The end of the 1968-69 Intramural basketball season saw the Bruins defeat the WCCF's by a score of 43 to 36. The Bruins, who finished with a perfect season, will all be back next year to defend their title against any old rivals or any new competitors.

The game turned out to be just as exciting as was expected with neither team leading by more than 7 points throughout the game. The WCCF's were led by Russ Bowers who scored 10 points and played an outstanding game all round. Bob Hammerle, the WCCF's spark plug, could not connect with more than 5 points while Ray Baurley (Wheat), the playmaker, connected with only 3 baskets.

For the Bruins, Melvin Wiehlem lead the team effort with 17 points being followed by Don Bruns and John Yanney. Although the Bruins had these three hot hands it was really the defense and rebounding that made the difference in the outcome. The WCCF's lost the ball several times while dribbling down the floor and the majority of the rebounds went to the Bruins.

The game was not easy for either team seeing John Tachack, of the WCCF's, suffering from a severely injured finger while Bob Baurley (Grain) of the Bruins, is still suffering from a split toenail.

The Bruins will now have their picture placed in the yearbook and each player will receive trophies for their efforts throughout the year. Players on the Bruins are: Bob Pranger, John Yanney, Melvin Wiehlem, Don Bruns, Bob Baurley, Joe Lustig and Herm Buerchen.

JUGERBALL

To give an explanation of the rules for those who have been asking, "What is jugerball?" the following brief rundown has been compiled.

Jugerball is a game played between two opposing teams, with 6 men on a team. It is preferably played on a basketball court. The ball used is a plastic playball about 8½" in diameter. The object is to get the ball between the goals.

The playing area is divided into sections on each side of the court. From the center of the court to the foul line is called the Red Zone in which the ball may be carried for 3 steps or 3 seconds only. The area from the foul line to the end of the court is called the Blue Zone where the ball must be played as in volleyball. The goalie area is a half-circle 10 feet in radius from the center of the goal posts. No one except the goalie is allowed in this area. The last zone is called the Wingman Zone which is a diagonal line from the middle of the center line to the right hand corner of the court. Only the wing man is allowed in the zone.

Teams are now being formed and a schedule will be made for play right after Easter. Contact Don Merrill or Tree Radtke for further details.

Dear CARBON Baby:

We deeply regret that we could not attend the pilgrimage of long-hairs to Nazareth College last weekend. We encountered some misfortune along the way.

We started hitchhiking and three rides and an hour later found ourselves stranded sixty miles outside of Indianapolis in Franklin, Indiana.

Due to past experience we had become accustomed to startled glances and degrading remarks, but we were totally unprepared for the barrage of maltreatment that we were to receive in this fine town.

We became the not-to-fond recipients of numerous bags of garbage, buckets of ice, "fingers" and various verbal obscenities. ("Peace" and "Love" seem to be the two favorite forms of insult in Franklin.) One gnarling youth went so far as to remark that "you motherfuckers better be out of here by the time we get back or there's going to be some heads beaten."

We should point out that, though the main offenders were teenagers, the rest of the populace contributed nothing in the way of helpfulness or common human courtesy.

One can readily deduce from our experience why we saw no black people in Franklin.

On our return to Indianapolis with a friend from MARIAN, we noted this sticker on a car bumper: "Vacation in Indiana, Land of Surprises." Peace.

Dear CARBON:

"I liked him", "I thought he was good", "I was impressed", "He made some good points." This is all I've heard all day, but I don't know what all these comments mean. Do you feel a change of heart or a sense of understanding? Did Mr. Gregory ease some of the quiet and hurt that has been incurred recently? Or should I be more positive and assume that the point has actually and finally penetrated?

For some reason I'm skeptical. This bridge of the communication gap, this wave or surge of enlightenment; is it meaningful, is it permanent, is it sincere? The fact is not unbelievable,

NOT A BOARD OF DIRECTOR...

After 4 hard long years of college "life", I have become a success. My high school counselor (a nun, of course) told me this goal was possible by developing good study habits (72 hours a week), getting 8 hrs. sleep before tests, staying sober and clean-shaven, keeping a good yet distant rapport with

A speakers policy is around, which isn't right. It hasn't been finalized yet but it will be soon if you don't get off your hard-wood chairs and do something about it. It's unconstitutional to ban anyone who speaks in opposition to a local, state, or federal law for unjust laws exist and have existed.

There is an alternative speak-faculty, and of course, not worrying about any creative thought. After all, one has enough to think about with a 20-hour load and job applications to work on. So now after 4 years of college and a fine time becoming a man via the U.S. Army, I have made it. My new job with WOD Chemical Co. somewhere in THE DEPARTMENT is just swell. I work with a fine bunch of fellas and of course we each have a Chevy company car. Ah, what a beautiful life, $12,000 a year, a great expense account, fine home, a wife plus 1.7 children. What more can one man ask for?

Our home is in Mary Jane Heights just outside the city. I put on my pinstripe suit, grab my briefcase, newspaper, coffee, and wife, jump in the car, find it too crowded, throw out my wife, coffee, newspaper, in that order, only to find my 1.7 children and dog jumping on the car, waving good-bye. Oh, the younger generation. They don't realize I may be late for my 9-5 which is bad P.R., bad P.R. Oh, but after a hectic week it's off to the F.O.R. (Fraternal Order of Rumps) for a night of beer, poker, and a generally stimulating atmosphere (sports scores, etc.). Ah, a wonderful life! What a possible future! Thank you, society. For security and a neck, I thank you. Forever and ever. Amen.

ers policy available that provides guidelines for the appropriation of facilities and sanctioning of College permission. This policy also dismisses the unjust restrictions set forth in the previous document.

It would be too bad if academic freedom was disregarded and financial success held in balance against future speaking prospects. Dick Gregory said today that money isn't important to the young and it's true. So, I've heard about the loss of financial support due to "mistakes" by the College. These "mistakes" cannot be wrong or right. They simply are not what is expected. Expectations and images must slide behind the personalities of our students as we bare our true image to the community. In this situation I think we could say Eldridge Cleaver welcome here!

NAZERETH REACTS - - - - -

At some time during his four years in college every student stops and asks what he really is doing there. All realize that they are there to learn or at least try. Others say they are there to memorize the thoughts of their teachers and replay them back during tests. Is this really an education--playing tape recorder to a teacher? There are many youths involved in learning who realize just what is happening in the world--education-wise.

A prime example of this took place last weekend at a small Catholic girl's school named Nazareth College. An education system was set up which combines free thought with the desire to learn. A college system set up where the students are their own leaders: striving ahead or falling behind as they see fit. The students hiring and firing the teachers, having fifty percent say in the entire running of the school.

The one basic ingredient needed for participation in this new school is the desire to learn. We feel that given the proper environment a person cannot help but learn, it would be a living learning situation. With great hopes a school based on the afore-mentioned cannot help but teach students all or more than they are now learning with our present education system. It has been said that this new school will be the greatest thing ever to happen to the field of education.

but it is hard to believe that our generation which Gregory has entrusted so much responsibility and placed all his hope includes the majority of MARIAN students.

Gregory obviously thought that because you people are young, white college students, you deserved the benefit of the doubt. And, you apparently identified with the young people he spoke so highly of; otherwise I don't think you would have been so elated by his remarks. But, unfortunately I cannot yet put you in the same "bag" with your fellow colleagues throughout the nation. Then again, who am I to question your integrity? That's your job.
