

NO JOK(E) PART II

In an effort to constantly provide service to its reading public, the CARBON is again on top of it with another first, a form letter home to Mom, Dad and/or Guardian. Realizing that a letter takes time out of the college student's busy schedule, the letter can be checked in less than thirty seconds, folded in the back page along the dotted line to make an envelope and mailed instantly postage due. And if your parents are coming out this Sunday, just wait and give the letter to them then. Another service of your friendly Indianapolis CARBON.

Dear (Mom, Dad and/or Guardian),

Well, I've been in (college, the dorm, the perc) for almost a month now and things are just (fine, blah, wretched). College isn't (easy, hard) it's just studying that's hell.

How (is, are) (the family, you, the pet goldfish)? I'm (fine, OK, still alive). Besides (studying, sleeping, drinking), I have sought some extracurricular activities such as (class office, intramurals, clubs, drinking). My (asthma, cold, diarrhea) (has, hasn't) been bad but I've been taking (the prescriptions, aspirins, Seagrams).

College life wouldn't be so bad if I had (more money, more clothes, a car). Wouldn't it? My teachers are (not bad, pretty good, there) except for (Spanish, Home Ec, Philosophy).

I've met a real nice (guy, girl) from (Indiana, New Jersey, Batesville) and we are (going steady, engaged, expecting, married). A lot of time we (can't get along, get along fine, don't see each other), but I feel things can work out. Besides, I'M (studying too hard, lonely, broke).

Living in the dorm is (fun, a bore, sheer hell) but we have a nice (color TV, ping pong table, RA) so it isn't that (bad, good). I'm really sorry I haven't written (last week, sooner, at all) but I've been (so busy, off campus, locked in the library john).

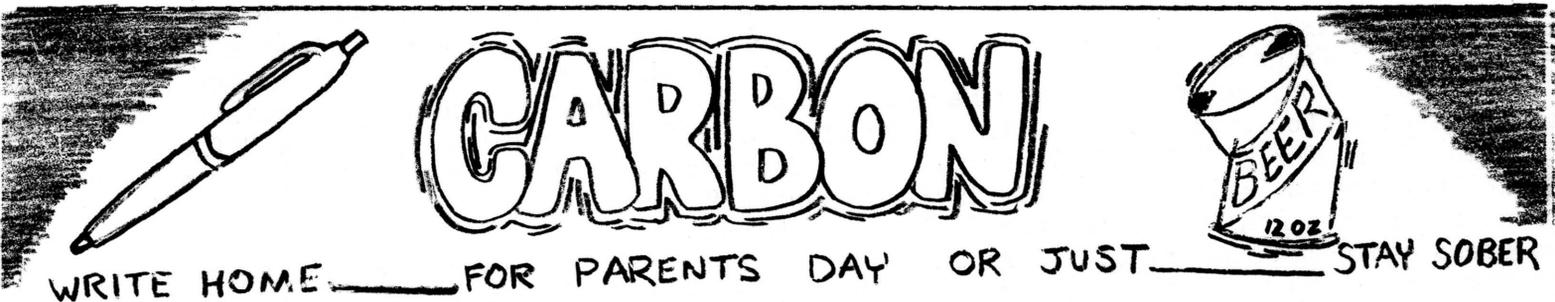

My bests to (all, some, none) especially to (brother, sis, the Chinese elm).

(Love, bests, cordially),

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT MC OR THE VAST WASTELAND

This weekend the red carpet is rolled out by Sally and the sweet-hogs for their little sisters, as Clare Hall has the first annual little sis weekend. (Yes, beauty can come in quantity!) The festivities begin with a hoot-nanny tonite. There's a softball game tomorrow afternoon by the lake and a volleyball game in the gym from 2-4. And Saturday night the In-crowd is going to hop to the music of the Outcasts (that's poor!) It's from 8-11 in the Old M.L. for 75 cents.

Sunday is the day we show off the parts of campus to our parents that we never see (i.e. the library, music building, shower rooms). Schedule is as follows:

- 9-12 Registration at Main Entrance
- 10 Mass in Chartrand Chapel (mandatory)
- 11-1 Brunch in Cafe (carry outs from Frisch's)
- 1:30 Program in aud.
- 2:30 D & B performance (Beautiful!)
- 2:30-5 Reception in Music Building

Monday is the Faculty Council Meeting in 207. And there's a Knitting Clinic in room 129 at 7:30. Bring your own

The placement office tells us that Wednesday interviews have been scheduled with the U.S. Navy and the Navy Nurse Corps from 9-4:30, and on Thursday the IBM people will be here-some time.

