OCTOBER 16, 1970

Actively,
Mae East.

The Student Board meeting of Sunday, Oct. 11, was a short one, in both time and business. The few committee reports were given as follows:

Clare Hall rep. Nancy Perkins, stated that at the hall's last session a motion was passed allowing the seniors and 21 year olds to have self-regulated hours without parental permission. There was also a meeting with Dean Brames and the board to set up the new hours' system for the older students. The hall board and the entire dorm also passed a motion calling for renewal of freshman hours, Mon.-Thurs. 12:00 p.m., Fri.-Sat. 2:00 a.m., and Sun. till 1:00 a.m. Sophomores and Juniors opted for self-regulated hours. It passed by a vote 225-4-2.

Social Council rep. Nancy Schroder, reported the joint approval of the fall concert but said the date had been moved to Dec. 7.

Junior class rep. John Dickerson reported that his classes' ice cream social was a success.

Academic Affairs rep. Mimi Meyer stated that the Teacher-Course Evaluation has been tentatively drawn up and is scheduled for the week following Thanksgiving vacation. Marian's self study committee will be presented to the Faculty Council this week. The various committees are requesting student assistance.

President Jim Herbe reported there would be a Faculty Council meeting and the agenda included a debate concerning his attending such meetings in the future.

The previous week's business included nominations for the committee on Religious Affairs. The newly elected members include: John Costerisan, Pat Oliver, Jane Peck and Mary Jo Hester. The motion involving Social Council regulation of all activities at Marian that was presented at the last meeting was defeated by a 1-9-0 vote.

The latest business before the Board was the nomination of Joe Geimann and John Costerisan for the committee to study the purposes and goals of student government. Following this the meeting was adjourned.

SPORTS

When the smoke cleared after last Sunday's intramural football action, two teams were still undefeated in League # 1 and League # 2. had a claimant to at least a share of its title.

A devastating defensive battle was the order of the hour as the Miracles eked out a 6-0 triumph over Just for Kicks. Quarter-back Tim Ellinger and back Dan Hayden provided the offensive punch as they teamed on a 40 yd. pass play. Tom Scanlon sparked the defense with an interception to kill a Kicks drive with a minute left in the game.

Standing atop the heap at 3-0 along with the Miracles in League # 1 is Herm's a Worm who won by default of Frizzled Chicken.

Vice Lord notched their second win the 30-6 victory over Mother Truckers. Marty Ferrel took game honors as he sparked both offensively and defensively for Vice Lord.

The Gods of Hellfire secured at least a share of their league title as they demolished an outclassed Intramural Football Team 41-0. As usual, Mike Covert was the man responsible for most of the scoring for the Gods. This week he threw for three and ran for two T.D.

The Guzz Bombs had little trouble as they downed Degenerates II 27-0. Although Dave Haire was not throwing up to snuff he still hit Bob Hasty for two T.D. to account for two scores and ran for two himself.

The only thing keeping the Gods from an outright title now would be a loss to the Degenerates II on the 25th of October and a consequent loss to either the Wild Bunch or the Guzz Bombs in a resulting playoff.

This Sunday's games present a real challenge as far as picking the winner is concerned. The game to keep an eye on this week will occur at 2:00 when the Miracles take on Herm's a Worm. They both beat common opponents by approximately the same score. The Miracles have more speed in Tim Ellinger, Dan Hayden, and Bruce Hudson. Herm's A Worm is stronger in fundamentals such as blocking, which is so important in tag football. My pick: Herm's A Worm. Barring a tie, this game will put one of these teams in sole possession of first place in League #1.

In view of the God's position in the standings any games in League # 2 are anti-climatic and academic. Nonetheless, a game of considerable interest will be the Wild Bunch, vs Guzz Bombs. I'm reluctant to even make a choice here but I'm going to go along with the Wild Bunch. The Degenerates II should defeat the Intramural Football Team. Just for Kicks stronger passing attack should enable them to defeat Vice Lord. In the final game, Mother Truckers should easily defeat Frizzled Chicken.

THE STANDINGS:

League # 1	Won	Lost
Miracles	3	0
Herm's A Worm	3	0
Vice Lord	2	1
Just For Kicks	1	2
Mother Truckers	0	3
Frizzled Chicken	0	3

League # 2	Won	Lost
Gods of Hellfire	3	0
Guzz Bombs	2	1
Wild Bunch	1	1
Degenerates II	0	2
Intramural Football Team	0	2

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS

Dear Women of Clare Hall Under 21 And Not Seniors:

We are being oppressed! Our values have once again been compromised. Seniors and 21 year olds have finally emerged victorious after a long and pitched battle for self-regulated hours. But our fight is just beginning. How long will it take us? As long as Student Services is able to hold us at bay. In other words, as long as we sit back and take their tame excuses and condescending compromises. e.g. "It has always been the tradition of society to be more protective of its women." Come on now, we know better than that. Are police any more protective of women than of men in, for instance, breaking up peace demonstrations? Of what actual value is tradition anyway? We can't ignore reality!

