

His are the seasons
His the ages,
To Him be glory and dominion
Through ages eternal. Amen.
Blessing of the Paschal Candle,

Holy and glorious
May He protect us
And preserve us
Who is Christ the Lord. Amen.

Casting Progresses for 'The Rivals' Three-Act Comedy, Play of the Year

Work on the college play of the year, The Rivals, is progressing rapidly. While tryouts for some roles are still continuing, rehearsals are scheduled daily. Some costumes have already been fitted. Others are being designed and made by the clothing department.

The plot revolves around Mrs. Malaprop's trying to "marry off" her niece, Lydia, to Sir Anthony Absolute's son, who, in the meanwhile, has been courting Lydia incognito. Two other gentlemen think that Lydia is in love with them.

Captain Jack Absolute, alias Ensign Beverly, is the dashing young man who has captured the heart of the romantic Lydia.

Bob Acres, one of the "other gentlemen," is a country bumpkin. He, Mrs. Malaprop, and Sir Anthony Absolute have not been equalled for rollicking comedy.

Sir Anthony Absolute is an elderly English gentleman with a violent temper.

Definite assignments have been given to Marilyn Miller as Mrs. Malaprop, Barbara Siska as Lydia Languish, Judy Rahe as Capt. Jack Absolute, and Rita Sheridan as Sir Anthony Absolute.

Students Reviewed Novel of Budapest

Kathleen Bashe, president of the Aquinas Literary guild, reviewed the new novel, A Crown for Ashes, at assembly Mar. 26.

The story itself is one of turmoil and love silhouetted against the background of Budapest, a city that has just been evacuated by the Nazis and is to be occupied by the Russians.

Teresa Kay, the author, has experienced the actual situations under which the action of the novel takes place. She uses a pseudonym to protect her family still residing in Soviet-dominated Hungary.

NF Sets Apr. 18-19 For Region Congress

Definite dates, Apr. 18-19, have been set for the NF regional congress at St. Joseph's college.

The theme of the congress will be "The Pontiffs Speak to the Students." It will include a compendium of the advice of the Popes to college students.

Miss Betty Schneider, executive director of Chicago's Friendship House, will be the main speaker.

A regional council meeting will be held on Friday evening before the congress.

Philosophers Meet At Notre Dame

The American Catholic Philosophical association will hold its 27th annual meeting at the University of Notre Dame, Apr. 7-8. The meeting is under the patronage of Bishop John F. Knoll, D.D., Fort Wayne, and the 13 universities, senior colleges, and seminaries in the Notre Dame area.

Monsignor Doyle, long a member of the association, is serving on the local attendance committee and will represent Marian at the sessions.

Dr. Elizabeth Salmon, Fordham university, first woman president of the organization, will give an address on "Philosophy and Unity of Wisdom." Jacques Maritain, famous French philosopher, will speak on "Philosophy and Unity of the Sciences."

Easter Vigil Service

The Easter Vigil service, in its newly modified form, will be held in the college chapel, as throughout the Archdiocese of Indianapolis, at 8 p. m. on Holy Saturday.

Monsignor Doyle will officiate at this, the first campus observance of the evening vigil, restored by action of the Sacred Congregation of Rites. The second of the decrees authorizing the service was issued Jan. 11, 1952, and extends through 1954.

The solemn renewal of baptismal vows by the congregation is one of the new features of the vigil.

Phoenix Editing, Business Problems Challenge Frosh

The freshman class, true to tradition, has taken the responsibility for this month's Phoenix.

Co-editors Joann Hazlewood and Judy Rahe brought high school experience to their editing tasks. Joann was editor of the Olivia, quarterly magazine of the Immaculate Conception academy, Oldenburg. Judy had experience as reporter for the Muncie Central Munsanian.

Assistant editors were: Julia Abrams, Charlene Hatherly, Doris Rudy, and Rosemary Tisserand. Rosemary was reporter for the Memorial, monthly paper of Reitz Memorial high school, Evansville.

Managing the business staff was Ann Herber with Dorothy Walsh as assistant; circulation, Barbara Siska; and secretarial, Frances Tietz.

