

STAND

Stand! In the end you'll still be you,
 One that's done all the things you set out to do.
 Stand! There is a cross for you to bear;
 Things to go to if you're going anywhere.
 Stand! For the things you know are right.
 It's the truth, and the truth makes them so uptight.
 Stand! All the things you want are real.
 You have you to complete and there is no deal.

Stand! You've been sitting much too long.
 There's a permanent crease in your 'right-and-wrong'.
 Stand! There's a midgit standing tall,
 And a giant beside him about to fall.

Stand! They will try to make you crawl,
 And they know what you're saying makes sense at all.
 Stand! Don't you know that you are free?
 Well, at least in your mind if you want to be.
 Everybody: Stand!

FROM THE EDITORS

FUCK Student Services!! (Sorry, Ed).
 Why don't the people of Marian College get off their asses? React or something!!!
 Half of this campus is on no-doz! Doesn't anyone stand apart from the institution???
 If you can't see the injustice, you can at least hear the lies. Another word for lies is BULLSHIT. What more can I say?! You people don't respond anymore to a short paragraph than a whole page!!

C.W.

"Eichmannism is a relatively new form of fanaticism, and maybe it should be given its own place among the great and near-great varieties of bullshit. At this point, we would judge it to be a branch of fanaticism, because the essence of fanaticism is that it does not admit even the possibility of an alternative point of view, and has almost no tolerance for any data that do not confirm its own. Eichmannism, then, is that form of bullshit which accepts as its starting and ending point official definitions, rules, and categories, without regard for the realities of particular situations. It is also important to say that the language of Eichmannism, unlike other varieties of fanaticism, is almost always polite, subdued, and sometimes even gracious-although in a plastic sort of way."

The Soft Revolution
 Neil Postman

I have quoted this passage at length because I think it has special pertinence to the situation at Marian. As a private institution Marian must compete with other colleges, especially with the public colleges. Its very survival depends on being able to offer something unique, something beneficial in a college experience to offset the extra cost of attending it. The college must be willing to constantly evaluate itself and rectify its faults, to make the innovations necessary to make Marian something special. The administration can be this innovative force, but it isn't. The problem lies in a bad case of "Eichmannism". Dean Brames personifies this Eichmannism. He accepts as his starting point and ending point official definitions, rules, and categories, without regard for the realities of particular situations. He sees the purpose of his office as upholding the school's policies not in seeking out innovative ways of solving problems, or making the college a better place for students. Perhaps it is only realistic to see that people who have functioned successfully (cont. pg.2) within a system are generally unwilling to have the system change, much less work to change it. The problem is intensified though by Brames' control over all channels through which students are supposed to be able to affect change. All grievances end up in his office even though the grievance centers on a conflict with him. Any proposals suggested by students ends up in a committee to be studied with Dean Brames, sometime before it comes up for a final policy vote, often several times; in a Student Board Faculty Council, etc. It effectively perpetrates Eichmannism throughout the college. I for one can see no way that I may continue to work on anything with Dean Brames, not any more than I would have been willing to help Eichmann exterminate the Jews. ~~Therefore~~, we need new alternatives, new ways to affect needed change. If we have to completely bypass the whole office of Student Services we will, but the college can't afford to remain stagnant much longer.

FROM THE MASSES

Students:

At the Forum on Housing Policy Thursday, a question was directed to Col. Wagner as to his involvement with the decision of part-time students being required to live on campus. Dean Brames answered the question (and who was speaking to him anyway?) by saying to the best of his recollection he thought he had discussed this issue with Col. Wagner, but has found out since then that he had not. Well, anyone can make a mistake (or fifty) but when I was told that ~~the~~ "we" involved in that decision included Dean Brames AND Col. Wagner there was no doubt about it. It was STRESSED that this was a JOINT decision. ~~the~~ dictionary (other than the Dean's) states that what was previously told the students is a LIE. Well, if someone lies once he can certainly lie again (and again, and again). What can I say?

P.A.M.

To the Editors of the Carbon:

I was rather unhappy with the response issued from the Financial Aid Office last week. (CARBON, October 8, 1971)

My previous letter on the policies of the Financial Aid Office was composed of material acquired from some of the students on the work-study program. To ensure the accuracy of my letter, I first showed it to these students, and then took it to one of the campus personnel who is acquainted with the policies of the Financial Aid Office. In both cases there were no discrepancies found. (N.B. "...campus personnel who is acquainted with the policies of the Financial Aid Office) If these misconceptions are so prevalent then IS IT I who should be accused of not doing my homework? The purpose of my first letter was to have an informative response from that department. If such a response has been ~~made~~ to these students, thank you! However, if not, I am sure the CARBON can find room for a lengthy explanation.

Dear editor,

Presently I am serving on a committee to research the possibility of open visitation for Marian College. Our objective is to formulate some sort of appropriate policy to improve the existing living situation on Campus.

In the course of our discussions several pertinent thoughts have come to light. One being: Why is there such a problem in obtaining Doyle Hall representatives to serve on the committee? It was felt by the women members of the committee that any possible policy change would affect both dorms equally. Therefore, Doyle Hall should have a voice. Since there is some urgency in beginning work, the open visitation committee is presently functioning with only female members, contrary to the desired joint dorm represented. I might add we have repeatedly contacted a member of Doyle Hall Council but to no avail. This fact could reflect that there is a lack of interest on the part of the male population of campus residents. However, I really don't think this is the case. The questionnaires returned from Doyle contained only one objection to open visitation. Several Doyle Hall residents have also assured me this isn't the case but still no representation. Are five women to reflect the general sentiment of all campus residents--men and women alike?

