EDITORIAL

Dean Woodman's proposal for a new method of disciplinary action includes the formation of two committees. The Judicial Panel is a mixture of administrators, faculty and students. The Student Commission will be made up entirely of students. When a case comes before the Dean he will refer it to one of these committees, the less serious going to the Student Commission.

As it stands now, if a person is caught violating a school policy, Dean Woodman acts as prosecutor, judge and jury. If he finds the crime serious enough, the student is placed on strict conduct probation and a letter is sent home to mom and dad. This is a childish procedure and I think Woodman is going about correcting it the wrong way.

The Student Commission may have worked elsewhere, but Marian is just too small. Everybody knows everybody else and that fact makes it impossible for one student to go on trial before other students. There will be biases (good and bad) that will prejudice the committee members. A fair trial is impossible.

The Judicial Panel is more feasible and does show promise. The representation is fair as it takes in every faction of the Marian Community. There are two members of the faculty, two from the administration and three students. A combination is ideal because the biases will not surface as easily.

In conclusion, Dean Woodman must realize this is a small school. His big school ideas will not work here. At a large university, a program which doesn't take into consideration the individual student can be implemented. At Marian, the individual stands out too much. A personal identity is one of Marian's attracting features. When Woodman realizes this, his ideas and proposals will be more readily accepted.

The Friesen Report

Wanted. A couple of pairs of long-johns. This is our first winter north of the Mason-Dixon line in a long time. Rather unseasonable weather but that doesn't help us out, still freezing our buns off. 'Nother thing is this summer when it was so hot here we looked forward to fall and cooling off but the heater in our office is something left over from the Broadway production of Dante's Inferno.

We really shouldn't complain however. The charm of Marian still has not worn off and we are happy to be here. Everyone is so friendly and cooperative and easy to get along with and dependable and nice and and and... ah well you get what we mean. The student work force at the PERC and CAF are the best we have ever worked with including that one we served on so many years ago. Very few workers provide room for gripes about attendance, punctuality etc.

People are really beginning to discover the Pizza in the PERC. One actually walked up to us the other night and told us, "I thought this was going to be just some crummy frozen pizza but it's damned good." Of course, we've been making pizza in college snack bars and bars for the better part of a decade and they keep getting better. If we could only solve the problem of the pre-fab crust, things would be great. Another note for the PERC is the glasses. Nothing definite but it appears that we will have a full line of cartoon character glasses (with new characters) and a set of pitchers with the old cartoon characters. All supposed to be in in time for Christmas too.

Don't forget Gene Cotton in the PERC next Friday night. We have an album of his in the PERC now and we're sure that the attendant will be happy to play it for you. This Friday night it is Little Big Man in the Library Auditorium. After you've split your gut laughing at the movie, come over to the PERC and join us for Pizza and cokes. A change in the PERC will be our week-end hours. Friday (tonight) the PERC will open from 8 til midnight, Saturday, from 7:30 to midnite and Sunday from 7:00 to 11:00.

See you at the PERC and the movie tomorrow night. For now Good Night, God Bless and Peace.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

After reading Lynn Shewmaker's editorial in the Phoenix last Monday, I examined my conscious to find out the reason why I only attend a few of the social functions on this campus. I soon realized that the reason why I don't attend all social functions is not because they are FREE, therefore mediocre, but that most of the activities on this campus are not to my own personal liking. The reason that most activities on this campus are not well attended is not because the students are apathetic, but that not everything appeals to everybody.

This is a small college, with only 600 full-time students. 600 individuals with their own personal likes and dislikes. We have every type of person here, white, black, yellow, men, women, christians, atheists, jocks, freaks, intellectuals, and homosexuals. It is hard to imagine any type of social activities that would appeal to all of these people.

At this stage of my life, I'm not interested in seeing a Las Vegas lounge type act. If I was, I would have gone to see the Serendipity

(Con't next column)

Singers. Their type of entertainment just does not appeal to me. But, if say Blue Oyster Cult was appearing at the Marian Hall Auditorium, (Fat chance) me and a few of my friends who did not attend the Serendipity Singers would probably be the first in line to buy tickets. No matter what the cost. I doubt seriously whether you could get 200 students from this campus to attend. Even if everyone did attend, I do not think that all of the people would enjoy them. Their type of music cannot appeal to everybody.

As for attending the basketball games, I participated in the sport from the seventh grade up until my senior year in high school. I no longer enjoy the game. When I do attend the games I do so only to watch my friends on the team play. Not everybody is a jock.

The film committee has done a fine job in selecting films this year. There must be at least one film out of the ten that everyone would like to see. The same for the convocation series. There is a wide selection to choose from. Surely one of the speakers will interest everyone.

I am not saying that the school should stop having functions like these. What I am trying to say is that I think it is wrong of anyone, whether it be students, faculty, or administrators to berate students who do not attend social functions because they are of no interest to them.

