wolfe, Carol Welsh, Joan Lintzenich, and Suzie Farney.

'Phoenix' Merits Excellent Ratings

An All-Catholic rating, the highest award given by the Catholic School Press Association, and a First Class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press, were conferred on the 1956-57 Phoenix.

Judges of both national associations based their critical evaluation on the comparison of papers produced by schools of similar enrollment and type of publication.

Specific points on which the college paper was graded are: coverage, content and physical properties (makeup, typography and headlines).

The decision of the Catholic School Press Association was further based on the diffusion of Catholic thought, promotion of Catholic activity and enterprise, and service to the school and its community.

Committee Selects Student Leaders

Ten Marian seniors will be included in the 1958 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

A mixed committee of faculty and junior Student Board members selected Mary Byer, Maureen Feeney, Carol Gapen, Mary Jo Keller, Dan McCarthy, Ralph Powell, Charlene Roche, Mary Anne Schantz, Margene Schuck, and Bernie Sheehan.

QUALIFICATIONS for this honor, specified by the Who's Who editors, are academic and extra-curricular leadership, citizenship, service to the school, and promise of future success.

Philosophy major Mary Byer of Willshire, Ohio, has worked on the Fioretti staff, editing it two semesters. She has served as president of the World Affairs Club, and has belonged to the Gospel Discussion and the Great Books Clubs. She attended LUNA, and participated in civil defense programs. Mary plans post-graduate study.

Carol Gapen, of Indianapolis, a history major, has applied for a fellowship for graduate study. She plans to become a history teacher. She participated in Bel Canto and Glee Club, the World Affairs Club, and Gospel Discussion group.

ALSO a history major, Margene Schuck of Elwood, Ind., is serving as House Committee chairman and is Clare Hall representative on the Student Board. She belongs to the World Affairs Club and was secretary in her junior year. Margene attended LUNA, belonged to Gospel Discussion group, and wrote for the Phoenix. She plans to teach after graduation.

A third history major, Bernie Sheehan of Indianapolis, will enter law school next fall. He is president of the Student Board this year, and has served as its secretary. Bernie has been president of the World Affairs Club and editor of the Carbon. He has been on the Phoenix staff, in dramatics, and Red Cross. For four years he has been on the Marian swimming team, and is an M-Club member.

MARY JO KELLER, Student Board vice-president, is an elementary education major. She plans teaching after graduation. She is a member of the Players, and is from Indianapolis.

To be a lab assistant is the plan of chemistry major Charlene Roche of Anderson, Ind. Charlene has served as president, vice-president, and secretary of the ACS student affiliates. She also participated in the Scopus Science Club, Red Cross, civil defense, and has been on the Clare Hall house committee.

Another chemistry major, Ralph Powell, of Indianapolis, plans to attend graduate school. Ralph was winner of the freshman chemical award, is a member of the ACS, Third Order, and Great Books Club. He has been president of the M-Club.

Wanted:—Pep Staccato Behind Bars; Athletes Support Search for Missing Tune

The horn sounded. The game was over and the wild cheers of Marian College students echoed through the Secina gym. Marian had won its first game of the season, and against a highly favored team. The spontaneous celebration lasted a long time and with good reason.

After a while, though, it was obvious something was missing. A very necessary ingredient of the collegiate sports scene was lacking. Those wound-up, happy students needed a school song to sing. Not the sentimental, pretty, unofficial, and copied "Halls of Marian," but a rousing, original and colorful pep song.

Marian has an official school song, but it was written before we developed an extensive athletic program. Perhaps this same tune, with new lyrics added, would fill the need. Certainly there is enough talent at Marian to assure that new lyrics or a new song can be written and approved as official by the administration.

But whatever is to be done must be done now. In just two short weeks

Marian's Knights return to the basketball wars. Let us not begin what will be our best season in history without the song we need.

Lack of Male Leadership Harms College

In any mixed community of men and women—civic, parish, or college—it stands to reason that men are the natural leaders. Individual cases prove exceptions, but men are expected to step forward and guide the group.

How is it then that the male element of Marian College has not made its influence felt? Since becoming coeducational in 1954, our male enrollment has gradually increased to the present 175. We would expect to witness a corresponding increase of responsible leadership in student affairs among the men.

