EDITORIAL

Today, March 1, all highways have posted 55 mph limits in a nationwide, mandatory effort to conserve fuel and avoid gas rationing in the future. Although this is a minor inconvenience, it will save gas, money and lives. Recently, Congress passed a bill calling for a roll-back in gasoline prices of up to 4¢ a gallon. Nixon will veto this bill. His reasoning is basically the following:

First of all, a cut-back in prices would cause the oil companies to slow down production as their profits are reduced (which would lead one to believe that oil companies can induce an oil shortage at will). Secondly, slowed productions would obviously lead to greater gas shortage and longer waiting lines at service stations. Ultimately, this would lead to rationing - a measure the President is totally opposed to. Nixon believes that the only way to avoid long waits at stations and gas rationing is to increase supplies of fuel. An obviously brilliant insight on the part of the president.

It would seem as though Nixon's idea of increasing supply is to price it off the market. Once again, the price of gasoline is increasing another 2¢. At the same time, oil companies are still making exhorbant profits. Service station allocations are decreasing monthly. February, the shortest month of the year, saw a doubling of service stations running out of gas since the month before.

Much of the blame has been placed on the Arab Boycott. However, it has been pointed out that American oil imports have been the same during the Boycott as before, even though vigorously denied. Neither can the skyrocketing prices of gasoline be blamed on the Arabs. Federal and State taxes still make up the bulk of the price of a gallon of gas.

In short, we have supposedly past the peak of the "crisis", yet prices are soaring and supplies seem to be dwindling. Long lines at service stations in many parts of the country are not diminishing. What is really going on???

In Search of the Paper Maid

The "Paper Maid's" article of last week's Carbon was a mere "paper cut" compared to some of the stabbing articles that were written, but I suppose it deserves some sort of rebuttal.

I was surprised to find that I've been bragging about my basketball ability. I was under a totally different impression. I thought I had been poking fun at myself. My purpose in writing Paper Knight is not to tell how good I am compared to the basketball players, but rather, to point out how bad I am. I've been trying to show that a person can't just walk out of intramurals and into varsity ball and expect to succeed. It takes a lot of ability, hard work and desire to play varsity, and the guys that play on the team have all three of these going for them. I for one have nothing going for me and that's why I stink at varsity ball. I've been trying to get some sort of appreciation for these guys who work their asses off every day for and me. Marian College means more to them than the name across the front of their shirts, and playing for Marian is more than a good time. It's too bad you can't take "Paper Knight" for what it is. I wish I could explain this to you personally but unfortunately I don't know your name.

As for your point on the Drum and Bugle Corps being open to all students: that's all fine and good but that's not what I was trying to point out. For too long, Corps has taken it upon itself to do all of it's fund raising on it's own. My point was to ask the other clubs to help them in their drive for funds. If you look up Booster Club's purpose in your handbook you'll find that they are there to help Corps the same as they help the athletic teams. I'm sure Student Board would help you if you needed it, also. I'm not asking for clubs to merge with one another, but merely to help one another out. I didn't follow your advice of inserting my foot in my mouth, but I have a suggestion for you:

- 1) open mouth
 - 2) suck out

COMMITMENT MASS

Sunday Evening 9 p.m. College Chapel

You're all invited -- so you-all come to another Commitment Mass as once again we gather around the altar to celebrate the Eucharist. Come -- as a sign of your commitment to your convictions; as a sign that you are willing to support others in their commitment; as a sign that your commitment to other men cannot be carried out without their support. Come -- and share your convictions; and share your concerns. Come -- and receive the strength and support you need and which comes only from the heart of Christ beating in a multitude of hearts. Come -- and be seen; and see that the world is inhabited by many committed hearts and minds.

You-all come. Sister Helen

Results of the December Health Service Evaluation would indicate that health services are not all they could be.

Of the 192 students who responded, 103 had made use of the services, 42 felt that these services were adequate; 71 (ten of these having not used the service) felt that they were inadequate. The three main inadequacies cited were limited service hours, limited medication and the inability to obtain prescriptions.

The Health Center was originally designed to care for minor ailments, to dispense ordinary medicine (non-prescription drugs), and to refer students for further care. Students are free to choose any physician or hospital they wish.

The Student Services is presently investigating the feasibility of expanding the health services offered. One result of this investigation has been a list of doctors, both general practitioners and specialists, who will accept Marian students as patients. These names can be obtained directly from Student Services or from the residence directors or the resident assistants as well as the nurse.

Presently Mrs. Sharon Osborne, R. N., Ext. 552, is on duty five days per week from 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. in the medical suite in Clare Hall. This is located on the ground floor at the west end of the building. Any problems occurring outside these hours may be referred to the residence director or the resident assistants.

SENIORS

This is the breakdown of our graduation fee (paid at registration) from Sister Norma. The current graduation fee is $20.00 and provides for the following:

- cost of diploma and case
- programs
- tickets
- flowers
- honors' tassels
- citations, hoods for honorary degrees
- service and freight for students' caps and gowns
- travel stipend for speaker
- reception and graduation brunch
- room and board for graduates for period from last exam until graduation brunch
- rental of chairs for outdoor commencement

This fee does not include rental fee for caps and gowns or for announcements. The cap and gown fee is usually between $7 and $10.

A suggestion was made by Sister Norma to have graduation on Saturday instead of Sunday if Sunday would pose a problem as far as the gas shortage goes. In order to get an opinion please answer the following questionnaire. Please return answers to switchboard office in box provided.