Dear Carbon:

I am sure that by now many students and faculty are aware of the current problem concerning the establishment of a Student Association budget for U.B.I. I would therefore like to explain several points and issues now before the Student Board and Budget Committee in establishing this budget outline.

As has been stated before the Student Association realized a significant decrease in revenue over past years through a decrease in enrollment. This factor along with an increase in organizations requesting budget allocations obviously mean that most clubs and organizations would receive an allocation less than that of last year. U.B.I. in their original budget request asked for an allocation of $1,330.00 or almost 10% of the total Student Association revenues, and over 100% greater than last years allocation! In view of the given budget restrictions it would be somewhat inconsistent of the Board to grant such an allocation.

Of the total figure requested by U.B.I. $450.00 was budgeted for a Volunteer Service Program working with inner-city poor. While it would be difficult to argue the possible benefits and validity of such a program the Budget Committee felt that it would be difficult to justify the allocation of student money for "charitable purposes". I feel that the proposed U.B.I. program falls into this category of charitable activity in that the greatest direct benefits of the program would be received by those persons not a part of the Marian College community.

What the Board must do in resolving this issue is look at the basic purpose of the Student Association fee, which is to provide for the base support of social activities on campus for the direct benefit of those students who pay $25.00 fee.

Certainly if the Board decides to become charitable with student money there are many good causes to which the Board could donate: The Heart Fund, Cancer Drive, old people, sick people, poor people, people with diarrhea... etc. The line must simply be drawn on what constitutes responsible use of student money.

If U.B.I. feels that they have been treated unfairly I ask them to consider the following points: 1) U.B.I. is the only organization on campus that produces no revenue and, 2) the proposed allocation of $510.00 is more than twice as much per active member as is allocated to any other club organization on campus. I can justify these points only by saying that this is the way it has been in the past.

I would like to urge all students to consider what they feel is the rationale behind the Student Association Fee and what constitutes responsible use of this fee and then to express their opinions to myself or any Board member. Thank You

Brent Blaine

Dear Senior Class, et al,

We were both so touched at everybody's concern for our well being. So many have helped us out and we appreciate everything that has been done for us.

We were fortunate enough to have insurance but there are little expenses that the proceeds from the Saturday night activity at the PERC will help cover. We were speechless at first when the proceeds were given to us and when we finally found the words, all we could say is what we're saying now- thank you.

Financial assistance at a time like this is very helpful, but all of the moral support is what really helps and it's so comforting to know that we have so many friends at Marian who care. Much love and appreciation.

Greg and Katie

Attention Marian Students & Faculty

We, the people who run the PERC would like to extend an invitation to those people who have any ideas as to changing or renovating the PERC. If we could come up with some ideas as far as making the PERC better and even more enjoyable than it is right now, they would seriously be considered and appreciated.

(Con't next column)

David Manning

Some suggestions recieved so far have been a disc jockey and drummer with records to give the place a more "live" effect on weekends. Another suggestion has been to change the hours to even more productive times. Any more suggestions on decorating or remodeling or any other ideas may be submitted at the PERC or to Dave at the cafeteria or to Thomas Koesters Ext 306 Room 117-Doyle Hall. Any ideas will be considered and appreciated. Remember, we want this to be your place of social gathering when you want to have some fun. Thank you for your cooperation.

To The Male Student Body

Last year certain members of the male population of the M.C. Community were asked to play basketball on the Junior Varsity level. These fellows were coined as Paper Knights.

This year, every guy will get a chance to try out for positions as Paper Knights.

For further information contact Tom Sluss (that cute little blond) Room 126, Ext. 588 by Monday Oct. 7. There's got to be some hidden ability out there somewhere.