Instead, each year responsible offices are resigned, clubs and organizations grow weaker — some drop completely—and student publications go hunting for personnel.

Is this a justifiable criticism of the situation? Sober reflection will necessitate an affirmative nod. What are the reasons for extra-curricular indifference among the men? Is it right for the burden of leadership and capacity for work to fall upon a few who also carry a maximum academic load?

Granted that a large percentage of men hold part-time jobs to stay in school, but surely there are some who have the time and the interest in campus projects to lend support.

Extra-curricular activities are very important on the campus scene. They are not the student's prime concern but provide an outlet for leadership and special talent. When the student neglects the opportunity to make a community contribution, he is denying progress and development to himself and the college.

Editor's Notebook

With so much gloomy news appearing in papers these last few days it's somewhat refreshing to be able to report facts of a happier nature. We can't help but be pleased to notice quite a few students attending the 11:30 daily Mass.

While the number attending is not overwhelming, it is consistent. When we consider these students plus those who attend our other services we have a fact which speaks well for our Catholic college.

Certainly we students could have no better example in this matter than that set by our faculty, and we believe that the majority of our students appreciate the privilege of a late Mass and the opportunity of receiving Holy Communion daily.

Another pleasing fact concerning our college was brought out at the recent meeting here of registrars and admission officers. A Marian professor confessed to us her pride at the obvious application of gentility and good manners employed by our students.

To turn from the happier side for a moment—we can only express our deepest regret that attempts to reorganize the Annual have apparently failed.

Point of View

by Bernard Dever

Last month Russian scientists projected a rocket into outer space setting a small satellite on a course which has become the "trailblazer" of a new era. The beep-beeps of this satellite have been as far-reaching as the news of the Lusitania and the bombing of Pearl Harbor. Let us hope that this unbloody awakening will produce the same "American spirit" as those tragic overtures have produced in the past.

It is not the fault of our scientists that Russia beat us to the draw. Quite the contrary. We have the greatest force of scientists ever to be massed into one country. But these men have been so hampered by lack of funds and political maneuvering by our government and defense departments, that a great deal of their work has been in vain.

Instead of one central headquarters, such as the Manhattan Project which produced the atom bomb, each branch of the service has been responsible for its own experimental research.

With petty rivalry among the three branches of service, each worked alone, taking three times as long and costing the taxpayer three times as much money. Each feared the other would gain more prestige, and would not allow information to be exchanged. Yet, while the Air Force and Navy could not learn from the Army and vice versa, the Russians were able to learn through their Rosenbergs and their Ables.

Award to Recognize Departmental Projects

To stimulate interest among our students in departmental research, the Phoenix proposes to award a plaque at the end of the second semester to the student making the most valuable contribution to his department in the form of research or project.

This award, by way of clarification, does not exclude the fine arts or creative ability of the student. It is purposely flexible to include any serious contribution indicative of scholarship.

A similar plaque will be retained by the college to be inscribed with the winner's name in each succeeding year.

Rules of the contest are few. Each department head will be asked to enter the work of any student in that field. These would be submitted to a nonpartisan group of faculty members for final selection. All full-time students are eligible and joint projects will be allowed.

In sponsoring this award, the Phoenix hopes to encourage greater and more serious intellectual study by recognizing the achievements of the student.

Minority Status Holds Blessings in Disguise

By Paul G. Fox

"Should Catholics ever become a majority in the United States, they should never seek the privileges of a majority group, but rather restrain themselves."

This opinion was expressed by Rev. R. L. Bruckberger, O.P., French Dominican, in a paper, "American Catholics as a Minority," presented at a recent symposium on Roman Catholicism and the American Way of Life held at the University of Notre Dame.

Father Bruckberger stated that it is fortunate that the U. S. does not have a Catholic President because ordinary human failings which could befall that officer would be attributed to his Catholicism.

"It is likewise fortunate," he continued, "that the U. S. does not diplomatically recognize the Holy See."

In support of his statements, Father called attention to the "Catholic" countries of Europe today—Spain, France, and Italy.

"A healthy religious antagonism is necessary," he said, "to keep this nation's Catholics on their toes, to keep their intellects sharp."