Ann and Barbara were reporters for the Audiphone, St. Agnes academy, Indianapolis, and the Mariac, Academy of the Sacred Heart of Mary, New York City, respectively.

Reporters not listed elsewhere in this issue are; Leonor Rod-

Seniors Present Music Recitals; Dedicate 'Ave Maria' to Parents

The music department will present the senior recitals of Audrey Kraus, violin major, and Marilyn Miller, voice major, Sunday, Apr. 12, at 3 p. m. Both students, besides completing the A. B. degree requirements, will be qualified to teach music and to conduct instrumental and choral groups.

Seventh grade was the starting point of Audrey's musical career. At the Immaculate Conception academy, Oldenburg, she studied violin under Sister Georgiana, O.S.F. During summers, away from school, her teacher was Carlo Mastropaolo, first violinist of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra.

At Marian, still specializing in violin, she has added a balanced program of studies and has had extensive experience in directing and participating in choral and instrumental organizations.

Talent Shown Early

Marilyn, a lyric soprano, began voice lessons at the age of 5 and piano in the first grade. Vocal study at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music extended over a period of five years, including one year of college.

Since her sophomore year here, she has continued advanced work in voice, while rounding out her general and professional education. Harp study has been part of her program.

The recital will include selections from French, Spanish, German, Russian, Italian, and American composers.

Dedications Frame Recital

The concert arrangement of Massenet's Ave Maria, opening the program, will be dedicated to the parents of the recitalists. The Our Father, composed for this occasion by Sister M. Vitalis, their major instructor, is dedicated to Marilyn and Audrey.

The remainder of the program is as follows:

Faure	Sancta Maria
Hahn	Mai
Massenet	Obeissons, quand leur voix appelle, from "Manon"
Bach	Bist Du Bei Mir

News Briefs

Dr Juul Nielsen, superintendent of the new Larue Carter mental hospital, will speak at assembly Apr. 23.

Selling shamrocks downtown Alice Ann Field, Janice Gaughan, and Katie Haney showed their Irish spirit while doing an act of charity for the Ladies of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul.

A series of Lenten retreat conferences was conducted by Fr. Stineman at Holy Angels' church.

Sister Mary Rachel and Sister Marie Pierre attended a meeting at Butler university, Mar. 7, of 20 colleges participating in a new Indiana college and high school scholarship program.

The purpose of the program is to make high school students aware of the opportunities for scholarships from these colleges and to help them know whether or not they will profit from college.

The first drama festival given by Indiana Catholic colleges featured one-act plays by students of Notre Dame university and the colleges of St. Francis, St. Mary, and St. Mary-of-the-Woods at the latter college Mar. 21. Sister Mary Jane and Sister Marie Pierre attended.

Freshman staff discuss a layout problem. Assistant editor, Charlene Hatherly, business manager, Ann Herber, and secretarial staff head, Frances Tietz, add their opinions to those of assistant and co-editors: Doris Rudy, Julia Abrams, Joann Hazelwood, Judith Rahe, and Rosemary Tisserand. Barbara Siska, head of circulation staff, absent.

Individual's Duty to Spread Light of Christ, Message of Holy Saturday Candle Ceremony

"Behold the Light of Christ!" All is still, the lights have been extinguished. The pale column of the Paschal Candle glows with a radiance that is the only brightness in the church, as Christ is the only Light of the World.

One by one the people light their candles from this candle, symbolizing our Lord. From hand to hand the flame passes and each person assists his neighbor. Soon the entire church is filled with the splendor of the burning tapers.

All of us have the obligation to spread the light of Christ that is burning within us, to the most distant corners of the world. No one is given this flame that he may burn passively or hide his light. It is the nature of fire to convey light and heat. A flame unable to do this, will soon flicker and die.

On Holy Saturday, as the wicks of our candles are kindled from the flame of the Paschal Candle, let us pray that the flame of God's love within us may burn clearly and brightly. May we carry that light to those who walk in darkness, and may no breeze of human respect or worldliness cause it to waver and grow dim.

