

BLACK STUDIES PROPOSED FOR '70

by Elana Weiss

The possibility of initiating a Black Studies, or Afro-American Studies course into the liberal arts curriculum of Marian College looks promising.

According to Dr. D.J. Guzzetta, president, "I'll be surprised if, by Fall of '70, there is not a course of this type included in the curriculum." He continued, "We've been giving it (the proposal) more than lip service."

On October 16, in the course of the faculty departments chairmen meeting, this topic was presented and discussed. It received "unanimous agreement." A committee composed of five volunteer faculty members and four members of UBI has been formed to begin immediate work on the initiation of such a course. Faculty members include Sisters Rose Mary, Edgar, and Jean Gabriel, Mr. Moran and Miss Haugh;

Housing Age Lowered to 22

Dean Roy Pille presided over the Student Services Committee meeting last Thursday afternoon during which the dress code was revised and the age for off-campus housing lowered.

John Dorsey presented to the committee a proposal to replace the guidelines for dress as set in the student handbook. His proposal made dress primarily a personal responsibility. Students are expected to abide by the state laws. The basic issue discussed was: Does the responsibility of decency lie with the state or with the college? Dorsey's proposal passed 5-4-1.

A question was raised on whether or not this legislation has to go to the Faculty Council. According to the Dean, this action is necessary only when the legislation affects the faculty directly.

Mrs. Linda Kolb, Director of Student Activities, introduced a motion to lower the age for off-campus housing from 23 to 22. The motion was passed. Although legal age in Indiana is 21, the college requires 21-year-olds to reside on campus in order to make the operation of the dormitories financially possible.

Dean Pille approved the Union for Black Identity's constitution last week.

UBI members are John Tate, Cecilia Wisdom, Pat Patton, and Valerie Geaither.

Underlying factors in the initiation of a course of this type are factors which would be considered in any new course. It must be academically sound, fulfill the standard requirements of the college, and be processed through the regular channels that any new course would. Says Dr. Guzzetta, "I, personally, am opposed to any crash programs which aren't sound." Another factor to be considered, he pointed out, is the "limitation of staff and resources."

The initiation of an inter-disciplinary approach to the course appears as the most desired and feasible at this stage.

John Tate, a transfer freshman and chairman of UBI's Black Studies Committee, proposes that an Afro-American course be integrated into one of the major curriculums, perhaps the humanities branch, and include a cultural approach to the topic. Another possibility would be a more inclusive urban studies program which could bring in life in the city. "Such a course would be applicable to all M.C. students," Mr. Tate feels.

Valerie Geaither has written to some colleges and universities seeking information and outlines on Black Studies and Urban Studies programs. "The ultimate goal, I feel, is a total curriculum in Black Studies with courses in psychology, sociology, history, religion, and the humanities," says Miss Geaither.

Miss Mary Haugh, who is Associate Professor of Sociology and Chairman of the Sociology Department, has a minor in African Studies in the areas of geography, history, and government, and was in Africa in the summer of '66, expressed interest in the program. She is currently attending Earlham's Afro-American Faculty Seminar which is looking into the development of such courses. The Fall term focuses on Africa, the Winter term on contemporary black politics, and the Spring term on black artists and writers. She is also attending an I.U. program of African Studies. (I.U. has the second largest African Studies program in the U.S.)

As possibilities for an Afro-American centered course, she feels that "an expansion of Urban studies would include more Afro-American orientation." Her Minorities Groups course cur- (continued on page 3)

"There . . .

"There's a panty raid in . . .

"There's a panty raid in Doyle Hall - I mean Clare Hall!" so phoned a distraught woman resident to Miss Judy Hancock, M.C. telephone operator at 10:40 p.m. last night. Phoenix staff members observed about seventy-five Doyle Hall residents invade Clare Hall with gusto nearly matched by that of Security Officer Paul Benson as he rushed to telephone Dr. Guzzetta about same invaders. Guzzetta purportedly instructed Benson to call Dean Pille. The raid was over by 10:55 p.m.

One night-gowned, curler-capped RA lamented, "One of them hugged me and yelled 'Hi, Baby' ". Another hopeful freshman inquired, "Does it happen every year?" A Doyle-Haller declared, "By God, I've been waiting three years for something like this to happen."

Miss Sandra Whitman, Clare Hall Residence Director, was unavailable for comment.