Marian College students attending the symposium were: Carol Gapen, Nancy Brown, Rose Chan, Paul Fox, Judy Hirn, Margene Schuck, Barbara Libs, and Carole Kerske. Miss Mary Haugh accompanied the group.

And it was what they learned from us that enabled them to produce Sputnik.

Practically every major scientific development in Russia in the past ten years has been stolen in full or part from the United States. This is not only due to their ring of efficient spies, but also to our irrational security system, which reeks with inefficiency. To illustrate: not long ago the United States completed a flight simulator that had cost millions of dollars in research and engineering. The machine was then sent to England for training purposes. It had no sooner reached its destination when Russian newsmen were permitted to study and photograph it. They were able to copy this machine at no cost whatever.

This one example is of no real consequence, but the logic that it represents is. If not, then why is it that Russia has the plans of practically every weapon we produce almost before it is out of the testing stage? Yet, the Mig 15 was an obsolete plane before we knew what made it tick.

If we are to continue as the strongest nation on earth, there must be a few changes made. Possessing unlimited wealth and resources will not do it alone. They must be utilized properly. Sputnik has been the Alpha of space travel. What will be the Omega? That is up to the men we voted into office. Let us hope that they act more wisely than they have in the past.

Sympathy

Faculty and students express sympathy to Mrs. Maria Lagadon and to Rafaela Rodriguez on the death of their mother and sister, respectively; also to Patrick Cunningham on the death of his brother.

Prayers are being offered.

'Declaration' Inaugurates Great Book Discussion

Jefferson's "Declaration of Independence" was the assigned topic of the first two-hour session of the Great Books Discussion Club, Tuesday, Nov. 5. Fifteen students formed the charter group.

Msgr. John J. Doyle, college chaplain, has volunteered to be the sustaining discussion leader for the first-year program of 16 bi-weekly meetings. The Great Books Foundation supplies an additional specially-trained leader for each session.

Readings from Plato, Sophocles, Aristotle, and Plutarch are among the future discussions. Each member has purchased the first-year set of readings which are neatly published in paper-back form by the Great Books Foundation.

Among Our Students

Massachusetts, Hoosierland Take Bow

By Larry Hammerstein and Norberta Mack

"Well, I honestly believe the people are friendlier here than back East," said Ed Murphy. "I guess there are a couple of differences in slang expressions too, but outside of that everything is just about the same."

Ed is a 19-year-old freshman with just enough of that New England "twang" to prove he is from the East. Haverhill, Mass., just 18 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, is hometown for the gentleman.

"The population is just 48,000," said Ed. "but we've got a couple of distinctions. Haverhill is called the Shoe City because of its many shoe companies, and we also have the second oldest women's college in the country, Bradford."

More important perhaps, continues Ed, is the fact that Haverhill, a few miles from New Hampshire, was the home of John Greenleaf Whittier.

Ed first heard of Marian from his aunt with whom he now lives at 5273 Cornelius Ave. Since he's arrived, there is not too much he doesn't approve of.

Attending St. James Central high school, Ed dabbled in dramatics with a role in the senior play. Football is the favorite sport, and though St. James did not field a team, he was still able to play in local Catholic independent league.

Ed's father manages the Colonial Theater in downtown Haverhill, and when Ed wasn't ushering in the theater he kept busy with a rare coin collection.

"I'm majoring in business administration," said Ed, "and I'll probably go into accounting. There've been no extra-curriculars yet. For now I'm just studying."

Fatima Retreat House Plans Marian Retreat

Marian women have the opportunity of making a closed retreat Dec. 13-15 at Fatima Retreat House.

From Friday evening until Sunday afternoon Rev. James Doherty, retreat master, will conduct prayers and give conferences.

Charlene Roche and Anne Munshower are co-promoters on campus; sub-promoters will be announced on the bulletin board. Registration fee is $5, and deadline is Dec. 4.

Robert Browning (Wanda Toffolo) chats with Elizabeth (Geraldine Schloeman) as Henricetta (Rita Small) listens in and Wilson (Rosina Menonna) serves, in "The Barretts" played on the first Marian stage, Madonna Hall. Dramatics is a 20-year campus tradition.