Coming Indiana Regional NF Congress Your Opportunity to Give and Receive

Is every Catholic college student an active member of the NF? This is a difficult question to answer, one to which many students cannot give a direct reply.

When a club or society is mentioned, the primary thought occupying one's mind is generally: "What is there in it for me?" But do we allow another thought to revolve in our mind: "What can I put into it?"

We may not often realize that the Divine Creator gave each of us certain gifts, that man as a social being has not only the right but the duty to share his blessings with his fellow men.

This is precisely what the NF is endeavoring to do: to unite the ideas and accomplishments of Catholic students for the benefit of all. In this way the individual student, too, is helped in planning and working.

Whether one is interested in science, international relations, or family life, there is an NF commission appropriate to his talents and interests. In becoming affiliated with the commission, his ideas may be aired, his talents made more profitable, and services rendered to fellow members. Furthermore, a Catholic theme will become the hub around which responsibility, leadership, and achievement will be centered outside of college as well as inside.

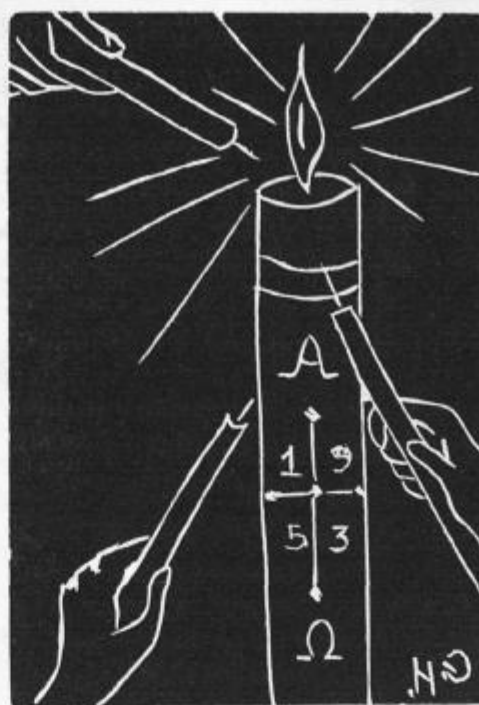

With enthusiasm and the thought in mind, "What can I put into it?" we can all enjoy and profit from attending the regional congress at St. Joseph's college, Apr. 18-19.

"At last I have found some stamps to go with that green stationery of mine. The purple ones look hideous," voiced a purchaser at the post office. Indiana's neighbor is in the midst of a Sesquicentennial celebration; thus, the new cream-and-brown three-cent stamps. Congratulations, Ohio!

The first of three study hurdles, the sophomore co-operative tests, are over. Mid-term exams, too, are memories. The seniors have comprehensives to look forward to.

A day in the life of a student during exam week can be quite short.

Freshman Thoughts at Easter

It is Easter eve and darkness is all about—
Long, terrifying darkness.
Only a lamplight from Heaven
Can penetrate this veil.

It is Easter morn and a Sun shines through,
A glorious, radiant Sun that wipes away
the night:
He sheds light on all darkness.

Rita Greist

Easter Parade

It's Easter time in old Manhattan
And the parade is on its way.
Flowers, ribbons, feathers, satin
All blend in gay array.

We see a man in formal spats,
A woman in her sleek new fur.
Here come misses in Dache hats
And suits with much allure,

A lady in a bright green hat
And matching shoes and dress,
But look what also goes with that—
A green poodle dog, no less.

Such are the sights on the avenue.
Oh, a great spectacle is made—
These are the people on revue
Who compose the great Easter parade.

Betty Harkins

Let us accept joyfully all our Good Fridays, for there will always be an Easter Sunday to reward us for them.

Lillian Gonzalez

Spring

Summer is a lady with daisies in her hair, Autumn is a whistling lad without a single care.
Winter is an old man whose wrath is never mild,
But spring, oh spring is just a lovely little child.

Her patent shoes a-shining, her rosy face aglow,
She walks beside the daffodils, standing row on row.
Her straw hat decked with flowers, the sweetest little lass,
Spring's a mother's darling on her way to Easter Mass.

