FROM THE MASSES

Letter to the Editors of the Carbon:

I once made a vow to myself that I would never again be so foolish as to think that I could communicate anything to anyone through a letter in the Carbon. I am breaking that solemn oath now in order to react to Ed Klemen's letter of last week which protested the writer's being "busted" by two sneaks (Carbon's term) who "invaded" Ed's privacy. Note, please, that I am reacting to Ed's letter, not to Ed himself, for I have nothing whatever against gripes or against Ed himself. Actually, I thoroughly enjoy griping.

What I do have something against is gripes which are presented unintelligently and unintelligibly. For instance, I can only conclude that by "An invasion of my privacy has occurred (sp) by the Dean of Student Affairs" Ed meant that "The Dean of Student Affairs has invaded my privacy." Then an "(It must be an old adage)" somehow "entered" Doyle Hall along with Gary Hall. I assume that Dean Woodman entered Doyle Hall, but why he is "an" old adage is completely beyond me. It can only be that I have a totally wrong idea of what the word "adage" means. Then comes a truly marvelous sentence: "We are already children in your eyes (I can't drink and I'm 22 years old)?" Why the question mark here? What is being questioned? That Doyle Hall residents are children in Dean Woodman's eyes? That the writer can't drink? Or perhaps it is the writer's being 22 years that's being questioned. Why any question mark at all???? But the sentence which follows is even better: "Why drive students away; that's what your (sp.) doing, if both people were knowledgable (sp.) of their actions (deciding their own morals and showing their individuality) why: and who are you, to say that they were in the wrong." First of all, here I would have used a question mark -- several, actually, for there is certainly more than one question asked in the above conglomeration.

But enough. Perhaps the above speaks for itself. If not, let me simply say that gripes so poorly put forth cannot even be dignified with the name: they deteriorate to a chaotic venting of the spleen. Even punching Dean Woodman in the nose would have been more effective (stupider also, but certainly more effective than the above mish-mash). In addition, gripes so poorly thought out and communicated shift a reader's attention from any sound arguments the writer might have to the ludicrous way in which he's expressed himself, thus defeating the writer's purpose and making him look foolish to boot.

MORAL: Even gripes deserve clear expression, as do any arguments that one uses to support the validity of the gripe. I would have been delighted to find either, though preferably both, in Mr. Klemen's letter.

Joseph Kempf

To Joseph Kempf and M. C. Community.

As the Editors of this "journalistic rag" for this year, we have made many mistakes. We appreciate the earnestness of the comments that you made in your letter. We wish to formally apologize to you, and the M.C. Community. In the future we will be more conscientious as Editors.

Paul and Bill

P.S. According to Webster's Universal Dictionary, Vol. II, there is no such word as "stupider". I guess we're all human.

To the Masses (and all concerned)

I was asked this week if I would be writing an article for this week's Carbon. I answered "yes," and was then asked if it would be in the form of a renunciation of my original points. To this, I answered "no." I am going to apologize for the seemingly rude way which I presented my arguments (I must have been drunk or something!). I must also admit that one point was wrong, the administration does have the right to enter your room with or without your permission, but my general principle, I believe, is still valid. Without elaborating, (many people feel that I wrongly stepped on toes) I wish to say that my last letter was not really directed towards William Woodman or Gary Hall but, rather, to the positions of Dean of Student Services and Director of Guidance. I see now that it was wrongly presented and as a result taken personally, but both men should have realized their positions and how certain actions effect the rapport their positions should have with the student body. I ask only that in the future they analyze before hand their actions with respect to the student body as I'm sure they hope many students will and should be doing now.

We have a good community here, a fine staff, and a student body which respects that staff. Let us all work together to keep it like that.

WHOS JOE KEMPF(?) AND WHY IS HE SAYING ALL THOSE THINGS ABOUT ME??

To Whom it may concern;

Recently, the janitors went about the task of decorating our beautiful fortress with old telephone poles. At the time, I thought nothing of it, in fact, I gave them a week to stay in place. Then my roommate brought to my attention the beauty the poles added to Doyle. What are we now, a haven for termites?

If whoever was responsible for this outrageous act would inspect the inside of Doyle, they wouldn't be so concerned with the outside. Maybe they would ask the same questions residents are asking now. Why do the johns still overflow? Why can't the sinks hold water? Why are the shower drains always clogged? What is that stuff baked-up in the water fountains? Doyle is resembling Venice.