The girls soon retorted with a "We shall overcome" march on Doyle Hall. "This campus is finally alive!" cheered one upper classman as around 100 unruly women stormed Doyle's hallowed halls. Close on their heels were Dr. Guzzetta and slipper-shod Dean Pille, who restored order, but not necessarily lingerie by 11:30.

One panty-laden male was heard to muse, "And it wasn't even on the Calendar."

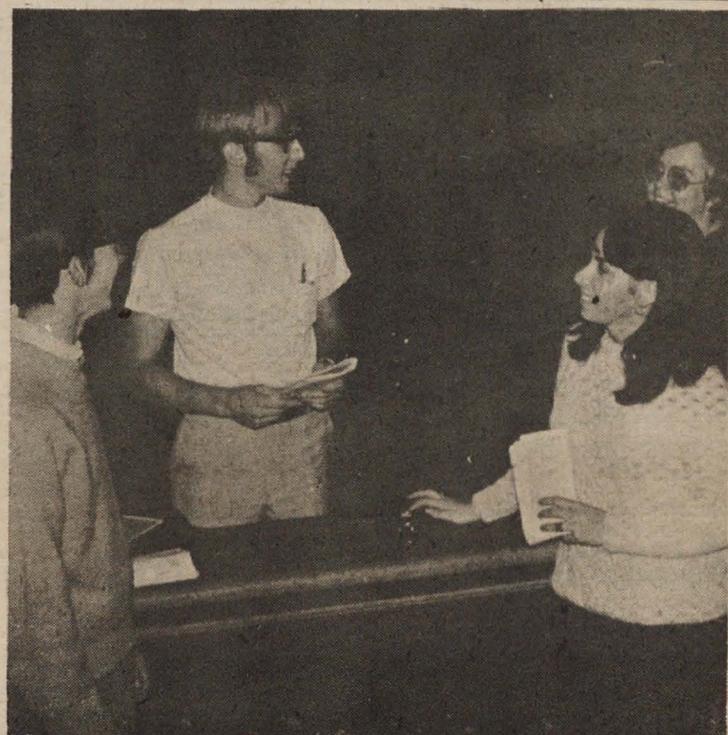

Branigan Is President-elect

Roger Branigan, a history major from Cincinnati, Ohio, was elected freshman class president last Friday. Dennis Sweeney was elected to the position of treasurer and Ann Hubert is one of the social council representatives.

The remaining class positions are to be filled in tomorrow's run-off election. Candidates for the position of vice president are Cynthia Vehorn and Carol Wethington; for student board representative, William Booher and Nancy Schroeder; for social council representative, Domoni Chatmon and Catherine Hockwalt; for secretary, Denise Bruno and Sharon Monnin.

President-elect Branigan came to Marian 'with an interest in student government.' He stated that he was 'quite honored that the class thought I was the best man.' The first order of business for the officers elected on Friday will be a meeting with Dr. Guzzetta today. After tomorrow's run-off's, Branigan intends to get to work on the choosing of candidates for the Sadie Hawkins' Mixer and for Homecoming.

'Cat' Sears Marian Stage

Rehearsals are under way for Marian's November 7, 8, and 9 presentation of Cat on a Hot Tin Roof. The theme of the Tennessee Williams' favorite is the problem of communication and the fear of truth.

The plot unfolds, in a Southern setting, around the Pollitt family - Big Daddy (Dan Holbrook), Big Mamma (Gayle Steigerwald), their lawyer son Gooper (Pete O'Connell), and their real son Brick (Steve Hammerle). Action centers around the coming death of Big Daddy, for, unknown to himself and Big Mamma, he is dying of cancer. The sons and their wives vie for his will. Gooper's wife Mae (Mary Wuest) wants money to nourish her own selfish vanities; Brick's wife Maggie (Barb Bates) wants it because she has always lived poorly. Mae has an advantage in the game, however, - she has children (Susie Schnepf and Danny Moran).

A subplot lies in the marriage of Maggie and Brick. As the audience establishes empathy with Maggie, it sees that her real love is Brick, and that money is only a secondary motive. However,

Brick will not give himself to her because of a misunderstanding caused by the degeneration of one of his friends.

Maggie is a symbol of hope and rebirth, as she exemplifies by the closing line of the play: 'Oh, you weak, beautiful people who give up with such grace. What you need is someone to take hold of you - gently, with love, and hand your life back to you, like something gold you let go of - and I can! I'm determined to do it - and nothing's more determined than a cat on a hot tin roof - is there? . . .'