"Everything! I like just about everything in the world—except oatmeal!" This summarizes the interests of Mary "Buttons" Ehringer, an 18-year-old freshman from southern Hoosierland.

Mary, a native of Jeffersonville, is a graduate of Our Lady of Providence High School in nearby Clarksville. There she was on the yearbook staff and "did a lot of art work."

Living near the Ohio River, Mary takes advantage of the opportunities for swimming, fishing and sailing. After a few tries at water skiing she has decided "it's the most exciting thing I've ever done!"

Although she learned much of Marian through her mother and friends of the family, Mary saw it for the first time when she enrolled in September.

M. Ehringer now, she hasn't decided how she will use it.

Studying, the Players, and a life-saving course keep her pretty busy, but Mary likes to take time out to sew and is eagerly looking forward to following the varsity through the basketball season.

Mary had the honor of sharing first prize for costumes at the Beaux Arts Ball. "I came," she says, "as the back half of Joan of Arc's horse."

NF Slates Workshop, Advent Symposium

A workshop on parliamentary procedure for the benefit of Student Board, class, and club officers will be sponsored by the NFCCS Sunday, Nov. 17, at 3 p.m. in the assembly room.

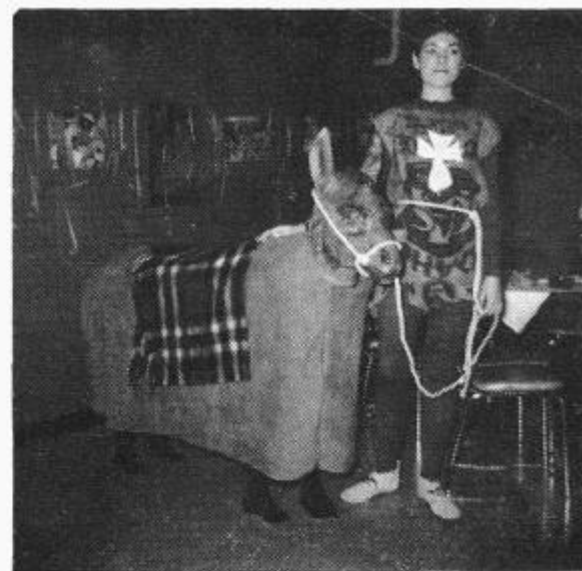

Mr. Larry Turner, Deputy U.S. Federal Marshall, and graduate of the University of Notre Dame Law School, will conduct the workshop.

At a later date, a second session will be held. The program is designed to better prepare Marian students for leadership.

The annual Advent Symposium, sponsored by the NFCCS Catholic Action Study Bureau, will be held at the University of Notre Dame Dec. 6-8. Leading personalities in Catholic Action will present a stimulating program.

MOSES (Raymond Day) and Joan of Arc (Rebecca Heck) with her charger (Joan Davis and Mary Ehringer), second and first prize winners at the Beaux Arts Ball sponsored by The Players Oct. 25. Runners-up were: Robin Hood's merry men (Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weiss, Deloris Diewert and Dan Zigich), Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde (Don Wassel) and Phantom of the Opera (Dan Dufour).

SAM Speaker Cites Industry's Problems In Atomic Energy

By James T. O'Donnell

Dr. James P. Kohn, a member of the chemical engineering faculty of Notre Dame University, recently addressed the Marian student chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

In his speech, Dr. Kohn said, "One of the main problems confronted in industrial applications of atomic energy is the safe disposal of the atomic by-product not capable of being utilized at the present time." Dr. Kohn also mentioned different aspects of the use of solar energy.

The address was the first in a series to be sponsored by the student chapter, and will be followed by addresses throughout the year by distinguished members of the academic and business world.

The basic objective of the student chapter is to serve as an effective medium for the exchange and distribution of information on the problems, policies and methods of industry and management.

MAUREEN FEENEY of Indianapolis is an ACS member and has done research projects and papers for chemistry. She has served as CSMC president and as religious representative and treasurer of the Student Board. Maureen was co-editor of the freshman Phoenix and on the Fioretti staff, and in Glee Club and WARA. A chemistry major, Maureen plans to be married soon after graduation.

