Where are the Wild Things? At Homecoming?

Mikki Poynter
guest writer

"Where the Wild Things Are" is the theme? No glasses this year? The answer to these questions are -- yes! What am I writing about? Homecoming 1990!

This year's theme is based on a children's book entitled Where the Wild Things Are by Mercer Mayer. The monsters featured in the story will be on the t-shirts and invitations. However, due to selling the shirts this year, Booster Club will not be buying glasses for the dance, which has stirred up some controversy. The idea of t-shirts was brought before Booster Club and it was decided that a change would be good. (EXTRA BONUS: With the purchase of a t-shirt, you will receive a card worth two dollars off your Homecoming ticket.)

Booster Club has exciting events planned for the week of the November 5th. The schedule for the week is as follows:

Monday: bonfire, Doyle Hall, 9:00 p.m.

Tuesday: flag football, powder puff football, St. Francis lawn, 12:00 noon; Class Feud, Varsity Gym, 9:00 p.m.

Wednesday: Name That Tune, Varsity Gym, 9:00 p.m.

Thursday: Class Wagons due at noon in Student Activities Office; Mock Rock, Marian Hall, 9:00 p.m.

Friday: Comedy Night with Randy Mountgomery, Marian Hall, 9:00 p.m.

Saturday: Marian Mammoth Marathon, Marian Hall, 10:00 a.m.; J.V. Men's Basketball against Taylor, 12:00 noon, Varsity Gym; Varsity Men's Basketball against St. Francis Cougars, Varsity Gym, 2:00 p.m.; Announcement of Homecoming Queen and banner contest winner at half-time; Buffet dinner and dance at Waterfront Plaza Hotel near Speedway - pictures at 6:30 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m., and dance featuring P.S. Dump Your Boyfriend at 9:00 p.m. Tickets will be sold during lunch and dinner hours beginning October 22 and ending November 5.

Any group of students, faculty, staff or alumni who are interested, are encouraged to design a banner to enter in the banner contest. These will be judged, and first place winners will receive a prize. They will be judged on theme use, creativity, neatness, team promotion, and color. Banners must be turned into the Student Activities Office by noon on Thursday. Winners of the contest will be announced at the game on Saturday. The class competitions will begin with a Wagon Float Contest. Each class will have a wagon to decorate, which will be judged on Thursday evening (before Mock Rock.) They will be judged on the use of theme, creativity, color, neatness and team promotion. See your class officers for more details. To obtain more information about homecoming activities contact the Student Activities Office or members of Booster Club.

Local singer attracts Nashville attention for her blues

Jenny Miller
staff writer

J. C. Clements is a Marian College freshman. Although she is majoring in music performance, Clements has been writing music since she was five years old.

Country blues is her forte, but, interestingly enough, Clements says church choir got her started in music originally. And while her parents support her, Clements says they really wish she had something more secure. But this girl believes in herself and says that is all that really matters. She plans on releasing an album in July 1990.

It seems that those plans will be realized. Recently Clements was "doing a gig" here in Indianapolis when she was invited to perform on Nashville City TV and Tennessee cable. This is an excellent opportunity for exposure and possible record contract.

Up until now Clements has been supporting her music career with her summer earnings. With an actual contract, Clements could expand her possibilities and, after college, plunge into the music world full force.

Clements has always known that music performance was what she wanted, and thinks that college is an important part of her music education. She seems to think that live performance is the best way to learn and comments, "Over-education can stifle a performer's ability."

Marian ranked in national survey

by Kent Cook
staff writer

For those students who ask, "What am I getting for the $9,000 I spend at Marian?", the new answer is "a real bargain!" Recently Marian College was ranked 62nd out of 100 private colleges in the United States who made the "America's Best College Buys" list in Money Guide. The list, which is found in the Fall 1990 issue, compared 1,000 private and public colleges across the nation using equally comparable performance data and cost evaluations. Hanover(9), Wabash(23) and Notre Dame(65) accompanied Marian on the private school list, with Purdue(46) and I.U., Bloomington(83) completing the Indiana elite.

The value rankings found in Money Guide were joined with articles on financial aid to highlight the Fall Issue as a shoppers' guide to colleges. In forming the college rankings, 17 measures of academic performance were compared to each college's full official price. Among the academic standards which were measured were SAT scores and class ranking of incoming freshmen, the student/faculty ratio, percent of need met, and percent who graduate in 5 years. Assessing the academic quality of an institution is tough, but with this system, Money Guide was able to identify those colleges providing a strong education at prices that are more than fair.