Other cast members are servants Kathy O'Rourke and Sheila Farrell, Gene Bourke, as Reverend Tooker, and Greg Grandy as Dr. Baugh.

"This is my first time to play the mean character," commented Mary Wuest. "Mr. Moran is excellent in giving practical applications of the attitudes he wishes his players to acquire." Barb Bates observed, "I sense that the cast is more serious about this production compared to past ones. The members realize that this type of production is a big step for Marian."

Thousands rally

In light and/or darkness of "YOU LOSE" put out by our Student Board last week, we have decided to take a look at the problems and/or solutions of other like-minded student organizations. Our insights come — courtesy of student publications — from Ball State University, Regis College, St. Joseph College, St. Mary-of-the-Woods College and Xavier University.

"University administrators took another step toward liberalizing campus policy last week as they agreed to a dress regulation change for certain dining halls.

"A student-proposed list of changes permitting casual dress at the evening meals and school dress for the Sunday noon meal was accepted by the administrators and put into effect last Thursday. The only stipulation regarding coat, tie, and Sunday dress was for special dinners."

"At the closing banquet of Manresa '70, Mr. Eberhard, Professor of Theology, presented a few remarks on the areas which, in his opinion, need much attention at Xavier. He cited five specific areas: course and professor evaluation by students, establishment of a university senate, institutional racism at Xavier, the influence of the Vietnam situation on campus, and the initiation of a meaningful and relevant liturgical program."

"A Student Senate committee has been established to investigate open visitation in Saint Mary-of-the-Woods College dormitories.

"Open Visitation, while a major issue on other campuses, is one matter which Student Government may find not acceptable to the SMWC student body. A random sampling of opinion finds many students either apathetic to the idea or totally negative."

"Can moral positions be compromised — even for the sake of the great Xavier image? No, moral commitment comes first. The day might be an apparent success, but the real success will occur when the majority of Xavier students make a decision on the war's morality. As in all moral issues, there can be no neutral stand. After deciding, all students must express their feelings and follow them up with positive action to improve the Vietnam situation.

"Discontent within the alleged community of Collegeville is supposed to be resolved through 'dialogue,' that illusive phrase used at every opening Mass, every commencement, and every other speech between the two.

"Students especially are implored to use 'dialogue' before thinking about raising too much hell with the administration.

"In last week's STUFF, however, it was reported that athletic brochures were scrapped by a vote of the Treasurer's Committee and President's Council. This matter was not even brought to the attention of those most closely involved with the brochures—the coaches and director of sports information—before it was decided upon.

"Last week a motion was brought before the Treasurer's Committee to cut STUFF's budget by $9600, the entire amount allotted annually for printing the newspaper, in order to supply money for other activities. The editors of STUFF were never consulted before that committee voted on such a cut. Fortunately, it was voted down."

"An unfortunate situation currently exists concerning the picture identification cards. Many students are without one. The DAILY NEWS thinks this unfortunate but recognizes the efforts of the Registrar's Office to make improvements and better service students in this area."

"If both sides remain open to all ideas, a workable solution will be found. If the students are treated fairly by faculty, administration and their fellow students, most of them will respond with the actions that are expected of them. If students learn that there is more than one side in the differences they have with others, Regis College will be a much better academic community, and Regis graduates will have been more truly liberally educated."

Rising above the sterile sea—

—a patch of concrete with thirty billion corpses.

The stench rising to the heavens—

—but no one's here to smell it.

Mile after mile of smoke stacks, ash heaps,
and TV antennas;

but also to the sky.

No birds fly in the profit paradise—

—no cows—no horses, dogs or sheep.

We used to fish the lakes and sea—

Piles of dead bodies fill the streets—

But don't despair! There are yet fields—the thirty billion.

Though all are dead, at the end we had the biggest

Lane Tours Divided Germany

Marburg, den 30. September 1969

Last weekend my group made a trip north along the border of the DDR (Soviet Occupied Zone). We stopped at four points along the border, each one giving a different impression of a divided Germany.

Our first stop was outside the small town of Neuseesen. The weather was cold and cloudy which helped to put us in a somewhat somber mood. At this point the border meanders in a very irregular line across a field on a hilltop. It seemed so strange to look down at the peaceful village at the bottom of the hill, knowing that barbed wire fences, mine fields and a watch tower separated us from it. We were so close, yet worlds apart.