Tuesday - from 1-3 p.m. is the Mental Health tour of LaRue Carter Hospital. For details see Linda Smith. At 4 the fast guys on campus (C.C.) vs. Indiana Central at Riverside. Then 6-11 the Wayne King Orchestra Concert (for 5 hours W.K. does it on the MC aud stage!)

Wednesday at 7:30 in the Aud is a super-fab Doyle Hall Film - "El Cid". Due to the fact that the DHF chairman cannot be reached, we can't say too much about it, but it's a real whizzy film Honest!

And Wednesday is also the day for the gala opening of the indoor pool. (Yes, Mr. Reeves finally turned on the water!) Hours for the pool are: Monday 7-9; Tuesday 3:30-5, 7-9; Wednesday, lifesaving 7-9; Thursday 3:30-5, 7-9; Friday 3:30-4:30, and (Sisters) 7-9; Saturday 10-11 a.m., and (sisters) 2-4; Sunday 2-4. Anyone who still wants to take lifesaving can see Mrs. Clarke in the gym before Wed. night.

The MARIAN lectures for Wed. this week are Mr. Travers on "The Financial Marketplace" (or the N.Y. Stock Exchange vs. the MARIAN COLLEGE B.O.). This one's in the Music Building. Fr. Frazee will speak on "Friedrick Engels; Heir of

SPORTS

In National League play Sunday, it was The Dirty Dozen evolving from a hard-nosed battle with the Grad Students a winner 13-6. It was a tie game until Dave Haire hit John Gannon with a pass in the end zone on the second last play of the game. The Grads, previously unbeaten, dropped to third place behind the Dirty Dozen now 3-0 and the Fruit of the Loom also 3-0 who demolished Gross National Products 47-6. In a contest of winless teams Gigantic Jenny Tells' beat the Intramural Team 26-0.

The American League contributed three games of wide margin with all three first division teams winning easily: Nutty Nine 36, KKK 7; Fubars 20, Lost Souls 0; Big Ten 26, Captain Kangaroo 0.

There will be no games this Sunday due to open houses and parents. The games scheduled for this week will simply be moved back a week.

The standings after 3 weeks of Intramural play stack up as follows:

National League

Dirty Dozen	3-0
Fruit of the Loom	3-0
Grad Students	2-1
Gigantic Jenny Tells	1-2
Gross Natl. Products	0-3
Intramural Team	0-3

American League

Big Ten	3-0
Nutty Nine	3-0
Fubars	2-1
KKK	1-2
Lost Souls	0-3

In Cross Country action this week Marian was defeated by Louisville 14-45 with Don Bruns finishing first for MARIAN. On Tuesday, MARIAN traveled to Earlham for their Invitation- al and finished eighth in a nine team field. Don Bruns again led the Knights finishing 33rd for the overall meet. This Saturday at 10:00 a.m. MARIAN entertains Rose Poly in the first home Cross Country meet of the season, at Riverside Park.

the Right decision. Morally, it would have been cruel to Kevin not to get the assurance of help. I cannot help but wonder why the administration would not back Carnival, especially after all these many months of planning. Perhaps, it is the preoccupation of some powers with that almighty $ymbol.

Senior Comprehensive exams were briefly dis- cussed by the Academic Affairs Representative. It seems that a segment of the faculty members wish to retain comps. It has been suggested that comps be kept but that graduation should not be dependent on them. Any decision will most likely be standard among the different departments. At any rate, MARIAN Bureaucracy will function normally, either slowly, or stopped.

Doyle Hall residents also are legitimately questioning the lack of personnel on the Doyle Hall desk during the day. Clare Hall has some- body on the desk all day. Since Doyle Hall is on the south end of campus, there is a delib- erate discrimination against it. Thus, male residents are often unable to use recreational equipment or have other necessary services un- til early evening hours.

A standard form of bookkeeping will be en- forced by the Student Board on all ICC member organizations. The new uniform system will en- able anybody with a degree in accounting to figure out where every cent goes.

Carnival, as most people should know will be given on campus soon. In the full knowledge of the powers on campus, Kevin McAnarney began to plan for the play, Carnival, last spring. After many months, and many behind the scenes political moves the rug was pulled from under Kevin. This fall the administration refused to underwrite any loss that the play might incur. Yet, any profit from this play will go back to the school. In order to prevent an embarrassed administration, the whole issue has been saved by the Student Board. The Student Board set the precedent by agreeing to loan any money that might be lost. It is a great shame that this had to be done. It is not the place of the student to guarantee financial success of just any student. In short it was a bad precedent to set. It was, however, (cont. on left column)

SETTING THINGS STRAIGHT

Q. Both Carnival and the Fall Concert are on the same night in the auditorium. Why is this and which of the two was originally scheduled on that night?