Congratulations to the Honors Program inductees!

Parking changes plan to accommodate students

by N.M. Gasco
guest writer

This year I received a rude awakening the first day of school. Whereas last semester I was accustomed to parking wherever I pleased (usually directly under a "no parking" sign), August 28, 1990 proved to be a Day of Reckoning.

I drove in the main entrance, just as I'd done millions of times before. But, I was shocked to see every inch of parking space was gone. Like usual, I was running late so I pulled up on the grass, behind several other cars. No sooner did I turn my engine off however, when a security guard approached and told me to move.

At first I was outraged and I know I was not alone. Many students expressed dissatisfaction at having to park in the unorganized gravel "pit" near the library. Many commuters also expressed concern that there are spaces reserved for visitors (white), students (yellow), and faculty and staff (red), yet none exclusively for commuters.

Now however, I realize that the changes in parking organization and enforcement that suddenly seemed to appear are actually a result of careful and thorough research started in 1989. Dr. Bill Woodman, Dean for Student Affairs, met with the Chief Financial Officer, the Chief of Campus Security, the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, and the Director of Residence Life. Their goal was to develop an improved parking plan.

I was most impressed to learn that the students actually played a part in this project's development. The Marian College Student Association formed a sub-committee in the fall of 1989 to provide recommendations and a parking survey appeared in the Carbon during October 1989, to receive additional input.

The sad thing is that while commuters greatly outnumber residential students, only four out of 35 respondents were commuters.

However, this should not be discouraging. Dean Woodman says that there are plans to add additional lots including new areas developed for commuters.

PARKING, continued from page 1

In fact, Marian College is in a period of transition in which the center of the campus will be shifted southward. In this plan, which will be in effect or at least started in the next five years, the outer perimeter of the campus will be dedicated to parking while the center (including the gravel parking area) will be geared toward pedestrians. Because of this, finances will not be wasted to pave the gravel parking lot.

Dean Woodman says, "People want to park as close as they possibly can, it's human nature." With this in mind, the new parking plan will be ideal as the parking spaces will end up very close to most major classes in Marian Hall.

This future campus, however, will not expand the college beyond 1500 students. The additional spaces proposed are to meet the needs of the students and to satisfy growing population demands while maintaining Marian's small college charm.

If at first the fines seem unfair, one must remember Dean Woodman's words: "You can draw the most beautiful parking maps in the world, but even the best system won't work without enforcement." One must keep in mind that the goal is not to just start fining every car in sight or to tow away a record number of cars per year, but to establish a system that is effective yet fair.

In the end, the redistribution of parking spaces is a positive step towards a positive direction.

"Can't Park Here"

To the tune of "Can't Touch This":

Doo-do-do-do. Do-do, do-do can't park here.
Doo-do-do-do, do-do.
(twice)

Parking here is so hard
Makes me say Oh my Lord
Help me
To park my car that's not too far
From the class I need to be.

Now who in the world
Started this plan I can not say
They want to
Tow us here, tow us there, tow us far away
Listen to me homie, one more verse to say.

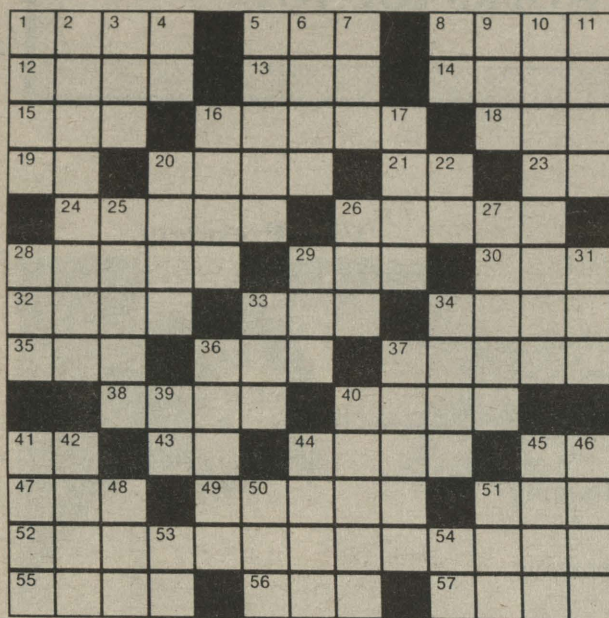

--Break it down--Parking time--

'Dis'ing us is uncool
We pay big money and we're treated like fools
Now I say
If you want decent way, parking
Base on our G.P.A.