Our next stop was on the bank of a small river opposite the East German town of Landewerrn. On the West German side was a sign reminding visitors that the people on the other side are not enemies, but Germans like themselves. On the opposite bank there was a bunker with guns pointed directly at us. A red sign, claiming that freedom ends at the river's edge, was nailed to a nearby building. Only a short distance away, we could see some children playing with their dog. We saw a family digging up potatoes. We saw an old man selling newspapers to some ladies in front of the church. Everything looked so normal, so close — yet so far away.

The third stop was in an open field. Two of us walked all the way to the demarcation line. We could see two guards in the tower on the other side of the barbed wire aiming their rifles at us, waiting for us to take just one step over the line. (We decided not to challenge them.)

Our final stop was on the Niedergandern - Hohengandern Road. The present political boundary separates these two towns. Here we were greeted by a huge billboard stating that the German Democratic Republic (DDR) offers peace to all, democracy through the people and socialism for the people. Again we were able to walk right to the demarkation line because the fences and mine fields are only on the East German side.

After seeing these split roads, towns, farms, and people along the border that separates Germany, I am even more firmly convinced that this country should be reunited as soon as possible.

Mit herzlichen Grüßen,
Jack Lane

News In Brief

Sadie Hawkins November 1

The senior class is announcing the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, to be held November 1, from 8-11 p.m. Couples are asked to dress in Halloween masquerade, and a $5 prize is offered for the best costume. Class nominations for the king and queen of the dance, Lil' Abner and Daisy Mae respectively, will be voted on next week.

Sophomores Present "Harper", Tutti-Fruitti Ice Cream Hop

The sophomore class will present the award-winning film, 'Harper', Friday, October 24, at 8:30 p.m. in the main auditorium. The color film, included on the list of the 10 best films of the year, stars Paul Newman, Shelly Winters, Robert Wagner, and Pamela Tiffin. Advance sale tickets can be obtained from any of the sophomore class officers for $.75 beginning today.

Following the film will be a tutti-fruitti ice cream hop in the Perc. Floats, splits, sundaes, cones, cokes, etc. will be served in the atmosphere of an old-time ice cream parlor.

Monte Carlo

Down in your luck? Just can't seem to pick your chin up off the floor? How would you like to make $1,000 for just $1.00? That's right. Where? At the SAC lounge this Saturday night from 8:00 to 11:00 when the junior class presents Monte Carlo night. Everyone has a chance to win prizes. There will be blackjack tables and crap games for those who are so inclined. For those true gambling fools there might be a game of stud poker which always serves to upset stomachs and quicken tempers.

The evening also presents a chance for losers to reform, for winner to continue winning, and for everyone to enjoy themselves watching their money being raked in by the house. Inside sources have it that the tables are rigged, but the dealers still don't know in whose favor! Someone said that last year there were pretty girls in micro-mini skirts waiting on tables! Anyway, where can you get so much for so little? Muster your courage and see for yourself. You might wish you hadn't!

Marian Host to Home Ec Clubs

Marian College Student Home Economics Association, an affiliate of the Indiana Home Economics Association, will host the annual Fall Meeting of Student Member Section of the Indiana Home Economics Association, to be held October 25.

The theme of the convention is 'Building for the Future—You and the Family.' Mrs. Marjorie Ashby, director of the test kitchens at Stokley-VanCamp, will speak on 'Professionalism.' 'The Future of the Family' is the topic of Dr. Robert Reigel's talk. He is Supervisor of Family Counseling Service, Catholic Social Service.

Kathy Reimer, a Marian senior, is State Chairman of the Indiana Student Member Section.

Action In Brown County Agape

On Friday night, October 24, the Educational Committee of Action is sponsoring an Agape at Brown County CYO Camp.

An Agape is a group dynamics session; it is a chance for a group of people to express and share their thoughts and experiences — a "Spiritual Happening."

Anyone interested in coming or in finding out more can contact Steve Swercheck, Ext. 549, or Terry Seibert, Ext. 417.

Black Studies Examined

rently requires that one African novel be read. "Urban Sociology already includes a segment on the problems of the city and Social Change include factors involved in developing nations, among which are Africa and Southeast Asia."

A general Black culture and humanities course, including art, music, literature, dance, and theater is seen as another acceptable approach to the topic.

Says John Tate, "If it is possible, we'd like a qualified Black instructor for the Black Studies course. We feel that a Black instructor would be the best able to relate to Black history and culture."

