

- Fri. 10/24 - Little Sis Weekend
 - Pub. Schools Workshop 8 - 5pm
 Room 207
 - Coffee Hour "Monster Mash"
 9:30 - 12 Perc
- Sat. 10/25 - Little Sis Weekend
 - Movie- Red Sky at Morning 7:30pm
 Lib. Aud.
 - Pub. Schools Workshop, same as above
- Sun. 10/26 - Little Sis Weekend
- Mon. 10/27 - Convocation Program presents
 Rev. Joseph Ryan MH Aud. 12:30pm
 - Philharmonic Rehearsal 7:30pm
 CH Mixed Lounge
 - Advance Registration
- Tues. 10/28 - Advance Rehistration
 -Mature Living Seminar 10am MH 157
- Weds. 10/29 - Advance Registration
- Thur. 10/30 - Advance Registration
 - Fac. - Stud. Mass Chapel 11:30am

CARRON

VOL. 40 No. 6

The views in this publication are those of the individual writer and do not necessarily reflect those of Marian College.

A SHOT IN THE DARK

Aphelia

From The Masses

Dear Carbon,

When asked recently what it is to be an American, I had to think for a few moments because it is hard to find two Americans who agree on any one issue, be it choice of political candidate or one's favorite flavor of ice cream. It finally dawned on me what binds all Americans together. It is not our common lineage, tradition, heritage, or native tongue, but ideals. What forges Americans together is that we as a people hold three ideals most dear to us. Liberty, equality and individuality.

Equality under the law giving each person the same rights as another without one person being held higher in the eyes of the law than another.

Individuality; the right for me to be me and not having to conform to another way of being, allowing me as a person to achieve my potential as fully as possible.

Liberty; for without liberty there can be no equality, without liberty there can be no individuality. Without liberty a man has no dignity; without liberty a people has no true prosperity; without liberty mankind has no future.

Although considering the recent past it seems as though Americans have lost their ideals in a "fog". However, they are still there gleaming as if to serve as a beacon to guide us on. Alas, some may claim me as a fool for being a hopeless optimist, however, I do sincerely believe that as long as there is at least a glimmer of these ideals shining through, we Americans can have, with effort, a bright future.

DH

(Eds. note- - This DH is not to be confused with the DH who has written to the Carbon on several previous occasions.)

To those concerned:

At this time I would like to thank all these people who took out enough time to send a card, call or stop by to see me during my recent stay at St. Vincent's Hospital. Until you get laid up for a long period of time, you really don't realize how meaningful these simple things are to your recovery.

Again, much thanks,

Mellow

--We need your help--

Have any rummage sitting around? Are your neighbors having a garage sale--see if Corps can have the extras!! Please help us in our call for rummage. Bring the stuff to Clare Hall and get the key from Karen Fenlon (ext.532) or Margie Kluesner (ext.398). If you need someone to pick it up--call one of the chairmen or any corps member and we'll get it.

There is a pumpkin sale running daily from 4 to 6 at the corner of 30th and Cold Springs--please support us!

D.P.

Dear Carbon:

The Marion County Juvenile Court needs you to be a friend to a youngster on probation. Volunteers are also needed in a special reading tutoring program, a job development program, in public relations, and in coordinating activities.

From the Masses, cont'd

A required three-day orientation course will be held in the evenings of November 3, 5, and 7 from 7:30 to 10:00 at the Juvenile Court Building. Discussions will focus on the role of the Court in the community, who the clients are, inter-relationships of delinquency with family, school, cultural, and environmental community problems, and techniques for working with troubled youth and their families.

For more information, contact Mrs. Nancy Frenzel at 925-5170.

Student Board Report

There was no Student Board meeting on Sunday, Oct. 19, because the necessary 2/3 quorum for transacting any business was not there.

There will be a meeting on Sunday, Oct. 26, at 7:30 pm. This meeting is mandatory for all members. All other students are welcome. Motions to be Taken from the Table:

Approval of Pep Club constitution and membership.

$400 allotment to Junior class for Homecoming week's Monte Carlo.

$200 allotment to Golden Knights.

Items to be discussed:

Yearbook survey results announced and decisions made,

Appointment of committee on Alcoholic Beverage Policy,

Appointment of committee for Teacher Evaluations under academic affairs and self-study final report,

On membership into United States National Student Association (NSA)

Appointment of 2 Freshmen to Social Planning Committee -- all nominees should come to meeting.