Joann Hazlewood

Christ speaks:

"Father, forgive them
For they know not what they do.
Father, forgive them
For they mean no harm to You.
It is I they seek,
I that they have crucified.
To You they are meek
For You they would have died.
It is the God-made-man
They hesitate to understand—
How their only God can
Be a creature of the land.
Dearest Father, You are accepted
As eternally existent;
At this moment I am rejected,
My reception far, far distant."

Sometime, somewhere
They will call, "Hear us."
And He'll be there
Our Savior, Jesus!

Passing of Stalin, World Headline News Occasion for Sincere, Earnest Prayer

Joseph Stalin is dead. His body was marched through silent crowds, gun salutes, and factory whistles to its final resting place. Each of his medals was carried separately on a red silk pillow.

And now, people will wonder, what of the soul? What will happen to the soul of a person who has alienated himself for such a long time from any religion except a state religion?

Because the influence of this man has been great, we have thought that, in a way, we have understood him through his actions. This is not necessarily true.

A man is born with a free will which gives him possibilities of good and evil. We, as mere mortals, cannot understand the internal and external forces which shape each individual's use of his possibilities. Therefore, we can never judge one another fully, for we will never know all the facts necessary for judgment.

We must say, and mean in our hearts, "Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him."

Latin Americans Present Program At John Herron

Latin-American student presented a program for children 6 to 12 at the John Herron Institute, Mar. 28. The program included songs, dances, stories, and games featuring Spain and Spanish-America.

Participating in the program were: Iris Pena, of Peru; Connie Mansylla and Magdalena Solares, of Guatemala; Rosaura Rivera and Virginia Suazo, of Honduras; Lilliam Gonzalez and Leonor Rodriguez, of Puerto Rico. Judy Rahe acted as mistress of ceremonies and also told the story Fortuna.

Group Sings

A group song-contribution was Las Mananitas (The Little Mornings), Cielito Lindo (Pretty Little Heaven), Los Patitos (The Ducklings), Las Alenitas (Mountain Lassies), and La Luna Enamorada (The Moon in Love).

Iris performed a Spanish stage-dance called the Relicario (The Reliquary). This is a classic popularized by Peruvian bands at the annual bull-fights in Lima. She also presented in replica and story, "The Silver Llama."

Guatemalans Dance

Magdalena and Connie danced El Son, an Indian dance; La Raspa; Jarabe Tapatio, Mexican Hat dance; and Los Cholitos, a Guatemala folk dance.

Leonor related an anecdote associating Simon Bolivar with George Washington.

Sister Mary Edgar, head of the Spanish department and moderator of the Inter-American club, was in charge of the program.

Students Favor Co-education Change In Phoenix Survey

By Charlene Hatherly

When the 1954 co-education plan came into our midst, a spirit of surprise overtook each student. It seemed hardly possible that Marian, "traditionally a women's college," states Pat Miller, junior, "should undergo such a comparatively sudden change." At times co-education had been rumored, but as rumor goes, without the slightest authenticity.

Then, on Feb. 11, the rumors became realities as Sister Mary Kevin announced that Marian college would become a co-educational college, the first of its kind in the state of Indiana. With varying opinions, pro and con, the students and faculty will welcome both men and women students in September, 1954.

Dorothy Powell, senior, thinks that "co-education is wonderful, but it is too bad that Marian cannot remain as it is."

Following the same line of thought, Clare Watson, sophomore, says: "I have always thought of Marian as a women's college. However, the opportunity for Catholic higher education for men and women is worthwhile."

Dorothy Walsh, representing the freshman class, offers the opinion that "co-education is a wonderful thing — the only answer to the need of Catholic higher education for the Catholic young men of Indianapolis."

Eagerly, Barbara Vesely, sophomore, declares: "I'm anxious to see how it will work out, although I prefer a women's college. There is something distinctive about a women's college."

Whether these opinions appear to be in favor of co-education or not, they all agree that it is necessary for helping our community produce better citizens, and educate Catholics of unquestionable Mary-like and Christ-like character.