Returning to the telephone poles, no warning was given about the barricades. They didn't even have the decency to post signs.

We students have been stabbed in the back too many times. What Marian doesn't need is unrest. What we do need is cooperation. What Marian needs is a road between the two Doyle lots. What Marian needs is a road connecting Clare and Doyle. Marian needs action!

I have lived in the same room for three years. Year after year I put down the same complaints on the damage report about the paint, ceiling tiles and broken closet door. Three years have gone by and still no action. I have a friend in the Pit who says $25.00 isn't even a drop in the bucket these days. He's right, but where does the money go? Let's please get on the ball.

I wrote this letter because I want people to know I was offended when they made Doyle a graveyard for Power and Light telephone poles.

Dear Carbon:

"It's not nice to hurt Mother Nature" is Saga's new hype and we are now concerning ourselves with the preservation of table napkins, but has anyone considered the ecological propensities of damage done to the human digestive tract, and indeed the entire human anatomy by substandard and often totally inedible cuisine? Also, as of yet has anyone contemplated the horrendous insult this whole mass deception is to our taste buds? Here in the heartland of plastic America the very youth of today, tomorrows leaders, are left with no alternative other than starvation. In effect, the food in our cafeteria seems to be Saga's way of saying "Eat Shit", cause thats about what we're doing, think about it.

Dear Carbon;

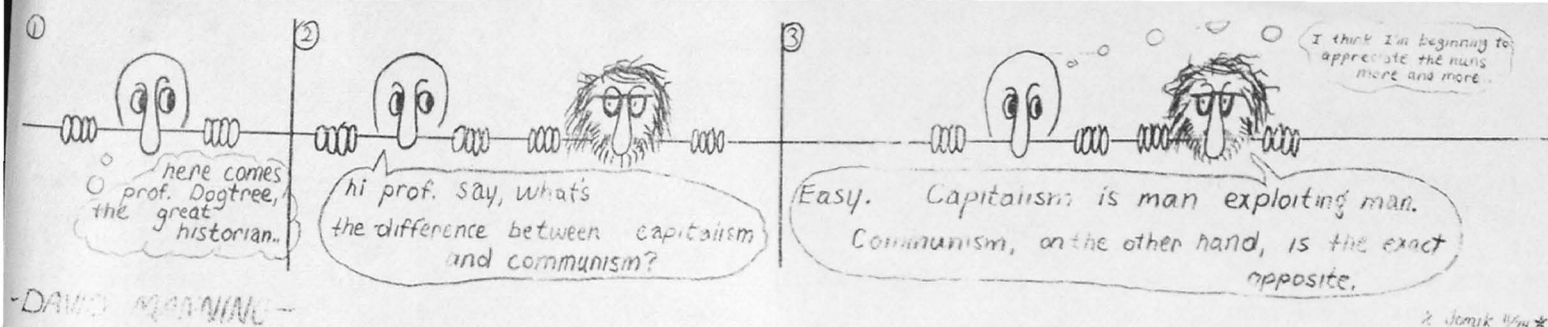

Up to three volunteers are needed for Indy Settlements, Inc. Ability in arts and crafts is necessary. Volunteers would be teaching Senior Citizens various aspects of art such as ceramics, painting, and crafts.

Time involvement would be approximately 2-2½ hours per week..Some training is provided.

This is a unique opportunity for someone who is creative and who wants to help others. Please call Chris McCormick(Ext. 526) or Carol Bean (ext. 259) for additional information.

Thankx

Each week I pick up the Carbon and the very first thing I read is the David Manning Comic Strip. This continuing saga has instilled a variety of reactions within me and among my colleagues; I have been angered by some of the rude comments, I have been appalled by the perverted philosophy of the characters, and occasionally I have even been humored by the atrocious puns. However, I must say that in the midst of students' grins, irrelevant faculty rebuttals, and biased reporting, David Manning has become the highlight of your paper.

The allegorical aspect of his adventures is what is most appealing to me, for I interpret David's weekly social interactions as symbolic of the absurdity of life itself; like him, we are surrounded by "perpetual wit", which inevitably becomes tiresome, and as David does, all we can do is roll our eyes and try to cope. He also may symbolize the true intellectual in today's world, for he constantly is asking questions of his companions which are intended to help him in his search for truer meaning to life. Sadly, all he ever receives are evasive answers tacked to dry humor. It is no wonder that he almost destroyed himself last week!