We also know that we, as a group, are no less mature than if we were seniors or 21 year olds. Maturity does not run on a day-to-day basis. We do not suddenly and magically "come of age" on our 21st birthday. Is Student Services shallow enough to judge maturity on the criteria of age alone? Such as they may be--even the state of Indiana recognized women as legally independent at the age of 18.

We have also been told that we alone are to be responsible for our actions. When? Only when our actions are in opposition to what has been set down for us to follow? Why shouldn't we be responsible for our actions all the time? Why shouldn't we be able to set down what we are to follow. If the initial choices were to be placed in the hands of the subject how could anyone else possibly be held responsible?

I've set forth lots of questions. Questions which, to me, have quite obvious answers. It's time to set about implementing these answers. We can no longer sit around waiting for Student Services, The Board of Trustees, or anyone, to hand us freedom of choice on a silver platter. What is rightfully ours we must take!

Dear Editors:

There is a beautiful program here on campus that many people have heard of but few know what it's about. Its name is Operation UpBeat.

UpBeat was born in the spring of 1968 when 2 Marian students, Judith Logel and Susan Mailloux came to the realization that there was so much potential stored in the minds of inner-city high school students that was being thrown away through lack of motivation. A philosophy instructor Mr. Wm. Pedtke realized this also. Together, these 3 people made UpBeat a reality. UpBeat performed its first official duty in the summer of 1968. Thirteen inner-city high school students spend 8 weeks on the Marian College Campus. They took some summer courses, and went on several field trips, to movies, plays, etc.

The purpose of this program is to give inner-city high school students motivation and encouragements to go further than a high school education. Many of these students have the ability, but are held back by their environment and the lack of interest of the 'guidance' directors in the high schools.

UpBeat tutors these students on a one to one basis during the school year. In the summertime, a certain amount of these students spend about 8 weeks on Marian's campus to get a first-hand view of college life. They live in one of the dormitories, and are required to attend the classes set up for them. The schedule is similar to the college schedule--some class periods, some free periods. This summer experience clears up many fallacies the students had been taught about college.

No one can give these students a better idea of college life than college students themselves. There is really not too much work involved. All is needed is a couple of hours a week devoted to a special person. If anyone feels that they would like to help a person develop their potential, or even teach them some simple things like Math or English, contact: Linda Scott ext. 473

READING AND STUDY SKILLS WORKSHOP

A Reading and Study Skills Workshop will be conducted for all students who are interested and feel a need for such a program. The workshop meetings will be held twice a week for approximately 10 weeks (beginning with the week of Oct. 26, 1970). There will be a small fee (non-refundable) for materials and diagnostic testing for the program.

If you are interested, you may obtain a registration form in the Office of Student Services. Registration for this workshop closes on Wednesday, October 21, 1970, at 5:00 p.m.

Dear D.J.:

I have three basic problems. I am a freshman girl and am trying to adjust to new circumstances, etc., but that is trivial.

The two basic problems are that I have fallen in love and am wondering--has he fallen in love with me? Well, D.J., how do I find this out? If you have any advice to give, please give it. I am willing to try almost anything.

In need of help (badly).

Dear "In Need":

If you are willing to do "almost anything," you shouldn't have any problem. However, you have failed to give me some vital information. What kind of relationship do you have with him? Is it passionate, platonic, nil? Have you ever spoken to him? Have you dated? Is this a secret love or does he know how you feel about him? In fact, does he even know you at all? This is very pertinent information and I must know the answers before I can advise you as to what course to take. Love is a very delicate subject and positively must be treated as such. Write again and tell me a little more about your situation and I'll give you a sure-fire method that hasn't failed yet!

Dear D.J.:

I was very disturbed to read the letter of last week's (Oct. 9) issue in which you advised "Anxious for Action" to give all the guys a chance. I would like to say that I would like a chance also-but I am not a guy.

In fact, I am also interested in the first letter of Oct. 2 from "Brokenhearted Freshman's" sweet breath and good looks, I will be waiting for his 'direct approach.'

I am patiently waiting to hear from either party concerning this matter.

"Both Sides Now"

Dear "Both":

Thank you so much for your letter. It is good to see such a "liberal" response on such a "conservative" arts campus. You are correct in admonishing me for my narrow response, I don't know what came over me. You, like the guys, deserve a chance with "Anxious for Action". Who knows, you might really groove on each other.