A. "First school year, at the beginning of May, I obtained the proper clearance for the first and the most important production, Carnival, and it was listed on the school calendar as well as a major attraction for the administration and students (What? The administration?). The concert was not officially added to the school calendar until last year. The concert was added to the school calendar for October 4 at the time of the scheduling and the homecoming plans were indefinite, as they were until two weeks ago. Carnival was advised to move up an hour the time of the opening performance in order to accommodate the concert. I do hope that with the proper cooperation, both events will be a tremendous success."

Kevin McAnarney

"The reason for the concert on homecoming weekend is to draw more of a crowd, making the concert an enjoyable event, as well as a profit-making ordeal. The concert and Carnival people are working together on lights and set-up. Carnival will begin at 7:00 p.m. and the concert will follow from 10:00-12:45 p.m. The major attraction for the alumni is the crowning of the homecoming queen, and so the concert was scheduled for this time. This will become the traditional big weekend on campus with plenty to do and an enjoyable time for all."

Dave Haire, Social Committee Chairman

Q. Is it true that another student film is being made on campus?

A. "Yes. Once again, the people (John O'Kane, Jim Widner, Paul Kazmierzak, and Dick Gardner), who brought you the "mind-bending" Escape to Loneliness are currently in the process of making a new film tentatively titled, Everybody Loves a ..., starring Joe Ackerman. The plot revolves around a clown who falls in love (?) delving into that nebulous division between fantasy and reality. The movie is being filmed in 16 mm color. Date of completion is not yet known but the film is expected to be completed before December 1. The debut, however, will be held on campus giving the students the chance to view the effort first. Watch for it! Escape to Loneliness will also be shown again in the near future in an effort to finance the present filming effort."

INSIGHTS

• TIME FOR DECISION

The fantasy land of college is no place to make major decisions about the outside world, but the men here, especially the seniors, will have to make one of the most vital decisions in their lives this year.

The discussion of Vietnam has all but stopped. The major candidates have had a minor moratorium on the war, but this has not eliminated the necessity for college men to determine their willingness to fight or not to fight. The refusal to fight is becoming much more popular, but such a decision is just as meaningless as is the decision to fight if the individual making the choice does not base it on something other than popular opinion.

Despite claims to the contrary, no decision can follow from indisputable premises. In regards to Vietnam, an individual must determine who he is willing to believe and who he is unwilling to believe. A person may well support the war if he limits himself to reading the various State Department releases, but if he also reads the documents such as Sen. Hartke's American Crisis in Vietnam he will no doubt attain the opposite conclusion. The decision on Vietnam is also made difficult because anyone can look at the same set of facts and interpret them in two different ways, e.g. one may realize that Averell Harriman was one of Standard Oil's major lawyers and that S. Vietnam is rich in oil and conclude that this is coincidental or he may conclude that the US became involved in Vietnam for purely economical reasons.

That the decision is difficult can not be denied, but it must be made and regardless of any man's decision, let him make it on the facts as he understands them. To those who criticize conscientious objectors, it is a time for understanding. To those who criticize the war, let them remember that many of the men fighting are risking their lives for a cause they believe in.

the Prophet" in room 251.

Thursday from 12:30 to 1:30 in the M.H. and the major candidates have had a minor moratorium on the war, but this has not eliminated the necessity for college men to determine their willingness to fight or not to fight. The refusal to fight is becoming much more popular, but such a decision is just as meaningless as is the decision to fight if the individual making the choice does not base it on something other than popular opinion.

And then at 8:15 in room 251 Fr. Head's lecture on "The Questions of God" will be based on Greene's "The End of the Affair". I won't even say anything else about that one!!

Gentle hint to the guys who aren't as speedy as the CC boys: M-Club Dance is next Saturday at the I.U. Med. Center. See any M-Club member for tickets and any C-H resident for a date. Help us clean out the dorm to prove Jean Dixon wrong.

BANNIS; Here's an announcement of Extreme and Extraordinary Importance: Film Society Meeting on Thursday, October 24, at 12:30 in Film Society Office in SAC. You can still be a charter member - if you can't come, contact Jim Widner or Miss Murray.

CARBON POLICY

The Carbon is a student publication. Each writer is responsible for his or her own article with little, if any, censorship from the editor. Views expressed in columns, other than the editorial, are the views of those respective columnists. Applauds, hisses, jokes, etc. are the responsibility of the editor and the staff.