Fr. Scheller Cites Service Careers In Social Work for College Students

"Social work helps others to help themselves," said Fr. A. H. Scheller, S. J., in an address on campus, Feb. 19. Fr. Scheller is the director of the School of Social Service at St. Louis university and a writer on social work.

He touched upon such topics as mechanized social work, the unifying element of social science as such, work of private organizations, and the danger of state dominance as opposed to state concern in public welfare.

Social Work Necessary

Clinching his own thesis that society's well-being is everyone's responsibility, the speaker quoted

Pope Pius XI as saying, "It is of the utmost importance to foster in all classes of society an intense program of social education."

Five requisites for effective social work are: belief in the dignity of man, interest in people and in the career itself, concern for social problems, desire to share security, and dedication of life to the service of fellow men.

Colleges Offer Graduate Work

Graduate study in professional social work is offered by six Catholic colleges and universities including Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C.; Loyola, Chicago; and Fordham, New York.

'Costume Look' Spring Style, Easter Outfits Feminine

By Ann Herber

"In the spring a woman's fancy turns to thoughts of . . . new spring clothes." With the Easter season practically upon us, the girls at Marian have begun to plan their Easter wardrobes.

The trend in this year's styles is to the "costume look." This is a way of saying that each article of clothing is bought for one particular outfit so that everything blends to form a finished appearance. Another trend is the "straight-lined" look, which gives the appearance of slimness even to the chubby girl.

TV Apostolate, Theme Of Notre Dame Prof. At Press Workshop

The potentialities of a lay apostolate in television, "the new journalism," were stressed by Professor Edward A. Fisher, Notre Dame, in the opening address of the first NF regional press workshop at St. Joseph's, Feb. 28—Mar. 1.

Mr. Fisher, selected to head the proposed TV workshop at Notre Dame, pointed out the need he has felt in his radio and TV work for active Catholic participation in selection of shows.

Apostolate in TV

Because TV has such an immediate and lasting influence on youth, he stated, Catholic college students should be made aware of the sense of mission, the need to show appreciation for good shows, to serve on appreciation committees.

It is not a matter of turning off the bad shows, he added, but of turning on the good ones, and of producing good ones whenever the opportunity arises.

Influence Widespread

In pointing out the power of TV, Mr. Fisher noted that the teaching of Christ reaches more people in a week on TV than it did during the first 100 years of Christianity. Such figures, he concluded, warn of the power of TV as an influence for evil when viewers put up with "shoddy" shows.

Panel speakers and groups discussed the topics: "How Wide Should Our Editorial Scope Be?" "How Cover the Campus Completely?" "Do We Give The Advertiser His Money's Worth?" and "Must Every Editor Start From Scratch?"

Editor Reads Paper

A paper on the last topic was given by Joyce Ann Edwards, with Rachel West as discussion leader.

Mailman Stops For Last Time

Marian's faithful postman, Mr. Rudolph J. Konzen, brought his armload of packages to the college on Feb. 28 for the last time. During the past 14 years Mr. Konzen has been one of the most welcome visitors to the campus. He has been a mail carrier for 28 years and has served Marian college since 1939.

The postal authorities decided to change the address and take the college off the rural route.

Bio-Chem Class Visits Eli Lilly; ACS Sponsors Tour

The bio-chemistry class were the guests of the Eli Lilly company on Feb. 18. The guided tour was sponsored by the American Chemical society.

Of special interest to the group was the manufacture of the antibiotics such as penicillin. They viewed the entire process from the growing of the mold to the finished product. Also included in the tour were the departments where insulin is manufactured and the analyzing laboratory.

Mary Lu Method, Suzanne Csaszar, Rosemary Stuflick, and Elizabeth Csaszar were accompanied by Sister Mary Rose and Sister Marie Bernard.

A souvenir booklet concerning the growth and history of the company was given by Lilly's to all who made the tour.

Spring has come, we hope!

While the weatherman is undecided, the sports-minded Marianites are getting inside practice for later outdoor sport.

Golf clubs, tennis rackets, and riding outfits have been taken from their resting places and put to work.