Check one

☐ would like graduation to remain on Sunday

☐ would like graduation to be changed to Saturday

Thank-you, Moll

In the last few weeks there has been some discussion of the lack of attendance at recent events sponsored by the U.B.I., namely those which occurred during Black Culture Week. Being a senior I have often wondered why the students have let Student Board spend their money on such generally non-rewarding events. Over the last four years Black Culture Week and other Student Board funded U.B.I. activities have acquired ill-reputable attendances. From a popular belief and general concern, I feel that their budget should be eliminated from Student Board funding. I don't mean to say that U.B.I. activities have no value at all, rather, do the students whom the Student Board represent benefit as a whole, which should be the Board's main concern.

The last two years Student Board seriously considered dropping Sweethearts Ball for lack of attendance and financial reasons. When it was discussed to drop Black Culture Week from the budget, the Board decided it unwise, the reason being, not because it was well attended and profitable but because "it's a must in order for racial harmony (tokenism?)." For one, I'm sick and tired of giving blacks (indirectly-Board) special treatment merely because they're black.

Primarily this problem was not initiated by Student Board but came about from pressure from the U.B.I! They wanted their own Homecoming Dance to be funded by Student Board. When disapproved, this year, there were hard feelings.

I'm sick of a constant reminder that I'm white and should treat the blacks as a person higher than myself. I'm not saying this of all blacks, just the ones with their noses stuck so high in the air they fail to see the problem as it is and acquaint every problem that arises as a racial one. I'm also tired of Student Board for their failure to take a stand on the problem, while they write it off with tokenism. How many students does the Board represent anyway?

Punch or No Punch

For the past few weeks there has been much controversy concerning Student Board allocations and the scheduling of social events.

At the beginning of the school year the budgets were submitted to Student Board by the Budget Committee for approval. There were a great deal of questions concerning the UBI Budget. Representatives of UBI attended a meeting after submitting a new budget. After a considerable amount of discussion a new budget was finally agreed upon. Along with the budget, UBI presented a philosophy which gave the objectives and goals of the events planned. The events were not to be of a social nature, but rather an educational nature (to educate the members of the student body on black culture). This is why the major part of the budget was devoted to Black Culture Week.

On Thursday of Black Culture Week, it was pointed out that two dances were being held on Saturday. This type of conflict is not condoned by Student Board. One of the responsibilities of the Committee on Social Planning is to avoid such conflicts. I do not feel that two days before conflicting events is the time to rectify the situation.

As far as the UBI dance is concerned, the budget for Black Culture Week did not include a dance, although Black Culture Week has traditionally ended with a dance. But the actual dance of UBI did not cost anything. There was no rental fee for the facilities in accordance with school policy. There was no band, therefore no cost. What was bought with Student Board funds was 3 aervoids of punch; refreshments were included in the budget of Black Culture Week.

This letter is intended to clarify some questions that have been raised in recent weeks. These questions should have been asked and as an elected officer of Student Board, I felt obligated to reply.

In the battle of the pitiful on Sunday, the Sisters of Love emerged victorious as expected. John Bozic lead all scores with 11 points. Bozic also set a Sisters of Love record by dribbling the ball 7 consecutive times without bouncing it off his foot. A free-for-all developed early in the game when Sarikas pushed Foley. Fat Mike weddled after him and the melae ensued. It is reported that both teams are already looking for poor players to replace their graduating seniors in order to keep their dynasties alive.

The playoffs will begin this weekend with the Remaining Few (13-0) playing Toney's Turkeys (9-5). Omer's Bar and Grill playing th Marbles Wazuri (11-2) playing the Golden Nails (6-7) and the Stoned Ranger (9-4) playing Bill's Ding Dong's (7-6) in first round action.

Final Standings:

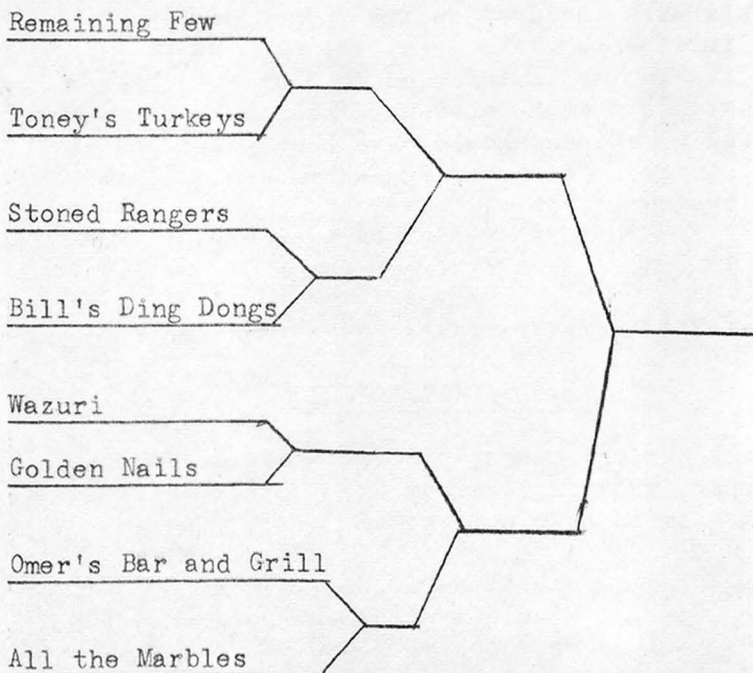

League A:

Remaining Few	13-0
Omer's Bar and Grill	9-4
All the Marbles	8-5
Toney's Turkeys	8-5
Physiocrats	5-8
Half- Courters	4-9
White Lightning	0-13

League B:

Wazuri	11-2
Stoned Rangers	9-4
Bill's Ding Dongs	7-6
Golden Nails	6-7
B-Ballers	5-8
Underdogs	4-9
Sister of Love	1-12