Dan McCarthy, Indianapolis biology major, has applied for a medical school fellowship. Dan is a lab assistant in biology and anatomy, and a member of the ACS student affiliate. He was president of the freshman class, treasurer of the sophomore class, and served on the Student Board. He is a member of the swimming and water polo teams, teaches swimming and has been vice-president of the M-Club.

Mary Ann Shantz of Indianapolis plans to become a home economist. She served as class secretary in her freshman, junior, and senior years; as president and secretary of the Home Ec Club; and was on the Marian staff.

Conference Initiates Social Work Aspirants

Sociology majors rubbed elbows with 7000 social workers at the Indiana State Conference on Social Work at the Claypool Hotel, Nov. 7.

Some of the sessions attended included the topics: "Current Trends in Social Group Theory and Practice," "Adoption Resource Exchange," "Rehabilitation—A Community Responsibility," and "When Disaster Strikes." All are geared to the theme: "Progress Through Prevention."

Prestige Mounts to New High As Hometown Roster Lists 112

By Joe Hertz

October and November have always been the source of many topics of conversation—nature in color, cold nights, anti-freeze, touchdown gallops, basketball practices, and murmurings of "overworked" students.

Now with midterms approaching and notebooks being filled, another topic suggests itself.

Most students well realize the value of receiving a degree from an outstanding institution, and being outstanding also means it is readily recognized in many parts of the world. Simple deduction, plus an assist from experience, will tell us that good jobs and a good name are in order for a graduate from a reputable school.

There is a tremendous potential empowered in the people that sit alongside you in the classrooms, for the extending of Marian's reputation. Upon graduation they will carry their acquired knowledge and tradition back to families, friends, and employers.

The school's name and fame must necessarily spread, whether knowingly or not. Marian will continue to be recognized not only in Indianapolis but in an ever-widening circle of countries, states, and towns. This year's roster lists not only metropolitan cities like New York, Stuttgart, Germany, and Hong Kong, China, but dozens of smaller but equally important cities and towns.

Otterbein, Brazil, Morgantown, Dana, Oneida, Dugger, Muncie . . . on to 112 runs the list of hometowns. Next year more students from more towns will come and go—all "spreading the word."

With a view to knowing better the centers of future influence of our fellow students as well as appreciating their contribution to Marian's culture now, the Phoenix will begin in its next issue a series of articles on the hometowns of seniors.

THIRDLY, Sister explained that the advance from the .5 to 1.0 from sophomore to junior year was quite a large jump, and that students have better opportunity of reaching the junior requirement by a gradual advance.

The Educational Policy Committee studies academic problems and makes recommendations for faculty approval. It is composed of the President, the Dean, and three faculty members.

Tourney Opens Basketball Season

Slants on Sports

by Ferd Keller

We here at Marian have taken another big step forward. Being invited to the tournament at Earlham is a good sign that the college is being recognized by some of the other colleges in the state.

And so with that thought in mind the athletic department accepted the invitation extended us by Earlham College. We feel that we will be gaining better recognition, and will also be bettering our athletic department, by competing in the tournament.

We don't expect to get any monetary gain from this tourney, and we knew that when the invitation was extended us. The only gain of sorts we will get will be the three or so ball games we play. But it is a step forward, and that is most important.

There will be tickets available for this event. Just when and where isn't yet known, but you will be told before the tourney where they may be obtained. It would be a great aid to the team if there would be a good number of Marian Boosters in the stands when they play. Earlham's gym seats a nice-size crowd, so there won't be any worry of not getting seats.

As for the regular season, I think we all can be assured of a winning one. The men on the team seem to be working harder this year than ever before, and Coach Fields even had to cut this year to get the squad down to a minimum. At least there won't be any manpower problems. There aren't many more problems that haven't been worked out, either. The Cathedral gym floor has been changed, thus eliminating the taping of the free throw lanes this year, and the team is going to appear in a new set of white uniforms in addition to their gold and blue ones.

So the team's ready to go, the cheerleaders are ready, now all that remains to be done is to prepare the student body. There really isn't any preparing to do, though, now is there? With the type of support that Marian had last year with a losing team, Cathedral or even Butler won't be able to hold the crowds that gather to cheer the Knights through a winning season.