Elaine

MCSA Vice-Pres.

CRUEX CORNER

After a long lay off of about one week, the courageous men of Marian once again hit immortal Reynolds Field for another day of IM football. This day saw many expected and unexpected things.

First the unexpected. The Nads pulled off a mild upset by beating Bad Company 21-7. Jerry Disque and Wayne Poore each caught TD passes from Greg Seamon for the winners. Next I ETA THI squeaked by the Pro Phycs 8-0 on a Joe Masterdanado safety and a TD pass from someone to somebody. Last but not least the Bad Joses beat the Outlaws 12-0 on Oliver to Baye & Schroth TD's, and Bill "Hands" Platt caught a couple passes for the Outlaws.

Both Weds. games were postponed until a later date. And!!! The Marian Soccer club beat Old Notre Dame 2-1 Wed. Schroth and Jim Stout scored the Marian goals in the double overtime victory.

May your stitches be merry,
And your scars not deep.

Mellow

Stay tuned:

BEER BLAST

is coming

Women's Intramural Volleyball

Welcome sports fans to another interesting week of women's power smashing volleyball. Playoffs began this week with all 18 teams participating, but now only eight remain in the single elimination tournament.

On Monday, Mother Earth downed Hell If I Know and Chicken Fat was beaten by the Seven Dwarfs. On Wednesday, Schuck's Garden bombed the Froths, Mixed Bag creamed the El Eds, the Klutzes rolled over the Rookies and RAPID beat Mother Earth. The Dipshits smeared the Seven Dwarfs, Wild Women downed US'N, the BS Bombers bombed KLMN's and the Fruits just slipped by Wazuri in three exciting games.

So come on down to the gym and watch the games. The competition is getting stiffer and the games better.

Game of the Week - Fruits vs. Wazuri and a man jumped out of the car and yelled to them: "Freeze, Gun!" Naturally the streakers took off running when they heard this. As they rounded the turn by the Annex, the group split up and it was each man for himself (a good example of Darwinism in our contemporary society). One, of this most unfortunate group, made the mistake of running toward the I.M. football field. "Freeze, gun" was not far behind in his car and proceeded after him. The Unfortunate one slipped while running and "Freeze, Gun" had his naked victim trapped.

"Freeze, gun" (campus security) got out of his car to nab his victim. The Unfortunate one gave him his best sob story: "It was only a prank and we didn't mean anybody any harm". "Freeze, gun" bought the story, and said don't worry about it, nothing will happen and then drove the Unfortunate one back to Doyle Hall. "Freeze, gun" went inside Doyle's with "Unfortunate" and down to the basement. Downstairs he asked "Unfortunate" for his name and room number, but did he give his own name and number? "Freeze, Gun" left, and Unfortunate went looking for his comrades.

Thus ends the first part of the story. If you thought of how much a farce this is, stay-tuned because it gets better. Next, the Judicial Panel hearing. Also at this time, I would like to mention that at no time in this Editorial will I use real names. At present, the case is being appealed. From this point on, I will refer to the person who was charged with streaking as "defendant".

Several days later, Defendant was notified that the Dean of SS wanted to see him. Defendant was surprised, and started asking around as to why the Dean wanted to see him. He was informed by a friend that he heard through someone else that defendant was being charged for streaking (whoever said there is confidentiality in conduct cases, lied). When Defendant heard this, he said: "Bullshit! I didn't even know anybody had streaked."

(Continued on page 4)

EDITORIAL

3
The practice of streaking is not new to this campus or even to this nation. I recall two years ago when it was the newest college prank on campuses throughout the country, and even some people on this campus witnessed this harmless prank in the college library. I refer to this act as a prank because that's what it is and will always be. I'm sure that none of the people who crammed into the library that night to see it, found it lewd, obscene, or indecent.