However, the absence of trained persons, with degrees in Afro-American history and literature is a looming problem. Universities are just now beginning to initiate such programs on a graduate level, among them, Columbia University, Yale, Harvard, and Boston University. It has also been pointed out that there is a major difference between competence in African Studies and Afro-American Studies.

Due to lack of trained personnel, competition is great among the larger universities for persons who can staff their programs. Consequently, smaller schools are disadvantaged, not only by their size but also by the salaries which they can offer.

Another fact that has been noted is that where such courses have been initiated on an undergraduate level, the response has been mainly from white students. For instance, at I.U. only two students out of 70 enrolled in the Black Studies course were Black. And fewer than 10% of the students at the six predominantly black colleges composing the Atlanta University Center are enrolled in the center's 41 Black Studies courses.

Sr. Norma, Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs, and Sr. Rose Mary, Chairman of the English Department, are currently working with UBI members to coordinate a Black Studies lecture series for fall. This would tentatively include such aspects as art, music, dancing, theater, literature, and history, and hopefully, be presented by all Black lecturers. Letters and inquiries have been sent to possible interested Black members of Indianapolis and other communities.

Sisters Rose Mary, Vivian Rose, Carolyn, and Mary Jane are attending a Workshop on Black Culture at the Bergamo Center in Dayton, Ohio, this Saturday. Discussions and displays on Black music, art, prose, poetry, and performing arts will be featured.

UBI, through REACT, will again offer their "Black Subculture for Honkies" course. The Wednesday evening (9:00 p.m.) class will dwell mainly on literary aspects and is designed for white students, according to Harold Smith, class coordinator.

The Blacks are also sponsoring a Black Seminar within UBI to "help ourselves become more aware of ourselves," as Miss Geather expressed it.

Pages Dance In New Year

The Marian College Pages have again replenished their ranks and started dancing for their current season. This year they have six new members, including Roberta Donahue, Doris Garland, Regina O'Connor, Jane Schroeder, and Mary Beth Sullivan. The organization now totals fourteen full-time Pages and two alternates.

The Pages is an organization of Marian girls who enjoy dancing together. Their rehearsals are held once a week at a time convenient to the members.

The first appearance of the Pages for their admiring public will be at the halftime of the Homecoming game. At this time the Pages will do a precision drill to the theme 'Up, Up and Away.' Already in planning is another show with the theme 'All Sports.' The Pages have already scheduled an appearance at the Hibernian Ball, a big Irish festival, and they are hopeful that they will be able to appear during a half-time of one of the Pacer basketball games as they have in the past. Of course, they will do several halftime shows with the Marian basketball team, but the themes for these are not yet announced.

Melanie Munchel is beginning her second year as general leader of the Pages. This year she will have added help with choreography from Judy Mollaun, a Marian graduate.

Anguish Cries On Mondays

by Claudia Zuchowski

If, on some quiet Monday or Wednesday evening, one wanders around the gym area (or anywhere within a half mile radius), he (or she, as the case may be) is liable to hear some unusual noises. Anguished cries, jubilant shouts, loud laughter, and occasionally muffled cursing. (The cursing must be muffled because it is a no-no.) All these signs point out that the women's sports season is under way.

On the fateful evening of October 1, approximately one hundred twenty women resident students showed up to begin a vigorous — and, hopefully, a relaxing — season of intramural volleyball. According to Mrs. Clark and Wanda Rogalski, president of WARA, 'It's the best response we've had in quite a while.'

Due to circumstances beyond the control of this reporter, (who had to read a chapter of Seutonius and could not watch all the games) the results of Monday's games were not immediately available. Besides, many readers just skip the scores anyway.

Tune in next week, for another thrilling episode in the adventures of women's sports.

SEA Holds Conference At Marian

Officers and sponsors of the Marian SEA attended a planning session for the Regional Conference which will be held November 20 on the Marian campus. Topics to be covered at this conference will be: 'Sex Education in the Schools', 'Teaching Opportunities in Other States and Overseas', 'Discipline in the Schools', 'Inner City Education', and 'Early Experience for Future Teachers.'

Present on campus this year is an officer of the State SEA. Patty Reckelhoff, a senior transfer student from St. Benedict's, is ISEA Corresponding Secretary for the 1969-70 year.

Sister Mary Patrick of Marian's Education Department is President of the SEA-FTA Sponsors' Coordinating Board. She attends all state and regional level meetings of the Midwest Region of the Student National Education Association.