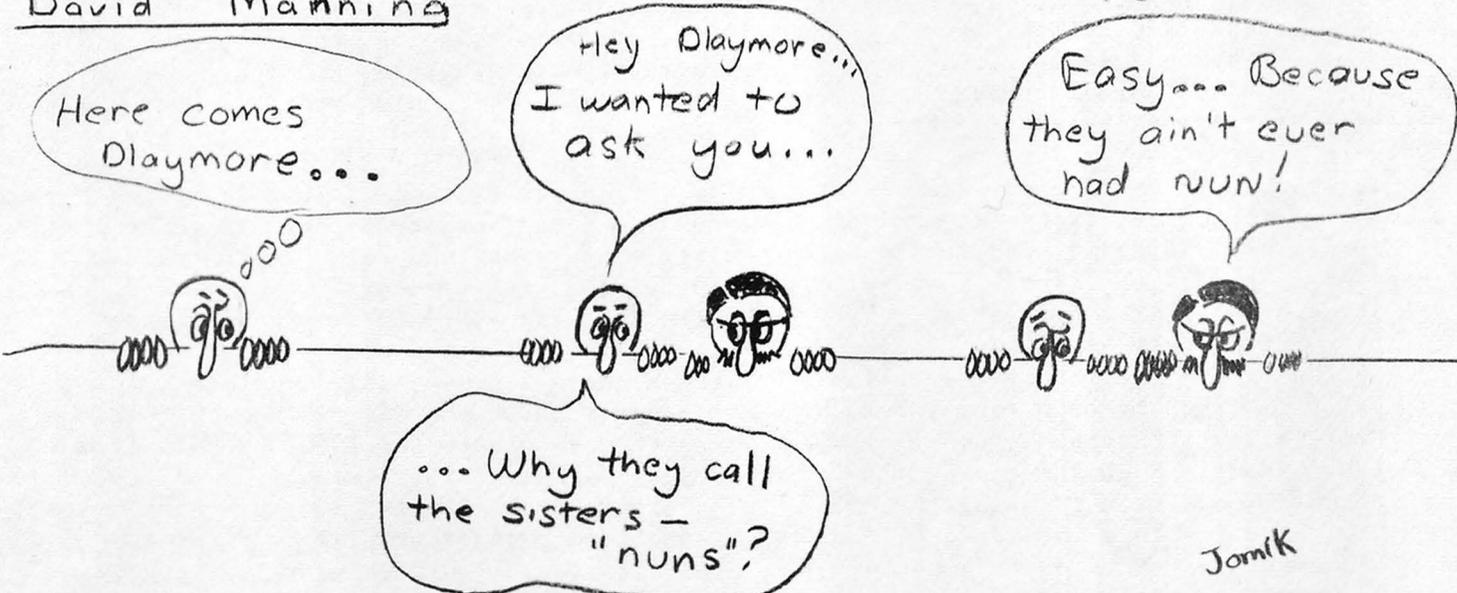

Not Gripes, Just Fact

Well, Monday night I was sitting in the PERC with a fellow basketball player, eating a large sausage pizza I had won on the preceding Saturday at 45's night, when out of a flash of light came my good friend Dean Woodman. To make a long story short, he wanted to know if I could print some positive things. Yep! Here goes Dean, this is dedicated to you.

There is one organization on campus which is not school supported and gets little financial support. They do it all themselves. The soccer team or club, which ever Fish wants it to be called. These guys get little support, got their own uniforms, made there own schedule and practice on their own time. Headed by Mark Fischer, Tom Schroth and captained by Eyassu Chernet. The soccer Knights sport a 0-3 record, but don't laugh; they are a up and coming group. I just can't wait till we play Butler again. Right Felix. For those of you who didn't brave the rain and didn't get that last remark, come to the Butler game and gaze for yourself.

Yes, Doyle finally got shower curtains and are in the process of getting BRAND NEW curtains for our rooms.

Gripes con't

Oh for those of you who have yet to make the PERC scene, best hit it soon. The pizza is great and the quarter pounder is ten cents cheaper than Macs or B.C.

And last but not least, Little Pig Man is playing tonight. For only 50¢ you can see, what in this writer's opinion, is one of the best movies of all times. Please don't be like my roommate and blow.

There you go Dean Woodman, goodness wins again. Later,

Information Please

Yes, there is a real world out there. Deviates, perverts, thrill seekers and fun lovin' sorts. Ask the students of the dorm. Privacy invaded, wits lost, valuables missing, misplaced hysterics abound.

Security is the question. The responsibility-falls on the individual. Personal and valuable belongings should be kept in locked rooms. Take the serial numbers down and the security guard marks the valuables. Women should not walk alone during dusk and evening hours. When dressing or disrobing, be sure the blinds are closed---you're appealing to more than you think. Use only the appropriate doors after 7p.m. If anything should happen, the security force should be made known of it immediately.

Being a member of the "weaker" sex, fear does fill my heart as the sun sets and the moon rises and creatures begin to howl. Every shadow brings anticipation of "will I be the next one to get it?" But in reality there is no need to be raped, followed or peeked at if precautions are taken. Security is only as safe as those it involves.

A suggested security service is a new Key Policy in Clare Hall in which the security guard could devote his time to security of the entire campus. The Key Policy would permit women to have a key to one of the doors of Clare Hall. The second suggestion is the Escort System. Some of the men from Doyle Hall would volunteer to escort women if they were alone on campus. The last suggestion is the whistle. If every woman carries a whistle it can be used as a scare tactic or as a signal if she is approached.

These are suggestions which have been given to us. We are open to any other suggestions on the topic. Sincerely,

Rita Kirchgassner

Dear Editors

Since the Carbon is a gripe sheet as well as an informal newspaper, it is imperative that I express what is on my mind to the masses, since this is what the paper is all about. I direct this to no individual person. My complaint is not a small one.