All letters are welcomed and encouraged; seldom are they censored. If the editor, however, feels that a certain phrase, word, etc. in a letter is offensive, subject to libel, etc. he will consult and recommend a change to the writer of the letter. But no changes are made in any letter without the consent of the person writing the letter. Please try to limit all letters to 200 words or less, mainly out of respect for the other students who would also like to write.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

If my "scornful side" were to have control over my typing ability, it would no doubt quote Head Mother Francis Vincent Zappa: "Your mind is the ugliest part of your body." In any case, I fear that many of the individuals within the Marian College sphere of activity are not prepared to cope with the impact of those words.

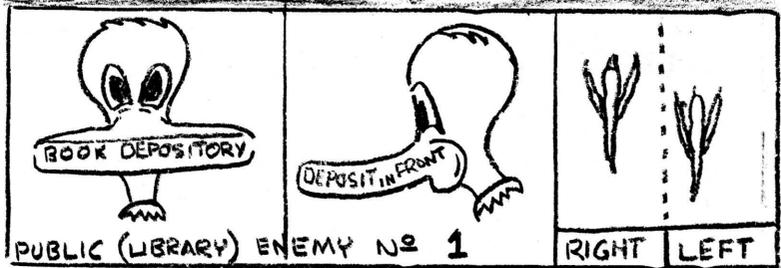

It is particularly disgusting to see individuals denying themselves the intimacy of Game-free communication and the resulting exchange of knowledge. The last issue of the CARBON displays such a situation involving the labels of "liberal" and "conservative."

From what is inferred in the last issue, the CARBON is "liberal." There are also those on campus who are supposedly "conservative." When the two sides of a discussion start directly or indirectly classifying themselves and each other "liberal," "conservative," or whatever, the discussion ceases to be meaningful. It becomes all too easy (and in some cases inevitable) to support arguments with the appropriate label. ("That's Liberal/conservative and therefore bad.") Being securely bagged, the debaters begin to abandon logic and to defend viewpoints without determining what the viewpoints might imply. Hence, we see in the last issue such inappropriate and illogical (statements) as these from Mr. Heckel's letter:

--"Speaking for many of the residents of Louisville . . ."

--"As for Dr. Spock, not being satisfied with having been dead wrong in his theory of rearing children, he had to pursue their misdirection after having reached not maturity but at least the recognized age when maturity should occur." (The underlining of the nebulous phrases is my own.)

In the "liberal" bag, the CARBON is quite as shameful. The editorial concerning the grape boycott (which I passionately hope is merely bad satire and not a serious editorial) seems an attempt to romanticize the "revolution." The last sentence is sickening with all its

Missing

That ugly, vicious, part-animal, part-student the Library vulture has struck again in the hallowed halls of Madonna Hall and gulped down several reference volumes. Among those volumes the vulture has taken in an attempt to fill his insatiable hunger are:

- Encyclopedia of Philosophy, vol. 3
- Reader's Guide, vol. 25, 1965-66
- Cambridge History of English Lit., vol. 12
- American Sociological Review, Jan.-July, '66

Any information leading to the recovery of these books or the apprehension of the foul fowl will be greatly appreciated. (See the above mug shots and feet prints).

appeal to the soul and the thesaurus. (For those who have already done away with that issue the sentence is as follows, except the underlining which is my own: "Remember the words of the migrant leader and the ramifications of the produce sign in your market and cogitate upon domestic injustice which can be remedied if the public is aware of its existence.")

This label situation is only one example of the strong tendency around Marian to discard mental mobility in place of a custom-made nook in which to securely fit. (If you've been reading this letter on automatic pilot--SHAME!--wake up and reread this last sentence. Then start ALL over again . . .) Speaking for My Self, 100% of me will be glad to stay as fluid as I am in my ever-changing position.

NSA "Time Out Day"

NSA announced Wednesday a call to colleges and universities to suspend classes Oct. 29 in a "Time Out Day" for students to ask "Where do we go from here?" Robert S. Powell said that the organization is asking students to carry on the suspension even if college officials refuse to shut down operations. NSA requests were sent to 1600 colleges and universities and have affirmative replies from 100.

The need for the suspension is because of the "bitter experiences over the last 12 months even though students have won some significant campus and political victories." He also said, "the campus mood is growing more frustrated and cynical, in part because the 3 candidates for president seem incapable of raising the issues relevant to the country." Among the issues are Viet Nam, the draft, "white racism" and the "viability of the current political system." The activities will range from peaceful discussion to direct confrontation with college officials, Powell, NSA President, said.