During the last week of September, 5 guys, who were probably bored, decided to streak around Clare Hall. Properly attired with masks, they headed toward Clare Hall. As they turned the bend between Clare and Marian Hall, they began to scream for attention. As they passed the front of Clare Hall, the headlights of a parked car flashed on them

APPLAUDS

- Cincinnati Reds No. 1
- Boston Red Sox
- Diplomats
- Tigers are the pick in '76
- Let's hear it for Richmond
- When was the last time you!! SAW GOD?
- THE WORLD'S GREATEST SPACE OUT
- "Bullshit"
- Why do I like to pick daisies in the summer? It's better than pickin' you nose in the winter!
- Packin' Shit

HISSES

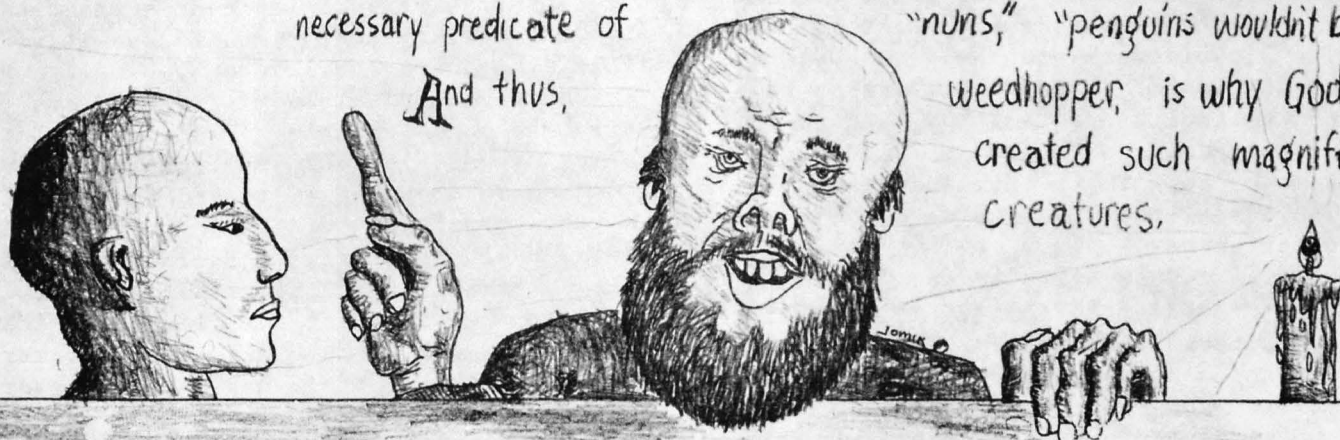

- Boston
- The Reds
- Blind Justice
- Arnold Ziffel on 30th and Cold Spring Rd.
- Fisch's Tackle
- Cosmic Kid
- Red Eyes without an alibi
- Firecrackers
- Humanities Test
- DSA Campout
- Levin & Hall
- Mother Earth

Master, can you tell me why
God made nuns?

Yes, yes, be patient... it's like this— nuns have feet and there are 4 twelve inches in a foot; a foot is also a ruler; Queen Elizabeth was a ruler, but the Queen Elizabeth is a ship; ships sail on the sea;
penguins live in the sea; fish also live in the sea, and travel in schools;
penguins eat fish, yet nuns teach schools—Therefore, without the necessary predicate of

And thus,

"nuns," "penguins wouldn't be.
weedhopper, is why God created such magnificent creatures.

EDITORIAL CONT

Defendant went to see the Dean. When he arrived, in the room sat "Freeze Gun", the Dean. The Dean asked "Freeze Gun" if this was the person he apprehended for streaking. "Freeze Gun" said no. Defendant told them goodbye and left thinking it was all over.

Two days later, Defendant was notified to go back and see the Dean. When he arrived the second time, the room was occupied with "Freeze Gun", his wife, and the Dean. A short time later, the Dean asked "Freeze Gun" if this was the person he apprehended for streaking. This time "Freeze Gun" said yes, it is. Defendant told them both "Bullshit! I was in my room asleep whenever this happened." Defendant has a private room, therefore, no roommate to contradict his claim. Next he went to trial.

The Judicial Panel (in case you didn't know) is the adjudicating body on this campus. It is composed of two faculty, two administrators and three students. Last February, it became effective, after much debate in College Council. When I served on the panel last year, and for the first case this year (I'm no longer on it), I considered it to be just, fair, and "the greatest thing since sliced bread" on the campus. At least I did until now.

The first time Defendant went to the Judicial Panel hearing, it was postponed for one week because the Dean felt a need for further investigation (they already had over a week to investigate) and also to try and implicate more people (does that sound vindictive?) So a week later, Defendant came back to have his case heard (I thought we were entitled to a hearing without too much delay).