In regard to the questionnaires, 43% were returned from Clare Hall and 42% were returned from Doyle Hall. This I feel is a favorable response relative to how many participate in other polls and elections. For example, class elections sometimes pull as little as 10% response from the eligible voters. The returned questionnaires show an over-whelming desire for open visitation. We can only assume the other 57% and 58% are apathetic or totally indifferent. It is realized there may have been some mix up in regard to the receiving of questionnaires. However there is an alternative for the untallied. This alternative being a vocal response to those people who are directly involved. Ruth Mauer, Terriann Schiering, Jolene Griffis, Marigrace Platt, and Camilla Consolino are Clare Hall Open Visitation Committee members. Hopefully, Doyle soon will likewise have representatives.

If the effort is to be exerted by the committee than we must be confident that we are aware of student sentiment and can truly work for the food of the student.

Sincerely,
Camilla Consolino

STUDENT BOARD REPORT

The Student Board met Sunday October 10 in the Social Council Room at 7:30. The officers reported on their discussions on the Housing Policy with Col. Wagner, Sister Norma, and Dean Brames. As a result of these meetings, it seems the Board has found the incomprehensible Housing Policy consistent in its incomprehensibility. The whole matter was turned over to a committee to straighten out and come up with some proposal on it. Mike Weiman was elected Day Student Representative. The Student Board budget was discussed and passed as shown below:

THEATRE PRODUCTIONS: FREE!!!

As a result of the $2500 allocation budgeted to the Theatre Department, by Student Board, there will be no admission charged for students who can present ID's at any theatre production.

OFFICERS, EDITORS SALARIES

The Student Board tabled the motion for payment of Board Officers. The suggested rate would be $500 for President, $400 for Vice President, and $300 each for Secretary and Treasurer. A committee was formed to take a student referendum on the matter. It was also suggested that the referendum include the question of whether the editors of publications and darkroom manager should be paid, and if so how much. The committee was also told to set up a public forum for discussion on it with the students before the referendum.

KENNY ROGERS SCHOLARSHIP

John Costerisan and Pam Murray moved that the Student Board allocate $1000 annually to be given to Upbeat to fund a Kenny Rogers Scholarship. The motion was tabled until the next Board meeting for further discussion.

The 13th Hole

Another exciting Sunday of football passed before us with a few winners and a lot of losers. The first game saw an impressive Vice Lords dump the Mother Truckers 27-0. The main factor in this game was the difference in the score. The Lords could be ready to give the Wild Bunch everything they can handle. John Smith feels his teammates can do this event though they are all out of shape. The Bunch defeated the Ndugos 20-0 in game two. Jerry Whalen played a whale of a game by scoring two touchdowns. The key to the Bunch's success this season could be their sturdy defense led by Mark Reynolds, Paul "Grape" Broxterman and the Hemmelgarn youth. The third game saw War bump the Yuck Fous 25-8. Jim Fisher played an outstanding game at quarterback for War, hitting on the long pass consistently. But it was the blocking of Dick Bugler that blew everyone off the field and on. In the fourth game, the IMFT walloped the Nads 21-9 as "Mole" Ryan burrowed for two scores. The IMFT defense was tenacious in the first half in not giving up a touchdown, a rare feat for them. The Nads were paced by rugged Hugo Stimmler and fleet-footed John Bovard. This Sunday pits the Mother Truckers against the Third Floor Hot Nuts a 12:00. We'll take the Truckers. At 1:00 the IMFT will beat War under the direction of Coach Bob Jones. At 2:00 the Wild Bunch will defeat the Vice Lords in the game of the week. The final game will see our friend, the Gods of Helfire slide by the Yuck Fous even with the services of John Kirchgasner and Vince Danno. So sports fans, until next week this is the old-lefthander rounding third and heading ALL THE WAY HOME!!!!!!

WALT'S WRESTLING WORLD

Last night saw some gladiatorial action in the sport of professional wrestling at the coliseum. Here are the results:

Danny Miller pinned Tom "Mr. Indiana" Lynch.

Yukon Moose Cholak easily defeated Frank Hickey in a "Laugh-In" Match.

"The Professor" annihilated Kenny Dillinger.

Cora Combs pulverized Sara Lee in the Women's match.

Plus the two main events:

"Golden Boy" Paul Christy and Wilbur Snyder utterly destroyed "Black Jacks" Lanza and Mulligan in the first fall. However, the "Black Jacks" turned the tables in the second fall by putting Christy out of action. In the third fall everyone was battling each other when "The Professor" charged in and drove everyone out. Both teams were disqualified; however Christy and Snyder retained the world heavyweight tag-team championship.

In the no disqualification match, Count Baron von Raschke defeated Dick the Bruiser in the first fall. However in the second fall and third falls Bruiser fought like a tiger and finished off the Baron. As a result of this, the Bruiser won the World

- Doyle Hall for not letting women in the TV room.
- Standards of journalism.
- The no-doz campus.
- Sophomore class for forcing freshmen to come to dance to learn election results. (capitalism).
- Kenny, the phys. ed. major, because I told him I would. (CW).

Related letter from the masses:

To the Carbon,

As we sit here, trying to remember what was said at the campaign speeches tonight (so as to make intelligent votes on Friday), we are finding it very hard to remember just what was said.

But we would like to thank most of the candidates for helping us stroll through high school memory lane. The promises, the "qualifications" (yeh! for yearbook editors). We were very impressed! You told the class what they wanted to hear.

Honestly, we feel of all the speeches, Mark Mauer's was the only one that was sincere. Ed Jerin, you began to touch on something, but why did you have to fall behind the fakey fronts that were already so evidently displayed? But then how many of us freshmen really "GIVE A SHIT".

In conclusion, we would like to say for you dear candidates, "do you know that you are the greatest freshmen class of bull-shit-