Finally, I must comment that the artwork itself may be considered a symbol. I have noticed that while all the other characters possess some distinguishing feature, David remains an ambiguously simple character; hence he can then represent humanity instead of the individual.

Bravo to the artist and thank-you!

STUDENT BOARD REPORT

A regular Student Board meeting was held Sunday, November 17, 1974 at 7:30 in the Social Council Room.

Reports:

Social Planning: A meeting was held and plans for a Christmas Party were discussed. A woman from Leonard and Reese talked to Theresa Bellas about discounts on entertainment.

OLD BUSINESS

Dr. Sharp explained the Teacher Evaluations planned by Purdue. They applied for a grant from the Lilly Foundation to be able to help smaller colleges to get this program started, and they were given a grant which will allow Marian College free of charge for two years.

It is called the "Cafeteria System" and allows each professor to choose his own questions. No one but the professor will receive the results from the evaluation forms.

The Professor is given approximately 200 questions to choose from. He picks which ones he would like to see on his particular form, and sends these questions back to Purdue. Everyone has the first six questions dealing with class status, sex, required class or not and so on. The last five questions are also the same on every form, but the rest are left to the discretion of the professor.

Purdue then processes the questions and mails back answer sheets, computer process sheets, instructions and pencils. After a class answers the questions, they will be mailed back to Purdue. The entire classes score will be broken down and given a median score.

The idea behind this new system is that since the evaluations do not go through the administration, they can be better used as a teaching tool in letting the individual prof. make improvements in his teaching methods.

NEW BUSINESS

UBI gave the Treasurer a purchase order for a dance on the 23rd to raise money for the CAPS program. Brent Blaine, the Treasurer, did not sign it however, because it was not made out by UBI Treasurer, it was not budgeted for and it was not approved by Social Council.

Deb Mackel moved to adjourn, it was seconded and everybody split.

Sports

The football season is over here at Marvin and all the non-jocks are breaking out the round-balls. Yes Hoosier Hysteria is back and it's time for another exciting year of I.M. basketball. The league consists of 14 teams and is divided up into two divisions. The top four teams from each division will make the play-offs at the end of the year.

Last year's champs, The Remaining Few are gone, but runner-up Wazuri are back. The Stoned Rangers have made a name change and picked up a few players, All the Marbles are a team to watch, and the Mother Truckers Revival and Vikings look like the dark horses.

All the Marbles- same name as last year with a new look. Back are Terry Baker and Joe McGuire. The addition of big men Mike Bazely and "Big" John Folklerth will make the Marbles the pre-season choice.

Wazuri- with the front line of Randy and William Washington plus Victor French could mean trouble. But they will be hurting at guard where Doctor George Coleman hopes to help out.

Apathy- The old S.R. team with regulars Jer Kretschmann, Tom Koesters, Greg Shires and Jim Reinstadler. Plus two new faces, Don Masten and guard Rick Martin from last year's champions The Remaining Few.

Mother Truckers Revival- The old Toney's Turkeys, with Steve Bickley, Gary Jahnigen and the Toney brothers. Plus a big addition in forward/guard Jim Kilps from the Rangers (Apathy).

Sports

Vikings- A scrappy team with Ken Ollier, Jerry Disque, Dave Lyness and Greg Seamon. They could be hurting on the boards.

Ladies Choice- Another very scrappy team with Bob Nocton, Mark Gatto, Steve Barret and Ron Seibal. If they hold things together they could be trouble.

And those two outstanding teams from last year are back again, sports fans. White Lightning and The Sisters of Love. They boast such talent as Bill Platt, Tom Schommer, Louie Gomez, Paul Lauffer, Felix Wong, Tom Sluss, Joe Rea, Alan Roell and Greg Rodick. Ah, what a year it should be.

MARIAN HALL AUD.
FRI. SAT. SUN. 8:00 pm.

Carbon:

Tonight the PERC will be the site of the Mama Mia Pizza Party sponsored by MANASA. Besides pizzas and other goodies, there will be music, campus vocalists, and a candy raffle from the American Chemical Society. Then, around ten o'clock, Santa Claus will pay a "surprise" visit to the PERC so that all students who have unfortunately outgrown the commercial department store Santa's lap may whisper their woes and wishes into Santa's ear.