At the hearing "Freeze Gun" and his wife (she was in the car with him during the first chase) testified that Defendant was the streaker they saw. Defendant then took the stand. His defense was very simple. It wasn't me and I don't have any alibi or witnesses. The Panel questioned "Freeze Gun" about the incident and the slip of paper that "Unfortunate" printed his name and room number on. The piece of paper was produced and defendant's printing was matched against it. The Panel is not handwriting experts, but the difference between the two was obvious. The panel recessed and 45 minutes later, returned with a verdict of guilty. They recessed again and 25 minutes later returned with a strict sanction.

There are three issues that this case involves which seem very serious to me. The first is the Defendant's innocence. I know for fact that he is innocent and in reality the "Unfortunate" victim of circumstance. I will not concern myself with his case here, because it's being appealed and I know that at Conduct Appeals, he will find justice.

The second issue is the dangerous precedent set by the Judicial Panel's verdict of guilty. The Panel found the Defendant guilty on the basis of two peoples positive identification of him, completely rejecting the handwriting as evidence. The Panel questioned "Freeze Gun" as to why he changed his mind about Defendant being the streaker between the first two meetings in the Dean's office. "Freeze Gun" answered, "I wanted to be sure". At best, that is a shaky answer, yet the panel accepted it. The case comes down to one point, that is, the word of a student against the word of a security cop. The panel feels that it would undermine the ability of the Campus Security, R.A.'s, and R.D.'s if they accepted a student's word over theirs. This may be true in some cases, but not in all. What this means, is that in any case that involves a student's word against an R.A.'s, the student is going to lose, despite any evidence that might be presented to cast a doubt on the credibility of the R.A. or campus security's testimony. The student's word on this campus means absolutely nothing, and goddammit, that's NOT justice. Now I ask you; for whom does this school exist?

The third issue that this case involves is much larger in scope than the first two. I became interested as to what the official violation brought against the Defendant was, since I never recalled reading anything in the Student Handbook about streaking. The violation was Section 5.01-C. Violation of Civil, State, or Federal Statutes; namely violation of Chapter 16, section 10-904. Indecent exposure of person, lewd conduct, obscene literature, art and public performances of the Indianapolis Municipal Code.

(Continued on page 5)

Section 5.01-C says that we, as students, are citizens of not only the college, but the city, county, state and nation as well. Therefore, we are subject to the laws of Civil, State, and Federal Statutes. Defendant was charged with a violation of the Indianapolis Municipal Code; Chapter 9, Section 10-904. Upon looking through the handboob, I came across Section 8, which deals with State Laws pertaining to Students Rights and Responsibilities. Section 8 deals with "Certain section of Burns, Indiana Statutes that are pertinent to the rights and responsibilities of Marian College Students". The only Indiana Statutes mentioned in Section 8 are 8.01; Alcohol, and 8.02; Distribution, Sale, Possession or use of Drugs. How, you might ask yourself, could Defendant be brought up on a charge that is not listed as being pertinent to the rights and responsibilities of M C students in Section 8. The answer is easy. You see, there's a catch, and the catch is, Section 5.01-C; one of the many Catch-22's of Marian. Another one is the housing contracts that we all have to sign. No matter what, we (students) lose.

Colleges are institutions and Marian is no different. Marian is supposed to be different from other institutions, in that, it is small, and caters itself to the individual. While much larger colleges and universities are so vast that they become entangled within their own bureaucracy and the value placed on the student, is lost. In other words, the institutions exists for the institution, whereas Marian, supposedly, for the student. Again I ask you, for whom does this school exist? Marian is no better than the large schools, because this school exists for the institution, not the students. So it is no wonder to me that students look at this school with contempt, not respect.

And to think it all started out as a prank.

Paul Lauffer

FREE PRESS

Monster Mash

Tonite in Perc

9:30 - 12:00

Bring lil' sis & Bro

First Coke Free

Door Prizes - Entertainment

Soccer Today

vs. Butler 4:00

Marian Gym Shorts

on sale again

Small, medium & large

Purchase in Front of

Auditorium

Women's Varsity

Volleyball

vs.

Huntington & Taylor

Saturday

11:00 am

Pink Floyd's

"Wish You Were ~~Here~~"

Brand New. $3.50

Call Collette at #386

Student

Board

This

Sunday!