The gripe I have is against the policy that allows the Carbon to be a vent for anger, without considering the consequences that would effect other people. Such a media as the Carbon is supposed to contain material poked in fun, with no hard feelings intended. I caution those who use this sheet to just down-and-out bad-mouth (! Con't next column)

(i.e. vindicate, disgrace, or discredit) any person, institution, government or idea that a reader would hold dear to them. Keep in mind also that the responsibility should not be limited to the Carbon, but to all media.

Now it is alright to express an opinion which a writer may think is of news worthy interest to the community, if that opinion is intended to satirize, make something known, clarify, or express a complaint or objection. Even criticizing an issue can be ok, as long as the criticism helps to put an issue in its correct perspective or to suggest an alternative to that which is currently held to be the case. From that point, we (the readers) could then discuss with you and agree or disagree on what has been said, and we could then get problems or issues clear to everyone. Then we could proceed to solve these problems and to resolve any issues. If this is not done, the nature of such vindictive attitude would close the writer's mind as well as the readers mind, and nothing would get accomplished, regardless of how easy the solution to the problem may be. I don't care either if this is the general attitude in all papers around the country; that does not give we, the writers, the right to violate such a policy, nor do we the readers have to accept such material.

Sure everyone has the right to write what they wish, that is legal, but that does not give us the license to write disgraceful material, which should be avoided. And most important of all, the writer should think before writing and make sure that what he says will create little or if possible, no hard feelings for anyone.

The Shadow Knows!

Are you ready? Ok!

I had intended to try out for cheerleader last tuesday but due to lack of confidence and true preparation---I failed to show. I am heartly sorry for having disappointed those who had come to watch(friends and curiosity seekers alike). I am truly ashamed of myself for taking the side door out and fearing those who I don't really know. But this was not to be a confessional

WE'RE READY TO START

WE'RE READY TO GO

BUT FIRST I'D LIKE TO SAY:

Recently it appears that cheerleaders are victims of a three ring circus. They do front limbers, back limbers, side limbers, front splits, chinese splits, banana splits, round-offs, cartwheels, flips, have a tenor voice, braces on arms and legs, and can say only 3 words at a time. I'm afraid it's been the purpose of a cheerleader or what I assumed a cheerleader to be,---Prime supporter, loyal fan,(after all free admittance if you show your pom-poms), homecoming courts candidates, clean white socks and silly insane grins. Incentive to get up and support, cheers, chants, yells that roar thru the stands. I enjoy basketball. It's a good spectator sport. Marian has a team---a talented team. Something to cheer about. When defeat and injustice come in view cheers should still come from the crowd. Maybe a little insanity from the cheerleaders to break the tension. To show belief in the team because they are our team. Good nites... bad nites--- but their best,I trust. It's a game, a team game. No one wins.

No one loses. We are supporters; not coaches. Many players take the game, personally, seriously. They don't need fans to discourage them more.

I guess I'm expecting a lot from CHEER-LEADER and it's not the people I'm against just the style. To get people involved in the cheers riled and rallied. Cheerleading has become the precision art of the gymnast. There's 2 shows at every game. There's a time and a place for all things but I came for basketball, I came to enjoy.

Men's Intramurals

This weeks football slate turned out a lot better than most people could have imagined. The first game had the Bad Joses trouncing over the Leftovers by a forfeit. The second game was exciting, until the end of the game. The Harvey-Wallbangers went back to nursery school to pull out a play, which beat the MFIC in a shocker, 13-6. The next game put the Bootstrappers head to head with the NADS. The NADS came out of the smoke the victors by a 13-8 score. Sundays final contest was all Stoned Rangers. They realed-off all their points in the first half and just cruised the rest of the way. The final score was 27 to 7.

At 5 O'Clock on Wednesday, the MFIC and the Stoned Rangers put on the best show of the year. From talking to people around the League, the final score of 6 to 6, did not indicate the way the ball game really went. According to sources, the MFIC had complete control of the game. The only offense mounted by the Stoned Rangers was on coach Mel Arnold, after the moral defeat of his Rangers. Wednesday's last game saw the Bad Joses, roll over the Bootstrappers 27-6 in a one-sided contest.

Women's Sports

Since we have places to go, people to see and health to study, this article is going to be a quickie??!!

Women's Intramural Volleyball finally got underway this week. Monday night high-lights consisted of the Pygmies Plus leaving with a victory (due to forfeit) while BS Bombers lucked out and beat the Pit. Meanwhile on the other court -same time, same place, The Bad Habits, Cool Ghouls and Volley of the Dolls all found victory.

The week's games were concluded with The Amazons hanging on to their best record ever and Schucks Garden coming out on top, DESPITE the fantastic efforts by "Susie" for that unprintable team.

This is Starkie Main and Little Wap signing off....