However, the student body cannot expect to have a winning season unless they give the team their support, not just now and then, but all season, from its beginning to its end. And not just at the home games, but at as many "away" games as it can.

The Knights are our ball club. They compete for our good and for that of our school. Let them know that we appreciate their efforts and turn out full force for all their games this year.

'Rally to the Rally', Say Cheerleaders

Deanna Darkin, Barbara Kin, and Patty McCoy were elected cheerleaders by the student body Oct. 28.

The new yell leaders along with Tom Hacker and Barbara Kuhn, returning members, will spark the enthusiasm for the coming basketball season.

The pep squad will participate in a rally Thursday, Nov. 14, to honor the basketball team and promote school spirit. A skit produced by Dan Dufour will be featured in the auditorium during assembly period.

Team members, coach, and cheerleaders will be introduced by master of ceremonies Ferd Keller.

Father Reine will speak, and cheers will be explained to the student body.

V-Ball Team Tosses Two Successive Wins; WARA Stands By

Women's volleyball opened the season, Oct. 30, by winning the match over Indiana Central 13-2 and 13-9. Meeting St. Vincent nurses on Nov. 6, Marian was victorious in two matches 12-8, 10-3, and 12-6, 15-1.

Coming are tilts with Indiana University Medical Center students (there) Nov. 13; Normal College (here) Nov. 30; and Butler University (there) Dec. 1.

New WARA officers, boosting the women's sports program, are: Carol Cain, president; Rita Trepohl, secretary-treasurer; and Mary Ellen Eversman, corresponding secretary.

Knights Announce 20-Game Crusade Beginning Nov. 26

The 1957-58 Marian College basketball season will open on Thursday, Nov. 21, when the Knights take part in the City of Richmond Basketball Tournament. The tourney will run three days, Nov. 21-23, at Earlham College.

Similar to one held in 1955, the eight-team tourney will see teams from Taylor, Anderson, Transylvania, Concordia, Rio Grande, Indiana Central, and Earlham, as well as Marian. Each team will play at least three games.

TROPHIES will be given for the championship, runnerup and third place teams, and individual awards to the All-Star team and outstanding player.

Admission to the tourney will be $1.00 for adults per session and 50c for children.

The Knights' regular 20-game season will begin on the road at Rose Poly, Nov. 26. After two road trips, the team opens at home Dec. 10 against Huntington at the Cathedral gym. This is the only home game for December, the next being Jan. 9 when Rose Poly visits at Cathedral.

NEW ON THE SCHEDULE are Indiana Tech and St. Joseph's. Marian plays each team once—Tech at Fort Wayne Dec. 13, and St. Joe's Feb. 11 at the Seecina Memorial gym.

Two games are on tap with rugged Indiana Central, upset losers to the Knights last year. A single will be played against Franklin, and Aurora (Ill.) College has been dropped from the schedule.

DIGGING into plans are M-men leaders: Don DeHart, Bob Wynkoop, Louie Ripperger, and Mike Kramer.

Lettermen Schedule Swimming Party; Officers Consider Publishing Bulletin

One of the most active of all campus organizations is the Monogram Club, M-Men's Association or M-Men's Club, whichever you prefer to call it. Now in its third year, the club has as its president Don DeHart, a junior from Trafalgar.

The M-Men's Club's main purpose is to act as a liaison between the college athletes and the administration. Later, as alumni, the men will help to further athletics on the Marian campus. At the same time they serve as one of the campus's most active social organizations.

In the line of social plans for this term, the club arranged for a swimming party Nov. 8 at the Indiana University Medical Center, and also is planning its annual Christmas serenade for the residents.

A weekly sports bulletin, featuring news from the Marian campus and also other college campuses throughout the nation, is another proposed project. It is not as yet known what the outlet for such a bulletin would be, but there is strong consideration being given the Carbon.

The M-Men also are investigating the possibility of sponsoring a trophy, to be kept on display at school, on which would be engraved each year the name of an outstanding Marian athlete.

Other officers are: Robert Wynkoop, vice-president; Louis Ripperger, secretary; and Michael Kramer, treasurer. The moderator for the group is Father William F. Stineman.