About the middle of April, gym classes will officially invade the tennis courts. In addition, there will be supervised archery, badminton, baseball, and horse shoe pitching.

Biologists Talk On Pollination

Pollination will be the subject of the biology assembly to be given May 14. Talks on different aspects of pollination will be given by Julia Abrams, Lillian Gonzalez, Joann Hazlewood, Ann Herber, Rosemary Tisserand, and Carolyn Zapp. Pictures, slides, and specimens will accompany the talks.

Supplementary experiments, selected by general biology class students this semester, include work with bacteria, fruit flies, and hamsters.

Observations of "our feathered friends," arriving from their winter habitats, are also being recorded on a bird chart in the laboratory.

Tuesday, Mar. 23, was the date of Marian's memorable basketball victory over St. Vincent's School of Nursing, 29-21. The following Saturday the team bowed to St. Mary-of-the-Woods, 41-8.

Underclassmen, that memorable VB Day, seemed to be sitting out to get pointers from seniors. Katie Bashe, the lone underclassman playing, scored 6 points.

High scorers were Rita McCann, whose left hand shots gained 10 points, and Audrey Kraus, who took care of the right side of the basket with 8 points.

Scoring from the center were Irene Chee and Rita Sheridan.

Cheer leaders, Angela Hunger, Irene McCarthy, and Connie Mansylla had an all-out response from the rooters.

Despite good guarding by Marylu Method, Marilyn Huber and Dorothy Powell, Normal college was able to lead in a fast moving game here Mar. 18, winning 31-22.

Delta Mu Theta Elects Officers

Delta Mu Theta, national Catholic music honor society, held its first student meeting at Marywood high school, Evanston, Ill., on Mar. 8.

All three officers and Sister M. Vitalis, moderator, attended the national meeting.

Officers elected at this time were: Dorothy Ann Geisel, president, St. Mary-of-the-Woods; Phyllis Smythe, vice-president, Clarke; Sister Rosemary, S. S. J., secretary-treasurer, Marian.

Beta chapter on campus has elected Audrey Kraus, president; Sister Rosemary S.S.J., vice president; and Marie Martino, secretary-treasurer.

Fr. Holloran Recounts Story of Recent Popes

St. Peter's Chair built by Christ, the carpenter Son of St. Joseph, was the subject of a mid-lenten assembly talk Mar. 19 by Fr. John Holloran, pastor of St. Thomas Aquinas church.

Recounting the history of the Papacy from 1850, Fr. Holloran noted the growth of its prestige among Catholics and non-Catholics and in world affairs.

He stressed the fact that no great Pope has died in glory. Rather they have died, like Christ and St. Peter, in humility and in a martyrdom such as that now undergone by Pius XII.

Before establishing St. Thomas Aquinas parish in 1939, Fr. Holloran was superintendent of Reitz Memorial high school, Evansville. He has also been chaplain of the Butler University Newman club. The study of history, especially of Church history, is his specialty.

Red Cross Officials Speak at Rally; Unit Receives New Flag, Standard

Mr. E. H. McComb, a member of the board of directors of the Indianapolis Red Cross chapter, replaced Mr. Halan Hadley as guest speaker for the Red Cross fund rally Mar. 12. Mr. McComb has directed the Junior Red Cross for 30 years.

Mr. Virgil Sheppard, executive director of the local chapter, commended Marian for its participation in Red Cross activities and promised the college unit a new silk flag on a standard.

Flash; The flag arrived Mar. 19 and is occupying a place of honor near Clare hall's main entrance.

Pat Doerger, chairman of the fund drive which closes Mar. 31, reported on the progress of the campus drive and the chapter's kick-off luncheon attended by herself and Pauline Siefert.

Among the recent activities was the decorating of the dining room and the lounge at Veteran's hospital for St. Patrick's Day. Multitudes of emerald green pipes and shamrocks, supplementing a miniature Killarney castle, were designed by Mary Evelyn Maloney and Gloria Hamilton, committee chairmen. Other workers included Rita Skillen, Martha Pictor, and Leonor Rodriguez.