Concealed behind the activity of this campus event is actually a very serious cause. MANASA, in being a statewide organization, annually conducts a Christmas Program at Logansport Hospital. In preparation for this program, MANASA members went down to the institution and interviewed the patients to determine what gifts they would like to give their families for Christmas. From the benefits obtained from the Pizza Party tonight, MANASA will purchase those specially selected gifts. Tomorrow, MANASA members from Marian and other colleges across the state will sell these gifts to the patients for whose families they were selected.

By purchasing gifts to give to someone else instead of just receiving gifts, the patient feels that he too has some self-worth. The experience makes him all the more human.

When the Mama Mia Pizza Party first originated, it was a BIG event with a great turnout. Gradually as the idea aged and the availability of pizzas increased, success of campus activities lessened. Despite this, MANASA is hoping that Marian students in the spirit of Christmas will help to make this a very successful event.

A regular Student Board Meeting was held Sunday November 24, 1974 at 7:30 in the Student Board Room.

Representative Reports:

Tournaments for Christmas are being planned- Ping pong, Pool, etc. They will start after Thanksgiving vacation, the Doyle Hall representative reported.

Student Services reported that they went over changes and corrections for disciplinary proposal. It will be brought before Faculty Council at their December meeting.

New Business:

Elaine Watson brought up an idea for Student Board to have a USED BOOK STORE during the last two weeks or so of each semester. Students would name their price, Student Board would sell the Books and get a 10% service fee.

A motion was made to adjourn, and it was seconded.

TELEPHONE NUMBER OR EXTENSION

Will there be a riot on campus next week? Probably not, but in my two and a half years at Marian, I have never felt a more conducive atmosphere for rioting than I do at present. I cannot and will not attempt to speak for other segments of this campus, but I would like to speak of the general atmosphere of Doyle Hall, of which I am a resident.

In Doyle Hall there seems to be an increasing mistrust toward certain segments of the college administration, especially the Office of Student Services. Many feel the title Office of Student Services is a misnomer, it would more correctly be named Office of Student Harassment. In Doyle recent rumors are abundant that the RA's are under pressure to search out violations of the college policies, and their failure to reach an adequate quota could very well jeopardize their jobs. To my knowledge, these rumors are not based on any fact, but the trouble with rumors is that if they continue to persist, they are soon taken as fact.

The foremost issue at Doyle at present is the right of an R.A. to enter one's room unannounced and once inside having the right to search through closets, drawers, etc. When asked by fellow residents of the legality of this invasion of privacy, I could not adequately answer. Now I can. There is a section in the Residence Life 1974-75 which reads in part "...a designated college official may conduct a search of the college premises if there is a reason to believe that such premises are being used for illegal purposes, for a purpose which interferes with the normal operation of the college, or in violation of health and safety regulations. Whenever possible room searches will be made in the presence of the resident(s)." As to the legality of this clause I found that the courts have held that a student living in a dormitory on college premises relinquishes certain constitutional rights. The one pertaining to the search is the fourth amendment. We do not have the full protection of the fourth amendment as do other citizens. This to me is very sad, but unfortunately, very legal.

One of my main reasons for writing this letter to the Carbon was to inform residents who might have been in doubt, as I was, of the legality of room searches, that it has existed in the past, does exist at present, and is perfectly legal. It is not something trumped by the dean or anyone else to crack down on this year's residents.

As to other parts of the letter concerning negative rumors, I hoped to point out that the residents of Doyle are not passive objects which sit motionless when abused. Talk of a mass disobedience of a school policy and of sending a letter to every high school publication in Indiana describing the undesireableness of Marian College are not the actions of passive objects. These topics of action have been seriously discussed.

There have been rumors that Doyle Hall is occupied by irresponsible students who, unchecked, constantly abuse school policy. This is not true. These rumors are also not based on fact. I personally do not believe that Student Services is out to fill quotas and harass students, but both Doyle Hall and Student Services (cont. next col.)

are viewed by many in a negative sense. As a resident of Doyle Hall, I will do everything possible to clear up misconceptions many have about the dorm. I hope that Student Services will do the same.

Jon Driscoll
President, Doyle Hall Council