The final SEA Membership Drive will be conducted tomorrow in front of Marian Auditorium.

THE PLACE FOR EMOTIONAL CLOTHES: THERE SHOULDN'T BE ANY OTHER KIND.

Undefeateds' Vie For Intra Title

Defense once again was the key in intramural football Sunday. This year's defenses have produced fourteen shutouts and numerous one point and one touchdown victories. The extra point conversion never before had much importance in the intramural play. This year it is the deciding factor in many games.

Game one opened with a 6-0 victory for the Social Diseases over the Wolf Pack. John Speth tossed a ten yard score to Brian Delaney. The Diseases' defense, sparked by Mel McKinney and Randy Balla, held on for the win.

Game two was a 14-6 victory for Dave Flights' team over the winless Intramural Team. Both teams were out of contention but still played an exciting game.

Games four and five were forfeited to the Athletic Supporters and the Gods of Hell Fire by the Faculty and Terrible Ten. I hope Coach Dickinson will think twice about admitting the Faculty to the league next year, as this was their third forfeit.

Game three saw David Haire, Bob Bittlemeyer and Tom Gannon lead the Lost Souls to a 13-0 victory over the Degenerates. John Hendricks, Jack Adams, Brian Black and "Bubba" played an excellent game as the Degenerates came close to pulling an upset.

Game six had to be rated the game of the week as the Big Ten powered their way to a 13-12 decision over the KKK. The big play of the game for the Big Ten was Pat Widolf's interception of a Bill Smith aerial. Dan Radtke skirted the end for the score. Bill Zeller scored what was the winning points on a short 5 yard pass from Radtke. The KKK scored on Smith passes to Mitchell and Geaither.

Next week's games will decide the championships of both leagues. In League B the Lost Souls are three touchdown favorites as they wrap up the season unscored upon and with the Social Diseases. In League B the Big Ten with good blocking and a strong pass rush should be one touchdown favorite over the Athletic Supporters.

B-Ball Pressure On

Poor Cleon. This year he is confronted with a problem he never before faced in his career at Marian. Too much talent. Within a few weeks Coach Reynolds will have to dust off the "ol' axe" and lop a few heads. After seeing this year's team in several practice sessions, we know this decision is going to be tough.

The starting five on this year's team will probably vary from game to game. The only possible weak position on the team is the center spot vacated by "Tonto" Herricks. But Tom Dolezal is really putting his 6' 7" frame to work this year. By the opener, Dazzlin' Doz should be up to par. If not, the versatility of this year's rather small but strong team, will come through. Pat McKenney at 6' 4", Tim Berger 6' 4", or Vern Hoying 6' 4" could fill in.

Roy Deveney 6' 4", Randy Stahley 6' 2", or Joe Hoog 6' 2" and Mike Wichman 6' 4" are battling for the forward positions. The lack of height is not as threatening as it sounds when one considers the strength and ability.

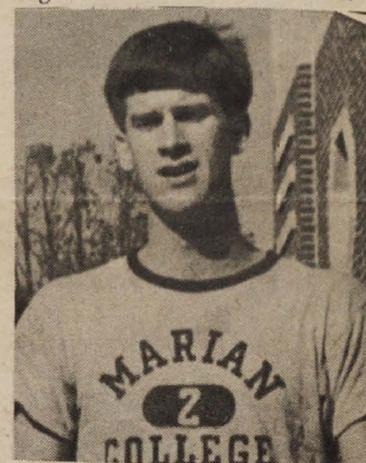

The guards this year should be the strongpoint of the team. Juniors Stahley, Drake, Hasty, and Riesen, senior Mike Komlance, and sophomores Ted Canfield and Terrence Smith are all top contenders for this spot.

Hustle has really been evident in this year's ball club.

Several times Coach Reynolds in unparalleled ecstasy asked for a bucket of water to cool off the floor. This competitive spirit should breed a winning team this year.

The team's co-captains will be elected this year instead of appointed. Leading candidates are ex super-sophs Bob Hasty and Steve Drake, and seniors Tim Berger and Pat McKenney.

With good coaching (and I suggest anyone differing with that opinion attend a practice), attitude, depth, strength and versatility, Marian will produce its best and probably highest scoring hardcourt team in its history.

Since Coach Reynolds could not change the format of this year's composite of team pictures to include one of his best guards, Bob Hasty, the Phoenix felt it necessary to point out to the student body that Bob is alive and well. He is also a candidate for captain and probably one of the starting five.