As for "Brokenhearted Freshman", I don't feel that you two would get on. You are truly a Renaissance person, and "Freshman" hasn't even had Humanities yet. I'm afraid it just wouldn't gel. If you really feel the need for a heterogeneous relationship, try and find some one a little older and more mature. Perhaps a drama or history professor. Good luck in all facets of your life.

ADVICE WITHOUT CONSENT

In the past, it has been the custom for all campus organizations to have what is known as a Faculty Advisor. This advisor was chosen by the administration after said organization had submitted a list of three choices. Criteria for selection include the availability of the faculty member, qualifications, background, and interests, etc. The Faculty Advisor's role is to "serve as a liaison officer between the College and the student organization he serves."

Just what is meant by a "liaison officer" is not quite clear. And, appropriately enough, what is meant by a Faculty Advisor is also unclear. Advisors to many organizations in the past were appointed early in the year and were not heard from thereafter. It seems, the position is no more than a token appointment, a tradition.

This year, the issue of Faculty Advisors has caused a bit of clamor. For some reason--unstated reason, if any--the selection of advisors is under close scrutiny of the administration and student services. In many cases, the three choices presented have not been acceptable and others were asked for. And others were suggested by the student services. At this time, the question of advisors for several campus organizations is still unsettled.

In the midst of the subject are the questions of why certain choices have been deemed unacceptable, why some of the faculty have been labeled "too busy" without having been asked, and, perhaps the most important question, why Faculty Advisors at all? The position is without purpose and only adds to the growing gaps between the students and the faculty and the administration. Students view the advisor--the role of advisor as authoritarian. Administration sees the advisor as a "liaison officer." And, the faculty member is somewhere in between.

Ideally, members of the faculty and the administration should participate in campus organizations that interest them and in which they WANT to participate. Such a participation would be beneficial to Marian College. A faculty/administration representative--elected--to the Student Board--does not seem outrageous, in the same sense that student representatives seem proper on faculty/administration/board of directors organizations. And, closer to this typewriter, faculty and administration participation in campus publications is desire.

The Faculty Advisor--and its policeman connotation--must be replaced by faculty participation. Only then can the three distinct camps of Marian College establish any harmony and understanding. Campus organizations may need advice, but they surely do not need Advisors. And the best advice is more easily relegated through participation.

Dave Soots

P.S. Amidst all this concern over Faculty Advisors, not once has the CARBON been asked to submit three choices, or two choices, or even one choice for its Faculty Advisor. And, oddly enough, no one has been suggested to us. Further, no one has been appointed as its advisor. Personally, I think this is fine. Apparently, it has been decided that we don't need one. And, in that case, we just won't have (cont. page 5)

ADVICE cont. from page 1
one. What we will have, I hope, is contributions from any interested faculty/administrator.

THE F.B.I. DOES IT AGAIN!!!

Around noon on Wednesday, October 14th, in New York City, the nation's "most efficient" law enforcement agency, the F.B.I., scratched another name from its Ten Most Wanted List. Across the country, postal officials began to tear down the wanted posters and newsmen were rushing to the scene. Miss Angela Davis ended her brief exodus, without resistance, at a Howard Johnson Motor Lodge. The charges against her include murder and kidnaping in the Marin county, California slaying of a judge and four other persons last August. She was not present at the scene of the crime, but allegedly purchased the murder weapons.

She is a publically avowed Communist who is considered a definite threat to this society. (Everyone knows that being a Communist is a no-no!) She was condemned long before her so-called involvement in this crime because of her association with the Communist Party and her activities in and outside of that organization. She has recieved much publicity, most of which seems to be sympathetic to her cause. She, however, has more enemies than sympathizers as evidenced by her abrupt capture in New York. She is now being held by the California police (oink!) without bond, and is awaiting trial.

It's really too bad that the form of democracy practiced in this country is based on an out and out lie called a Constitution. I believe she was captured for one of two reasons, either she wanted to be apprehended or she was, as the saying goes, "ratted" on. If she allowed herself to be caught, one of the reasons had to have been to prove what a farce this place really is. There is no such word as democracy. The F.B.I. placed her on their Ten Most Wanted List not because her crime was a major one, but because they saw a chance to dispose of her by affiliating her with something she probably had little, if anything, to do with. Because of her political beliefs, she was doomed to become a victim of the establishment. She cannot possibly recieve a "fair" trial because of the publicity she has recieved as a member of the Communist Party and the fowl conditions which prevail in our judicial system. The F.B.I. put forth much energy and time in her pursuit when they should have been pursuing the real murderers in Washington.

Miss Davis has become a revolutionary martyr, to Blacks and whites, for her bravery and efforts towards the revolutionary movement. She has served a purpose, a very relevant purpose. But only a small minority of the people in this country know what that purpose was and still is. She will not soon be forgotten. We need many more people with her integrity and intelligence to make this revolution a successful one.
